HEAVY RAINS CAUSE FEAR OF FLOOD FROM BRAZOS

Heavy rains that brought joy to the drouth-stricken sections of central and northwest Texas are culminating in a spirit of suspense and fear to inhabitants along the torrential Brazos. Father of Texas waters, the Brazos has received the floods from myriads of streams in the districts of the heavy rains and beginning at 7 o'clock the stream began to deepen and widen until in this city it had crept up within three feet of the flood mark of lower East Waco and had stretched out over the Riverside driveway on one side and Mackey park on the other. Officials of the city were on a lookout until an early hour this morning, anxious to protect all possible avenues should the dreaded four feet of additional water move down the river course. Company K was called out at 8 o'clock last night and remained in readiness at the armory until nearly midnight, when the tension began to lighten.

With the memory of the inundation of December, 1913, still fresh in the minds of the hundreds of citizens who were driven from their homes on the East Side, their property destroyed and the whole section smeared with a slimy coating of soft mud, personal watchers and phone calls kept the river side citizens in constant touch with the situation. In dozens of homes the household goods were being packed preparatory to leaving on a moment's notice and wagons were drawn up to the front doors, in many instances, closest to the river.

During the late afternoon the river was rising at a rate of about a foot an hour, but at 2 o'clock this morning it had fallen to about two inches an hour and hopes were entertained that the crest had come.

HOWELL BELIEVES DANGER BEING PASSED.

"Water has passed over the banks and is at the foot of the levee that protects East Waco in many points, but I have traversed the whole length of the levee and believe that the danger mark is being passed," said A. E. Howell, government weather observer, at 2 o'clock this morning. Mr. Howell had been in constant touch with the situation throughout the night.

Federal readings of the river at the various stages, as made by Mr. Howell, were as follows: 13 feet at 7 a. m., 23 feet 4 inches at 12 a. m., 24.4 feet at 1 p. m., 29.01 feet at 5:50 p. m., 30.07 feet at 8 p. m., 31.7 feet at 9:30 p. m., 32.3 feet at 1:20 a. m. Thirty-four feet is considered to be menacing and about thirty-six feet carried the river into lower East Waco with the possibilities of the levees giving way. The crest of the devastating flood of 1913 was 39.6 feet.

Water from a large storm sewer near the Washington street bridge backed north of Elm street just across the bridge and covered about two blocks of low land. Two sewers near the city limits south of the Katy bridge were sending flows on the east side but a gang of city workmen were busy early this morning holding this phase of the situation in control.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE MOSTLY UNDER WATER.

Practically the entire length of the Riverside driveway was under water as early as 9 o'clock last night and the low part of Cameron park was under water. The water was as high as ten feet in places on the driveway and was backing up Barron's branch across Second and onto Third streets. Mackey park at the Washington street bridge was practically entirely covered.

Mayor J. W. Riggins asked that the militia company be called for readiness in case their assistance was needed and the call for company assemblage was flashed on the movie screens of the city. Capt. P. A. Weatherred and his men remained at the armory until the word came that the danger was practically passed for the night. Corporel R. L. Peyton made a last round of the river situation at midnight and reported that conditions did not look so menacing.

Commissioner John Dollins and Fire Chief Ed Bauerle kept a constant tab on the situation, making trips of inspection in the chief's auto and were arranging for alarms and assistance in case the river reached the danger point that it appeared to be so rapidly approaching for a few hours.

OTHER STREAMS SWELL RIVER HERE.

Local conditions were contingent on the Bosque, Upper Brazos, Aquilla and other streams that feed into the Brazos and much anxiety was felt regarding their conditions of these points.

Old timers on the East Side declared that if it commenced raining in this immediate territory or if reports from above indicated more rain that they would begin moving at once. Reports from upper points after 10 o'clock became reassuring. The Texas Telephone company's report at 10:30 p. m. showed that the river was falling at Blum and Whitney and that the rain had ceased. During the day the total rain for Rotan and other points along the Texas Central and upper territory of the Brazos had been more than two inches.

The Houston headquarters of the federal weather bureau flashed this message to Observer Howell at 3 p. m. yesterday:

Gates and wiers at the federal lock and dam below Waco were let down, and the river had already undermined a part of the cement stage in the early stages of its rise. This, however, was being repaired when the heavier flow came.

WACO MAN IS MAROONED IN AQUILLA.

After being marooned in the top of a tree for about half an hour with a swift flowing stream about six feet in depth under him, L. C. Custa of Sixth and Duey streets, was rescued yesterday afternoon about nine miles from Waco on the Aquilla creek. Near this section is the fork of the creek and the heavy rains had caused it to overflow considerably.

Mr. Custa was crossing the stream in a buggy when it was turned over by the current. The water carried Mr. Custa to the tree, which he caught hold of to keep from being carried further down the creek. His cries for help attracted the attention of W. H. Cole of Waco, who was in that vicinity on a motorcycle. Through Mr. Cole's efforts, assisted by J. C. High of Gholson, he was rescued.

A rope was tied to Mr. Cole, who crossed the first stream and threw another rope to Mr. Custa, who was then pulled ashore. The horse and buggy were saved about a block down the stream, little damage being done to the buggy.

Mr. Cole was en route to Gholson, where he was scheduled to preach today, but being unable to cross the stream was forced to return to Waco.

Part of Ft. Worth Now Under Water

By the Associated Press.

Fort Worth, Tex., April 1.—Swollen by almost continuous rains of the last thirty-six hours the Trinity river late tonight overflowed lowlands lying between Fort Worth and North Fort Worth. Warnings previously given residents of the overflowed district prevented loss of life, and property damage probably will be light as the district is occupied by the poorer residents of the city.

Street car traffic between the two sections of the city was suspended early in the night because of the overflow. The baseball park and several small manufacturing plants have been inundated.

Trinity Threatens Flood at Dallas

By the Associated Press.

Dallas, April 1.—Three inches of rain throughout this section today caused the Trinity river to rise ten feet here and at Fort Worth today, bringing the stream to a stage of twenty-six feet tonight. Weather bureau forecasts said a crest of between thirty-five and thirty-nine feet would be reached tomorrow night. This would be five feet higher than the flood waters of June, 1915.

It is expected the river will be out of its banks in the lowlands tomorrow. Residents in those portions have been warned to leave.

Ohio River Falling.

By the Associated Press.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 1.—The Ohio river began to fall here late today and at 7 o'clock tonight the guage registered 53.3 feet.

CARRIAGE WHEEL TRACKS GIVE HOPE TO CAVALRYMEN

By the Associated Press.

Camp of Commanding General at the Extreme Front, by Aeroplane to Field Headquarters and by Wireless to Columbus, N. M., April 1.—Hopes of the American cavalrymen under Col. Geo. A. Dodd of finding Francisco Villa among the snow-clad slopes of the continental divide are based on the discovery today of the track of carriage wheels in a mountainous waste near here. These, it is believed, may have been made by the vehicle supposed to have carried away the injured leader.

Ever since they defeated the Villa commander at San Geronimo ranch last Wednesday the American cavalrymen have searched ceaselessly for the bandit leader, but up to a late hour today no definite information concerning his whereabouts had reached this camp.

Villa has disappeared in a way which, considering the relentlessness of the American pursuit, seems mysterious. The American troops have not encountered any natives who will even admit they have seen Villa.

Every gorge, arroyo, canyon trail and watering place in the mountain passes in this vicinity is being watched by American air scouts or searched by cavalrymen in the hope of discovering the bandit's hiding place.

SENATE DEBATING ARMY INCREASE BILL

BORAH DECLARES NATIONAL GUARD FEDERALIZATION PLAN UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

General Discussion Expected to Continue for Several Days at Least.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, April 1.—The senate debated the army increase bill again all day without any indication as to when work will begin on the mass of pending amendments. As yet, Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the military committee, has made no effort to limit general discussion which began yesterday and it probably will continue several days at least before amendments are taken up.

Senator Borah told the senate he had found an insurmountable constitutional barrier against the proposal in the bill for federalization of the national guard.

Senator Cummins and Senator Lewis sharply disagreed with Senator Borah, Senator Lewis attacked the senate bill provision for a force of federal volunteers, saying it was aimed at the national guard and would destroy it if enacted. The Illinois senator asserted that the ambition of regular army officers to rise to deserved promotions was wholly responsible for the volunteer army proposal.

Senator Pomerene defended his amendment proposing creation of a national guard section of the army general staff. Senator Brandegee added to the mass of amendments now pending a proposal to make the maximum peace strength of the army 250,000 instead of 180,000 as proposed in this bill.

Senator Gore submitted as an amendment his bill proposing that a military training course be provided for any high school with an attendance of more than fifty boys above 16 years of age, the government to pay two-fifths of the salary of a military instructor. More than one hundred thousand boys could be brought under training in this way, he said.

The secretary said the twenty-five seagoing buoy boats now in service would be available as mine layers or sweepers in time of war. Their drag equipment for locating pinnacle rocks, he added, would be invaluable for mine sweeping or to trap hostile submarines.

The house naval committee was not in session.

Silesian Stops Russ Attack by Himself

By the Associated Press.

Berlin, April 1.—Via wireless to Tuckerton, N. J.—The Overseas News Agency quotes the following from the Frankfurter Zeitung concerning the battle at Narocz Lake:

"The immense forests which favored the Russian attacks greatly during the winter, now have become a serious obstable owing to the fact that the whole district now is converted into a swamp. German patrols waded in water which reached up to their armpits.

"The German troops offered heroic resistance to the Russian attacks of the last few days at this place. A headquarters report mentioned the bravedy of Saarbruecken troops. The commanding general expressed his especial approbation of a Silesian territorial who jumped upon a parapet when the Russians attacked in masses and hurled about forty hand grenades into their ranks. This man by himself stopped the attack at this place."

Boston Project Rejected.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, April 1.—The first effort to add new projects to the $40,000,000 rivers and harbors appropriation bill failed in the house today when an amendment by Rep. Teague to appropriate $400,000 for a forty-foot channel from President Roads at Boston to the sea was rejected overwhelmingly. House leaders professed to see in the vote a forecast that the committee recommendation against new projects would be approved and that the bill would pass virtually as reported.

HOLLAND MAY NOT BE ABLE TO KEEP OUT OF WAR LONG

EXTRAORDINARY COUNCIL HELD

Reported Withdrawal of All Furloughs and Requisitioning of Freight Trains by Government Denied—Germany Says Allies Have Given Sharp Ultimatum to Little Neutral Country.

By the Associated Press.

The Hague, via London, April 1.—The widespread anxiety which has suddenly arisen respecting the ability of Holland to keep long out of the war is not due to the feeling aroused by the sinking of the Dutch steamer Tubantia, according to the Nieuwe Courant.

"Its cause," says the paper, "lies in the general war situation which, according to information received, is now entering, or is about to enter a phase which gives our country cause for very special vigilance. We do not know whether what our government apparently fears—but concerning the character of which we could obtain no exact information—will come to pass within a week or a month, or whether the situation generally will remain merely one of a more critical character for our country. We venture only the conjecture that a change in the situation which is now considered possible, may be the outcome of the allies' conference that closed Wednesday at Paris.

"We understand that in yesterday's cabinet council matters were discussed which led to the consultation of the government with the highest military authorities and concerned the advisability of holding a secret session for the second chamber."

Withdrawal of Furloughs Denied.

By the Associated Press.

London, April 1, 8:47 p. m.—An extraordinary council of the Dutch ministers of state was held today at The Hague, according to Reuter's correspondent.

A Reuter dispatch from The Hague this afternoon says it is authoritatively stated that the reports regarding the withdrawal of all furloughs and the requisitioning of all freight

CARRANZA SAYS TAKE PAPER MONEY OR GO BANKRUPT

By the Associated Press.

Queretaro, Mex., April 1.—Foreign as well as native merchants throughout the republic who refuse to exchange goods for the present issue of paper money will be forced into involuntary bankruptcy and their stocks sold at public auction, according to a decree issued by General Carranza. The decree says:

"It is equally decreed that the present paper money issue will continue in circulation until July 31, next, and will be legal tender for all business and government transactions even after the new paper issue is placed in circulation. Let it be made known also that the government never intended to repudiate the present issue and that it will pursue and rigorously punish all who circulate such false notices for the purpose of creating a lack of confidence among the public and thus depreciating the value of the money."

The gold value of the present paper peso in circulation increased today from 2½c to 3c.

Fighting Again Resumed on Austro-Italian Front—Premier Asquith Visits Pope.

By the Associated Press.

An attempt by the Germans to follow up their success in obtaining a foothold in the village of Vaux by an infantry attack between Vaux and Fort Douaumont has failed. Preparation for the attack was made by a violent artillery bombardment. The French curtain of fire stopped the infantry assault, Paris says.

French positions between Avocourt and Malancourt continue to be subjected to intense bombardment from the German guns.

Seemingly, the situation in Holland with reference to the war is approaching a crisis. Notwithstanding denials that the Dutch government has withdrawn the furlough of soldiers and had requisitioned trains, an unofficial report from The Hague says that the ministers of state have held an extraordinary council. A leading Dutch newspaper declares that the anxiety in Holland is not due to the Tubantia affair, but to some prospective action growing out of the recent Paris conference of the entente allies.

Seventeen unwounded and several wounded prisoners were taken by a British patrol ship from the Zeppelin L-15 which was hit by shell fire in a raid on England and fell in the Thames estuary. The survivors said that a junior officer had been left on the airship to blow her up if necessary. The Zeppelin sank while being towed to port after the crew was rescued.

The aviators of both sides on the Franco-Belgian front have been busy. Four French machines fell victims to German battle aircraft in various engagements.

After a period of bad weather fighting has been resumed on the Austro-Italian front. For the most part, however, the activities are confined to artillery engagements and such infantry clashes as have occurred have not resulted in changes of position.

Berlin summarizes the recent Russian offensive, now apparently at a standstill, as barren of results for Emperor Nicholas' forces, while the Russian casualties are estimated by the German headquarters staff to have been at least 140,000. More than 500,000 men are engaged on the Russian side, according to Berlin, and the expenditure of ammunition by the attacking forces is declared to have been on an unprecedented scale for the eastern front.

The air raids of Friday night over the English east counties were apparently on the most extensive scale yet attempted by the German Zeppelin fleet. They resulted, according to the official British reports, in the killing of twenty-eight persons and injury of forty-four, while unofficially it is declared that the airships flew at such a height that they were unable to select their targets with accuracy and many of the bombs dropped appeared to have been cast off indiscriminately.

The British premier, Herbert H. Asquith, was received today by Pope Benedict with whom the British statesman talked in private for a half hour.

Meridian, April 1.—F. M. Robertson, who has made this place his home for the past three years, died at his home last night about 11 o'clock. The remains were shipped to Collinsville for burial. Mr. Robertson was formerly of Collinsville.

VILLA'S CAPTURE RUMORED; REPORT NOT CONFIRMED

SNOWSTORM AT SAN GERONIMO RANCH BRINGS DISCOMFORT TO SOLDIERS—LATE DISPATCH DECLARES REFUGEE LEADER HAS BEEN TAKEN PRISONER.

By the Associated Press.

San Antonio, April 1.—Villa's loss in dead at the battle with Americans at Guerrero, Wednesday, was placed at sixty by General Pershing today in a report to General Funston. The bodies were found in houses in Guerrero and scattered in the underbrush for miles along the routes taken by the fleeing Mexicans. Villa himself was believed to be northeast of Guerrero but General Pershing expressed the opinion that there was little chance of his escape for detachments from four regiments of cavalry had been disposed in such manner that the district where he had been reported was practically surrounded and every point of escape carefully guarded that communication could be sent immediately to some supporting force.

General Pershing's report was dated "March 31-April 1," causing army officers here to believe it was written yesterday but not filed until today.

Additional details of the fighting about Guerrero were not given by General Pershing but he said that yesterday a snowstorm that was sweeping over the San Geronimo ranch, a region of high elevation, had made the operations of the troops more difficult and exceedingly uncomfortable for the soldiers who were moving with light equipment.

From Customs Collector Cobb at El Paso, General Funston received a communication saying that an American from Mexico had reported to him that Villa's men had killed a German named Villa's men had killed a German named Blankenship and two Americans whose names he did not know on March 27 at Minaca, a few miles from Guerrero.

Absence of news from the district about Guerrero did not diminish the belief at General Funston's headquarters that General Pershing was driving the scattered and defeated bands of Villa's force from the hills and trails in that part of Chihuahua and that possibly Villa himself had been captured. Brief messages of the chase by Colonel Dodd's cavalry that so effectually whipped 500 Mexicans at Guerrero Wednesday, and supporting forces that General Pershing had sent forward, but the results of the operations of Thursday, Friday and today were unknown at headquarters here.

A written report from General Pershing sent two days before the fight at Guerrero was received but this dealt only with the details of the troop dispositions since crossing the border, and the difficulties he had encountered in getting his supplies and in maintain-

By the Associated Press.

Washington, April 1.—Although no word came through today from General Pershing's expeditionary force in Mexico, there was a growing confidence here that the expedition was rapidly nearing if it had not already reached its climax. Three days have passed since Colonel Dodd's cavalry dash at Guerrero scattered Villa's main command and established definitely the presence in that locality of Villa himself and army officers are certain the American troopers did not allow the trail to grow cold.

The hope for early capture of the bandit chief was increased tonight by a rumor reaching General Gavira, Carranza commander at Juarez, that Dodd's flying column had taken the fugitive. The war department had no information to confirm the report. Officials pointed out, however, that General Gavira had news of the Guerrero fight hours before General Pershing's account reachced General Funston. The Carranza authorities have control of the telegraph lines and with Carranza troops operating near Guerrero, have facilities for prompt reports on the American operations.

A night watch was maintained tonight at the war department in the hope that further dispatches from Pershing would be received.

Initiation of the agreement by which the American troops would have temporary use of the Mexico Northwestern railway pending ratification of a more comprehensive protocol apparently has been halted through failure of the Carranza authorities at Juarez to receive instructions regarding it. State and war department officials reiterated tonight their intention to await results of a fair trial of the tentative agreement before pressing Carranza for further concessions to effect shipment of supplies.

The possibility that the American troops may contract ayphus fever which is epidemic upon the Grand Plateau of Mexico, caused the war department to issue a special bulletin today warning the troops to guard against infection.

A report from General Pershing reaching the war department late tonight said sixty of Villa's followers had been killed in the fight Wednesday with Colonel Dodd's cavalry. Previous reports had placed the killed at about thirty. The dispatch made no mention of American casualties and said the number of Villa wounded was unknown.

General Pershing's dispatch forwarded by General Funston was dated yes-

El Paso, Tex., April 1.—The story of the murder of three Americans, a German and an Englishman at Minaca was brought here today by Americans arriving from Chihuahua City and was accepted as authentic by federal officials.

The bandit's victims were Benjamin Snell, Dr. A. T. Stell, Lee Lindesley, Americans; Herman Blankenburg, a German; Donald McGregor, also known German; Donald McGregor, also known as Bruce, a British subject. Two other Americans, Henry Acklin and Frank Woods were in Minaca at the time but was brought to Chihuahua City by J. H. Locke, the only American known to have escaped the massacre.

According to the story Villa captured Minaca, Guerrero and San Ysidro last Monday. Everywhere he went he announced his intention of putting to death every "gringo" that fell into his hands and he carried out his intention. As far as the Mexicans were concerned the bandit promised safety to all who did not take up arms against him. No quarter was shown to the Carrancista troops who attempted to resist.

According to the refugees, General Luis Herrera left Chihuahua City on Tuesday with a large number of troops. His destination was not made public.

There were numerous reports in El Paso today that Villa was already captured. Not one of them was capable of verification.

It was in the raid on Guerrero last Monday that Villa was wounded, being shot in the knee, according to a message received today by General Gavira at Juarez from General Gutierrez, telegraphing from Chihuahua City. Gavira had asked for further information about Colonel Dodd's battle.

Gutierrez explained that the wires were working badly on the southern loop and he had only the bare details of what had been accomplished by the Americans.

Telegrams received from Chihuahua City today said that a freight and passenger train on the Northwestern railroad had been wrecked some weeks ago between Minaca and Chihuahua City. Twenty-seven Mexicans including women and children were killed. One American was on board but escaped uninjured.

The same advices said that the paymaster of the El Potosi mining company had been robbed by bandits three miles from Chihuahua City three days ago. There were twenty in the band and they let the paymaster go after taking seven hundred pesos.

Locke's escape was due to the fact that he was absent from Minaca when Villa arrived. He was returning to the town when he heard firing and hid in the brush. Soon afterward he saw some cavalrymen leaving the town with Villa himself at their head. Locke fled by night to Cusihuiriachic, where a friendly Mexican hid him in a cellar for two days. Villa arrived later and searched the town for Americans. After he had gone Locke sent the Mexican who had befriended him to Minaca and the latter brought back the story of the massacre. Locke then disguised himself as a peon and made his way safely to Chihuahua City where he told his story.

Donald McGregor was a newspaperman who had worked in Denver, Chicago and other eastern and western cities. During the Colorado coal miners strike he took part in the fighting between them and the militia. Nothing is known here of Acklin, Woods or Lindsley.

Dr. Stell came from New Orleans and had lived for some years in Mexico.

Stell Native Texan.

By the Associated Press.

Houston, Tex., April 1.—A. T. Stell was a native of Lamar county, Texas, and was a graduate of a medical college at New Orleans. He was well known in Houston, having left here for Mexico about twenty-two years ago.

Dr. Stell was associated in mining interests with C. E. Delno, who has an office here and who arrived from Mexico recently.

The physician has practiced medicine and operated a drug store at Ocampo, Chihuahua, for the past five years, besides being interested in lands and mines in that territory. He was interested in Los Remedios ranche, comprising 55,000 acres on the Santa Candalaria river.

"Plant Corn or Peanuts," Urges Commissioner Davis in Talking About Rain

Special to the Morning News.

Austin, Texas, April 1.—In the opinion of Fred W. Davis, commissioner of agriculture, the farmer's opportunity has appeared with the well distributed rain today. Commissioner Davis said:

"Wherever the land was well prepared and the corn sown in time to be up to meet the rain, there is a fighting chance yet for a corn crop. It is not too late to plant corn in West Texas and many of the counties of North Texas. While the planting in many sections may carry with it an element of chance it is one well worth taking because the corn acreage shortage, and the practically complete failure of oats has absolutely assured a good price for a corn crop. As the converse certainty of a heavy cotton acreage with a normal production will insure low-priced cotton, the farmers' opportunity has appeared with the apparently well distributed rain.

"But that opportunity lies not in cotton, but in devoting the acreage to feedstuffs. At this juncture no crop can so well take the place of cotton as peanuts, and they are, therefore, urgently recommended by this department.

"In another respect rain was a positive blessing—a blessing direct to the cotton industry itself. No one advocates the control of the price of cotton by poor yields. The argument favors as great a yield of good cotton per acre as can be raised, but cut the acreage down to the point where a good yield will not create a surplus. Raise feedstuffs, foodstuffs, livestock, fruit and vegetables on the land. Cut out cotton or let it rest."

HEAVY RAINS CAUSE FEAR OF FLOOD FROM BRAZOS

Heavy rains that brought joy to the drouth-stricken sections of central and northwest Texas are culminating in a spirit of suspense and fear to inhabitants along the torrential Brazos. Father of Texas waters, the Brazos has received the floods from myriads of streams in the districts of the heavy rains and beginning at 7 o'clock the stream began to deepen and widen until in this city it had crept up within three feet of the flood mark of lower East Waco and had stretched out over the Riverside driveway on one side and Mackey park on the other. Officials of the city were on a lookout until an early hour this morning, anxious to protect all possible avenues should the dreaded four feet of additional water move down the river course. Company K was called out at 8 o'clock last night and remained in readiness at the armory until nearly midnight, when the tension began to lighten.

With the memory of the inundation of December, 1913, still fresh in the minds of the hundreds of citizens who were driven from their homes on the East Side, their property destroyed and the whole section smeared with a slimy coating of soft mud, personal watchers and phone calls kept the river side citizens in constant touch with the situation. In dozens of homes the household goods were being packed preparatory to leaving on a moment's notice and wagons were drawn up to the front doors, in many instances, closest to the river.

During the late afternoon the river was rising at a rate of about a foot an hour, but at 2 o'clock this morning it had fallen to about two inches an hour and hopes were entertained that the crest had come.

HOWELL BELIEVES DANGER BEING PASSED.

"Water has passed over the banks and is at the foot of the levee that protects East Waco in many points, but I have traversed the whole length of the levee and believe that the danger mark is being passed," said A. E. Howell, government weather observer, at 2 o'clock this morning. Mr. Howell had been in constant touch with the situation throughout the night.

Federal readings of the river at the various stages, as made by Mr. Howell, were as follows: 13 feet at 7 a. m., 23 feet 4 inches at 12 a. m., 24.4 feet at 1 p. m., 29.01 feet at 5:50 p. m., 30.07 feet at 8 p. m., 31.7 feet at 9:30 p. m., 32.3 feet at 1:20 a. m. Thirty-four feet is considered to be menacing and about thirty-six feet carried the river into lower East Waco with the possibilities of the levees giving way. The crest of the devastating flood of 1913 was 39.6 feet.

Water from a large storm sewer near the Washington street bridge backed north of Elm street just across the bridge and covered about two blocks of low land. Two sewers near the city limits south of the Katy bridge were sending flows on the east side but a gang of city workmen were busy early this morning holding this phase of the situation in control.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE MOSTLY UNDER WATER.

Practically the entire length of the Riverside driveway was under water as early as 9 o'clock last night and the low part of Cameron park was under water. The water was as high as ten feet in places on the driveway and was backing up Barron's branch across Second and onto Third streets. Mackey park at the Washington street bridge was practically entirely covered.

Mayor J. W. Riggins asked that the militia company be called for readiness in case their assistance was needed and the call for company assemblage was flashed on the movie screens of the city. Capt. P. A. Weatherred and his men remained at the armory until the word came that the danger was practically passed for the night. Corporel R. L. Peyton made a last round of the river situation at midnight and reported that conditions did not look so menacing.

Commissioner John Dollins and Fire Chief Ed Bauerle kept a constant tab on the situation, making trips of inspection in the chief's auto and were arranging for alarms and assistance in case the river reached the danger point that it appeared to be so rapidly approaching for a few hours.

OTHER STREAMS SWELL RIVER HERE.

Local conditions were contingent on the Bosque, Upper Brazos, Aquilla and other streams that feed into the Brazos and much anxiety was felt regarding their conditions of these points.

Old timers on the East Side declared that if it commenced raining in this immediate territory or if reports from above indicated more rain that they would begin moving at once. Reports from upper points after 10 o'clock became reassuring. The Texas Telephone company's report at 10:30 p. m. showed that the river was falling at Blum and Whitney and that the rain had ceased. During the day the total rain for Rotan and other points along the Texas Central and upper territory of the Brazos had been more than two inches.

The Houston headquarters of the federal weather bureau flashed this message to Observer Howell at 3 p. m. yesterday:

Gates and wiers at the federal lock and dam below Waco were let down, and the river had already undermined a part of the cement stage in the early stages of its rise. This, however, was being repaired when the heavier flow came.

WACO MAN IS MAROONED IN AQUILLA.

After being marooned in the top of a tree for about half an hour with a swift flowing stream about six feet in depth under him, L. C. Custa of Sixth and Duey streets, was rescued yesterday afternoon about nine miles from Waco on the Aquilla creek. Near this section is the fork of the creek and the heavy rains had caused it to overflow considerably.

Mr. Custa was crossing the stream in a buggy when it was turned over by the current. The water carried Mr. Custa to the tree, which he caught hold of to keep from being carried further down the creek. His cries for help attracted the attention of W. H. Cole of Waco, who was in that vicinity on a motorcycle. Through Mr. Cole's efforts, assisted by J. C. High of Gholson, he was rescued.

A rope was tied to Mr. Cole, who crossed the first stream and threw another rope to Mr. Custa, who was then pulled ashore. The horse and buggy were saved about a block down the stream, little damage being done to the buggy.

Mr. Cole was en route to Gholson, where he was scheduled to preach today, but being unable to cross the stream was forced to return to Waco.

Part of Ft. Worth Now Under Water

By the Associated Press.

Fort Worth, Tex., April 1.—Swollen by almost continuous rains of the last thirty-six hours the Trinity river late tonight overflowed lowlands lying between Fort Worth and North Fort Worth. Warnings previously given residents of the overflowed district prevented loss of life, and property damage probably will be light as the district is occupied by the poorer residents of the city.

Street car traffic between the two sections of the city was suspended early in the night because of the overflow. The baseball park and several small manufacturing plants have been inundated.

Trinity Threatens Flood at Dallas

By the Associated Press.

Dallas, April 1.—Three inches of rain throughout this section today caused the Trinity river to rise ten feet here and at Fort Worth today, bringing the stream to a stage of twenty-six feet tonight. Weather bureau forecasts said a crest of between thirty-five and thirty-nine feet would be reached tomorrow night. This would be five feet higher than the flood waters of June, 1915.

It is expected the river will be out of its banks in the lowlands tomorrow. Residents in those portions have been warned to leave.

Ohio River Falling.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 1.—The Ohio river began to fall here late today and at 7 o'clock tonight the guage registered 53.3 feet.

CARRIAGE WHEEL TRACKS GIVE HOPE TO CAVALRYMEN

By the Associated Press.

Camp of Commanding General at the Extreme Front, by Aeroplane to Field Headquarters and by Wireless to Columbus, N. M., April 1.—Hopes of the American cavalrymen under Col. Geo. A. Dodd of finding Francisco Villa among the snow-clad slopes of the continental divide are based on the discovery today of the track of carriage wheels in a mountainous waste near here. These, it is believed, may have been made by the vehicle supposed to have carried away the injured leader.

Ever since they defeated the Villa commander at San Geronimo ranch last Wednesday the American cavalrymen have searched ceaselessly for the bandit leader, but up to a late hour today no definite information concerning his whereabouts had reached this camp.

Villa has disappeared in a way which, considering the relentlessness of the American pursuit, seems mysterious. The American troops have not encountered any natives who will even admit they have seen Villa.

Every gorge, arroyo, canyon trail and watering place in the mountain passes in this vicinity is being watched by American air scouts or searched by cavalrymen in the hope of discovering the bandit's hiding place.

SENATE DEBATING ARMY INCREASE BILL

BORAH DECLARES NATIONAL GUARD FEDERALIZATION PLAN UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

General Discussion Expected to Continue for Several Days at Least.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, April 1.—The senate debated the army increase bill again all day without any indication as to when work will begin on the mass of pending amendments. As yet, Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the military committee, has made no effort to limit general discussion which began yesterday and it probably will continue several days at least before amendments are taken up.

Senator Borah told the senate he had found an insurmountable constitutional barrier against the proposal in the bill for federalization of the national guard.

Senator Cummins and Senator Lewis sharply disagreed with Senator Borah. Senator Lewis attacked the senate bill provision for a force of federal volunteers, saying it was aimed at the national guard and would destroy it if enacted. The Illinois senator asserted that the ambition of regular army officers to rise to deserved promotions was wholly responsible for the volunteer army proposal.

Senator Pomerene defended his amendment proposing creation of a national guard section of the army general staff. Senator Brandegee added to the mass of amendments now pending a proposal to make the maximum peace strength of the army 250,000 instead of 180,000 as proposed in this bill.

Senator Gore submitted as an amendment his bill proposing that a military training course be provided for any high school with an attendance of more than fifty boys above 16 years of age, the government to pay two-fifths of the salary of a military instructor. More than one hundred thousand boys could be brought under training in this way, he said.

The secretary said the twenty-five seagoing buoy boats now in service would be available as mine layers or sweepers in time of war. Their drag equipment for locating pinnacle rocks, he added, would be invaluable for mine sweeping or to trap hostile submarines.

The house naval committee was not in session.

Silesian Stops Russ Attack by Himself

By the Associated Press.

Berlin, April 1.—Via wireless to Tuckerton, N. J.—The Overseas News Agency quotes the following from the Frankfurter Zeitung concerning the battle at Narocz Lake:

"The immense forests which favored the Russian attacks greatly during the winter, now have become a serious obstable owing to the fact that the whole district now is converted into a swamp. German patrols waded in water which reached up to their armpits.

"The German troops offered heroic resistance to the Russian attacks of the last few days at this place. A headquarters report mentioned the bravedy of Saarbruecken troops. The commanding general expressed his especial approbation of a Silesian territorial who jumped upon a parapet when the Russians attacked in masses and hurled about forty hand grenades into their ranks. This man by himself stopped the attack at this place."

Boston Project Rejected.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, April 1.—The first effort to add new projects to the $40,000,000 rivers and harbors appropriation bill failed in the house today when an amendment by Rep. Teague to appropriate $460,000 for a forty-foot channel from President Roads at Boston to the sea was rejected overwhelmingly. House leaders professed to see in the vote a forecast that the committee recommendation against new projects would be approved and that the bill would pass virtually as reported.

HOLLAND MAY NOT BE ABLE TO KEEP OUT OF WAR LONG

EXTRAORDINARY COUNCIL HELD

Reported Withdrawal of All Furloughs and Requisitioning of Freight Trains by Government Denied—Germany Says Allies Have Given Sharp Ultimatum to Little Neutral Country.

By the Associated Press.

The Hague, via London, April 1.—The widespread anxiety which has suddenly arisen respecting the ability of Holland to keep long out of the war is not due to the feeling aroused by the sinking of the Dutch steamer Tubantia, according to the Nieuwe Courant.

"Its cause," says the paper, "lies in the general war situation which, according to information received, is now entering, or is about to enter a phase which gives our country cause for very special vigilance. We do not know whether what our government apparently fears—but concerning the character of which we could obtain no exact information—will come to pass within a week or a month, or whether the situation generally will remain merely one of a more critical character for our country. We venture only the conjecture that a change in the situation which is now considered possible, may be the outcome of the allies' conference that closed Wednesday at Paris.

"We understand that in yesterday's cabinet council matters were discussed which led to the consultation of the government with the highest military authorities and concerned the advisability of holding a secret session for the second chamber."

By the Associated Press.

Queretaro, Mex., April 1.—Foreign as well as native merchants throughout the republic who refuse to exchange goods for the present issue of paper money will be forced into involuntary bankruptcy and their stocks sold at public auction, according to a decree issued by General Carranza. The decree says:

"It is equally decreed that the present paper money issue will continue in circulation until July 31, next, and will be legal tender for all business and government transactions even after the new paper issue is placed in circulation. Let it be made known also that the government never intended to repudiate the present issue and that it will pursue and rigorously punish all who circulate such false notices for the purpose of creating a lack of confidence among the public and thus depreciating the value of the money."

The gold value of the present paper peso in circulation increased today from 2½c to 3c.

Fighting Again Resumed on Austro-Italian Front—Premier Asquith Visits Pope.

By the Associated Press.

An attempt by the Germans to follow up their success in obtaining a foothold in the village of Vaux by an infantry attack between Vaux and Fort Douaumont has failed. Preparation for the attack was made by a violent artillery bombardment. The French curtain of fire stopped the infantry assault, Paris says.

French positions between Avocourt and Malancourt continue to be subjected to intense bombardment from the German guns.

Seemingly, the situation in Holland with reference to the war is approaching a crisis. Notwithstanding denials that the Dutch government has withdrawn the furlough of soldiers and had requisitioned trains, an unofficial report from The Hague says that the ministers of state have held an extraordinary council. A leading Dutch newspaper declares that the anxiety in Holland is not due to the Tubantia affair, but to some prospective action growing out of the recent Paris conference of the entente allies.

Seventeen unwounded and several wounded prisoners were taken by a British patrol ship from the Zeppelin L-15 which was hit by shell fire in a raid on England and fell in the Thames estuary. The survivors said that a junior officer had been left on the airship to blow her up if necessary. The Zeppelin sank while being towed to port after the crew was rescued.

The aviators of both sides on the Franco-Belgian front have been busy. Four French machines fell victims to German battle aircraft in various engagements.

After a period of bad weather fighting has been resumed on the Austro-Italian front. For the most part, however, the activities are confined to artillery engagements and such infantry clashes as have occurred have not resulted in changes of position.

Berlin summarizes the recent Russian offensive, now apparently at a standstill, as barren of results for Emperor Nicholas' forces, while the Russian casualties are estimated by the German headquarters staff to have been at least 140,000. More than 500,000 men are engaged on the Russian side, according to Berlin, and the expenditure of ammunition by the attacking forces is declared to have been on an unprecedented scale for the eastern front.

The air raids of Friday night over the English east counties were apparently on the most extensive scale yet attempted by the German Zeppelin fleet. They resulted, according to the official British reports, in the killing of twenty-eight persons and injury of forty-four, while unofficially it is declared that the airships flew at such a height that they were unable to select their targets with accuracy and many of the bombs dropped appeared to have been cast off indiscriminately.

The British premier, Herbert H. Asquith, was received today by Pope Benedict with whom the British statesman talked in private for a half hour.

VILLA'S CAPTURE RUMORED; REPORT NOT CONFIRMED

By the Associated Press.

San Antonio, April 1.—Villa's loss in dead at the battle with Americans at Guerrero, Wednesday, was placed at sixty by General Pershing today in a report to General Funston. The bodies were found in houses in Guerrero and scattered in the underbrush for miles along the routes taken by the fleeing Mexicans. Villa himself was believed to be northeast of Guerrero but General Pershing expressed the opinion that there was little chance of his escape for detachments from four regiments of cavalry had been disposed in such manner that the district where he had been reported was practically surrounded and every point of escape carefully guarded that communication could be sent immediately to some supporting force.

General Pershing's report was dated "March 31-April 1," causing army officers here to believe it was written yesterday but not filed until today.

Additional details of the fighting about Guerrero were not given by General Pershing but he said that yesterday a snowstorm that was sweeping over the San Geronimo ranch, a region of high elevation, had made the operations of the troops more difficult and exceedingly uncomfortable for the soldiers who were moving with light equipment.

From Customs Collector Cobb at El Paso, General Funston received a communication saying that an American from Mexico had reported to him that Villa's men had killed a German named Blankenship and two Americans whose names he did not know on March 27 at Minaca, a few miles from Guerrero.

Absence of news from the district about Guerrero did not diminish the belief at General Funston's headquarters that General Pershing was driving the scattered and defeated bands of Villa's force from the hills and trails in that part of Chihuahua and that possibly Villa himself had been captured. Brief messages of the chase by Colonel Dodd's cavalry that so effectually whipped 500 Mexicans at Guerrero Wednesday, and supporting forces that General Pershing had sent forward, but the results of the operations of Thursday, Friday and today were unknown at headquarters here.

A written report from General Pershing sent two days before the fight at Guerrero was received but this dealt only with the details of the troop dispositions since crossing the border, and the difficulties he had encountered in getting his supplies and in maintain-

By the Associated Press.

Washington, April 1.—Although no word came through today from General Pershing's expeditionary force in Mexico, there was a growing confidence here that the expedition was rapidly nearing if it had not already reached its climax. Three days have passed since Colonel Dodd's cavalry dash at Guerrero scattered Villa's main command and established definitely the presence in that locality of Villa himself and army officers are certain the American troopers did not allow the trail to grow cold.

The hope for early capture of the bandit chief was increased tonight by a rumor reaching General Gavira, Carranza commander at Juarez, that Dodd's flying column had taken the fugitive. The war department had no information to confirm the report. Officials pointed out, however, that General Gavira had news of the Guerrero fight hours before General Pershing's account reachced General Funston. The Carranza authorities have control of the telegraph lines and with Carranza troops operating near Guerrero, have facilities for prompt reports on the American operations.

A night watch was maintained tonight at the war department in the hope that further dispatches from Pershing would be received.

Initiation of the agreement by which the American troops would have temporary use of the Mexico Northwestern railway pending ratification of a more comprehensive protocol apparently has been halted through failure of the Carranza authorities at Juarez to receive instructions regarding it. State and war department officials reiterated tonight their intention to await results of a fair trial of the tentative agreement before pressing Carranza for further concessions to effect shipment of supplies.

The possibility that the American troops may contract ayphus fever which is epidemic upon the Grand Plateau of Mexico, caused the war department to issue a special bulletin today warning the troops to guard against infection.

A report from General Pershing reaching the war department late tonight said sixty of Villa's followers had been killed in the fight Wednesday with Colonel Dodd's cavalry. Previous reports had placed the killed at about thirty. The dispatch made no mention of American casualties and said the number of Villa wounded was unknown.

General Pershing's dispatch forwarded by General Funston was dated yes-

El Paso, Tex., April 1.—The story of the murder of three Americans, a German and an Englishman at Minaca was brought here today by Americans arriving from Chihuahua City and was accepted as authentic by federal officials.

The bandit's victims were Benjamin Snell, Dr. A. T. Stell, Lee Lindesley, Americans; Herman Blankenburg, a German; Donald McGregor, also known as Bruce, a British subject. Two other Americans, Henry Acklin and Frank Woods were in Minaca at the time but were brought to Chihuahua City by J. H. Locke, the only American known to have escaped the massacre.

According to the story Villa captured Minaca, Guerrero and San Ysidro last Monday. Everywhere he went he announced his intention of putting to death every "gringo" that fell into his hands and he carried out his intention. As far as the Mexicans were concerned the bandit promised safety to all who did not take up arms against him. No quarter was shown to the Carrancista troops who attempted to resist.

According to the refugees, General Luis Herrera left Chihuahua City on Tuesday with a large number of troops. His destination was not made public.

There were numerous reports in El Paso today that Villa was already captured. Not one of them was capable of verification.

It was in the raid on Guerrero last Monday that Villa was wounded, being shot in the knee, according to a message received today by General Gamiveral at Juarez from General Gutierrez, telegraphing from Chihuahua City. Gavira had asked for further information about Colonel Dodd's battle.

Gutierrez explained that the wires were working badly on the southern loop and he had only the bare details of what had been accomplished by the Americans.

Telegrams received from Chihuahua City today said that a freight and passenger train on the Northwestern railroad had been wrecked some weeks ago between Minaca and Chihuahua City. Twenty-seven Mexicans including women and children were killed. One American was on board but escaped uninjured.

The same advices said that the paymaster of the El Potosi mining company had been robbed by bandits three miles from Chihuahua City three days ago. There were twenty in the band and they let the paymaster go after taking seven hundred pesos.

Locke's escape was due to the fact that he was absent from Minaca when Villa arrived. He was returning to the town when he heard firing and hid in the brush. Soon afterward he saw some cavalrymen leaving the town with Villa himself at their head. Locke fled by night to Cusihuiriachic, where a friendly Mexican hid him in a cellar for two days. Villa arrived later and searched the town for Americans. After he had gone Locke sent the Mexican who had befriended him to Minaca and the latter brought back the story of the massacre. Locke then disguised himself as a peon and made his way safely to Chihuahua City where he told his story.

Donald McGregor was a newspaperman who had worked in Denver, Chicago and other eastern and western cities. During the Colorado coal miners strike he took part in the fighting between them and the militia. Nothing is known here of Acklin, Woods or Lindsley.

Dr. Stell came from New Orleans and had lived for some years in Mexico.

Stell Native Texan.

By the Associated Press.

Houston, Tex., April 1.—A. T. Stell was a native of Lamar county, Texas, and was a graduate of a medical college at New Orleans. He was well known in Houston, having left here for Mexico about twenty-two years ago.

Dr. Stell was associated in mining interests with C. E. Delno, who has an office here and who arrived from Mexico recently.

The physician has practiced medicine and operated a drug store at Ocanipo, Chihuahua, for the past five years, besides being interested in lands and mines in that territory. He was interested in Los Remedios rancho, comprising 55,000 acres on the Santa Catalaria river.

"Plant Corn or Peanuts," Urges Commissioner Davis in Talking About Rain

Special to the Morning News.

Austin, Texas, April 1.—In the opinion of Fred W. Davis, commissioner of agriculture, the farmer's opportunity has appeared with the well distributed rain today. Commissioner Davis said:

"Wherever the land was well prepared and the corn sown in time to be up to meet the rain, there is a fighting chance yet for a corn crop. It is not too late to plant corn in West Texas and many of the counties of North Texas. While the planting in many sections may carry with it an element of chance it is one well worth taking because the corn acreage shortage, and the practically complete failure of oats has absolutely assured a good price for a corn crop. As the converse certainty of a heavy cotton acreage with a normal production will insure low-priced cotton, the farmers' opportunity has appeared with the apparently well distributed rain.

"But that opportunity lies not in cotton, but in devoting the acreage to feedstuffs. At this juncture no crop can so well take the place of cotton as peanuts, and they are, therefore, urgently recommended by this department.

"In another respect rain was a positive blessing—a blessing direct to the cotton industry itself. No one advocates the control of the price of cotton by poor yields. The argument favors as great a yield of good cotton per acre as can be raised, but cut the acreage down to the point where a good yield will not create a surplus. Raise feedstuffs, foodstuffs, livestock, fruit and vegetables on the land. Cut out cotton or let it rest."

INTER-MOUNTAIN RATE CASE AGAIN BEFORE COMMISSION

By the Associated Press.

Washington, April 1.—The celebrated inter-mountain rate case, begun in 1911, and disposed of three years later in the supreme court, was reopened today by the interstate commerce commission on petition of the Spokane Merchants' association and the Nevada railroad commission. Hearings will begin here April 24 and a decision will be rendered as speedily as possible.

The case involves the railroads' right to charge higher rates on a wide range of commodities, including many staples, from Atlantic coast cities to points west of Denver, than are charged on the through haul from coast to coast. Pacific coast points now are enjoying low through rates to the disadvantage it is claimed of intermediate points between Denver and the Pacific.

Radical changes in transportation facilities due mainly to the war in Europe and the closing of the Panama canal by slides, with consequent increases in water freight rates and delay in shipment by water virtually have eliminated competition between trans-continental railroads and steamship lines, the petitioners assert, so that there is no longer any justification for discriminating greatly against interior points on the plea that such competition has to be met.

The interstate commerce commission already has conducted a preliminary investigation of this claim and its results are said to have shown some ground for the contention.

Some memebrs of the commission at least are understood to hold that there should be no reduction in rates to intermountain territory and it is the general belief among those familiar with the rate situation that the readjustment if one is decided upon, will be accomplished by increasing the rates for the coast.

In reopening the case the commission decided of its own initiative to reopen rate decisions on dried fruits, asphalt, canned goods, barley, beans and other commodities shipped from Pacific coast points to Atlantic coast cities by way of Galveston and other gulf ports. Thus the trans-continental rates on the chief commodities moved both east and west will come before the commission at one time for review.

WAITE CONFESSION PRINTED BY WORLD

NEW YORK DENTISTS SAID TO HAVE SIGNED ADMISSION OF KILLING.

Letter from Lawyer Declares Client Has Now Realization of Act Committed.

New York, April 1.—What purports to be a formal confession by Dr. Arthur Warren Waite that he murdered his father-in-law, John E. Peck of Grand Rapids, is printed this morning by the New York World . The confession is said to have been contained in a letter sent to the newspaper by Waite.

Accompanying it is another letter signed by W. R. Deuel, Waite's counsel in which he is quited as saying Waite desired to make his statement "to burden his soul somewhat from the heavy load upon it as the only thing he could do in atonement."

The letter said to have been signed by Waite follows in part:

"I have been informed that I have been indicted for the crime of murder in the first degree. I know the punishment is death.

"The indictment is just as the penalty is one that I deserve for I have killed John E. Peck.

"I have thought and thought while lying in my bed here in the hospital. I have gone over all the incidents of the past few months of my life and I have made peace with my creator. I now desire to make atonement for the wrong that I have done.

"It is a terrible grief to me that I should have brought obliquy and shame upon my wife and upon the name of my good parents and made my brothers to suffer as they do.

"I am relieved to make this my confession."

Mr. Deuel is said to have authorized the statement that Waite had confessed to him that his murder plan included "the killing of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Peck, his wife (Mrs. Waite) and any one else who should happen to stand between him and the Peck millions."

"It is only just to Dr. Waite to state," Mr. Deuel is quoted as saying, "that he does not now have any realization of what he has done in my opinion and in the opinion of others who have visited him since he was taken to Bellevue hospital."

MILK STRIKE NOW BEING STAGED BY ILLINOIS FARMERS

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, April 1.—The dairy farmers of this section made good their threat today to dump milk into the ditches rather than see it go to the distributors who refused to meet the demand for an increase of 22c a 100 pounds in the prices. Dealers found their bottling plants picketed by farmers armed with eggs and other missiles ready to prevent the delivery of milk by non-striking farmers.

At Mokena, one dairy company was forced to ask aid of the sheriff of Will county when strikers began stopping wagons on the way to its plant. The sheriff sent a deputy, who was roughly handled for a time, but succeeded in forcing a passage for three "insurgent" wagons.

At the offices of the distributors in this city the situation was admitted to be serious, although it was said that the full effect could not be known until Monday or Tuesday.

"What next week will bring forth we cannot predict," said E. W. Bowman, a prominent dealer. "However, we have had plenty of milk for the next two days."

At Crystal Lake, a wagonload of milk brought in by a farmer was purchased by the local branch of the Milk Producers' association and dumped on the road. The farmer was told that if he brought another load Monday it would be confiscated without payment.

BERLIN NOT READY WITH REPORT YET

By the Associated Press.

Washington, April 1.—The German government has informed Ambassador Gerard that it is without official information concerning the explosions which damaged the British steamer Sussex and sunk the British horse ship Englishman, both of whom were carrying American citizens. In a dispatch dated Thursday and reaching the state department today Mr. Gerard said the German government had only newspaper reports on the two cases and was making an investigation which might be concluded within the next three or four days. The Berlin foreign office promised to inform Mr. Gerard when the inquiry is completed. It is realized here that it may be a week before all the German submarine commanders who might have been concerned have had opportunity to report.

Meanwhile the state department's own investigation into the cases of the Sussex and the other ships which, while carrying American citizens recently have been overtaken by disaster, will be continued. Secretary Lansing said today he had received no dispatches of importance but additional information hourly is expected.

While the situation still is a waiting one it is apparent that many officials view the accumulation of circumstantial evidence as indicating that German submarines have violated the solemn assurances given the United States by the Berlin government. It admittedly is an open question what will be done if Germany finally disclaims any knowledge of the attacks.

Charles Bringolf Dies.

By the Associated Press.

Salina, Kan., April 1.—Charles Bringolf of Kansas City, who was shot in a hotel here yesterday in a quarrel with Mrs. Blanche Friedlander, also of Kansas City, but formerly of Waco, Texas, died today.

Mrs. Friedlander died early this morning without regaining consciousness. Bringholf was not apprised of her death. His only statement was:

"I hope Mrs. Friedlander does not die. We had a little misunderstanding, that was all. I have no malice toward her."

Mrs. Friedlander's body will be taken to Waco for burial.

PETROGRAD TELLS OF PORTUGAL SINKING

By the Associated Press

Petrograd, Via London, April 2.—The official statement of the sinking of the Russian hospital ship Portugal in the Black Sea Thursday reads:

"At 8 o'clock on the morning of March 30 the Franco-Russian hospital ship Portugal, lying in the Black Sea off Eastern Anatolia, having been sent there to receive wounded, was attacked by a German submarine. Two torpedoes were fired. The second torpedo hit the engine room of the vessel and she sank in less than a minute.

"Eleven out of twenty-six Sisters of Charity were saved by boats which accompanied the Portugal. The missing include Count Tatistcheff, delegate of the Red Cross; Dr. Pankricheff Tikhmeneva, Baroness Meyerendoreff, sister superior of the Sisters of Charity, fourteen sisters, fifty Russian members of the crew and Red Cross and twenty-nine men of the French crew. There were 273 persons on board the Portugal, of whom 158 were saved.

"The Russian government had repainted the Portugal as a hospital ship. She was painted with the prescribed colors. The attack was made in broad daylight. The submarine steered around the ship and fired point blank.

"This act of the Germans was useless from a military standpoint and evokes the deepest indignation. It again proves that peace with an enemy who insanely violates divine and human laws is impossible before his complete destruction."

Better Neutrality Laws Are Needed

By the Associated Press.

Washington, April 1.—Recent developments in connection with the prosecution of neutrality cases and the turn taken by the Mexican situation have further impressed officials here of the necessity for extending the country's neutrality laws and a request for revision may be made to congress within a few weeks by the neutrality board.

Existing laws do not apply to many cases where prosecutions under a more specific statute would result in conviction.

Kansas City Police Will Send Pistols to Columbus Men

By the Associated Press.

Kansas City, Mo., April 1.—Citizens of Columbus, N. M., will be armed with pistols furnished them by the Kansas City, Mo., police department, it was announced tonight by H. W. Hammil, chief of police, following the receipt of a letter from T. A. Hulsey, city marshall of Columbus, asking for guns and revolvers for citizens there. The letter said in part:

"There are three hundred men left here, some of whom are too poverty stricken to get away and most all of them too poor to buy guns to defend themselves. If you have any old guns or pistols send them to us. Give us a fighting chance."

Fire arms confiscated from prisoners will be sent to Columbus.

Belgium Flag Day Will Be Observed for Eighth of April

By the Associated Press.

New York, April 1.—The Daughters of the American Revolution announced today the inauguration of nation-wide contributions to relieve destitute noncombatants in Belgium and Northern France. The campaign will culminate on April 8, birthday of King Albert of Belgium which will be known as "Belgium Flag Day." Members of the organization throughout the country one hundred thousand strong, dressed in white and wearing the Belgium colors, will on that day sell small Belgian flags on the streets. The proceeds will be turned to the commission for relief in Belgium.

Seven cents paid for one flag will equal the cost of a day's rations for one Belgian, and ten million flags have beeen ordered for the campaign, the organization announced.

National Defense Convention Called

By the Associated Press.

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 1.—A call for a convention on national defense to be held in Chattanooga Friday, June 2, will be issued tomorrow by Mayor Jesse M. Littleton and signed by mayors of forty large cities in fourteen southern and western states. The meetig is intended to promote the objects of a conference of mayors recently held in St. Louis.

Mayors and county judges of every city, town and county in Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Texas, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Kentucky, West Virginia, Va.; Delaware, North Carolina and South Carolina are urged in the call to send delegations of ten citizens to the convention. A program is being arranged as acceptances are received from present and former national officials.

Mayor Littleton said among those signing the call were the mayors of Nashville, Memphis and Knoxville, Tenn.; Dallas, Texas; Colorado Springs, Colo.; St. Joseph and Joplin, Mo.; Wichita, Kan.; Louisville, Ky., and Wilmington, Del.

Turkey Decides to Accept Help

By the Associated Press.

Washington, April 1.—The American Red Cross received word today that Turkey for the first time is ready to accept aid for half a million of her citizens who face starvation. Hundreds, it was said, are dying for lack of food. Ten thousand dollars was cabled to fill immediate needs. A message from Red Cross agents in Turkey said the American organization would be permitted to cooperate with the Red Crescent. The dispatch added:

"Great suffering throughout country, particularly at Constantinople and suburbs along shores of Marmora at Adrianople, Bruss and Smyrna. These regions, 5000 not comprising Armenian refugees, need help for bread. Hundreds dying of starvation. No relief in sight. Typhus is spreading, with great mortality."

Supplies cannot be shipped to Turkey from America because of the allies' blockade and foodstuffs probably will be purchased by the Red Cross and sent from Rumania.

TROOPERS RIDING HARD AFTER VILLA

By the Associated Press.

Columbus, N. M., April 1.—Riding mercilessly, 400 American troopers under Col. George A. Dodd are making desperate efforts to capture or wipe out the survivors of Francisco Villa's largest command, which they defeated at San Geronimo ranch several days ago, according to meager reports seeping across the border today. The speed and the relentlessness of the pursuit is indicated, army men say, in the fact that General Pershing has not even taken time to make a detailed report of the engagement.

Other information suggested that Villa, who had been wounded at Guerrero, was not present with his forces when they were surprised by the Americans.

Excitement has been intense here since news of the battle was received and news of the death of the man who led the murderous raid on this place three weeks ago was awaited eagerly. Something of this sentiment was expressed at a sale today of thirty-four Villa mounts captured after the raid. Men gazed at the pitiful wrecks of what once were stout cow ponies, the bones of which even three weeks of American grain had been unable to conceal, spat on the ground and cursed the bandits who had owned the animals. The gibes of the auctioneer who pointed to one sorry animal, cruelly rowelled by spurs and said, "He must have been a good one; they'd all take turns riding him," aroused no response save muttered curses. The animals brought $4.50 to $20.

"I wouldn't have one of those ponies about my place," said a rancher who fingered his cartridge belt as he watched the sale. "The poor skate would always remind me of my friends killed in Columbus."

Nineteen Ships Sunk in March.

By the Associated Press.

London, April 1.—The board of trade's summary of casualties to British shipping, reported in March, shows that nineteen steamers, aggregating 44,609 tons, and eight sailing vessels of 1,865 tons, were sunk by enemy warships. Ten steamers of 13,927 tons were sunk by mines. One steamer of 2,131 tons was sunk either by an enemy warship or a mine.

Forty-three lives were lost in the case of the steamers sunk by warships and eighty-one in steamers sunk by mines.

A White Tar Moth Bag Is What You Need

There are four sizes—one for every size of garment from the short coat or furs to the heavy winter coat that just clears the ground.

Each bag has a hook and patent fastenings to make it convenient and secure.

On the inside another hook receives the coat or skirt hanger that keeps the garment from wrinkling.

Each bag will hold several garments.

Mexican Merchants Warned to Reduce Their High Prices

By the Associated Press.

Mexico City, April 1.—Gen. Pablo Gonzales, the military commander here, tonight issued a warning to the merchants of Mexico City and surrounding towns, threatening punishment of the most severe form should they persist in maintaining the high prices which have been charged by them during the last month. The warning is to be published in the press tomorrow and spread over the walls of the city in the form of circulars. The circular says the people have been driven "almost to desperation because of the high prices asked for the necessities of life."

Dr. James B. Angell, President Emeritus of Michigan U., Dies

By the Associated Press.

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 1.—James B. Angell, president emeritus of the University of Michigan, died here today at his home. He had been ciritically ill for more than a week.

Dr. Angell, who was more than 86 years of age, for several months had been almost blind.

In 1875 Dr. Angell wrote a book on international law and became a recognized authority on international relations. It is said that he, more than any other man, was responsible for the Chinese exclusion act. As minister to China he reconciled the Chinese to this discrimniation against them so successfully that the treaties he later negotiated with China resulted in a period of most amicable and profitable trade relations.

You Must Have Plenty of Iron in Your Blood to Be Strong, Says Doctor

Nuxated Iron Will Increase Strength of Delicate, Nervous, Run-Down People 200 Per Cent in Ten Days in Many Instances.

New York, N. Y.—Most people foolishly seem to think they are going to get renewed health and strength from some stimulating medicine, secret nostrum or narcotic drug, said Dr. Sauer, a specialist of this city, when, as a matter of fact, real and true strength can only come from the food you eat. But people often fail to get the strength out of their food because they haven't enough iron in their blood to enable it to change food into living matter. From their weakened, nervous condition they know something is wrong, but they can't tell what, so they generally commence doctoring for stomach, liver or kidney trouble or symptoms of some other ailment caused by the lack of iron in the blood. This thing may go on for years, while the patient suffers untold agony. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who are ailing all the while double and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron recommended above by Dr. Sauer is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents is widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy, in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The Manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by all druggists.

terday and said "the column" was breaking up into small detachments which were spreading out in various directions. Department officials thought the reference was to the American troops and took the announcement to mean they probably were convinced that Villa still was in the neighborhood of Guerrero and were taking quick steps to throw a net about him.

Late tonight General Funston wired to the war department a request for additional motor trucks and truck supplies.

Judge Fixes Manicure Value

By the Associated Press.

Kansas City, April 1.—The best manicure in the world—one with all the trimmings that go to make the finger nails artistic in design and colored—is not worth more than $1.25, according to Judge J. E. Guinotte of the probate court.

Judge Guinotte made his ruling today in passing on a claim for $2.20 filed against the estate of Herman Peltzer, a wealthy real estate dealer, for "manicure, talcum and file."

"The best manicure in the world," Judge Guinotte said, "is not worth more than $1.25, even though the fingers are soaked in rosewater, the nails polished until they shine and sparkle like diamonds, the fingers dusted with talcum powder and the nails shaped like diamonds by a pretty manicurist."

With these remarks, the judge cut down the claim to $1.25, which he allowed.

ing communication. He reported that the engineering forces were working on the road north of Casas Grandes and on that part extending southward toward Namiquipa. The roads south of Casas Grandes were reported in better condition than those to the north. He also called attention to the fact that the aeroplanes are equipped with engines of too low power.

Press dispatches telling of a report from Chihuahua that Villa had been captured at Minaca, only a few miles south of Guerrero was unconfirmed by official reports but there was no disposition to belittle it. Both General Funston and his staff officers said they would not be surprised if it were true. They were convinced of the truth of the report that Villa was badly wounded prior to the fight at Guerrero and it was believed that his escape was now highly improbable.

Jalisco Bandits Whipped.

By the Associated Press.

Queretaro, Mex., April 1.—Gen. Pablo Iuriga, military commander of the state of Jalisco, reports a battle between bandits and constitutionalist forces under Col. INTER-MOUNTAIN RATE CASE AGAIN BEFORE COMMISSION

By the Associated Press.

Washington, April 1.—The celebrated inter-mountain rate case, begun in 1911, and disposed of three years later in the supreme court, was reopened today by the interstate commerce commission on petition of the Spokane Merchants' association and the Nevada railroad commission. Hearings will begin here April 24 and a decision will be rendered as speedily as possible.

The case involves the railroads' right to charge higher rates on a wide range of commodities, including many staples, from Atlantic coast cities to points west of Denver, than are charged on the through haul from coast to coast. Pacific coast points now are enjoying low through rates to the disadvantage it is claimed of intermediate points between Denver and the Pacific.

Radical changes in transportation facilities due mainly to the war in Europe and the closing of the Panama canal by slides, with consequent increases in water freight rates and delay in shipment by water virtually have eliminated competition between trans-continental railroads and steamship lines, the petitioners assert, so that there is no longer any justification for discriminating greatly against interior points on the plea that such competition has to be met.

The interstate commerce commission already has conducted a preliminary investigation of this claim and its results are said to have shown some ground for the contention.

Some memebrs of the commission at least are understood to hold that there should be no reduction in rates to intermountain territory and it is the general belief among those familiar with the rate situation that the readjustment if one is decided upon, will be accomplished by increasing the rates for the coast.

In reopening the case the commission decided of its own initiative to reopen rate decisions on dried fruits, asphalt, canned goods, barley, beans and other commodities shipped from Pacific coast points to Atlantic coast cities by way of Galveston and other gulf ports. Thus the trans-continental rates on the chief commodities moved both east and west will come before the commission at one time for review.

WAITE CONFESSION PRINTED BY WORLD

NEW YORK DENTISTS SAID TO HAVE SIGNED ADMISSION OF KILLING.

Letter from Lawyer Declares Client Has Now Realization of Act Committed.

New York, April 1.—What purports to be a formal confession by Dr. Arthur Warren Waite that he murdered his father-in-law, John E. Peck of Grand Rapids, is printed this morning by the New York World . The confession is said to have been contained in a letter sent to the newspaper by Waite.

Accompanying it is another letter signed by W. R. Deuel, Waite's counsel in which he is quited as saying Waite desired to make his statement "to burden his soul somewhat from the heavy load upon it as the only thing he could do in atonement."

The letter said to have been signed by Waite follows in part:

"I have been informed that I have been indicted for the crime of murder in the first degree. I know the punishment is death.

"The indictment is just as the penalty is one that I deserve for I have killed John E. Peck.

"I have thought and thought while lying in my bed here in the hospital. I have gone over all the incidents of the past few months of my life and I have made peace with my creator. I now desire to make atonement for the wrong that I have done.

"It is a terrible grief to me that I should have brought obliquy and shame upon my wife and upon the name of my good parents and made my brothers to suffer as they do.

"I am relieved to make this my confession."

Mr. Deuel is said to have authorized the statement that Waite had confessed to him that his murder plan included "the killing of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Peck, his wife (Mrs. Waite) and any one else who should happen to stand between him and the Peck millions."

"It is only just to Dr. Waite to state," Mr. Deuel is quoted as saying, "that he does not now have any realization of what he has done in my opinion and in the opinion of others who have visited him since he was taken to Bellevue hospital."

MILK STRIKE NOW BEING STAGED BY ILLINOIS FARMERS

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, April 1.—The dairy farmers of this section made good their threat today to dump milk into the ditches rather than see it go to the distributors who refused to meet the demand for an increase of 22c a 100 pounds in the prices. Dealers found their bottling plants picketed by farmers armed with eggs and other missiles ready to prevent the delivery of milk by non-striking farmers.

At Mokena, one dairy company was forced to ask aid of the sheriff of Will county when strikers began stopping wagons on the way to its plant. The sheriff sent a deputy, who was roughly handled for a time, but succeeded in forcing a passage for three "insurgent" wagons.

At the offices of the distributors in this city the situation was admitted to be serious, although it was said that the full effect could not be known until Monday or Tuesday.

"What next week will bring forth we cannot predict," said E. W. Bowman, a prominent dealer. "However, we have had plenty of milk for the next two days."

At Crystal Lake, a wagonload of milk brought in by a farmer was purchased by the local branch of the Milk Producers' association and dumped on the road. The farmer was told that if he brought another load Monday it would be confiscated without payment.

BERLIN NOT READY WITH REPORT YET

By the Associated Press.

Washington, April 1.—The German government has informed Ambassador Gerard that it is without official information concerning the explosions which damaged the British steamer Sussex and sunk the British horse ship Englishman, both of whom were carrying American citizens. In a dispatch dated Thursday and reaching the state department today Mr. Gerard said the German government had only newspaper reports on the two cases and was making an investigation which might be concluded within the next three or four days. The Berlin foreign office promised to inform Mr. Gerard when the inquiry is completed. It is realized here that it may be a week before all the German submarine commanders who might have been concerned have had opportunity to report.

Meanwhile the state department's own investigation into the cases of the Sussex and the other ships which, while carrying American citizens recently have been overtaken by disaster, will be continued. Secretary Lansing said today he had received no dispatches of importance but additional information hourly is expected.

While the situation still is a waiting one it is apparent that many officials view the accumulation of circumstantial evidence as indicating that German submarines have violated the solemn assurances given the United States by the Berlin government. It admittedly is an open question what will be done if Germany finally disclaims any knowledge of the attacks.

Charles Bringolf Dies.

By the Associated Press.

Salina, Kan., April 1.—Charles Bringolf of Kansas City, who was shot in a hotel here yesterday in a quarrel with Mrs. Blanche Friedlander, also of Kansas City, but formerly of Waco, Texas, died today.

Mrs. Friedlander died early this morning without regaining consciousness. Bringholf was not apprised of her death. His only statement was:

"I hope Mrs. Friedlander does not die. We had a little misunderstanding, that was all. I have no malice toward her."

Mrs. Friedlander's body will be taken to Waco for burial.

PETROGRAD TELLS OF PORTUGAL SINKING

By the Associated Press

Petrograd, Via London, April 2.—The official statement of the sinking of the Russian hospital ship Portugal in the Black Sea Thursday reads:

"At 8 o'clock on the morning of March 30 the Franco-Russian hospital ship Portugal, lying in the Black Sea off Eastern Anatolia, having been sent there to receive wounded, was attacked by a German submarine. Two torpedoes were fired. The second torpedo hit the engine room of the vessel and she sank in less than a minute.

"Eleven out of twenty-six Sisters of Charity were saved by boats which accompanied the Portugal. The missing include Count Tatistcheff, delegate of the Red Cross; Dr. Pankricheff Tikhmeneva, Baroness Meyerendoreff, sister superior of the Sisters of Charity, fourteen sisters, fifty Russian members of the crew and Red Cross and twenty-nine men of the French crew. There were 273 persons on board the Portugal, of whom 158 were saved.

"The Russian government had repainted the Portugal as a hospital ship. She was painted with the prescribed colors. The attack was made in broad daylight. The submarine steered around the ship and fired point blank.

"This act of the Germans was useless from a military standpoint and evokes the deepest indignation. It again proves that peace with an enemy who insanely violates divine and human laws is impossible before his complete destruction."

Belgium Flag Day Will Be Observed for Eighth of April

By the Associated Press.

New York, April 1.—The Daughters of the American Revolution announced today the inauguration of nation-wide contributions to relieve destitute noncombatants in Belgium and Northern France. The campaign will culminate on April 8, birthday of King Albert of Belgium which will be known as "Belgium Flag Day." Members of the organization throughout the country one hundred thousand strong, dressed in white and wearing the Belgium colors, will on that day sell small Belgian flags on the streets. The proceeds will be turned to the commission for relief in Belgium.

Seven cents paid for one flag will equal the cost of a day's rations for one Belgian, and ten million flags have beeen ordered for the campaign, the organization announced.

National Defense Convention Called

By the Associated Press.

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 1.—A call for a convention on national defense to be held in Chattanooga Friday, June 2, will be issued tomorrow by Mayor Jesse M. Littleton and signed by mayors of forty large cities in fourteen southern and western states. The meetig is intended to promote the objects of a conference of mayors recently held in St. Louis.

Mayors and county judges of every city, town and county in Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Texas, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Kentucky, West Virginia, Va.; Delaware, North Carolina and South Carolina are urged in the call to send delegations of ten citizens to the convention. A program is being arranged as acceptances are received from present and former national officials.

Good Rain at Lorena.

Special to the Morning News.

Lorena, April 1.—Rain amounting to 1.80 inches fell here this morning, the fall was gentle and practically all of it went into the ground, very little damage having been done by washing.

This was the first rain in this vicinity since corn planting began and was welcomed by everybody. Grain especially will be benefited by the rain. Farmers took advantage of the dry weather and all ground is in first-class condition.

Eddy School Election.

Special to the Morning News.

Eddy, April 1.—Election for three trustees of Eddy independent school district was held here today. The candidates were I. R. Nixon, George F. Cox, D. F. Bateman, J. R. Laughlin and M. P. Smartt, the first three named being elected.

Much interest was taken in the contest, though the vote was light, due to the heavy rains which kept the voters away from the polls.

Meridian Pioneer Woman Dies.

You Must Have Plenty of Iron in Your Blood to Be Strong, Says Doctor

Nuxated Iron Will Increase Strength of Delicate, Nervous, Run-Down People 200 Per Cent in Ten Days in Many Instances.

New York, N. Y.—Most people foolishly seem to think they are going to get renewed health and strength from some stimulating medicine, secret nostrum or narcotic drug, said Dr. Sauer, a specialist of this city, when, as a matter of fact, real and true strength can only come from the food you eat. But people often fail to get the strength out of their food because they haven't enough iron in their blood to enable it to change food into living matter. From their weakened, nervous condition they know something is wrong, but they can't tell what, so they generally commence doctoring for stomach, liver or kidney trouble or symptoms of some other ailment caused by the lack of iron in the blood. This thing may go on for years, while the patient suffers untold agony. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who are ailing all the while double and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron recommended above by Dr. Sauer is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents is widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy, in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The Manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by all druggists.

There are four sizes—one for every size of garment from the short coat or furs to the heavy winter coat that just clears the ground.

Each bag has a hook and patent fastenings to make it convenient and secure.

On the inside another hook receives the coat or skirt hanger that keeps the garment from wrinkling.

Each bag will hold several garments.

Could anything be more complete?

The best substitute for a cedar chest or closet.

By the Associated Press.

London, April 1.—The board of trade's summary of casualties to British shipping, reported in March, shows that nineteen steamers, aggregating 44,609 tons, and eight sailing vessels of 1,865 tons, were sunk by enemy warships. Ten steamers of 13,927 tons were sunk by mines. One steamer of 2,131 tons was sunk either by an enemy warship or a mine.

Forty-three lives were lost in the case of the steamers sunk by warships and eighty-one in steamers sunk by mines.

terday and said "the column" was breaking up into small detachments which were spreading out in various directions. Department officials thought the reference was to the American troops and took the announcement to mean they probably were convinced that Villa still was in the neighborhood of Guerrero and were taking quick steps to throw a net about him.

Judge Fixes Manicure Value

By the Associated Press.

Kansas City, April 1.—The best manicure in the world—one with all the trimmings that go to make the finger nails artistic in design and colored—is not worth more than $1.25, according to Judge J. E. Guinotte of the probate court.

Judge Guinotte made his ruling today in passing on a claim for $2.20 filed against the estate of Herman Peltzer, a wealthy real estate dealer, for "manicure, talcum and file."

"The best manicure in the world," Judge Guinotte said, "is not worth more than $1.25, even though the fingers are soaked in rosewater, the nails polished until they shine and sparkle like diamonds, the fingers dusted with talcum powder and the nails shaped like diamonds by a pretty manicurist."

With these remarks, the judge cut down the claim to $1.25, which he allowed.

ing communication. He reported that the engineering forces were working on the road north of Casas Grandes and on that part extending southward toward Namiquipa. The roads south of Casas Grandes were reported in better condition than those to the north. He also called attention to the fact that the aeroplanes are equipped with engines of too low power.

Press dispatches telling of a report from Chihuahua that Villa had been captured at Minaca, only a few miles south of Guerrero was unconfirmed by official reports but there was no disposition to belittle it. Both General Funston and his staff officers said they would not be surprised if it were true. They were convinced of the truth of the report that Villa was badly wounded prior to the fight at Guerrero and it was believed that his escape was now highly improbable.

Jalisco Bandits Whipped.

By the Associated Press.

Queretaro, Mex., April 1.—Gen. Pablo Iurigs, military commander of the state of Jalisco, reports a battle between bandits and constitutionalist forces under Col. Salvador Ortiz at El Grillo and Las Cancas. The bandits were defeated, leaving seventeen dead on the field, among them being their leader, a notorious outlaw known under the nickname of "Bolas Neal."

Trevino Reports Victory.

Queretaro, Mex., April 1.—Gen. Jacinto Trevino has telegraphed to General Obregon, minister of war, that he has defeated the Villista general, Elias Perez, in the Laguna district. He reported the execution of sixteen prisoners who were captured and said he had prevented the cutting of the Coahuila and Pacific railway.

General Trevino has established permanent headquarters at Torreon from which point he is directing the columns which are pursuing the bandits.

SENATE PASSES BILL TO REPLACE FEDERAL BUILDING AT PARIS

By the Associated Press.

Washington, April 1.—The senate today passed a bill appropriating $200,000 for a public building in Paris, Texas, to replace the building destroyed in the recent fire. It now goes to the house.

The Black bill authorizing the war department to temporarily lend tents to shelter the victims of the fire at Paris and appropriating $60,000 for purchase and distribution of tents, cots and other necessary supplies was favorably reported to the house today by the military committee upon recommendation of the war department.

Entente Ultimatum Rumor.

By the Associated Press.

Berlin, April 1, via Copenhagen and London, 6 p. m.—The German newspapers give much space to reports concerning an alleged ultimatum by the entente allies to Holland and the sharpening by the latter of her mobilization measures.

"The press generally points out, however, that all the reports apparently are based on mere rumors and assert that Germany has no cause to view the situation with the slightest uneasiness, whether the rumors are true or not."

"The new measures taken by Holland are not directed against any power in particular and neither Germany nor the entente powers have reason to be uneasy about them. They are dictated merely by prudence in view of the apparently increased possibility that Holland might eventually become involved in the war and have no other purpose than to further the maintenance of the strictest neutrality."

The foregoing is the substance of information received by Baron Gevers, the Dutch minister to Germany, with instructions to communicate it to the German foreign office.

Private advices reaching here from Holland connect the new measures directly with the discussions at the Paris conference of the entente allies' future economic attitude toward Holland.

The Associated Press learns that the new situation indicated by Holland's increased watchfulness is regarded not only without uneasiness, but even with a certain degree of satisfaction in official German circles.

County Seat Town May Lose Railroad

By the Associated Press.

Oklahoma City, April 1.—Cheyenne, Okla., county seat of Roger Mills county, may be deprived of all railroad communication as a result of the jury verdict in a replevin suit brought in federal district court in which an engineering concern replevined the contractors of the Cheyenne short line, for the steel rails used in the construction of the road.

A verdict for the plaintiffs compels the contractors to pay the sum of $8,980 or the rails will be taken up by the engineering company in lieu of the money. The Cheyenne shot line runs from Cheyenne to Strong City, a distance of eight or ten miles and is the only rail connection with the Roger Mills county seat.

Engineer Blamed for Amherst Wreck

By the Associated Press.

Cleveland, April 1.—Blame for the New York Central wreck at Amherst last Wednesday in which twenty-eight persons were killed and forty were injured was placed on Herman Hess, engineer of the second section of train 86 which crashed into the first section while running fifty miles an hour through a dense fog, by D. C. Moon, general manager of the company in an official statement.

The fixing of the blame, says Mr. Moon was determined by the railroad's own investigation and contributed by the adduced evidence at the hearing conducted by the interstate commerce commission and the Ohio utilities commission which ended today.

The joint federal-state investigation has been concluded but the findings will not be made public until later. The statement by Mr. Moon said Hess disregarded caution signals. Hess testified the block signals read "clear." Other testimony tended to show that the signal apparatus failed to work properly.

Toledo Still Walking.

By the Associated Press.

Toledo, Ohio, April 1.—Stricken suddenly with illness late today, Henry L. Doherty, head of the Doherty interests of New York, took his bed in a hotel here, postponing indefinitely settlement of the street car tie up which has been in effect since last Tuesday. The nature of the illness was not officially disclosed but it is said to be an ear affection.

The illness also postponed Mayor Milroy's announced intention of asking a receiver to operate the traction system. Meanwhile all Toledo continues to walk.

Another Charge Against Schiller

By the Associated Press.

New York, April 1.—Charged with attempting to place dynamite on the Cunard line steamship Pannonia, Clarence Hudson, also known as Ernest Schiller, the German stowaway who took possession of the British steamer Matoppo at sea last Wednesday night, was locked up tonight at police headquarters. According to the police Hudson and three other men planned to blow up the Pannonia on the night of March 3, while she was moored in the North river.

Hudson admitted he had used a motorboat in which dynamite was stored, but refused to state where the launch or the explosive could be found. A trunk belonging to him was confiscated at the boarding house in Hoboken where he lived but information as to its contents was refused.

The plot to destroy the steamship was abandoned, Hudson said, because two of the three men he had engaged as confederates backed out at the final conference and he decided the task was too big for two men to tackle.

Bridges Lost Near Abbott.

Special to the Morning News.

Abbott, April 1.—A five-inch rain fell here last night, filling the creeks to overflowing and washing away a number of small bridges. Rural mail carriers were compelled to abandon their delivery on account of the roads and high streams.

Drouth Broken at Oglesby.

Special to the Morning News.

Oglesby, April 1.—The long drouth was ended here last night. It began raining about 10 o'clock last night and continued most all night. It fell in sheets early this morning and continued until about 10 o'clock this morning. All small streams are overflowing their banks and some fears are expressed that the Leon river will get out of its banks. More rain is expected.

Masquerade Skating Party.

Special to the Morning News.

Mart, April 1.—B. F. Gardner, manager of the skating rink, gave a masquerade skating party last night. About twenty couples were on the floor in costume. The Mart band furnished music for the occasion.

Another Charge Against Schiller

By the Associated Press.

New York, April 1.—Charged with attempting to place dynamite on the Cunard line steamship Pannonia, Clarence Hudson, also known as Ernest Schiller, the German stowaway who took possession of the British steamer Matoppo at sea last Wednesday night, was locked up tonight at police headquarters. According to the police Hudson and three other men planned to blow up the Pannonia on the night of March 3, while she was moored in the North river.

Hudson admitted he had used a motorboat in which dynamite was stored, but refused to state where the launch or the explosive could be found. A trunk belonging to him was confiscated at the boarding house in Hoboken where he lived but information as to its contents was refused.

The plot to destroy the steamship was abandoned, Hudson said, because two of the three men he had engaged as confederates backed out at the final conference and he decided the task was too big for two men to tackle.

Hico Country Drenched.

Special to the Morning News.

Hico, April 1.—This section of the country has been very dry lately, so much so that the late planting of corn failed to find moisture enough to bring it up; but it commenced raining last night at 6 o'clock and rained all night and up to 8 o'clock this morning, showing a total of six and one-half inches.

WACO'S OPPORTUNITY.

While the war cloud in Europe shows no rift, it is significant that every nation in Europe is making feverish haste to be ready for the issues of peace. England and France, particularly, are straining every nerve to get control of all the avenues of trade before Germany will have an opportunity to reorganize her industries, and the minor nations are following their example. New England is already marching on South America, bent upon trade conquests, and the cities of the middle west are preparing to join in this invasion.

Everywhere the world is getting ready for big changes—everywhere, save in the great Southwest. What is Texas doing? To speak more directly to the point, what is Waco doing to avail itself of the benefits of the industrial revolution that is plainly approaching?

The war has emphasized the industrial value of the South's leading staple. Cotton is again in the saddle, and it is there to stay. It is safe to predict that cotton manufacturing in the United States will receive a mighty impetus as a result of the war. The cities which will profit most will be those cities which take an early lead in this form of development.

Waco has many advantages over any other Texas city as a location for cotton factories. It is in the heart of the cotton belt. The cotton, the labor, the wealth needed for development, are all here in abundance. Ten years from today, Waco should turn 500,000 bales of cotton into finished products. She can do it if she will. What is her will about it?

Yesterday was hog and hominy day all over Texas.

Somebody was April fooled down in Mexico, and it wasn't Pershing.

The next time Villa goes hunting he will jump a rabbit with shorter legs than Uncle Sam.

If Teddy really meant what he said, why didn't he volunteer for the round trip to cactus land?

If the kaiser has a submarine to let he can get a satisfactory price for it by addressing Pancho Villa.

Germany is evidently doing her level best to keep her submarines from running amuck, but somehow she can't stop them.

When Uncle Sam bids good-bye to Mexico it will require several volumes of Spanish adjectives to tell what Carranza did to Villa.

Congressman Callaway is still pegging away at his fight on the Brazos and Trinity rivers. By and by a freshet will come along, and where, oh, where, will Callaway be?

San Antonio offered $1000 and Dallas offered $1500 for the coming democratic state convention, and San Antonio got it. Will Senator Watson explain why it takes more than $500 to equalize Dallas with San Antonio as a convention resort?

Dallas is in the throes of a charter amendment fight in which, judging from the orations that are being delivered nightly, the main question is, who loves and who hates Stone and Webster. This is a year of big problems and Dallas proposes to keep up with the procession.

The democratic state executive committee will determine at Hillsboro next Friday whether to call a senatorial primary. That issue seems to be traveling southward, and there is some reason to believe it will never strike a solution until it reaches the Brazos.

ANOTHER OKLAHOMA FAILURE.

Oklahoma had a home ownership law, elaborate in detail, under which the state attempted to build up a fund to loan for the purchase of farms, such loans to be repaid in yearly installments. After one year of trial, it has been pronounced a failure and abandoned.

The success of municipal ownership along certain lines, such as waterworks and sewers, has encouraged many well intentioned persons who disclaim the title of socialists to attempt to drag the state into business enterprises of broader scope and far different nature. Every such attempt has ended in disaster, and Oklahoma affords a forceful illustration of its folly.

There is no logical excuse for the confusion of municipal business and private business. The city is a municipal corporation which exists solely for business purposes. Its stockholders are the members of the community.

The state is not a corporation and it is not in business. Hence there are many things a municipality may do which the state can never do successfully.

The state of Oklahoma had the capital and an army of employes, but it made a failure when it tried its hand at the real estate business because that was beyond its political functions.

THE CAUSE OF JUDICIAL REFORM.

At the lawyers' lunch held in the Raleigh hotel on yesterday, Judge Erwin Clark made some weighty suggestions looking to a more efficient and less expensive administration in the court house. He gave his testimony in favor of material reforms.

Senator Senter called attention to the fact that every trial judge who has ever spoken out on the subject, has declared against the evils which are provoking universal criticism. He said that from time to time the lower house of the Texas legislature has tried to accomplish something in this behalf, and that the Texas senate has always blocked the way.

The judges of the supreme court, the judges of all the appellate courts, nearly all the trial judges, most of the state press and all of the people are tired of court-house conditions that are a disgrace to civilization itself.

How long will the state senate of Texas be permitted to defy the will of the people of Texas in a matter of such importance?

"GREATER LOVE HATH NO MAN THAN THIS."

Clarence F. Fields, 508 East Fourth street, Topeka, Kansas, is a man after the example of Sidney Carton, in Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities." He is willing to sacrifice his liberty that the wife of a friend may be saved from humiliation and unhappiness.

He has established a new Damon and Pythias record. He wrote to Governor Capper asking that he be allowed to serve the sentence of his friend, Arthur Davenport.

The story of the crime for which Davenport was convicted does not matter in this article. It is the beautiful spirit of brotherly love and unselfish affection that is remarkable and to which we wish to call attention.

Rarely do such sacrifices come to light, though there are many in the world similar in effect though not just the same in concrete form. All over this land there are mothers who are toiling and slaving, denying themselves the comforts, oftimes the necessities of life, that those they love, children or husbands, may secure an education, may escape trouble, may be saved humiliation or given comforts. They are martyrs unheralded and unannounced, over whom no monuments will tower, about whom no stories will be told. They are just common, everyday mothers, God's most potent power for good in all this wide, wide world.

We should not concern ourselves so much with what other people do as we do with setting them a good example.

If Colonel Roosevelt knows how to do the handsome thing he will call for three cheers and a tiger for General-in-Chief Wilson.

Villa is reported to have lost his whiskers on the run, but they are not included in the booty said to have been captured by Colonel Dodd.

The republican party of Texas sends out its biennial defi today, but where is the democratic postmaster who will admit that he is the least bit scared?

When the automobile manufacturers attack the gasoline combine, as they threaten to do, it will be a lucky chauffeur who is just beyond the range of the explosion.

The late rains are estimated to be worth about $2,000,000 more to Texas than the cost of the Paris fire. When the fable of Phoenix was invented Texas was undiscovered.

The observant traveler will take notice of one suggestive business fact. Fewer "for rent" signs are used for decorative purposes in Waco than in any other first class city in Texas.

BULL MOOSERS BACK IN REPUBLICAN FOLD

TWO POLITICAL FACTIONS IN TEXAS BURY DIFFERENCES FOR SAKE OF CAUSE.

NO DISCRIMINATION LIKELY

Men Who Forsook G. O. P. in 1912 Will be Reinstated and Will Enter Primaries and Support Nominees.

Special to the Morning News.

Houston, April 1.—Following a conference here between the ways and means committee of the harmony conference of republicans and progressives, held recently in Dallas, and H. F. McGregor, national republican executive committeeman from Texas, in this city yesterday, the announcement is made that the progressives of Texas will return to the republican fold; that these men will not be discriminated against in any way because of their desertion of the regular ranks in 1912, and that all will strive together diligently for the election of a republican president next November.

Mr. MacGregor addressed a letter to the ways and means committee which paved the way for the re-entrance of the progressives into the republican fold, and the committee issued an address uring all progressives to accept the republican assurances in good faith and at once prepare to take up active work in the old party by participating in the republican precinct primary conventions to be held May 6.

Mr. MacGregor's letter follows:

MacGREGOR HOLDS OUT THE OLIVE BRANCH.

Houston, March 31, 1916.

Messrs. C. A. Boynton, E. P. Wilmot, R. B. Creager, Eugene Nolte, J. W. Bass, J. O. Terrell, W. H. Atwell, Committee.

Gentlemen:—

The republican national committee and the republican state executive committee both extend an invitation to all voters who believe in the principles of the republican party, endorse its policies and support its nominees in good faith, to participate in the primary conventions; which I desire to reiterate as expressing my personal views, and I believe that I could give you the assurance of the organization, in accordance with this invitation, that there would not be a shadow of discrimination except such as may be occasioned by conditions over which the republican organization has no control.

My understanding of the republican situation in Texas is that the republican party is reunited and that all, with the exception of a very few ardent admirers of the progressive nominee of 1912, are back in the republican party as republicans, and willing and anxious to aid in the election of a republican president in 1916. That outside of the friction which may exist locally in some sections of the state, due mainly to causes other than the division of 1912, the best of feeling exists.

The immediate work ahead is the selection of delegates and alternate delegates to the republican national convention and the nomination of republican electors. If the progressive national convention had not been called to meet in Chicago on the same date as the republican convention with the announced intention as given out by progressive leaders in numerous interviews, of getting the republican national convention to nominate the progressive nominee of 1912 or dictate the nomination of some one satisfactory to the progressive convention, under an implied threat that if this is not done it meant the re-election of the democratic incumbent of the presidential office, the selection of delegates to the republican national convention could be made without considering in any wise the differences of 1912.

IMMEDIATE OBJECT OF PARTY ORGANIZATION.

The constant campaigning of the newspapers, particularly democratic newspapers, to revive the issue of men and to some extent the measures of 1912, the campaigns made in other states for republican delegates favorable to this purpose, and the preliminary efforts made in this state to the same end, makes it necessary for the officers of the republican organization of this state to frankly state their purpose is to help nominate a tried and true republican for president, and to make the election of the republican nominee certain, they deem it necessary:

That both the republican and progressive nominees of 1912 be eliminated from serious consideration;

That delegates and alternate delegates be selected who will work to cement all differences at Chicago, and who are opposed to a campaign in the interest of any candidate of 1912;

That the delegates and alternate delegates should be sent uninstructed as to their presidential preferences, and that as candidates they should frankly state their preference;

That the progressives who still remain in the progressive party should send their delegation to the progressive convention at Chicago and there aid their convention to work out a harmony program with the republican convention.

The officers of the organization have no authority to make any agreements binding the republican conventions, and everything depends upon the sentiment of the delegates to the several conventions. With the republican nomination for president completed, we believe we will be a reunited party in fact and that the division of 1912 can well be forgotten.

In the absence of the state chairman, the Hon. Phil E. Baer, I have assumed to speak for him and believe that he will fully concur in what I have herein state, and I believe that this is also true as to the other officers of the organization. Very respectively,

H. F. MacGREGOR,
Member Republican National Committee.

BULL MOOSERS READY TO BURY THE HATCHET.

Houston, March 31, 1916.

To the Republicans and Progressives of Texas:—

The committee on ways and means appointed at the meeting of the republicans and progressives held at Dallas on March 15, 1916, submit the following report and recommendations to those attending said meeting and generally to the republicans and progressives of this state:

It is our belief that insofar as the great national issues now confronting the voters of this country are concerned the two parties are in practical accord. If the views of the republicans and progressives of this country upon these great and vital issues are to be made effective and are to be adopted as the policy of the nation, it is essential that the two parties come together, that but one set of candidates be nominated and that such candidates receive the united support of republicans and progressives alike.

We believe that by far the greater number of the rank and file of both parties believe in and earnestly desire such union.

We believe that the selfish interests and ambitions of no individual or individuals should be permitted to interfere with or hinder the consummation of the end desired.

We believe that the republican party affords the best medium of attaining such end.

The official heads of the republican party of this state have extended a cordial, and, we believe, a sincere invitation to the members of the progressive party to reaffiliate with the republicans.

NO DISCRIMINATION AGAINST THE PRODIGALS.

We are assured by those with authority to speak and we believe that upon re-entry of the progressives into the republican ranks they will be received honorably and cordially, and there will be no endeavor upon the part of the present officials of the republican organization to discriminate in any way against them.

We are assured and we believe that there may and doubtless will be honest differences of opinion as to questions of party policy, candidates and other questions such as ordinarily arise within the ranks of a political party, such questions and differences will be decided amicably and honestly and in accordance with the will of the majority.

So believing, we recommend that the progressives of this state sever their connections with the progressive organization and affiliate with and join the republican party as republicans; that this affiliation be in good fath, without mental reservation, and with the full intention of abiding by the will of the majority upon all party questions.

We further recommend that each and every member of the re-united republican party attend and participate in the precinct primary conventions called for May 6, 1916, and the other conventions of the republican party to be called during this all-important year.

In connection with the foregoing, we refer to a leter of this date addressed to the committee by the Hon. H. F. MacGregor, republican national committeeman of this state and which is published in connection herewith.

Owing to the serious illness of Gen. Cecil A. Lyon, national committeeman of the progressive party from this state, we have been unable to secure a statement from him.

SCHOOL BONDS CARRY EASILY

Hallsburg, Lone Oak and Leroy Decide to Improve Educational Facilities.

Rural schools of McLennan county continued their march of progress yesterday by voting bonds for improvement purposes. In the Hallsburg district, where the proposal to vote $4,500 in bonds for the purpose of erecting a modern school building was before the voters, the bonds carried by the decisive vote of 17 to 2.

At Leroy the bond issue carried, but by a much smaller margin, the vote for the bonds having been 33 with 25 against. In the Lone Oak school district, near Battle, the proposal to issue $2,000 in bonds carried by a vote of 19 to 12.

In the election of school trustees in the Robinson district, J. W. Mann, Joe E. Carey and John Simon were chosen for the local school, while John Strauss, a resident of the Robinson community and chairman of the county school board, was unanimously indorsed by the electorate as a member of the county board from that district.

Several additional bond elections will be held in the county next Saturday.

New Map of Brazos Has Been Drawn by Philip Crown, Waco

Showing in clear and bold outlines the Brazos river from its source to its mouth, presenting the counties through which it passes, indicating with black lines the location of the eight locks and dams which are to impound the waters of the great stream, and showing further some concrete data regarding the commerce originating and terminating in each county, there is a large map of the Brazos river in the office of Congressman R. L. Henry in the Praetorian building which was drawn by Philip Crown of Waco.

It was made at the request of C. W. Payne, who has collected so much valuable and interesting Brazos data, and it has been suggested that the map be placed on exhibition in some prominent place in the city. The work is certainly a credit to Mr. Crown, and shows what the Waco young men can do.

Federal meat inspection last year embraced 58,000,000 meat carcasses, of which 299,958 were wholly condemned and 644,688 in part.

A Sunday Morning Message to Men

By Rev. J. J. Grier

TO THE MAN WHO IS TEMPTED.

You may have to read this more than once to get a thorough hold of what I am trying to say; not because it is so hard to understand, but because it is so hard for me to say it with the simplicity and clearness that I want to say it with. If I can express the thought properly I am sure you will agree with me.

It can, I think, be said of most men that they are engaged in a struggle with some big, insistant form of evil. About this one big evil many smaller evils may be clustered, and doubtless are, but the supreme battle has to do with this particular one, and final victory is almost altogether dependent on the outcome of the fight with that.

What monster of evil you have to fight in order to save yourself from complete moral wreckage I do not know; but whatever form it may take, let me assure you, at the very start, that I sympathize with you most keenly. For I know what it is to fight and be outclassed; and then I know, too, what it is to fight and win out finally, and if it would encourage you at all for me to say it, I would like to say, as guardedly as I can say it, that it pays a thousand times to come out a winner in the fight, no matter what the cost of winning.

Will you, then, be patient with me while I make some slight reference to two or three forms of evil that gnaw at men's souls and threaten them with serious hurt?

For one thing, there is the question of money. No sane man thinks that it is any virtue to be poor, just as no right-thinking man thinks, for a moment, that it is the sum of all desirable things to be rich. But the lure of riches is too strong for some men. They can think of nothing seriously save the one thing of making money. For that they will lie, they will cheat, they will actually rob, when the processes of the law permit robbery, and do it all without conscience, because their souls are steeped in the delusion that it does not matter much what one does just so a little gold can be made by it. And when that idea has gotten a grip on a man's mind he is in a fair way of having the finer things ground out of his soul, of losing sight of all proper standards of conduct as between man and man, and of seeing himself finally so debased by the money passion that the vices of selfishness, cruelty and greed, if not actual crime, take possession of him and rob him of the very satisfaction which he was aiming at when he made money his chief goal. For it cannot, I am persuaded, be denied that there is something deep down in us that still cries out for the one thing in life that satisfies, no matter how much gold we may have. An old man who had accumulated a fortune said to me not long ago, "I would give up every bit of it if thereby I might have a little peace of mind." Don't you see a truth right there?

But that does not touch you. The money passion is a stranger to you. In truth, money, for its own sake, is of so small concern to you that you would not think of doing a wrong thing to get it. I am glad of that, and there are thousands just like you.

Very well, then, what threatens you, if anything does? Is it strong drink? Is that any temptation to you? I do not mean to insult you by asking if you are a sot or a drunkard. I simply ask, do you drink? If you do, is it because you like the smell of it, or the taste of it, or the effects? Or is it because there is a call for the thing in your blood? Do you love it? Do you love it so much that you can not possibly let it alone? If you do belong to this latter class, I have not a word of censure or harshness for you. To the depths of my heart I am sorry for you, and a little later on I will give you a remedy, a remedy that costs nothing and it is sure. But the chances are you can let drink alone whenever you want to let it alone, for you are a man with a will, and you can do things when you will to do them.

Why don't you quit them? Is it because you are forced to be a drinking man? Is it because you realize how much pleasure it gives your children to confess that their father drinks? Or is it because the boastful notes of pride ring out in your wife's voice as she admits it to her friends? Really, don't you know how ashamed all of them are that you drink, and how pathetically they struggle to keep the secret covered? And yet you can leave it alone whenever you see fit to do so? Suppose you try it awhile and see. If it is easy, you have no excuse for keeping it up; but if it is hard, the reason is all the greater for your quitting it instantly, if you can. Now, I do not say that it will ruin you if you keep on drinking, but I do say that you are taking a chance, perhaps a daring chance, without the slightest prospect of benefit accruing to you by reason of the chance. It's a hazard without profit, isn't it?

Of course I do not have to remind you that the only occupation, or business or place in all the world that is thoroughly congenial to the personal use of intoxicants is the business and the place that are distinctly devoted to the purposes of evil. I do not blame dwellers in the dives of sin for drinking; I do not well see how that could be helped, nor does it seem out of place a tall; but for those of us who need steady nerves, clear brains and strong hearts to do the work of the world, it seems the part of wisdom to leave the dangerous thing alone.

But neither of these is your trouble. You do not have to fight the cruel and seflish money passion; nor are you greatly troubled with the dangers of drink. Your battles may be a sex battle—the most subtle, the most baffling and the most far-reaching of all the moral contests that challenge the strength of men. It is all this, if we are losers in the fight, because nothing so hardens the moral sensibilities and deadens them to the things that are fine in lfie. Let me hope that your temptation is not at this point. But whether it is this or the others that I have named, may I not beg you not to imagine that you can throw it off at will. You have tried that already, and I do not say that it can not be done. It seldom is done, and the reason is, we do not become slaves to evil till the will is captured, and when that is so it is folly to speak of it as the means of liberty. The will must regain its freedom first and that is best done through the means of religion, real, honest, down-right earnest religion. If you would be free from evil passions, ask God to give you freedom, and He will do it.

Prof. B. B. Cobb Will Speak This Afternoon at Y M H A Meeting

At the last meeting of the Young Men's Hebrew association, I. Adelman was elected chairman to preside at the regular meeting to be called to order this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the basement of the Temple Rodef Sholom. The business meeting will last until 3:30 p. m., at which time the program will start.

Mr. Adelman will give a brief discussion of current issues and events, to be followed by a paper on a chapter selected from Graetz's History of the Jews.

Through the efforts of the incoming chairman and the program committee, Prof. B. B. Cobb, superintendent of the public schools of the city, has been secured to address the association. This feature of the program is expected to prove of particular interest.

An important matter will come up for discussion during the business meeting in regard to the proposed staging of a minstrel by the association, and all members are urged to attend. Visitors are invited to be present.

Cotton Total for Season Is 23,901

Public Weigher Sem Nix weighed up to last week 161 bales of cotton, making the total weighed up to yesterday for the season 23,901 bales as against 31,317 up to the same date last year. This is a decrease of 7,416 bales.

No cotton was weighed yesterday, but on this date last year thirty-five bales were weighed. Had any cotton been brought in yesterday it would have been sold for 11¾ cents per pound, basis middling.

WACO'S OPPORTUNITY.

While the war cloud in Europe shows no rift, it is significant that every nation in Europe is making feverish haste to be ready for the issues of peace. England and France, particularly, are straining every nerve to get control of all the avenues of trade before Germany will have an opportunity to reorganize her industries, and the minor nations are following their example. New England is already marching on South America, bent upon trade conquests, and the cities of the middle west are preparing to join in this invasion.

Everywhere the world is getting ready for big changes—everywhere, save in the great Southwest. What is Texas doing? To speak more directly to the point, what is Waco doing to avail itself of the benefits of the industrial revolution that is plainly approaching?

The war has emphasized the industrial value of the South's leading staple. Cotton is again in the saddle, and it is there to stay. It is safe to predict that cotton manufacturing in the United States will receive a mighty impetus as a result of the war. The cities which will profit most will be those cities which take an early lead in this form of development.

Waco has many advantages over any other Texas city as a location for cotton factories. It is in the heart of the cotton belt. The cotton, the labor, the wealth needed for development, are all here in abundance. Ten years from today, Waco should turn 500,000 bales of cotton into finished products. She can do it if she will. What is her will about it?

Yesterday was hog and hominy day all over Texas.

Somebody was April fooled down in Mexico, and it wasn't Pershing.

The next time Villa goes hunting he will jump a rabbit with shorter legs than Uncle Sam.

If Teddy really meant what he said, why didn't he volunteer for the round trip to cactus land?

If the kaiser has a submarine to let he can get a satisfactory price for it by addressing Pancho Villa.

Germany is evidently doing her level best to keep her submarines from running amuck, but somehow she can't stop them.

When Uncle Sam bids good-bye to Mexico it will require several volumes of Spanish adjectives to tell what Carranza did to Villa.

Congressman Callaway is still pegging away at his fight on the Brazos and Trinity rivers. By and by a freshet will come along, and where, oh, where, will Callaway be?

San Antonio offered $1000 and Dallas offered $1500 for the coming democratic state convention, and San Antonio got it. Will Senator Watson explain why it takes more than $500 to equalize Dallas with San Antonio as a convention resort?

Dallas is in the throes of a charter amendment fight in which, judging from the orations that are being delivered nightly, the main question is, who loves and who hates Stone and Webster. This is a year of big problems and Dallas proposes to keep up with the procession.

The democratic state executive committee will determine at Hillsboro next Friday whether to call a senatorial primary. That issue seems to be traveling southward, and there is some reason to believe it will never strike a solution until it reaches the Brazos.

ANOTHER OKLAHOMA FAILURE.

Oklahoma had a home ownership law, elaborate in detail, under which the state attempted to build up a fund to loan for the purchase of farms, such loans to be repaid in yearly installments. After one year of trial, it has been pronounced a failure and abandoned.

The success of municipal ownership along certain lines, such as waterworks and sewers, has encouraged many well intentioned persons who disclaim the title of socialists to attempt to drag the state into business enterprises of broader scope and far different nature. Every such attempt has ended in disaster, and Oklahoma affords a forceful illustration of its folly.

There is no logical excuse for the confusion of municipal business and private business. The city is a municipal corporation which exists solely for business purposes. Its stockholders are the members of the community.

The state is not a corporation and it is not in business. Hence there are many things a municipality may do which the state can never do successfully.

The state of Oklahoma had the capital and an army of employes, but it made a failure when it tried its hand at the real estate business because that was beyond its political functions.

THE CAUSE OF JUDICIAL REFORM.

At the lawyers' lunch held in the Raleigh hotel on yesterday, Judge Erwin Clark made some weighty suggestions looking to a more efficient and less expensive administration in the court house. He gave his testimony in favor of material reforms.

Senator Senter called attention to the fact that every trial judge who has ever spoken out on the subject, has declared against the evils which are provoking universal criticism. He said that from time to time the lower house of the Texas legislature has tried to accomplish something in this behalf, and that the Texas senate has always blocked the way.

The judges of the supreme court, the judges of all the appellate courts, nearly all the trial judges, most of the state press and all of the people are tired of court-house conditions that are a disgrace to civilization itself.

How long will the state senate of Texas be permitted to defy the will of the people of Texas in a matter of such importance?

"GREATER LOVE HATH NO MAN THAN THIS."

Clarence F. Fields, 508 East Fourth street, Topeka, Kansas, is a man after the example of Sidney Carton, in Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities." He is willing to sacrifice his liberty that the wife of a friend may be saved from humiliation and unhappiness.

He has established a new Damon and Pythias record. He wrote to Governor Capper asking that he be allowed to serve the sentence of his friend, Arthur Davenport.

The story of the crime for which Davenport was convicted does not matter in this article. It is the beautiful spirit of brotherly love and unselfish affection that is remarkable and to which we wish to call attention.

Rarely do such sacrifices come to light, though there are many in the world similar in effect though not just the same in concrete form. All over this land there are mothers who are toiling and slaving, denying themselves the comforts, oftimes the necessities of life, that those they love, children or husbands, may secure an education, may escape trouble, may be saved humiliation or given comforts. They are martyrs unheralded and unannounced, over whom no monuments will tower, about whom no stories will be told. They are just common, everyday mothers, God's most potent power for good in all this wide, wide world.

We should not concern ourselves so much with what other people do as we do with setting them a good example.

If Colonel Roosevelt knows how to do the handsome thing he will call for three cheers and a tiger for General-in-Chief Wilson.

Villa is reported to have lost his whiskers on the run, but they are not included in the booty said to have been captured by Colonel Dodd.

The republican party of Texas sends out its biennial defi today, but where is the democratic postmaster who will admit that he is the least bit scared?

When the automobile manufacturers attack the gasoline combine, as they threaten to do, it will be a lucky chauffeur who is just beyond the range of the explosion.

The late rains are estimated to be worth about $2,000,000 more to Texas than the cost of the Paris fire. When the fable of Phoenix was invented Texas was undiscovered.

The observant traveler will take notice of one suggestive business fact. Fewer "for rent" signs are used for decorative purposes in Waco than in any other first class city in Texas.

BULL MOOSERS BACK IN REPUBLICAN FOLD

NO DISCRIMINATION LIKELY

Men Who Forsook G. O. P. in 1912 Will be Reinstated and Will Enter Primaries and Support Nominees.

Special to the Morning News.

Houston, April 1.—Following a conference here between the ways and means committee of the harmony conference of republicans and progressives, held recently in Dallas, and H. F. McGregor, national republican executive committeeman from Texas, in this city yesterday, the announcement is made that the progressives of Texas will return to the republican fold; that these men will not be discriminated against in any way because of their desertion of the regular ranks in 1912, and that all will strive together diligently for the election of a republican president next November.

Mr. MacGregor addressed a letter to the ways and means committee which paved the way for the re-entrance of the progressives into the republican fold, and the committee issued an address uring all progressives to accept the republican assurances in good faith and at once prepare to take up active work in the old party by participating in the republican precinct primary conventions to be held May 6.

Mr. MacGregor's letter follows:

MacGREGOR HOLDS OUT THE OLIVE BRANCH.

Houston, March 31, 1916.

Messrs. C. A. Boynton, E. P. Wilmot, R. B. Creager, Eugene Nolte, J. W. Bass, J. O. Terrell, W. H. Atwell, Committee.

Gentlemen:—

The republican national committee and the republican state executive committee both extend an invitation to all voters who believe in the principles of the republican party, endorse its policies and support its nominees in good faith, to participate in the primary conventions; which I desire to reiterate as expressing my personal views, and I believe that I could give you the assurance of the organization, in accordance with this invitation, that there would not be a shadow of discrimination except such as may be occasioned by conditions over which the republican organization has no control.

My understanding of the republican situation in Texas is that the republican party is reunited and that all, with the exception of a very few ardent admirers of the progressive nominee of 1912, are back in the republican party as republicans, and willing and anxious to aid in the election of a republican president in 1916. That outside of the friction which may exist locally in some sections of the state, due mainly to causes other than the division of 1912, the best of feeling exists.

The immediate work ahead is the selection of delegates and alternate delegates to the republican national convention and the nomination of republican electors. If the progressive national convention had not been called to meet in Chicago on the same date as the republican convention with the announced intention as given out by progressive leaders in numerous interviews, of getting the republican national convention to nominate the progressive nominee of 1912 or dictate the nomination of some one satisfactory to the progressive convention, under an implied threat that if this is not done it meant the re-election of the democratic incumbent of the presidential office, the selection of delegates to the republican national convention could be made without considering in any wise the differences of 1912.

IMMEDIATE OBJECT OF PARTY ORGANIZATION.

The constant campaigning of the newspapers, particularly democratic newspapers, to revive the issue of men and to some extent the measures of 1912, the campaigns made in other states for republican delegates favorable to this purpose, and the preliminary efforts made in this state to the same end, makes it necessary for the officers of the republican organization of this state to frankly state their purpose is to help nominate a tried and true republican for president, and to make the election of the republican nominee certain, they deem it necessary:

That both the republican and progressive nominees of 1912 be eliminated from serious consideration;

That delegates and alternate delegates be selected who will work to cement all differences at Chicago, and who are opposed to a campaign in the interest of any candidate of 1912;

That the delegates and alternate delegates should be sent uninstructed as to their presidential preferences, and that as candidates they should frankly state their preference;

That the progressives who still remain in the progressive party should send their delegation to the progressive convention at Chicago and there aid their convention to work out a harmony program with the republican convention.

The officers of the organization have no authority to make any agreements binding the republican conventions, and everything depends upon the sentiment of the delegates to the several conventions. With the republican nomination for president completed, we believe we will be a reunited party in fact and that the division of 1912 can well be forgotten.

In the absence of the state chairman, the Hon. Phil E. Baer, I have assumed to speak for him and believe that he will fully concur in what I have herein state, and I believe that this is also true as to the other officers of the organization. Very respectively,

H. F. MacGREGOR,

BULL MOOSERS READY TO BURY THE HATCHET.

Houston, March 31, 1916.

To the Republicans and Progressives of Texas:—

The committee on ways and means appointed at the meeting of the republicans and progressives held at Dallas on March 15, 1916, submit the following report and recommendations to those attending said meeting and generally to the republicans and progressives of this state:

It is our belief that insofar as the great national issues now confronting the voters of this country are concerned the two parties are in practical accord. If the views of the republicans and progressives of this country upon these great and vital issues are to be made effective and are to be adopted as the policy of the nation, it is essential that the two parties come together, that but one set of candidates be nominated and that such candidates receive the united support of republicans and progressives alike.

We believe that by far the greater number of the rank and file of both parties believe in and earnestly desire such union.

We believe that the selfish interests and ambitions of no individual or individuals should be permitted to interfere with or hinder the consummation of the end desired.

We believe that the republican party affords the best medium of attaining such end.

The official heads of the republican party of this state have extended a cordial, and, we believe, a sincere invitation to the members of the progressive party to reaffiliate with the republicans.

NO DISCRIMINATION AGAINST THE PRODIGALS.

We are assured by those with authority to speak and we believe that upon re-entry of the progressives into the republican ranks they will be received honorably and cordially, and there will be no endeavor upon the part of the present officials of the republican organization to discriminate in any way against them.

We are assured and we believe that there may and doubtless will be honest differences of opinion as to questions of party policy, candidates and other questions such as ordinarily arise within the ranks of a political party, such questions and differences will be decided amicably and honestly and in accordance with the will of the majority.

So believing, we recommend that the progressives of this state sever their connections with the progressive organization and affiliate with and join the republican party as republicans; that this affiliation be in good fath, without mental reservation, and with the full intention of abiding by the will of the majority upon all party questions.

We further recommend that each and every member of the re-united republican party attend and participate in the precinct primary conventions called for May 6, 1916, and the other conventions of the republican party to be called during this all-important year.

In connection with the foregoing, we refer to a leter of this date addressed to the committee by the Hon. H. F. MacGregor, republican national committeeman of this state and which is published in connection herewith.

Owing to the serious illness of Gen. Cecil A. Lyon, national committeeman of the progressive party from this state, we have been unable to secure a statement from him.

SCHOOL BONDS CARRY EASILY

Hallsburg, Lone Oak and Leroy Decide to Improve Educational Facilities.

Rural schools of McLennan county continued their march of progress yesterday by voting bonds for improvement purposes. In the Hallsburg district, where the proposal to vote $4,500 in bonds for the purpose of erecting a modern school building was before the voters, the bonds carried by the decisive vote of 17 to 2.

At Leroy the bond issue carried, but by a much smaller margin, the vote for the bonds having been 33 with 25 against. In the Lone Oak school district, near Battle, the proposal to issue $2,000 in bonds carried by a vote of 19 to 12.

In the election of school trustees in the Robinson district, J. W. Mann, Joe E. Carey and John Simon were chosen for the local school, while John Strauss, a resident of the Robinson community and chairman of the county school board, was unanimously indorsed by the electorate as a member of the county board from that district.

Several additional bond elections will be held in the county next Saturday.

Showing in clear and bold outlines the Brazos river from its source to its mouth, presenting the counties through which it passes, indicating with black lines the location of the eight locks and dams which are to impound the waters of the great stream, and showing further some concrete data regarding the commerce originating and terminating in each county, there is a large map of the Brazos river in the office of Congressman R. L. Henry in the Praetorian building which was drawn by Philip Crown of Waco.

It was made at the request of C. W. Payne, who has collected so much valuable and interesting Brazos data, and it has been suggested that the map be placed on exhibition in some prominent place in the city. The work is certainly a credit to Mr. Crown, and shows what the Waco young men can do.

Federal meat inspection last year embraced 58,000,000 meat carcasses, of which 299,958 were wholly condemned and 644,688 in part.

A Sunday Morning Message to Men

By Rev. J. J. Grier

TO THE MAN WHO IS TEMPTED.

You may have to read this more than once to get a thorough hold of what I am trying to say; not because it is so hard to understand, but because it is so hard for me to say it with the simplicity and clearness that I want to say it with. If I can express the thought properly I am sure you will agree with me.

It can, I think, be said of most men that they are engaged in a struggle with some big, insistant form of evil. About this one big evil many smaller evils may be clustered, and doubtless are, but the supreme battle has to do with this particular one, and final victory is almost altogether dependent on the outcome of the fight with that.

What monster of evil you have to fight in order to save yourself from complete moral wreckage I do not know; but whatever form it may take, let me assure you, at the very start, that I sympathize with you most keenly. For I know what it is to fight and be outclassed; and then I know, too, what it is to fight and win out finally, and if it would encourage you at all for me to say it, I would like to say, as guardedly as I can say it, that it pays a thousand times to come out a winner in the fight, no matter what the cost of winning.

Will you, then, be patient with me while I make some slight reference to two or three forms of evil that gnaw at men's souls and threaten them with serious hurt?

For one thing, there is the question of money. No sane man thinks that it is any virtue to be poor, just as no right-thinking man thinks, for a moment, that it is the sum of all desirable things to be rich. But the lure of riches is too strong for some men. They can think of nothing seriously save the one thing of making money. For that they will lie, they will cheat, they will actually rob, when the processes of the law permit robbery, and do it all without conscience, because their souls are steeped in the delusion that it does not matter much what one does just so a little gold can be made by it. And when that idea has gotten a grip on a man's mind he is in a fair way of having the finer things ground out of his soul, of losing sight of all proper standards of conduct as between man and man, and of seeing himself finally so debased by the money passion that the vices of selfishness, cruelty and greed, if not actual crime, take possession of him and rob him of the very satisfaction which he was aiming at when he made money his chief goal. For it cannot, I am persuaded, be denied that there is something deep down in us that still cries out for the one thing in life that satisfies, no matter how much gold we may have. An old man who had accumulated a fortune said to me not long ago, "I would give up every bit of it if thereby I might have a little peace of mind." Don't you see a truth right there?

But that does not touch you. The money passion is a stranger to you. In truth, money, for its own sake, is of so small concern to you that you would not think of doing a wrong thing to get it. I am glad of that, and there are thousands just like you.

Very well, then, what threatens you, if anything does? Is it strong drink? Is that any temptation to you? I do not mean to insult you by asking if you are a sot or a drunkard. I simply ask, do you drink? If you do, is it because you like the smell of it, or the taste of it, or the effects? Or is it because there is a call for the thing in your blood? Do you love it? Do you love it so much that you can not possibly let it alone? If you do belong to this latter class, I have not a word of censure or harshness for you. To the depths of my heart I am sorry for you, and a little later on I will give you a remedy, a remedy that costs nothing and it is sure. But the chances are you can let drink alone whenever you want to let it alone, for you are a man with a will, and you can do things when you will to do them.

Why don't you quit them? Is it because you are forced to be a drinking man? Is it because you realize how much pleasure it gives your children to confess that their father drinks? Or is it because the boastful notes of pride ring out in your wife's voice as she admits it to her friends? Really, don't you know how ashamed all of them are that you drink, and how pathetically they struggle to keep the secret covered? And yet you can leave it alone whenever you see fit to do so? Suppose you try it awhile and see. If it is easy, you have no excuse for keeping it up; but if it is hard, the reason is all the greater for your quitting it instantly, if you can. Now, I do not say that it will ruin you if you keep on drinking, but I do say that you are taking a chance, perhaps a daring chance, without the slightest prospect of benefit accruing to you by reason of the chance. It's a hazard without profit, isn't it?

Of course I do not have to remind you that the only occupation, or business or place in all the world that is thoroughly congenial to the personal use of intoxicants is the business and the place that are distinctly devoted to the purposes of evil. I do not blame dwellers in the dives of sin for drinking: I do not well see how that could be helped, nor does it seem out of place a tall; but for those of us who need steady nerves, clear brains and strong hearts to do the work of the world, it seems the part of wisdom to leave the dangerous thing alone.

But neither of these is your trouble. You do not have to fight the cruel and seflish money passion; nor are you greatly troubled with the dangers of drink. Your battles may be a sex battle—the most subtle, the most baffling and the most far-reaching of all the moral contests that challenge the strength of men. It is all this, if we are losers in the fight, because nothing so hardens the moral sensibilities and deadens them to the things that are fine in lfie. Let me hope that your temptation is not at this point. But whether it is this or the others that I have named, may I not beg you not to imagine that you can throw it off at will. You have tried that already, and I do not say that it can not be done. It seldom is done, and the reason is, we do not become slaves to evil till the will is captured, and when that is so it is folly to speak of it as the means of liberty. The will must regain its freedom first and that is best done through the means of religion, real, honest, down-right earnest religion. If you would be free from evil passions, ask God to give you freedom, and He will do it.

Prof. B. B. Cobb Will Speak This Afternoon at Y M H A Meeting

At the last meeting of the Young Men's Hebrew association, I. Adelman was elected chairman to preside at the regular meeting to be called to order this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the basement of the Temple Rodef Sholom. The business meeting will last until 3:30 p. m., at which time the program will start.

Mr. Adelman will give a brief discussion of current issues and events, to be followed by a paper on a chapter selected from Graetz's History of the Jews.

Through the efforts of the incoming chairman and the program committee, Prof. B. B. Cobb, superintendent of the public schools of the city, has been secured to address the association. This feature of the program is expected to prove of particular interest.

An important matter will come up for discussion during the business meeting in regard to the proposed staging of a minstrel by the association, and all members are urged to attend. Visitors are invited to be present.

Cotton Total for Season Is 23,901

Public Weigher Sem Nix weighed up to last week 161 bales of cotton, making the total weighed up to yesterday for the season 23,901 bales as against 31,317 up to the same date last year. This is a decrease of 7,416 bales.

No cotton was weighed yesterday, but on this date last year thirty-five bales were weighed. Had any cotton been brought in yesterday it would have been sold for 11¾ cents per pound, basis middling.

ABBOTT PREPARING TO DRILL FOR OIL

CONTRACT CLOSED WITH T. P. & L. CO. FOR EIGHT STREET LIGHTS.

Election for Purpose of Incorporating Will Be Held on May 16.

Special to the Morning News.

Abbott, April 1.—The oil fever is taking on a new impetus. Evidences of oil are unmistakable, and those interested owners of the property upon which the oil is located are organizing a stock company sufficiently strong to sink a well to test out the probable producing strength of the output. The location of the oil is about two miles southwest from Abbott.

O. G. Bowman of Hillsboro, who died at that point Thursday night, vice president of the Citizens National bank of Hillsboro, was a stock holder of the Guaranty State bank here and was considered one of the most conservative bankers of the country. He was a progressive citizen in all lines.

Hon. John W. Woods of Rotan, candidate for attorney general, was a visitor here this week and met his friends here in the interest of his candidacy.

The citizens of Abbott have closed a contract with the Texas Power and Light company for eight street lights to be placed at once. This is probably the smallest town in Texas with street lights. These lights burn the entire night.

An election for the purpose of incorporating the town of Abbott has been ordered for May 16. With this election a mayor and two commissioners are to be elected. From the indications the vote will go in favor of incorporation.

Rain Stops Track Meet.

Special to the Morning News.

Marlin, April 1.—The third annual meet and oratorical contest of the Falls County University Interscholastic league was brought to an unexpected end today at noon by the heavy rains which had made the grounds unfit for the junior track meet this afternoon. After a conference on the grounds, it was determined to complete the program next Saturday afternoon.

The attendance at the track meet has been large and much interest has been shown in the various events. Marlin retained the county trophy in the high school events, gaining 106 out of the 142 points possible, with Reagan second with thirty points and Rosebud third with six points.

Downpour at Marlin.

Special to the Morning News.

Marlin ,April 1.—The rain fall in marlin registered 1.40 inches up to noon today. Most of the water fell between 9 and 10 o'clock and many think the fall amounted to over three inches.

News From Travis.

Special to the Morning News.

Travis, April 1.—Fine rains fell throughout this section of the country today after an eight weeks' drouth.

Material has commence to arrive for the new $10,000 school building and work will commence at once. J. M. Cone, one of our citizens, will have charge of the construction.

In the school trustee election here today the following were elected: J. F. Auding, L. J. Owen, W. B. Chatham and C. A. Scott.

A. J. Davison has been very low for the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gassaway of near Waco are visiting in Travis.

T. & B. V. Will Not Accede.

By The Associated Press.

Houston, April 1.—General offices of the Gulf Coast line and Receiver Robbins of the Trinity and Brazos Valley road, announce that the trainmen's demands will not be complied with. President Pyeatt, remarking that the Gulf Coast wage rate is higher than most roads, added that "we are about 150 per cent poorer than any other railroad.

Saloons Close; No Election.

By the Associated Press.

Houston, April 1.—Three hundred and seventy-five saloons in Houston closed Saturday for a school trustee election that was not held. The county judge took the position that the eletcion was in the hands of the county board of education. The county superintendent did not believe such an election legal. Consequently it was not held.

N. K. Smith Wins Case.

Special to the Morning News.

Belton, April 1.—In the district court of Bell county yesterday in the case of N. K. Smith and Mid-Tex Oil mills vs. J. D. Sugg, involving more than $200,000 judgment was entered in favor of N. K. Smith and Mid-Tex Oil mills in pursuance to the findings of the jury, the case having been submitted to them on special issue, and they having determined all questions of fact in favor of plaintiffs.

Bosque Out of Banks.

Special to the Morning News.

Meridian, April 1.—It has been raining here constantly since yesterday about 3 p. m., with a little hail last night about 9 o'clock, although not enough to damage crops. The Bosque river is out of its banks and is rising at a rapid rate.

Clyde Essex Turns Down Nomination as Mayor of Eddy

Special to the Morning News.

Eddy, April 1.—Clyde Essex has decided not to accept the nomination for mayor of Eddy, which was almost unanimously tendered him by the voters. Upon looking up the matter Mr. Essex found he lacked only a few days residence to be eligible to hold the position, and while urged to accept on the ground that no opposition would be encountered, rather than have any question in the future arise he withdrew from the contest. Some lawyers say he could hold the office if chosen; others are not certain. Anyway, Mr. Essex has been tendered a high compliment, even though he decides not to be a candidate.

Good Rain at Granger.

To Drill for Oil on San Jacinto Battle Grounds

Special to the Morning News.

Houston, April 1.—Drilling for oil is to be started soon on the San Jacinto battle ground site, Jules Hirsch of Houston having given notice to the state of his filing of a mineral lease on the site. The entire battle ground property is 383 acres, including the point where Gen. Sam Houston accepted Santa Ana's surrender, is in his filing. Houston attorneys say that even if opposition develops it will be futile, as under the law a citizen can file a mineral lease on any state-owned land. The Hirsch lease is under the same law that has enabled oil men to obtain rights in the river bottoms near Humble.

Mount Calm to Have Road Election.

CALOMEL SICKENS! IT'S MERCURY! DANGER

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Straightens You Up Better Than Salivating, Dangerous Calomel and Doesn't Make You Sick—Don't Lose a Day's Work—Wonderful Discovery Destroying Sale of Calomel Here.

You're bilious! Your liver is sluggish! You feel lazy, dizzy and all knocked out. Your head is dull, your tongue is coated; breath bad; stomach sour and bowels constipated. But don't take salivating calomel. It makes you sick, you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel crashes into sour bile like dynamite, breaking it up. That's when you feel that awful nausea and cramping.

If you want to enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight. Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone under my personal money-back guarantee that each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular. You will feel like working; you'll be cheerful; full of vigor and ambition.

Dodson's Liver Tone is entirely vegetable, therefore harmless, and can not salivate. Give it to your children. Millions of people are using Dodson's Liver Tone instead of dangerous calomel now. Your druggist will tell you that the sale of calomel is almost stopped entirely here.

CONTRACT CLOSED WITH T. P. & L. CO. FOR EIGHT STREET LIGHTS.

Election for Purpose of Incorporating Will Be Held on May 16.

Special to the Morn'ng News.

Abbott, April 1.—The oil fever is taking on a new impetus. Evidences of oil are unmistakable, and those interested owners of the property upon which the oil is located are organizing a stock company sufficiently strong to sink a well to test out the probable producing strength of the output. The location of the oil is about two miles southwest from Abbott.

O. G. Bowman of Hillsboro, who died at that point Thursday night, vice president of the Citizens National bank of Hillsboro, was a stock holder of the Guaranty State bank here and was considered one of the most conservative bankers of the country. He was a progressive citizen in all lines.

Hon. John W. Woods of Rotan, candidate for attorney general, was a visitor here this week and met his friends here in the interest of his candidacy.

The citizens of Abbott have closed a contract with the Texas Power and Light company for eight street lights to be placed at once. This is probably the smallest town in Texas with street lights. These lights burn the entire night.

An election for the purpose of incorporating the town of Abbott has been ordered for May 16. With this election a mayor and two commissioners are to be elected. From the indications the vote will go in favor of incorporation.

Wacoans at Marlin Hotels.

Rain Stops Track Meet.

Special to the Morning News.

Marlin, April 1.—The third annual meet and oratorical contest of the Falls County University Interscholastic league was brought to an unexpected end today at noon by the heavy rains which had made the grounds unfit for the junior track meet this afternoon. After a conference on the grounds, it was determined to complete the program next Saturday afternoon.

The attendance at the track meet has been large and much interest has been shown in the various events. Marlin retained the county trophy in the high school events, gaining 106 out of the 142 points possible, with Reagan second with thirty points and Rosebud third with six points.

Downpour at Marlin.

Special to the Morning News.

Marlin ,April 1.—The rain fall in marlin registered 1.40 inches up to noon today. Most of the water fell between 9 and 10 o'clock and many think the fall amounted to over three inches.

News From Travis.

Special to the Morning News.

Travis, April 1.—Fine rains fell throughout this section of the country today after an eight weeks' drouth.

Material has commence to arrive for the new $10,000 school building and work will commence at once. J. M. Cone, one of our citizens, will have charge of the construction.

In the school trustee election here today the following were elected: J. F. Auding, L. J. Owen, W. B. Chatham and C. A. Scott.

A. J. Davison has been very low for the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gassaway of near Waco are visiting in Travis.

T. & B. V. Will Not Accede.

By The Associated Press.

Houston, April 1.—General offices of the Gulf Coast line and Receiver Robbins of the Trinity and Brazos Valley road, announce that the trainmen's demands will not be complied with. President Pyeatt, remarking that the Gulf Coast wage rate is higher than most roads, added that "we are about 150 per cent poorer than any other railroad.

Saloons Close; No Election.

By the Associated Press.

Houston, April 1.—Three hundred and seventy-five saloons in Houston closed Saturday for a school trustee election that was not held. The county judge took the position that the eletcion was in the hands of the county board of education. The county superintendent did not believe such an election legal. Consequently it was not held.

SPRING'S CLOSE WILL SEE WACO A CITY OF FLOWERS

The appeal for a prettier city through the planting of flowers in the front yards, vacant lots and gardens, and the placing of boxes and baskets in the windows is touching every class in the city. Fostered by the Welfare league, the Rotary club and many other organizations, the close of the spring season bids fair to see more flowers in Waco than in any previous year. Strong winds and the drouth which promised to make many attempts in the floral line terminate disastrously, have given place to a splendid seasoning of the ground and ideal flower weather.

Florists of the city declare that the demand is greater for plants now than has been true in many years and that more people are interested and that many persons with an ordinary interest in flowers have increased their zeal for beautification.

Speaking of the practical points to be considered in growing flowers successfully, J. Mohan, a local florist, explained tersely that "every plant has its season to grow and bloom."

"Plants of the same family are like humans—some weak, some strong," he continued. "A woman will go to a store and buy a dress and wear it for one occasion and pay the highest price for it. The same woman will buy the cheapest plants for her yard and expect the same results as though she bought the most expensive flowers.

"Always buy good plants from reliable home people and take good care of them and you will get the proper results.

PLANTS SHOULD BE HOME-GROWN.

"Plants that do well in one locality will not do at all in another place. Mail order plants from the North are not fitted for this section of the country. The local growers have their stocks acclimated.

"The altheca or Rose of Sharon does well for specimen bushes. The Detsa and bridal wreath grow nicely. For hedges Japonica is the very best. It costs more to start, but it keeps green all winter, when privitt is nude of foliage. Japonica is great for specimen plants and can be made in any shapes desired.

"For yard plants try what grandma used to grow, verbenia, geranium, petunia, flox, snap dragon, balsam, the bush kind of marigold, mixed everlasting, salvia, nasturtium, zinna, globe amaranth, portulaca daisies, colius, trailing queen is best here. Chrysanthemums are fine for late fall.

GROW VARIETIES FOR PROTECTION.

"It is well to have an assortment of plants; if one does not do well another may be all right, then you can try a few new things. Vincia does very fine here and poppies, the single varieties, do fairly well.

"Hanging baskets of sprengeri or mixed plants, also window boxes make the best decorative appearances of anything the florist turns out. Nearly any plants used in beds will do well in window boxes. Be sure and have good, well mixed soil and good drainage, then use plenty of water and keep your plants clean and they will grow.

STATE LAWS FOR BUYER'S INTEREST.

"When you are making your flower garden go to some grower that complies with the state inspection law that protects you by guaranteeing that you are getting what you buy. Then make your selection of plants. Have your ground well marked. Plant your flowers carefully, then water them well and keep them well watered all the time. You will be proud of your yard."

Mrs. M. Crown of 321 North Eleventh street, has returned from New York, where she visited her mother and sister, Mrs. J. Alderman and Mrs. A. Michel.

¶ CITY NEWS BRIEFS ¶

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Van Hook of North Eighteenth street are entertaining a new son, Richard Beale Van Hook Jr.

The McLennan county grand jury adjourned yesterday afternoon until Monday, but no furtther indictments were returned before the recess.

The will of the late E. W. Blinn was filed Saturday for probate in the county court. The will shows that decedent was possessed of property estimated to be worth $25,000. Christena Blinn asks for letters testamentary.

William Robertson of McLennan lodge No. 241, I. O. O. F., has been appointed district deputy grand master and will enter upon the discharge of his duties. In his district are included the lodges at Waco, Hewitt and Lorena.

"That was a two-million dollar rain just for this section alone," said Col. W. A. Poage yesterday—and he wore the smile that has no coming off when he spoke. The precipitation appeared to have scattered good cheer all about.

The local trades unions of Waco are electing delegates to the meeting of the state federation of labor on April 24. The state meeting will last for nearly a week. All the locals in Waco will choose delegates and many of these will attend.

"The next cry we hear will be one to the effect that we are having too much rain," said L. B. Black yesterday. And doubtless he was correct, so quickly does the pendulum swing in Texas. But for the immediate present, the populace seems satisfied.

G. K. Smith, assistant station accountant for the Cotton Belt and International & Great Northern railroads of this city, has been appointed chief accountant of the road to Laredo, Texas. Mr. Smith will take up his new work about the middle of next week.

The usual number of victims found yesterday that it was All Fools' day and that it was dangerous to be too confiding. The pranks ranged all along the line from the harmless to the intensely practical, but generally speaking those who were victimized took it good naturedly.

Some of the storm sewers of the city were choked up yesterday by the accumulation of water and in some cases of trash which had been gathered for weeks and had not been washed away on account of the drouth. All in all, however, the storm sewers behaved very well.

C. K. Wiel, who has been a resident of Waco for the last thirty years, received many congratulations yesterday, his eightieth birthday. For twenty years Mr. Wiel was on the road representing the Texas Paper company and the Magnolia Paper company of Houston and is well known over the state.

Rumors were rife on the streets nearly all day Saturday that Francisca Villa, the Mexican bandit and outlaw, whilom commander of a large part of the Constitutionalist forces, had been captured. Much interest was shown in the reports, and this topic shared honors with the rain in claiming attention.

The health department of the city is keeping its weather eye out all the time, with the idea of warding off any of the contagious disease which are more in evidence during the spring and early summer. There has been but little contagion in the records of Health Commissioner W. H. Cockcroft lately.

Gardens which had been suffering from lack of rain will now flourish. A great many vacant lots in the city are being made to produce something which formerly were simply unsightly parts of the area comprised in the city limits. This will contribute to the city beautiful idea, and will likewise prove utilitarian and practical helpful.

The good roads of the Waco precinct are having a liberal patronage since Saturday morning. The good roads are good all the time, but with the advent of the rainy season their worth is brought more prominently to the fore. The system is being gradually and certainly extended in parts of the county continguous to the permanent road construction.

The campaign which has been in progress, headed by Rev. F. S. Groner of the Columbus Street Baptist church for supscriptions looking to the construction here at any early date of the Baptist sanitarium, has progressed well and now that general and copious rains have fallen it is believed that it will go forward with renewed vim and greater success.

The central committee which was named in connection with the solicitation of funds for the Boy Scout movement in Waco will go ahead with its work for a week or two yet, though the other committees have stopped. This was the statement yesterday of General Chairman Frank Trau of the movement. He predicted that the effort would be successful and the money needed would be raised.

Information was received here yesterday that Richard Stanford of Waco, who recently left here with his sister, Miss Eldora Stanford, prominent vocalist, has secured employment in the New York National City bank. Mr. Stanford is a graduate of the Toby's Business College of Waco in the banking and stenography departments. For several months he was employed by the Central Texas Exchange bank of Waco.

For the weekly meeting of the Rotary club at 12:15 o'clock at the State House tomorrow, L. R. May is slated for toastmaster, W. P. Killingsworth as orator and Dr. I. L. McGlasson, author of the thought for the day. The civic improvement committee will make an important report of progress in the city beautification campaign and the directors will hold a brief session, following the adjournment of the club.

A portion of the Waco police force had its regular monthly change-up yesterday, part of the men who had been working at night taking the day shift and some of those who had been on the daylight beats going to work at night. The change affected about eighteen men.

An unusual number of blind men appeared on the streets the latter part of the week. In some instances the blind solicitors appear to travel in bunches, possibly for the sake of company. Many prominent corners have been dotted with them in the past few days.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

GIVE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS" AT ONCE IF BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When Peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-aches, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Stomach trouble causes a multitude of ailments, and often results in Gall Stones, Yellow Jaundice, Acute and Chronic Indigestion, Appendicitis, Constipation, Auto-Intoxication, Gas Pressure, Fear of Heart Disease, Cancer and Ulcers of the Stomach and Intestines, etc., etc. One dose of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy has proven successful in thousands of cases of Stomach Trouble. This explains its enormous sale. Has been taken and is recommended by physicians, justices of the supreme court, congressmen, lawyers, nurses, ministers, farmers, educators, mechanics—probably your own neighbor. Many owe their lives to Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. Thousands say it has saved them from the knife. Contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. FREE booklet on Stomach Ailments. Address Geo. H. Mayr, Mfg. Chemist, Chicago. Better yet—obtain a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy from W. B. Morrison Drug Co., or any reliable druggist, who will refund your money if it fails.

Scout Commissioner Will Remain in City to Help Reorganize

B. C. Nettles, president of the local Boy Scout council, announced yesterday that by request of the local council, Scout Commissioner Nat Hayes will not leave for New York City to study scout executive work at the national headquarters until after the summer is over. Mr. Hayes will remain in the city and assist in the reorganizing of the Waco Boy Scouts.

H. M. Butler, special Scout commissioner from New York, who supervised the campaign which recently closed here and which resulted in more than $7,000 being subscribed for the enlarging of the Scout work in this city within the next three years, will leave today for Corpus Christi. At Corpus Christi he will head a campaign to raise $1,500 for Boy Scout work in that city. From Corpus Christi he will go to Dallas to conduct a similar campaign and before returning to his headquarters at New York he will conduct two or three more campaigns in Southern cities.

First Contribution to Y W C A Campaign Is Check for $500

Announcement was made yesterday that the first contribution toward the organizing of the Young Women's Christian association for this city had been made by a prominent Waco lady and the amount was $500. Mrs. Boliver Nettles, a member of the provisional committee, said the name of the person who made the first contribution to the fund would not be announced until the campaign in interest of the association was officially started.

Y. M. B. L. Directors May Set Date for Brazos Celebration

It is expected that the date for celebrating the completion of the lock and dam about eight miles from Waco will be set Tuesday night at the regular weekly meeting of the board of directors of the Young Men's Business League. As yet it is not known if any special matters of business aside from the regular routine will be brought up at thi meeting.

Regular committee reports will be made and a report may be made from the committee that was appointed to find out the railroad rates for the trade trips that will be held under the direction of the league during the coming summer.

What the Observer Saw

CRUEL, CRUEL WORLD, ALLEGE DRUMMERS.

Of course all people are not prohibitionists. If they had been this would not have been written.

Two old bachelor drummers drifted into Waco Friday night. Early yesterday morning they arose and stood under the awning of a certain Waco saloon, waiting for it to open. They watched it rain awhile and then looked at their watches. It was away past opening time and nobody had shown up.

"Maybe this place has closed," ventured one, so they went to another. Nothing doing. They asked a passerby why the saloons were closed. And he didn't know.

"Well," snorted the fattest one, "if this is an April Fool joke, it's the most successful one ever put over on me."

It was late last night that they learned that a school trustee election had been going on.

FIRST OFFENSE IN TWENTY-FIVE YEARS.

A veteran newspaperman of the city who has now retired from active work, but who still retains a keen interest in Waco journalism, was nearly killed yesterday evening by a Boston strawberry which stuck in his wind-pipe following a convulsion of laughter in a downtown cafe. The gentleman had just finished reading an aprilfoolish story on a two-million-dollar building that isn't going to be erected in Waco, as chronicled by one of the most flourishing of the afternoon papers of the city.

After the bean had been coaxed from his suction pipe, the ex-newspaper man managed to say with tears of pain in his eye that it was not so much the laughter that choked him as the shock. He said that was the first time a funny thing had gotten into the paper in twenty-five years and he thought that it was of such moment that the federal government ought to intervene to prohibit any further violation of such a faithful record.

WHY NOT— POODLES ARE CHUMS?

Did you ever take a stroll around the business section with a goose for a companion—just an ordinary, everyday, web-footed goose of the old style?

If you have not you have not even enjoyed the pleasure and the attention given yesterday to a negro man who appeared on Austin street for the purpose of "taking his goose out for a walk and to give the goose a chance to get some fresh air." The negro, William Carter by name, living at 209 North Third street, had the goose in tow, or the goose had him—it was difficult to tell which way it was, as the two appeared to understand each other so well. The goose, a white one, full grown, waddled down Austin street, looking at everything and everybody, but showing no more surprise than an Indian, and now and then stopping right in the middle of the walk to preen its feathers and have a better look at something. It kept right along with William, however, and the two were boon companions even in the midst of a multitude. The goose was so tractable that the negro had no trouble whatever in indicating which way it should turn when street corners were encountered, and the sight was so comical that scores of people stopped to look at the two companions.

"I raised him, and I takes him out for a walk ever now and then," said William. "He understands just what I wants him to do, and I never has any trouble with him. He begs me to take him walkin' now and then, and I always try to do it, as he is such a good goose. He goes just where I want him to go."

And the man and goose ambled on down the street and out of sight, while many turned their heads to get a last glimpse of man and bird.

MAYBE HORSE SENSE, BUT DOUBTFUL.

A fine steed owned by L. M. Sublett of East Waco came near "eating himself up" as one of the policemen describes it, yesterday morning. It is stated that the horse was making rapid strides in this direction when the police arrived and ruined his meal, and incidentally, shot him. It was later learned that the horse was a victim of a mad dog about nine days ago and the hydrophobia was beginning to take effect. Another horse who was a "roommate" to the "angry steed" was bitten in the "northeast" corner of his side but at an early hour this morning was reported to be resting as though nothing had ever happened.

SPRING'S CLOSE WILL SEE WACO A CITY OF FLOWERS

The appeal for a prettier city through the planting of flowers in the front yards, vacant lots and gardens, and the placing of boxes and baskets in the windows is touching every class in the city. Fostered by the Welfare league, the Rotary club and many other organizations, the close of the spring season bids fair to see more flowers in Waco than in any previous year. Strong winds and the drouth which promised to make many attempts in the floral line terminate disastrously, have given place to a splendid seasoning of the ground and ideal flower weather.

Florists of the city declare that the demand is greater for plants now than has been true in many years and that more people are interested and that many persons with an ordinary interest in flowers have increased their zeal for beautification.

Speaking of the practical points to be considered in growing flowers successfully, J. Mohan, a local florist, explained tersely that "every plant has its season to grow and bloom."

"Plants of the same family are like humans—some weak, some strong," he continued. "A woman will go to a store and buy a dress and wear it for one occasion and pay the highest price for it. The same woman will buy the cheapest plants for her yard and expect the same results as though she bought the most expensive flowers.

"Always buy good plants from reliable home people and take good care of them and you will get the proper results.

PLANTS SHOULD BE HOME-GROWN.

"Plants that do well in one locality will not do at all in another place. Mail order plants from the North are not fitted for this section of the country. The local growers have their stocks acclimated.

"The altheca or Rose of Sharon does well for specimen bushes. The Detsa and bridal wreath grow nicely. For hedges Japonica is the very best. It costs more to start, but it keeps green all winter, when privitt is nude of foliage. Japonica is great for specimen plants and can be made in any shapes desired.

"For yard plants try what grandma used to grow, verbenia, geranium, petunia, flox, snap dragon, balsam, the bush kind of marigold, mixed everlasting, salvia, nasturtium, zinna, globe amaranth, portulaca daisies, colius, trailing queen is best here. Chrysanthemums are fine for late fall.

"It is well to have an assortment of plants; if one does not do well another may be all right, then you can try a few new things. Vincia does very fine here and poppies, the single varieties, do fairly well.

"Hanging baskets of sprengeri or mixed plants, also window boxes make the best decorative appearances of anything the florist turns out. Nearly any plants used in beds will do well in window boxes. Be sure and have good, well mixed soil and good drainage, then use plenty of water and keep your plants clean and they will grow.

STATE LAWS FOR BUYER'S INTEREST.

"When you are making your flower garden go to some grower that complies with the state inspection law that protects you by guaranteeing that you are getting what you buy. Then make your selection of plants. Have your ground well marked. Plant your flowers carefully, then water them well and keep them well watered all the time. You will be proud of your yard."

Mrs. M. Crown of 321 North Eleventh street, has returned from New York, where she visited her mother and sister, Mrs. J. Alderman and Mrs. A. Michel.

¶ CITY NEWS BRIEFS ¶

The McLennan county grand jury adjourned yesterday afternoon until Monday, but no further indictments were returned before the recess.

The will of the late E. W. Blinn was filed Saturday for probate in the county court. The will shows that decedent was possessed of property estimated to be worth $25,000. Christena Blinn asks for letters testamentary.

William Robertson of McLennan lodge No. 241, I. O. O. F., has been appointed district deputy grand master and will enter upon the discharge of his duties. In his district are included the lodges at Waco, Hewitt and Lorena.

"That was a two-million dollar rain just for this section alone," said Col. W. A. Poage yesterday—and he wore the smile that has no coming off when he spoke. The precipitation appeared to have scattered good cheer all about.

The local trades unions of Waco are electing delegates to the meeting of the state federation of labor on April 24. The state meeting will last for nearly a week. All the locals in Waco will choose delegates and many of these will attend.

"The next cry we hear will be one to the effect that we are having too much rain," said L. B. Black yesterday. And doubtless he was correct, so quickly does the pendulum swing in Texas. But for the immediate present, the populace seems satisfied.

G. K. Smith, assistant station accountant for the Cotton Belt and International & Great Northern railroads of this city, has been appointed chief accountant of the road to Laredo, Texas. Mr. Smith will take up his new work about the middle of next week.

The usual number of victims found yesterday that it was All Fools' day and that it was dangerous to be too confiding. The pranks ranged all along the line from the harmless to the intensely practical, but generally speaking those who were victimized took it good naturedly.

Some of the storm sewers of the city were choked up yesterday by the accumulation of water and in some cases of trash which had been gathered for weeks and had not been washed away on account of the drouth. All in all, however, the storm sewers behaved very well.

C. K. Wiel, who has been a resident of Waco for the last thirty years, received many congratulations yesterday, his eightieth birthday. For twenty years Mr. Wiel was on the road representing the Texas Paper company and the Magnolia Paper company of Houston and is well known over the state.

Rumors were rife on the streets nearly all day Saturday that Francisca Villa, the Mexican bandit and outlaw, whilom commander of a large part of the Constitutionalist forces, had been captured. Much interest was shown in the reports, and this topic shared honors with the rain in claiming attention.

The health department of the city is keeping its weather eye out all the time, with the idea of warding off any of the contagious disease which are more in evidence during the spring and early summer. There has been but little contagion in the records of Health Commissioner W. H. Cockcroft lately.

Gardens which had been suffering from lack of rain will now flourish. A great many vacant lots in the city are being made to produce something which formerly were simply unsightly parts of the area comprised in the city limits. This will contribute to the city beautiful idea, and will likewise prove utilitarian and practical helpful.

The good roads of the Waco precinct are having a liberal patronage since Saturday morning. The good roads are good all the time, but with the advent of the rainy season their worth is brought more prominently to the fore. The system is being gradually and certainly extended in parts of the county continguous to the permanent road construction.

The campaign which has been in progress, headed by Rev. F. S. Groner of the Columbus Street Baptist church for supscriptions looking to the construction here at any early date of the Baptist sanitarium, has progressed well and now that general and copious rains have fallen it is believed that it will go forward with renewed vim and greater success.

The central committee which was named in connection with the solicitation of funds for the Boy Scout movement in Waco will go ahead with its work for a week or two yet, though the other committees have stopped. This was the statement yesterday of General Chairman Frank Trau of the movement. He predicted that the effort would be successful and the money needed would be raised.

Information was received here yesterday that Richard Stanford of Waco, who recently left here with his sister, Miss Eldora Stanford, prominent vocalist, has secured employment in the New York National City bank. Mr. Stanford is a graduate of the Toby's Business College of Waco in the banking and stenography departments. For several months he was employed by the Central Texas Exchange bank of Waco.

For the weekly meeting of the Rotary club at 12:15 o'clock at the State House tomorrow, L. R. May is slated for toastmaster, W. P. Killingsworth as orator and Dr. I. L. McGlasson, author of the thought for the day. The civic improvement committee will make an important report of progress in the city beautification campaign and the directors will hold a brief session, following the adjournment of the club.

A portion of the Waco police force had its regular monthly change-up yesterday, part of the men who had been working at night taking the day shift and some of those who had been on the daylight beats going to work at night. The change affected about eighteen men.

An unusual number of blind men appeared on the streets the latter part of the week. In some instances the blind solicitors appear to travel in bunches, possibly for the sake of company. Many prominent corners have been dotted with them in the past few days.

TELEPHONE BUILDING NEARING COMPLETION

Merging Details Are Being Carried on Under High Speed and Soon to Be Finished.

Arrangements are being made by the clerical and office departments of the Texas Telephone company to remove from the company's old building, on North Fifth street, to the new telephone building on North Ninth street, on or before the 15th of this month. The ground floor of the new building, where the offices will be located, is practically ready for occupancy, and the telephone company desires to have the offices all moved as soon as possible so that this task will be out of the way before the actual work of "cutting together" the two telephone exchanges in this city begins.

The company's news offices will be very handsome. The woodwork is all of mahogany finish, seven private offices being partitioned off on the floor, leaving a very large, well lighted room along the south side of the building, which will be occupied by the commercial and auditing departments. The public lobby, also on this floor, has a tiled floor and marble wainscoting, and ample arrangements are made for the convenience of those calling to transact business. Where the floor is of cement, it will be covered with cork carpet. Public telephone booths are also on this floor, opening off from the lobby.

The installation work on the upper floors goes on steadily, the big "main frame" and the other apparatus, which is being put up by representatives from the Garford factory in Ohio, is growing steadily. The underground cables from downtown are all in and connected up, and the many wiring connections necessary are being made. Officials of the company are very well pleased with the progress that is being made, realizing that this is the slowest part of the work, that must be done with great care to avoid a future "mix-up" in the service.

The upper floors and the basement are practically finished, excepting the painting of some of the walls and the finishing of a small amount of woodwork. The roof garden is finished, and large boxes of soil, with flowers and shrubbery, are ready to be placed there; the telephone company had flowers planted for this purpose some time ago, all ready to transplant when the time comes.

The state fire insurance commission has just published the extremely low fire insurance rate of 16c on the $100 on the new telephone building, proving that the character of its construction is very much above the average. The company has been informed that this is as low an insurance rate as is quoted on any building in Waco, there being, it is said, only one other building rated so cheaply. The telephone company expects to reduce even this low rate when it occupies the building, by the installation of approved fire extinguishers throughout the same.

Every department of the Texas Telephone company has been working at high pressure lately, to get as much done as is possible toward the consolidation, before the actual work must take place. Special representatives have been at work for several weeks, checking up the telephones in service, and making up the consolidated directory of subscribers, which must be ready and delivered to all subscribers when the merged plant goes into service. The detail of the work is enormous, as is shown in a way by an estimate recently made by Chief Engineer Will Green to the effect that there will be more than 2,000,000 soldered connections of wires made in the new apparatus and switchboard before the same is ready for use.

A large force of men is at work constantly in the new building, and electric light connections have been made so that the work can be carried on both day and night. There will be no cessation of the installation work from now on, until the two telephone exchanges in Waco are actually consolidated, and every telephone in the city is working from the one merged exchange.

MISS FRANCES HAYS

Charming leader of Waco's younger social set who will represent this city as duchess in the Fiesta San Jacinto and Battle of Flowers at San Antonio at the elaborate coronation festivity on April 27. Representatives from cities all over Texas will participate in the gay program. Miss Hays will be accompanied by Mr. Holt Massey, as Duke of Waco.

MISS ETHEL FOSTER

Popular young society girl of this city who has been selected as maid of honor for the Fiesta San Jacinto at the Alamo City. Representation in the festival of pleasure-loving San Antonio's annual Battle of Flowers is a coveted social honor in the state.

Special to the Morning News.

San Antonio, Tex., April 1.—After a meeting of the Out-of-town Court Committee of the Order of the Alamo, held this afternoon, it was announced that the following Waco young ladies had beeen selected to represent this city at the coronation of the queen of the fiesta, which will take place here Thursday, April 27: Miss Frances Hays, duchess of Waco, and Miss Ethel Foster, maid of honor. Both young women are very popular in the social annals of Waco.

In the annual Fiesta San Jacinto, the biggest "society" feature of the week is always the coronation of the queen and her reception of duchesses representing San Antonio and the principal cities.

This event, which takes place on Thursday night, the evening of April 27 during Fiesta Week, at the Majestic theatre, is staged by the Order of the Alamo, an organization of young men that exists for this purpose. The election of a queen and her court is entirely in their hands, and the identity of the queen is always kept a secret until the night of the coronation. The names of the duchesses and their attendants, however, are announced several weeks before the carnival.

These duchesses are always beautiful girls of the younger social set and each is attended by a maid of honor, and usually also by a duke and esquire.

On the night of the coronation, which is public in the sense that the public may purchase tickets, the ceremonies are beautiful and impressive, being almost as formal and beautiful as an actual coronation. There are court attendants, royal proclamations, trumpet calls to signal the entrance of each duchess as she is presented at the court, and all the medieval trappings of a royal levee.

The queen's coronation for 1916 will be more elaborate than ever before. The idea of stage settings, decorations and costumes this year is that the queen is a queen of the fairies. A special stage setting, quite on a par with fairyland settings in any New York theatrical production, has been designed and especially painted by Artist Herbert Barnard, and costumes and accessories will be in harmony with it.

On Frday afternoon is held the annual floral parade and "Battle of Flowers" in front of the Alamo, and in this parade the queen and all her court will ride in beautiful floral chariots, each representing a different flower.

DISTINGUISHED MAN OF KNIGHTS PYTHIAS IS DUE HERE FRIDAY

Cowan Lodge, Knights of Pythias, have been notified by Hon. Henry E. Ellis, grand chancellor of the order in Texas, that the lodge will be officially visited on Friday night, April 7, by the supreme chancellor of the order, Hon. Brigadier S. Young of Ada, Ohio. Grand Chancellor Ellis and other grand officers will also be present.

In view of this the Waco lodge is sending out to all lodges in Central Texas the following letter:

"Cowan lodge No. 77 will have the honor of an official visit on Friday night, April 7, from Supreme Chancellor Brigadier S. Young, accompanied by Grand Chancellor Henry E. Ellis and other grand officers. It is our desire to make this visit a memorable occasion hence we not only cordially invite but urge you to be present. A program replete with interest and for "the good of the order" will be given.

Dr. J. F. Bailey, D. D. G. C., for the sixteenth Pythian district, has called a "district meeting" for the same occasion.

"Kindly read this to your lodge and should you not hold a meeting prior to Friday night, please tell your members of this and make up a goodly crowd to visit us. The train schedules not to mention autos, make it easy for you to come to Waco."

Supreme Chancellor Young has quite an extended acquaintance throughout Texas, in fact, could almost be called a Texan, having in the past had large business interests in the state in connection with Independent Telephone lines, in looking after which he spent much of his time in Paris, Tyler, Beaumont and Houston. He is a distinguished citizen and educator of the state of Ohio, having been professor of chemistry in the North Ohio university, and the Waco Pythians are to be congratulated upon his selecting their city as one of the very few places in Texas that he will visit while in the state.

At the regular meeting of Cowan lodge next Monday night, committees will be named and a suitable program outlined.

Merging Details Are Being Carried on Under High Speed and Soon to Be Finished.

Arrangements are being made by the clerical and office departments of the Texas Telephone company to remove from the company's old building, on North Fifth street, to the new telephone building on North Ninth street, on or before the 15th of this month. The ground floor of the new building, where the offices will be located, is practically ready for occupancy, and the telephone company desires to have the offices all moved as soon as possible so that this task will be out of the way before the actual work of "cutting together" the two telephone exchanges in this city begins.

The company's news offices will be very handsome. The woodwork is all of mahogany finish, seven private offices being partitioned off on the floor, leaving a very large, well lighted room along the south side of the building, which will be occupied by the commercial and auditing departments. The public lobby, also on this floor, has a tiled floor and marble wainscoting, and ample arrangements are made for the convenience of those calling to transact business. Where the floor is of cement, it will be covered with cork carpet. Public telephone booths are also on this floor, opening off from the lobby.

The installation work on the upper floors goes on steadily, the big "main frame" and the other apparatus, which is being put up by representatives from the Garford factory in Ohio, is growing steadily. Y.W.C.A. HEADQUARTERS FOR CAMPAIGN CHOSEN

MISS MILDRED CORBETT, FIELD SECRETARY, WILL BE IN CHARGE.

From First National Bank Headquarters Women Will Wage Campaign Over City.

Parlors of the First National bank were secured yesterday as the headquarters for the campaign to secure members for the Young Women's Christian association which will be organized here. As Miss Mildred Corbett, southwestern field organizer for the Young Women's Christian associations with headquarters at Dallas, has already arrived here in interest of the campaign, the headquarters will be opened tomorrow.

Announcement was made yesterday by Mrs. Bolivar Nettles, a member of the provisional committee, that the committee was making extensive plans to carry on the campaign. Next Sunday at the First Baptist church a big mass meeting will be held and an effort will be made to have as many local women and girls as possible to attend. At this meeting the plans for the campaign will be outlined and the week following will be spent in getting members for the association.

As soon as the membership campaign is brought to an end a meeting will be held, officers elected and a board of directors chosen, a secretary employed and headquarters for the association secured. Mrs. Charles Boynton and Mrs. Edward Rotan will lead the campaign for members.

Miss Corbett stated yesterday that she was very much pleased with the interest that had thus far been manifested in the proposed association and that she believed the citizens would respond eagerly in helping with the project. She said that Waco was the largest city in Texas that was not represented by a Young Women's Christian association and that an organization of this kind here should be of unlimited value to the city and its girls and women.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES OF WACO ARE REELECTED FOR ANOTHER TERM

By a substantial majority the members of the city school board of trustees were re-elected yesterday. The three members for re-election carried every ward, with the exception of the Third ward, where E. L. Duke, the new man in the race for a place on the board, got third place. Total ballots cast were as follows: W. E. Darden 387, J. J. Powers 447, W. W. Woodson 449 and E. L. Duke 188. The total ballots case was 527, which is considered a fair vote for a trustee election.

The vote by wards in the city follows:

	Wards
	1.	2.	3.	4.	5.	6.
Darden	46	151	67	28	55	40
Powers	56	162	104	32	45	48
Woodson	56	166	96	32	52	47
Duke	15	39	73	12	30	19
Total vote...	61	179	129	38	67	53

W. E. Darden, president of the school board of Waco, was appointed as a member of the board in 1909 to fill out the term of Maj. J. S. McLendon, who died that year; he has been elected each second year since that time, and was chosen as president of the school board in 1914.

J. J. Powers was elected a member of the board at the regular election held in 1914, and has served since that time.

W. W. Woodson was first elected in May, 1914, but resigned in August of the same year when the bank with which he was connected was made the depository for the school fund. He was elected by the board again in January, 1916, to fill out the unexpired term of E. C. Street, who resigned to enter the race for district judge.

These gentlemen have all rendered conspicuous service in the positions to which they were elected.

Elaborate Program for Commencement Paul Quinn College

Commencement exercises of the Paul Quinn college will begin Thursday, April 13, and will last one week. On the night of April 13 the annual musical will be held and on the night of April 18 the annual concert will be given. The later feature will be one of the principal events of the commencement week and will be given at the Majestic theatre.

The final graduating exercises will be held at the college on the night of April 20.

White Way Committee Will Meet This Week

A meeting of the committee in charge of the white way project will be held about the middle of the week. It is believed that the white way can be installed at a cost of approximately $6,000. E. F. Copley, city electrician, and Frederic L. Booth, manager of the Texas Power and Light company, two of the members of the committee that is planning for the white way, made a trip to Dallas Thursday, at which time they investigated the cost of operation and other details of the white way of that city. Reports of this trip will be made when the committee is called together.

Incandescent globes will be installed in the Waco white way as it is estimated to be cheaper than the arc lights.

Playing War Game Ends in Instant Death of Youngster

"Let's play like we are fighting, and see which one could kill the other one first if we really did have a fight," were the words which were spoken near the Tehuacana bridge about three miles east of Waco on the Springfield road at 4:30 yesterday afternoon and they were fateful words for Louis Ballo, an Italian boy aged 18 years, who was instantly thereafter shot to death by a companion, Paul Butcovalo, the weapon used being a shotgun.

There were three boys in the bunch, the other being Sam Butcovalo, a brother of the boy who did the shooting. Paul is 16 years old and Sam is 14, and the shooting is stated to have been accidental, everything indicating that this was the case.

Sheriff S. S. Fleming was notified of the shooting within a few minutes by Will Brinegar, and at once went to the spot accompanied by Justice J. J. Padgett and Deputy Joe Roberts. On arriving they found Will Brinegar with the boys, and the spot where the shooting occurred was about three hundred yards this side of the bridge. The body of the boy was still there. He was killed instantly by the load of birdshot in the gun, as he was not more than eight or ten feet from Paul when the shot was fired. All the boys are the sons of Italians living in that section, the boy who was killed having lived on the Frank Coates place near the scene of the accident, with his father. Balello was shot in the right breast and died instantly.

According to the statement made by the Butcovalo boys, and which Sheriff Fleming is sure is correct, the boys had been out hunting and had stopped at the bridge to rest; after resting a few minutes they walked on about three hundred yards, Louis Ballo carrying his 22 caliber target rifle and Paul Butcovalo the shotgun. One of the boys proposed that they see which could shoot the other first if they really had their guns loaded, all three thinking the guns were empty. With the remark that he could shoot first, Paul snapped the shotgun at Louis, and to his horror a deafening report rang out, his companion dropping dead in front of him. When the officers reached the scene the dead boy was lying with his target rifle close to him, the rifle being cocked but empty, bearing out the statement of the other two boys that the incident was an accident.

Paul and Sam Butcovalo were brought in by Deputy Sheriff Joe Roberts and Frank Coates. They were turned over to County Probation Officer E. E. Ingram temporarily.

IN THE WACO CHURCHES

Religious Services in the City Today

Fifth Street Methodist.

The revival services will begin this morning at the Fifth Street Methodist church. The pastor, John R. Morris, will do the preaching and W. M. Borden will conduct the music. Morning topic today, "An Expensive Meeting;" evening topic, "Judgment Begins at Home." Miss Foscue will sing "Dream of Paradise" at the 11 o'clock service. The services in this old church should be of peculiar interest to many Wacoans and all are cordially invited to attend.

Scandinavian Methodist.

English services will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. J. Hamilton, Sunday night at the Scandinavian Methodist church, corner North Tenth and Vermont street. Take North Ninth car.

"A man who went to sleep amidst grave dangers" will be the subject for the evening sermon. Come and hear this pastor, who is an interesting evangelistic speaker.

Pastor Hamilton, who is district superintendent of the Southern Swedish Mission conference, will be in Taylor Sunday morning, hence there will be no morning services.

Sunday school meets regularly at 10 o'clock in the morning. C. A. Ryden, superintendent.

"Hundramannaforeningen" will have their regular meeting Friday night at the home of Charles Forsberg and all members of this "Hundred Men society" are urged to be present.

This church extends a cordial invitation to you to attend all its services and members and friends of the congregation will welcome you.

Columbus Street Baptist.

Dr. A. J. Barton will fill the pulpit at this church at the 11 a. m. service. The choir will sing a special number, "Rejoice in the Lord," by Ashford, at this service. The pastor, Rev. F. S. Groner, will preach at the evening service, which begins promptly at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Byars will sing.

Everyone cordially invited to these services.

W. P. Meroney, pastor.

The pastor will preach this morning at 11 o'clock on "The Christian's Life." This will be a message for the new convert. The hand of church fellowship will be given those received in the recent meeting. The pastor will preach again at the evening hour, his subject being, "The Anchored Soul." Sunday school meets at 9:45 a. m.

Provident Heights Baptist.

Provident Heights church has its usual services today. Sunday school 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and at 8 p. m. B. Y. P. U. at 7 p. m. Congregational singing. A class for everyone. Rev. H. H. Street is pastor.

Rev. W. P. Wetzel, rector.

Central Christian.

Eleventh and Washington.

The Bible School plans to have present at 9:30 o'clock this morning, 325 students.

At 10:45 a. m. the pastor will give the second study of "The Sermon on the Mount."

At 8 p. m. there will be a special service for young men, addressed by Prof. C. O. Calloway of the high school, A. Flowers of the Y. M. C. A. and Don Kelley. There will be special music for the occasion. Everybody is welcome.

Central Presbyterian.

"Who Would you Help if You Had Money?" will be the subject of Rev. E. E. Ingram's sermon at the night service. This interesting question was once asked by a little girl in all seriousness. The answer was touching and pathetic. There is something in this question for all of us. At the morning hour, Jesse Wilson, student secretary for the Y. M. C. A., will be the speaker. Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.; Christian Endeavor at 7 p. m.

Use "Tiz" for Tender, Puffed-up, Burning, Calloused Feet and Corns.

People who are forced to stand on their feet all day know what sore, tender, sweaty, burning feet mean. They use "Tiz," and "Tiz" cures their feet right up. It keeps feet in perfect condition. "Tiz" is the only remedy in the world that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet and cause tender, sore, tired, aching feet. It instantly stops the pain in corns, callouses and bunions. It's simply glorious. Ah! how comfortable your feet feel after using "Tiz." You'll never limp or draw up your face in pain. Your shoes won't tighten and hurt your feet.

Y. W. C. A. HEADQUARTERS FOR CAMPAIGN CHOSEN

MISS MILDRED CORBETT, FIELD SECRETARY, WILL BE IN CHARGE.

From First National Bank Headquarters Women Will Wage Campaign Over City.

Parlors of the First National bank were secured yesterday as the headquarters for the campaign to secure members for the Young Women's Christian association which will be organized here. As Miss Mildred Corbett, southwestern field organizer for the Young Women's Christian associations with headquarters at Dallas, has already arrived here in interest of the campaign, the headquarters will be opened tomorrow.

Announcement was made yesterday by Mrs. Bolivar Nettles, a member of the provisional committee, that the committee was making extensive plans to carry on the campaign. Next Sunday at the First Baptist church a big mass meeting will be held and an effort will be made to have as many local women and girls as possible to attend. At this meeting the plans for the campaign will be outlined and the week following will be spent in getting members for the association.

As soon as the membership campaign is brought to an end a meeting will be held, officers elected and a board of directors chosen, a secretary employed and headquarters for the association secured. Mrs. Charles Boynton and Mrs. Edward Rotan will lead the campaign for members.

Miss Corbett stated yesterday that she was very much pleased with the interest that had thus far been manifested in the proposed association and that she believed the citizens would respond eagerly in helping with the project. She said that Waco was the largest city in Texas that was not represented by a Young Women's Christian association and that an organization of this kind here should be of unlimited value to the city and its girls and women.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES OF WACO ARE REELECTED FOR ANOTHER TERM

By a substantial majority the members of the city school board of trustees were re-elected yesterday. The three members for re-election carried every ward, with the exception of the Third ward, where E. L. Duke, the new man in the race for a place on the board, got third place. Total ballots cast were as follows: W. E. Darden 387, J. J. Powers 447, W. W. Woodson 449 and E. L. Duke 188. The total ballots case was 527, which is considered a fair vote for a trustee election.

The vote by wards in the city follows:

	Wards
	1.	2.	3.	4.	5.	6.
Darden	46	151	67	28	55	40
Powers	56	162	104	32	45	48
Woodson	56	166	96	32	52	47
Duke	15	39	73	12	30	19
Total vote...	61	179	129	38	67	53

W. E. Darden, president of the school board of Waco, was appointed as a member of the board in 1909 to fill out the term of Maj. J. S. McLendon, who died that year; he has been elected each second year since that time, and was chosen as president of the school board in 1914.

J. J. Powers was elected a member of the board at the regular election held in 1914, and has served since that time.

W. W. Woodson was first elected in May, 1914, but resigned in August of the same year when the bank with which he was connected was made the depository for the school fund. He was elected by the board again in January, 1916, to fill out the unexpired term of E. C. Street, who resigned to enter the race for district judge.

These gentlemen have all rendered conspicuous service in the positions to which they were elected.

Y. M. C. A. HIGH SCHOOL CLUBS PLAN PROGRAMS

BOTH CLUBS OF HIGH SCHOOL BOYS WILL OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY.

Prominent Y Secretary Will Be on the Speakers' Program Next Friday Night.

The boys' cabinet of the local Y. M. C. A. in its monthly meeting Friday night, discussed the plans for the third anniversary of the High School club, which is to be held this week, the one for the older boys will be the third aniversary, the one for the younger boys the first. T. W. Currie of Austin and John L. Hunter of Dallas, two of the leading Y. M. C. A. secretaries of Texas, will be the principal speakers.

The monthly report of the activities of the boys' department has been read and discussed. This showed that there are in the different activities of the department about 700 boys.

The members of the boys' cabinet thought it would be better the coming summer to have two camps, one for the younger boys and one for the older boys and that the best time for the camp would be as soon as school is out. The place for the camp will be decided at the next monthly meeting of the cabinet.

The Working Boys' Sunday school will meet today at the Y. M. C. A. at 2 p. m. There are only two more Sundays in which the boys can partielpate in the contest which has been going on for the past two months. All working boys and boys who do not attend any other Sunday school in the city are welcome to visit this class and become members.

In addition to the lesson a short musical program has been arranged by Miss Griswold, the pianist of the Sunday school.

There are twenty-six museums of safety and institutes for the study of industrial hygiene in the wrold, twenty-two in Europe, three in the United States and one in Canada.

The trees and shrubs which produce some sort of rubber are said to grow in a narrow belt round the world, within five degrees north and south of the equator.

Lampasas County Is Diversifying With Splendid Results

McLennan county farmers who have been studying diversification and trying to practice it in order to get away from the all-cotton practice, give their experience as in the main satisfactory, though it is claimed that real diversification has not been forced on their attention as it has on the minds of some of the farmers in the counties having thinner lands.

A recent Waco visitor to Lampasas and Burnet counties states that sure-enough diversification is practiced in these counties, and that the people there do not worry much over a drouth now, as when they fail on one crop they make it upon another, or from the livestock, poultry, wool, mountain cedar, pecan or some other phase of activity and revenue production.

The town of Lampasas handled last year, according to dependable figures, $100,000 worth of fine turkeys alone, while vast quantities of chickens and eggs also passed through this market, to say nothing of other products. The farmers nearly all raise good gardens, have their own bees and as they always have plenty of chickens, eggs, hogs, fruit and milch cows, besides raising their own bread, they really live at home; this applies to the whole tier of counties adjoining Lampasas, and the people are declared to be doing better, man for man, than in almost any other section of Texas, because they are forced by conditions to actually diversify.

Miss A. Huthmacher, buyer for the Sanger Brothers' Millinery department, returned yesterday from New York City, where she has been for the past two weeks on the second buying trip of the season. The first achievement of her trip appears in the millinery section of the Sanger advertising today in the special trimmed hat sale for tomorrow. Over 300 of the latest Easter hats are to be offered in this sale.

Miss Huthmacher stated yesterday that the new millinery for Easter will rival the immense displays shown a month ago at the formal Sanger opening and fashion show. Every style is new and distinctly original in its conception, said Miss Huthmacher. She also stated that she is anticipating a record breaking Easter business and had provided the new styles accordingly. In the Sanger millinery department there are no two hats alike—in fact, no two that are similar—and this is a feature that appeals stpongly to fashionable women who desire exclusiveness and individuality in their headwear.

Mr. Fromm of the Sanger ladies, misses and children's apparel departments is expected back the last of the week. Advices from him are to the effect that he is buying large numbers of exclusive styles in dresses, costumes, skirts, waists, etc. The second floor will in the next few days present almost entirely new stocks for the Easter business said one of the department managers at the Sanger store yesterday. This condition speaks well for the spring business enjoyed by the Sanger store, for it is only a month ago that stocks were formally displayed for the opening of the spring season and in less than thirty days the buyers returned to market and the stocks are practically new again.

Department of Insurance and Banking, State of Texas. No. 207. Austin, Texas, March 23d, 1916. To All Whom It May Concern: This is to certify that the Southern Union Life Insurance company of Waco, Texas, has in all respects fully complied with the laws of Texas as conditions precedent to its doing business in this state for the year ending the 28th day of February, 1917. Given under my hand and seal of office at Austin, Texas, the date first above written. (Seal). John S. Patterson, Commissioner.

Air Brakes Being Installed on All City Street Cars

That five cars, fully equipped with air brakes, are now in service for the Southern Traction company here, and that another will go into service either today or tomorrow, with others to follow at the rate of about one each week, is the information secured yesterday from Superintendent H. B. Ross.

The cars at present in service are on the Provident Heights line, but other lines will be supplied as fast as the cars are equipped, and they are being worked on constantly in this connection, the intention being to supply all lines as fast as the air brake equipment can be placed on the cars.

New men are being taught to run the cars with the air brakes as fast as they come out and will go into the hands of motormen who will be experienced in their management and manipulation.

Dress the Home Up for Spring With the Best at Prices That Are Lower

The best is the most economical in the end, when it comes to Rugs, Linoleums, Draperies, Shades, Porch Furniture, etc. You buy these things for service, year in and year out, and quality and reliability should be the first consideration. Consider well the quality of Sanger Rugs, Draperies, Shades, Linoleums, etc., and then, if you like, compare. You'll find that Sanger prices on this basis are decidedly lower and that our qualities are far better. We are offering many special values for this week. WACO NEEDS MORE FLOWER GARDENS

WHILE CITY IS BEAUTIFUL IT CAN EASILY BE MADE MORE SO WITH LITTLE EFFORT.

BLOCK SOCIETIES SUGGESTED

To the Waco Morning News:

When the first faint stirrings of Nature are felt rather than seen in the early spring, there is scarcely one person that does not look for the budding of the trees and the first flower. It is not everyone who will express the feeling or even mention the fact that this has made any impression whatever, but if any number of apparently indifferent people are questioned it is doubtful if one could be found who had not noticed some little thing in nature that marked the change from winter to spring. Waco has not a street without trees of some variety and on most of them there are flowers, either volunteers from last year, perennials which stand the drouth of summer and the sudden changes in temperature in the winter, wild flowers whose seed drift in from the prairies and find temporary footing at the edge of sidewalk or building, or in the well-kept yards of cottages and more pretentious residences. Still, are there enough flowers? Never. The florists even cannot fill orders, no matter how many plants and cut flowers they have on hand or order from out of town. They, of course, naturally cater to established trade. They know their customers, know which flowers are suitable for certain occasions, and learn to feel the tendency of certain vogues in flowers, and no matter how many flowers are raised by amateurs, there always will be a demand for commercial floriculture.

FLOWERS NEEDED FOR HOME CONSUMPTION.

But how many homes have flowers from their own little gardens, window boxes or potted plants for the breakfast or dinner table the year around? This is where the plea comes in to plant more flowers. To a true lover of flowers, a single flower gives much joy; an armful of flowers gives positive ecstacy. And the true lover of flowers with the armful of flowers immediately plans to divide his bounty with children in the neighborhood, a sick stranger at the hospital or a shut-in over on the next street.

There is a pretty custom among the ladies of Waco in sending to the hostess of a party to which she has been invited flowers galore sometimes, again a single choice or rare blossom. Oftentimes at a large affair the hostess compliments her receiving party with corsage bouquets. In fact, there is scarcely an entertainment of any kind in the planning of which flowers are left off the list of things necessary. If that item has to be cut out or curtailed, there is a little pang of regret. So, no matter how many flowers you have in your yard, plant more. They are needed and wanted somewhere by somebody.

"Intensive cultivation" is just as possible in a Waco flower garden as it is on a Brazos valley farm; "inter-cropping"—which is, properly translated, planting more rapidly growing crops between fruit or nut trees—is as interesting and profitable in the back yard as when tried out in an East Side orchard. There should be flower and garden seed catalogues on the magazine table in every house. It is a part of the real culture of every man and woman to have at least a speaking acquaintance with the commoner sorts of flowers. We can leave to the botanist and professional florist the ability to call every flower by what Mark Twain called "its college name," though by a little reading and attention it is possible to learn that when japonica is attached to the name of a plant it was introduced from Japan; chinesis means that China was the original home; alba is the white variety; rubra, the red; radicans, the running; giganteus, the large. A primrose is just a primrose, a rose is simply a rose and they should perhaps be kept by "the river's brim" and in the garden soil where they are supposed by the unimaginative to belong, but they have been noted by some of the finest minds the world has ever produced and they, with all the company of other sweet and gay companions, have crept into the world's most beautiful songs and stories.

If you have not enough flowers to cut and give away quantities, you can have a few for the tiny nosegay. Take a few simple flowers, a bit of greenery, tie them with a ribbon, or slip into a lace paper holder, take them to the dear old lady in your block, and if you do not receive in return the sweetest smile you will see that day, then all previous experiences count for nothin. Put a rose into the hand of a baby and there will be a look of wonder and at least a tiny pause before its possible destruction by curious little fingers, or complete obliteration in the baby's mouth. But you will have caught that momentary look of wonder that is worth worlds to see.

FLOWERS HAVE EDUCATIONAL VALUE.

How is a boy to know the meaning of "the white flower of a stainless life" if he has never held in his hand and looked down into the golden heart of a lily, seen the delicate purity of the white petals? How is a little girl to know she must always be "as sweet as a rose" if she has never found a bowl of roses on her own little dressing table when she comes home from school? Little children naturally love flowers. They get the red of their cheeks and lips from the roses; the blue and brown of their eyes from the violets and pansies, the golden glints of their hair from the sunshine. Why should they be allowed to outgrow their natural tendency? Why should they not have flowers "to take to the teacher?" Money is given them to buy candy and skates, bats and balls; why should they not be allowed something for a set of light but good garden tools, a garden line and some plants and seed?

A Waco boy won a prize recently in the state contest, though the space used for his garden was only a few square feet. At the public library can be found all the most reliable magazines treating of small gardens and back yards, in which valuable suggestions can be found, and what is even better, photographs of what has actually been accomplished. As a matter of fact, if you only know where to look, or will take the trouble to look, you can find examples of wonderful transformations right here at home, and now that there is a new awakening of civic improvement and a prospective flower garden contest on, there should be no difficulty in getting any amount of help and advice. There is one thing about gardening, whether flowers or vegetables are specialized in, the gardener is usually most generous with helpful advice and often with a division of extra plants and seed. There should never be a needless waste of extra plants. It is shocking to hear anyone say: "Oh, I just had so many Shasta daisies I threw them away." In the first place the price of every Shasta daisy plant that is sold by catalogue is 10 cents, so it is a matter of extravagance to "throw them away." More particularly, there is surely somebody in the neighborhood who would enjoy having them. They are hardy as well as attractive and keep well when cut.

BLOCK SOCIETIES AFFORD ADVANTAGES.

In some cities there are block societies. All the neighbors in the space bounded by four streets join in purchasing plants and seed. If they have a little fund, they engage a landscape architect or at least seek the advice of someone who understands making the most of natural advantages or can overcome obstacles. If no fund is available the most experienced amateur in the block is selected to make suggestions. It is not necessary to suppress individuality in the planting, or to have set rules, but let every housekeeper try to adjust his or her own ideas to harmonize with others. There could be an exchange of plants and shrubs, so that if one wants to have a variety, that can be accomplished; or if certain masses of one flower is preferred, that idea can be carried out.

Sometimes an otherwise beautiful block is marred in the eyes of the passer-by when there is a break in the uniformity of the planting of shrubs or trees. That could have been avoided if there had been some sort of supervision or understanding among the owners of the various yards. That of course applies to the planting near the street, as the massing and grouping of plants near the house has more latitude.

However it may be done and wherever it is done, plant more flowers. Do not think it is too late because you have been busy with other affairs and you see flowers blooming. Successful planting and transplanting can be done every month in the year. If you do not believe this, look up a gardener's calendar in some of the garden magazines. Whatever you do, "don't wait—do something."

TEXAS TRAVELERS HOLD MEETING THIS MORNING

Organization Now Has Nearly 200 Members—Considering New Plans.

The Texas Travelers will hold their first meeting of the month this morning at 9:30 at the Metropole hotel, and while there are many matters to come before the association the knights of the grip are used to transacting business on the dot and getting through promptly, so that other engagements for the morning can be met.

The newly selected officers, including Father P. A. Heckman of Temple, the chaplain, and Dr. S. C. Gage the surgeon, have been invited to be on hand. The orator of the Texas Travelers, C. K. Wiel, who has just passed his eightieth birthday, but still in his prime, has never missed a meeting and is booked for a short address.

New members are rolling in. The organization now numbers nearly 200, has a neat bank account and has done some splendid work in a boosting and benevolent way. Members are enrolled from all parts of Texas and from many outside states. President J. S. McClintock and others of the Texas Travelers are in favor of inaugurating a death benefit when the association gets stronger and this idea seems to be meeting with general favor.

The matter of a permanent meeting place is receiving considerable attention at the hands of the members at this time, several very flattering offers having been made to the trade evangels for their comfort and convenience.

PUPILS OF MISS ZUMA WALLACE IN RECITAL

On Saturday afternoon, March 25, Miss Zuma Wallace presented pupils in program of piano and voice numbers. Those who gave piano numbers were Inez Ingram, Frances Barnes, Gordon Hill, Francis Wallace, Mildred Cheek, Ida May Linke, Bernard Ginsberg, Misses Ella Darbritz, Ruth Levinski, Lillian Starr, Helen Goodman, Helen Owen and Edith Adelman. Voice numbers were given by Misses Ella Darbritz, Helen Goodman, Annie Mullen, Marjorie Kendrick, Jewell Wortham, Helen Owen, Mrs. M. T. Bell, Messrs. Marshall Thompson and O. N. Redman. After the students' program, Prof. Anton Navratil, violinist, of Baylor university, complimented the pupils by playing the Andante from the Mendelssohn Concerto, Cradle Song, by Hanser, and by special request, Dvorak's Humoresque, all of which were exquisitely played. The rooms were crowded with parents and friends, all of whom expressed themselves delighted with the program.

PUPILS OF F. ARTHUR JOHNSON IN RECITAL

On Friday and Saturday afternoons, March 24 and 25, two excellent programs were given by pupils of Prof. F. Arthur Johnson, in his studios on North Eighth street. The rooms were crowded with guests who enjoyed the unusually good playing of these young students. Mr. Johnson's work is always characterized by thoroughness and solid training, and he has a large and enthusiastic class of interested pupils. These recitals are the beginning of a series of spring recitals, which will be given. Those who took part in these programs are Misses Fay Davidson, Nellie Williamson, Thelma Novich, Josephine Monte, Sadie Adams, Beatrice Davis, Nera Elkins, Pauline Thielan, Emma Mann, Irene Guy, Blanche Best, Ruth Wallace, Belle Goldberg, Sadie Novich, Mary Willett, Rurabelle Jones, Katherine Fitzhugh, Wilma Schoffer, Fay Parker, Helen Mayfield, Joy Tartar, Wilma Friedsam, Ouida Vaughan, Anne Trautvetter, Eva Adam, Ola Smith, Jeffie Mann, Alma Murphy, Marie Blocker, Lucille Puett, Murtel Steger, Ellie Isbell, Velma Smathers, Hallie Seawell, Bernice Clark, Nell Orand, Masters Thomas and George Wolf and Messrs. Ben Werkenthin, Josef O. Berlowitz and Evison Stafford.

JUNIOR EUTERPEANS TO HOLD OPEN MEETING

On Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock the Junior Euterpean club, directed by Mrs. Virginia Ryan, will present to the public an interesting program. Besides a piano quartette, played by Misses Margaret Duncan, Louise Womack, Helen Board and Mary Wilson, there will be piano numbers by Misses Beth Skinner, Lucy Standifer, Flora Phillips, Helen Crawley, Shirley Gage, Irene Bruck, Lois Herz, Master Bernard Ginsberg, a voice number by Helen Goodman and report of the club by Francis Wallace. A large audience should greet these young students and encourage them in their good work.

PROF. HOFFMANN TO GIVE COMPLIMENTARY RECITAL

It has been some time since Prof. Rudolf Hoffmann of Baylor university has given a complete program of piano music, his proficiency in organ causing him to divide his time between the two instruments. However, an excellent program has been prepared from the works of Beethoven, Rameau, Corelli, Schubert, Mendelssohn and Brahms, besides a number of modern compositions, which Mr. Hoffmann will present complimentary to the Baylor Round Table at Carroll chapel on Monday evening, April 10, at 8:30 o'clock. Mr. John De Heck, tenor, will sing some songs from modern composers. The public is invited.

FAMOUS INDIVIDUALS IN THE PHILHARMONIC ORCHESTRA

To its audience a symphony orchestra usually presents a heterogeneous mass of men and instruments, presided over by a conductor who plays upon the whole as though it were one great instrument. Little attention is paid to any single player, yet the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, which will be heard here on May 3, boasts a number of celebrated performers on all instruments.

Take, first of all, the concertmeister, who is, next to the conductor himself, the most important member of a symphony orchestra, being the leader of the various choirs in general and of the body of strings in particular—the member of the whole upon whom the conductor plays most directly. It is noteworthy that the Philharnomic, the oldest musical organization in America, has for its concertmeister, Maximilian Pilzer, who is one of the youngest musicians of note in this country. Mr. Pilzer studied here and abroad under Joachim, and made his professional debut while still in "knickers." Today, at the age of twenty-five, he is in his second season as concertmeister of one of the foremost musical organizations in the world.

Another very important member of the Philharmonic forces is Leo Schulz, who is one of the best known solo 'cellists before the world today, and who has for several years held the post of first 'cellist in this orchestra. Mr. Schulz was educated at the Royal Academy in Berlin, and at the age of fifteen was invited to play before the royal family. He has a wide reputation as a soloist, as well as an orchestral musician, and is a composer of note.

Many of the members are known as the foremost masters of their respective instruments that are known today. This is especially true of Mr. J. J. Kovarik, who leads the body of violas, and Mr. Xavier Reiter, who is the most celebrated player on the French horn in the world.

Few symphony orchestras can boast half a dozen composers of ability within their ranks. Aside from Mr. Stransky, the eminent conductor, who is a composer of note, the Philharmonic includes within its personnel several composers of more than usual ability. Mr. Schulz has already been mentioned; he has written a great deal for his instrument, and has also composed orchestral works which have been performed by the Philharmonic society and by famous orchestras in Europe. Among the first violins, Mr. Bruck and Mr. Stahlberg, the assistant conductor, have had orchestral works played not only by the Philharmonic but by other orchestras, and Mr. Lucella, who plays one of the flutes, has also received recognition. Mr. Charles Gilbert Sposs, who is the organist of the Philharmonic, has achieved international reputation as a composer of songs.

TOM A. MAYBERRY.

The announcement of Tom A. Mayberry as a candidate for public weigher of precincts 1 and 4 appears in the Morning News today. Mr. Mayberry has been induced to offer for the place as a result of earnest solicitation made to him by his host of friends throughout McLennan county, especially in the two precincts above named.

For twelve years Mr. Mayberry has been a resident of Waco, and for seven years he was assistant weigher. One season he served under Mr. Sadler in East Waco, and for four years he was assistant to Bryant Allen. He was assistant to Sem Nix for two years, retiring about a year ago.

By experience and training Mr. Mayberry is well qualified for the position he seeks. In addition to his qualifications as a cotton weigher, Mr. Mayberry is an experienced cotton classer.

The many who have come in contact with Mr. Mayberry during the time he served as assistant weigher can testify as to his ability. He is a man who has been tried and never yet found wanting in any position to which he has aspired, and he has always conducted himself in such manner as won the approval and commendation of all. His work as assistant public weigher is above criticism, and he has been most courteous and efficient at all times.

The announcement that he would be a candidate for the office of public weigher of precincts 1 and 4 has given very great satisfaction to Mr. Mayberry's many friends, and they are predicting his election by a very substantial majority.—Political Advertisement.

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN FOR DYSPEPSIA, GAS, OR UPSET STOMACH

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly; ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, jot this down: Pape's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. "Pape's Diapepsin" is quick, positive and puts your stomach in healthy condition so the misery won't come back.

You feel different as soon as "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach gets sweet, no gases, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Go now, make the best investment you ever made, by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder. Don't be talked into something else "just as good." Get the genuine, no imitation.

MONEY TO LOAN TO BUILD HOMES

This company now offers loans on improved Waco residence property, and having operated throughout Texas for over 25 years, has assisted thousands in securing their own homes. The loans of this company are with a few exceptions, made on homes, either to build or to remove existing incumbrances. Many who have transferred their mortgages into this company find that they are now paying principle and interest as easily as they have heretofore paid the interest alone. The reason is plain: The payments are always the same and are due at fixed intervals. Every mortgage made by this company contains a clause providing for its discharge after a fixed number of payments have been made, unless sooner discharged through maturity. The mortgagor has the option to pay off his mortgage in full, or in part, at any time without having to pay any unearned interest. A loan from this company has to be adjusted but once. There is no annual uneasiness. Each month takes care of itself. The burden is easily distributed throughout the whole time. There is absolutely no delay in furnishing a loan through this company.

WACO NEEDS MORE FLOWER GARDENS

BLOCK SOCIETIES SUGGESTED

To the Waco Morning News:

When the first faint stirrings of Nature are felt rather than seen in the early spring, there is scarcely one person that does not look for the budding of the trees and the first flower. It is not everyone who will express the feeling or even mention the fact that this has made any impression whatever, but if any number of apparently indifferent people are questioned it is doubtful if one could be found who had not noticed some little thing in nature that marked the change from winter to spring. Waco has not a street without trees of some variety and on most of them there are flowers, either volunteers from last year, perennials which stand the drouth of summer and the sudden changes in temperature in the winter, wild flowers whose seed drift in from the prairies and find temporary footing at the edge of sidewalk or building, or in the well-kept yards of cottages and more pretentious residences. Still, are there enough flowers? Never. The florists even cannot fill orders, no matter how many plants and cut flowers they have on hand or order from out of town. They, of course, naturally cater to established trade. They know their customers, know which flowers are suitable for certain occasions, and learn to feel the tendency of certain vogues in flowers, and no matter how many flowers are raised by amateurs, there always will be a demand for commercial floriculture.

FLOWERS NEEDED FOR HOME CONSUMPTION.

But how many homes have flowers from their own little gardens, window boxes or potted plants for the breakfast or dinner table the year around? This is where the plea comes in to plant more flowers. To a true lover of flowers, a single flower gives much joy; an armful of flowers gives positive ecstacy. And the true lover of flowers with the armful of flowers immediately plans to divide his bounty with children in the neighborhood, a sick stranger at the hospital or a shut-in over on the next street.

There is a pretty custom among the ladies of Waco in sending to the hostess of a party to which she has been invited flowers galore sometimes, again a single choice or rare blossom. Oftentimes at a large affair the hostess compliments her receiving party with corsage bouquets. In fact, there is scarcely an entertainment of any kind in the planning of which flowers are left off the list of things necessary. If that item has to be cut out or curtailed, there is a little pang of regret. So, no matter how many flowers you have in your yard, plant more. They are needed and wanted somewhere by somebody.

"Intensive cultivation" is just as possible in a Waco flower garden as it is on a Brazos valley farm; "inter-cropgage" —which is, properly translated, planting more rapidly growing crops between fruit or nut trees—is as interesting and profitable in the back yard as when tried out in an East Side orchard. There should be flower and garden seed catalogues on the magazine table in every house. It is a part of the real culture of every man and woman to have at least a speaking acquaintance with the commoner sorts of flowers. We can leave to the botanist and professional florist the ability to call every flower by what Mark Twain called "its college name," though by a little reading and attention it is possible to learn that when japonica is attached to the name of a plant it was introduced from Japan; chinesis means that China was the original home; alba is the white variety; rubra, the red; radicans, the running; giganteus, the large. A primrose is just a primrose, a rose is simply a rose and they should perhaps be kept by "the river's brim" and in the garden soil where they are supposed by the unimaginative to belong, but they have been noted by some of the finest minds the world has ever produced and they, with all the company of other sweet and gay companions, have crept into the world's most beautiful songs and stories.

If you have not enough flowers to cut and give away quantities, you can have a few for the tiny nosegay. Take a few simple flowers, a bit of greenery, tie them with a ribbon, or slip into a lace paper holder, take them to the dear old lady in your block, and if you do not receive in return the sweetest smile you will see that day, then all previous experiences count for nothin. Put a rose into the hand of a baby and there will be a look of wonder and at least a tiny pause before its possible destruction by curious little fingers, or complete obliteration in the baby's mouth. But you will have caught that momentary look of wonder that is worth worlds to see.

FLOWERS HAVE EDUCATIONAL VALUE.

How is a boy to know the meaning of "the white flower of a stainless life" if he has never held in his hand and looked down into the golden heart of a lily, seen the delicate purity of the white petals? How is a little girl to know she must always be "as sweet as a rose" if she has never found a bowl of roses on her own little dressing table when she comes home from school? Little children naturally love flowers. They get the red of their cheeks and lips from the roses; the blue and brown of their eyes from the violets and pansies, the golden glints of their hair from the sunshine. Why should they be allowed to outgrow their natural tendency? Why should they not have flowers "to take to the teacher?" Money is given them to buy candy and skates, bats and balls; why should they not be allowed something for a set of light but good garden tools, a garden line and some plants and seed?

A Waco boy won a prize recently in the state contest, though the space used for his garden was only a few square feet. At the public library can be found all the most reliable magazines treating of small gardens and back yards, in which valuable suggestions can be found, and what is even better, photographs of what has actually been accomplished. The rooms were crowded with guests who enjoyed the unusually good playing of these young students. Mr. Johnson's work is always characterized by thoroughness and solid training, and he has a large and enthusiastic class of interested pupils. These recitals are the beginning of a series of spring recitals, which will be given. Those who took part in these programs are Misses Fay Davidson, Nellie Williamson, Thelma Novich, Josephine Monte, Sadie Adams, Beatrice Davis, Nera Elkins, Pauline Thielan, Emma Mann, Irene Guy, Blanche Best, Ruth Wallace, Belle Goldberg, Sadie Novich, Mary Willett, Rurabelle Jones, Katherine Fitzhugh, Wilma Schoffer, Fay Parker, Helen Mayfield, Joy Tartar, Wilma Friedsam, Ouida Vaughan, Anne Trautvetter, Eva Adam, Ola Smith, Jeffie Mann, Alma Murphy, Marie Blocker, Lucille Puett, Murtel Steger, Ellie Isbell, Velma Smathers, Hallie Seawell, Bernice Clark, Nell Orand, Masters Thomas and George Wolf and Messrs. Ben Werkenthin, Josef O. Berlowitz and Evison Stafford.

JUNIOR EUTERPEANS TO HOLD OPEN MEETING

On Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock the Junior Euterpean club, directed by Mrs. Virginia Ryan, will present to the public an interesting program. Besides a piano quartette, played by Misses Margaret Duncan, Louise Womack, Helen Board and Mary Wilson, there will be piano numbers by Misses Beth Skinner, Lucy Standifer, Flora Phillips, Helen Crawley, Shirley Gage, Irene Bruck, Lois Herz, Master Bernard Ginsberg, a voice number by Helen Goodman and report of the club by Francis Wallace. A large audience should greet these young students and encourage them in their good work.

PROF. HOFFMANN TO GIVE COMPLIMENTARY RECITAL

It has been some time since Prof. Rudolf Hoffmann of Baylor university has given a complete program of piano music, his proficiency in organ causing him to divide his time between the two instruments. However, an excellent program has been prepared from the works of Beethoven, Rameau, Corelli, Schubert, Mendelssohn and Brahms, besides a number of modern compositions, which Mr. Hoffmann will present complimentary to the Baylor Round Table at Carroll chapel on Monday evening, April 10, at 8:30 o'clock. Mr. John De Heck, tenor, will sing some songs from modern composers. The public is invited.

FAMOUS INDIVIDUALS IN THE PHILHARMONIC ORCHESTRA

To its audience a symphony orchestra usually presents a heterogeneous mass of men and instruments, presided over by a conductor who plays upon the whole as though it were one great instrument. Little attention is paid to any single player, yet the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, which will be heard here on May 3, boasts a number of celebrated performers on all instruments.

Take, first of all, the concertmeister, who is, next to the conductor himself, the most important member of a symphony orchestra, being the leader of the various choirs in general and of the body of strings in particular—the member of the whole upon whom the conductor plays most directly. It is noteworthy that the Philharnomic, the oldest musical organization in America, has for its concertmeister, Maximilian Pilzer, who is one of the youngest musicians of note in this country. Mr. Pilzer studied here and abroad under Joachim, and made his professional debut while still in "knickers." Today, at the age of twenty-five, he is in his second season as concertmeister of one of the foremost musical organizations in the world.

Another very important member of the Philharmonic forces is Leo Schulz, who is one of the best known solo 'cellists before the world today, and who has for several years held the post of first 'cellist in this orchestra. Mr. Schulz was educated at the Royal Academy in Berlin, and at the age of fifteen was invited to play before the royal family. He has a wide reputation as a soloist, as well as an orchestral musician, and is a composer of note.

Many of the members are known as the foremost masters of their respective instruments that are known today. This is especially true of Mr. J. J. Kovarik, who leads the body of violas, and Mr. Xavier Reiter, who is the most celebrated player on the French horn in the world.

Few symphony orchestras can boast half a dozen composers of ability within their ranks. Aside from Mr. Stransky, the eminent conductor, who is a composer of note, the Philharmonic includes within its personnel several composers of more than usual ability. Mr. Schulz has already been mentioned; he has written a great deal for his instrument, and has also composed orchestral works which have been performed by the Philharmonic society and by famous orchestras in Europe. Among the first violins, Mr. Bruck and Mr. Stahlberg, the assistant conductor, have had orchestral works played not only by the Philharmonic but by other orchestras, and Mr. Lucella, who plays one of the flutes, has also received recognition. Mr. Charles Gilbert Sposs, who is the organist of the Philharmonic, has achieved international reputation as a composer of songs.

TOM A. MAYBERRY.

The announcement of Tom A. Mayberry as a candidate for public weigher of precincts 1 and 4 appears in the Morning News today. Mr. Mayberry has been induced to offer for the place as a result of earnest solicitation made to him by his host of friends throughout McLennan county, especially in the two precincts above named.

For twelve years Mr. Mayberry has been a resident of Waco, and for seven years he was assistant weigher. One season he served under Mr. Sadler in East Waco, and for four years he was assistant to Bryant Allen. He was assistant to Sem Nix for two years, retiring about a year ago.

By experience and training Mr. Mayberry is well qualified for the position he seeks. In addition to his qualifications as a cotton weigher, Mr. Mayberry is an experienced cotton classer.

The many who have come in contact with Mr. Mayberry during the time he served as assistant weigher can testify as to his ability. He is a man who has been tried and never yet found wanting in any position to which he has aspired, and he has always conducted himself in such manner as won the approval and commendation of all. His work as assistant public weigher is above criticism, and he has been most courteous and efficient at all times.

The announcement that he would be a candidate for the office of public weigher of precincts 1 and 4 has given very great satisfaction to Mr. Mayberry's many friends, and they are predicting his election by a very substantial majority.—Political Advertisement.

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN FOR DYSPEPSIA, GAS, OR UPSET STOMACH

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly; ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, jot this down: Pape's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. "Pape's Diapepsin" is quick, positive and puts your stomach in healthy condition so the misery won't come back.

You feel different as soon as "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach gets sweet, no gases, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Go now, make the best investment you ever made, by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder. Don't be talked into something else "just as good." Get the genuine, no imitation.

MONEY TO LOAN TO BUILD HOMES

This company now offers loans on improved Waco residence property, and having operated throughout Texas for over 25 years, has assisted thousands in securing their own homes. The loans of this company are with a few exceptions, made on homes, either to build or to remove existing incumbrances. Many who have transferred their mortgages into this company find that they are now paying principle and interest as easily as they have heretofore paid the interest alone. The reason is plain: The payments are always the same and are due at fixed intervals. Every mortgage made by this company contains a clause providing for its discharge after a fixed number of payments have been made, unless sooner discharged through maturity. The mortgagor has the option to pay off his mortgage in full, or in part, at any time without having to pay any unearned interest. A loan from this company has to be adjusted but once. There is no annual uneasiness. Each month takes care of itself. The burden is easily distributed throughout the whole time. There is absolutely no delay in furnishing a loan through this company.

The Only Piano Store in Texas Where You Can Find These Conditions

Is It Not Better to Select Your Piano from Over Ten Makes of the World's Best Pianos and Make That Selection from One Stock in One Room, Where All Pianos Are Under the Same Conditions, Than to Be Obliged to First Go to One Store and Then to Another?

The true tone and the tone that you like best can only be judged by you when the pianos are side by side.

The only piano store in Texas where you can find and are able to judge for yourself nearly all of the acknowledged high grade pianos made in the great musical instrument producing cities in the world. In the important cities of all parts of the civilized world you will find the great line of over ten different makes of pianos handled by our leading Waco music house, but in every other case than right here in Waco you find them divided into different piano stores. In some cities almost every make is represented by different musical instrument houses. With hardly an exception you will find the Kimball, the old time-honored piano, handled by one piano house, and in that same city some other store will sell the Mehlin, and still another store the Packard, and another store will sell possibly almost exclusively the Ludwig, another dealer handling the Bond, the Wellington, and all of the others handled by the Adams and Allcorn company in different stores.

Think what it means to find all of these makes in one store, the greatest line of pianos any dealer could possibly get together, and under one roof where you can judge the true tone of each individual piano, where you can find in one room, and under the same conditions in no other store in the entire state can you find this collection of instruments.

The house of Adams and Allcorn is financially able to make exceptionally easy payments. This means everything to the piano purchaser. Their ability to buy at the lowest possible price from the manufacturer also means everything to the piano purchaser. Their years in the piano business and their slogan, "Quick Sales, Small Profit, a Large Volume of Business," has made for them and their organization by far the leading music house of Waco.

Vacant Lots of City Will Be Garden Spots for Poor

Five vacant lots of the city, covering approximately three acres of ground, have been secured by the Waco Welfare league and will be plowed up and turned over to the poor of the city to plant vegetable gardens. This is one of the movements of this recently organized league, which is expected to reap great results.

Seeing that there were a number of vacant lots of the city that grew nothing but weeds during the spring and summer months, officials of the league realized that they could be put to good advantage, and Mrs. N. B. Kent, who has been one of the promoters of the city beautiful plan, took an active part in securing the vacant lots. Little trouble was found in securing the lots, a sthe owners had rather their property was being cultivated and aiding the poor of the city than lying covered with weeds.

It is the plan of the league to have the lots plowed up and put in condition for planting at its own expense and furnish the seeds that will be planted. The worthy poor of the city will then be given certain sections of the lots. They will plant their own gardens and have charge of them. However, the gardening will be scientific in order that the best results may be obtained and will be in the hands of County Agent J. A. Pipkin, expert agriculturist.

With five acres secured for the gardening plan, it is believed that a large number of families can be cared for. The land is scattered over the city and the families that are given charge of a section will get the lot nearest their home. As most of the lots are located near the schools of the city, a certain section of them will be used for demonstrating purposes to promote interest in agriculture and scientific farming among the students.

The vegetable garden plan to help the poor of the city will be an experiment the first year and in case it brings the expected results, it will be promoted on a much larger scale next year.

Working Boys' Club Adopts Resolutions of Appreciation

Signed by more than 100 newsboys, messenger boys, delivery boys and other members of that group, usually called "youngsters of the streets," the following copy of resolutions was sent to The News with an earnest request that it be printed:

"Whereas, Frank E. Burkhalter, who has had charge of the Working Boys' club for a long period of time and has been untiring in his devotion to the interests of the boys as a whole and each one of them individually, and has at all times used his best efforts for their good and has given unstintedly of his time and means for the promotion of the welfare of the working boys; and,

"Whereas, by reason of change in his business it has become necessary for him to leave the city of Waco, and thereby sever his relationship with the boys,

"Therefore, we, the working boys who are members of said club, hereby express to Mr. Burkhalter our sincere thanks and appreciation for what he has done for us, and we assure him that his life and example have been of great good to us, and that each of us esteems him as a personal friend, and that by his going away we have sustained a distinct loss.

"Resolved, further, That we wish for him in his new field the greatest success and that he may be able to assist the working boys in his new field as greatly as he has with us; and we assure him that wherever he may go he will receive a cordial welcome from us, should he return at any time, and that our best wishes will always attend him."

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

Save your hair! Beautify it! You will say this was the best 25 cents you ever spent.

CONSTITUTION ADOPTED BY WACO CIVIC CENTER

COMMUNITY BEAUTIFICATION ORGANIZATION HOLDS ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING.

With the meeting of the North Waco School center last Friday evening, constitution and by-laws have been adopted and other details worked out looking to the growth of this community enterprise.

Dr. Robert B. Bell was chosen as presiding officer for the evening and handled the gavel to the entire satisfaction of the audience. He made a few introductory remarks and said in his opinion the organization was making splendid progress.

The first order of business was the consideration of a constitution and by-laws, which were submitted by a committee. After a thorough discussion and some minor changes the following was unanimously adopted:

"This organization shall be known as the North Waco School Civic Center. The object of the organization is social, civic and intellectual, and shall be composed of citizens of North Waco. The organization shall be under the supervision and control of an executive bureau composed of fifteen members, elected annually by the association, each member acting as executive, head or chairman of the auxiliary departments. The chairmen shall make reports weekly to the executive board and monthly to the organiaztion of all business transacted. Business meetings shall be held once each month and regular meetings twice each month. An ex-officio chairman of all committees and a secretary shall be elected annually; a presiding officer shall be chosen for every meeting. All business of the association shall be conducted in accordance with parliamentary rules."

Dr. Lloyd S. Downs was nominated and unanimously elected ex-officio chairman of all committees for the ensuing year. The election brought forth vociferous applause and calls brought the doctor to the rostrum.

"In accepting the leadership of Waco's latest and livest organization," Mr. Downs said, "I do so feeling there is a great work to be done, but to accomplish what is desired I must have the help of every member of this organization. If we succeed in encouraging the singing of one more song, the speaking of one more kind word, making one more smile, our work will not be in vain." Continuing, the doctor said: "I am a crank on gardens, chickens, pigeons, fruit and pretty homes and yards. Let's encourage all these things among our members and neighbors. You have no idea how it will help and hold down the grocery bill. There is no prettier shade tree than the hackberry, but did you ever think that, aside from the shade, it yields nothing? I think we ought to urge the planting of pecan trees instead. There is a way to plant these trees so they will begin to yield in three to five years. There is much we can do, so let's all get busy and do it."

J. M. Pattillo was chosen secretary.

It was decided to meet the second and fourth Friday nights in each month.

A piano solo was rendered by Miss Edith Fields, followed by an interesting talk by William A. Goodwin. Next was a musical selection by Prof. William F. Grant, violin, and Miss Verdi McLennan, piano.

Short talks followed by Prof. L. P. Bailey, I. M. Wood, Edward T. Sharp, C. H. Phillips, L. D. Leonard, Rev. Arthur Loper and Mesdames McAtee, Mullens, Crow, Goodwin and Poage.

One hundred voices joined in singing "America" and adjournment followed. The next meeting will be held Friday evening, April 14.

COMMITTEE EXTENDS ITS GREETINGS.

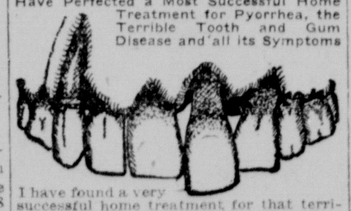
"To Our Neighbors, Friends and Fellow Citizens of North Waco: Greeting—Through the kind assistance and liberality of the press and the enterprising and public-spirited men and women, the North Waco School Civic Center has become a reality. At Friday night's meeting more than 100 took part and enjoyed the program. While we are thoroughly organized and ready for the field, we need more helpers. Every man, woman and child in North Waco is equally interested and will be equally benefited and should freely give their hearty support and co-operation. We assure you, friends, if you will come to our meetings we will not only entertain you, but will enlist you in the work. If you know what is being done for your community, your homes and your children, we are confident you would not only be interested, but gladly give us your assistance. Again thanking the press for their co-operation and all who are so unselfishly working for the public good, we are most

"Sincerely, your friends, neighbors,
"THE EXECUTIVE BUREAU."

Loose Teeth Sore Gums

(PYORRHEA.)

I am a Dentist of 25 years Experience. I Have Perfected a Most Successful Home Treatment for Pyorrhea, the Terrible Tooth and Gum Disease and all its Symptoms



I have found a very successful home treatment for that terrible disease called Pyorrhea or Riggs Disease of the gums. You may have been told that there is no cure for it, that there is no cure for loose teeth, bleeding, spongy, shrinking gums and dropping out of teeth; but many who have used my home treatment say there is, AND PROVE IT.

Don't have good teeth pulled. You may save every one of them—make them firm, healthy, sound teeth again.

Hundreds of patients say Dr. Willard's home treatment stops the teeth from being loose or wobbly and that it has done so in cases where the patient could almost pull his teeth out with his fingers, where the gums were soft and spongy, bleeding and shrinking away from the teeth. You may make these conditions positively and absolutely disappear and end your Pyorrhea. There is no pain, no fussing, no waste of time.

The letters I will send you from people in all parts of the country will tell you that they now enjoy good teeth, good chewing and a good stomach once more. If you have any of the symptoms mentioned, then Pyorrhea, sometimes called Riggs' disease, is on the way—you are bound to lose your teeth if you don't find a cure for it now. Simply send your name and address on coupon below and I will tell you about this dreadful disease and how my simple home treatment may save your teeth, without pain and at small expense.

Additional Plans for Colored Association Launched at Meeting Last Thursday.

A very successful meeting of the Association for the Advancement of Colored People was held in the Lone Star Undertaking building Thursday night. It is thought that the proceedings of that meeting will be far-reaching in their effect for the good of Waco. Mrs. N. B. Kent and Mrs. John Dollins, wife of Mayor-elect John Dollins, were present and rendered some very valuable assistance to the organization in its efforts to beautify the colored sections of Waco. Mrs. Kent made a personal donation, and also gave some fine rose cuttings and flower seeds to be distributed among the colored residents. The association hopes to distribute seeds of various kinds on a large scale so as to encourage the growing of flowers, vines and gardens.

Mrs. Kent brought a personal contribution from J. A. Pipkin, agricultural agent of McLennan county, and stated that Mr. Pipkin is willing to assist the association as much as possible by way of suggestion or demonstration work before the students of the colored schools.

After having listened to the plan, by which the association is operating the "City Beautiful" movement, which was explained by President R. H. Hines, Mrs. Kent stated that she was agreeably surprised to know that the association was pursuing the very latest methods, and spoke very commendably of the Junior leagues that have been organized in the public schools. Mesdames Kent and Dollins visited the associations as representatives of the Welfare league of this city, which demonstrates the fact that the best white citizens are intensely interested in the elevation of the colored citizens. The association has expressed itself as thankful for the aid that the Welfare league sees fit to render for the advancement of Waco's colored citizens. in an effort to enlist every colored resident in the "Waco Beautiful" movement, more than fifty members of the association will constitute a committee to visit each home. This campaign will begin at once. Prizes will be given for the most beautiful yards, the most beautiful school campus and the best garden. At the end of the campaign, which is the last week of May, there will be a 1916 bouquet contest, and a garden product contest.

Enthusiastic Meet Marked Opening of Alta Vista School

Formal opening of the Alta Vista school was held last night at which time a number of addresses were made by members of the board of trustees, teachers and patrons of the school and several candidates. Dan Kelly delivered the principal address of the night. Following the talks a social hour was spent and refreshments were served.

The Alta Vista school, which is a modern brick building, was recently completed and is the pride of that locality. R. L. Abbott, county superintendent, who was present at the opening last night, said that the school spirit at Alta Vista was running high and people there were glad that they were represented by such a structure for school purposes.

Mrs. Mary Davidson Dies.

Mrs. Mary K. Davidson, who has been a resident of Waco for the last five years, died yesterday morning at the family residence, 2201 North Eighteenth street. The body will be shipped by Undertaker Compton to Mrs. Davidson's old home at Altoona, Pa., for burial.

For the past eleven weeks Mrs. Davidson had been in ill health. Besides her husband, T. E. Davidson, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. S. J. Hale of Allwood, who has been in Waco for several weeks, and two brothers, one of New Orleans and the other of Altoona.

MEETING OF THE KAM-KO KLAN COMES TO END WITH ELECTION

Roy Gaither of Willow, Okla., Is Chosen Head of Cameron Managers.

With the annual election of officers yesterday afternoon the sixth annual convention of the Retail Managers' association of the Wm. Cameron company was brought to a close. April Is Curious Assemblage Saints for the Catholics

The catholicity of the church is admirably manifest in the curious assemblage of Saints whom this month of April gathers together, though not all are named in the calendar. St. Benedict the Moor, a negro lay brother, is found in company with St. Ida, the courtly mother of the great crusader, Godfrey de Bouillon, and with St. Hermenegild, king of the Visigoths, both honored on the 13th inst.

St. Juliana (6th), a nun of angelic innocence of life, is hand in hand with the once notorious sinner, St. Mary of Egypt.

On the 4th and 11th two of the most learned and illustrious doctors of the church almost jostle each other, and hard by, on the 16th, is St. Benedict Labre, whose canonization, not many years ago, shocked the prim respectability of the dainty world because he had been all his life, wilfully a ragged and not very cleanly beggar. A well known and scholarly Puritan minister of Boston, Rev. Mr. Thayer, happening to be in Rome when St. Benedict died, was led by curiosity to the house where the beggar's body lay, and was converted to the Catholic faith by the astounding miracles which he witnessed there.

Blessed Mary of the Incarnation (18th), a French damsel of high degree, won her crown among the savages of Canada, and St. Peter Martyr (29th) was a much maligned official of the little understood inquisition.

Next Sunday, April 9, is Passion Sunday. The two weeks immediately preceding Easter have been set apart as a more special preparation for the great festival, and have received the general appellation of Passiontide.

Although the second week is distinguished by its particularly impressive rites, yet that which opens with the fifth Sunday of Lent, commonly known as Passion Sunday, has also its peculiar features. All through Lent the altar has been draped in purple and denuded of its floral decorations, unless some saint's feast called for more joyful surroundings; during Passiontide the gloom of the sanctuary is to deepen. From the first vespers of Sunday the crucifix, which has hitherto formed the prominent feature of every altar, is to disappear from view. The gospel of the Sunday related that terrible scene in the temple of Jerusalem when an infuriated people, hardened against their Redeemer, not content with blaspheming Him as a Samaritan and demoniac, actually tried to stone Him to death. But Jesus hid himself, says the gospel. In remembrance of his humiliation of the Son of God in withdrawing from the gaze of men till the time should come for the carrying out of his work of redemption, the church veils the crucifix until Good Friday. The images of the saints likewise disappear; that the glory of the servants may be hidden when that of the Master is eclipsed. Throughout this mournful time the church suppresses the Gloria Patri in many portions of her public offices. By this she would express the grief which should fill all hearts at the contemplation of the sufferings of Christ and render such songs of joy distasteful. For the three last days of holy week this sacred formula will be entirely hushed, and the church would gradually attune the minds of her children to the spirit which ought then to possess them.

It will help toward the understanding of various portions of the liturgy during Passiontide, if it is borne in mind the other objects which the church of the early ages had in view in subordination to the one great subject of contemplation.

Paul Quinn Choral Club Gives Jubilee Song Service Today

The Paul Quinn choral club will render a program from 4 to 5 o'clock this afternoon at the St. Paul's A. M. E. church, Second and Webster streets. Negro choirs of the city will assist in the program which will be given. The general public is invited to attend.

The Paul Quinn choral club has sung before the National Editorial association, the State Folk Lore society, the Cotton Palace and on many other big occasions.

Assistant Postmaster on Leave of Absence

Due to his bad health of the past few months, John F. Horsfull, assistant postmaster, has been granted a leave of absence and will probably be absent from the city for about thirty days. Mr. Horsfull has been assistant postmaster here for the past nine years. While out of the city his work will be cared for by Postmaster C. B. McCollum.

Mr. McCollum said last night that the postoffice would check every piece of mail, including parcel post, that was handled within the next fifteen days in order that the post office officials could learn exactly the amount of mail that was being handled here. A record will be kept of mail matter that is received or sent out by the office here.

The Only Piano Store in Texas Where You Can Find These Conditions

Is It Not Better to Select Your Piano from Over Ten Makes of the World's Best Pianos and Make That Selection from One Stock in One Room, Where All Pianos Are Under the Same Conditions, Than to Be Obliged to First Go to One Store and Then to Another?

The true tone and the tone that you like best can only be judged by you when the pianos are side by side.

The only piano store in Texas where you can find and are able to judge for yourself nearly all of the acknowledged high grade pianos made in the great musical instrument producing cities in the world. In the important cities of all parts of the civilized world you will find the great line of over ten different makes of pianos handled by our leading Waco music house, but in every other case than right here in Waco you find them divided into different piano stores. In some cities almost every make is represented by different musical instrument houses. With hardly an exception you will find the Kimball, the old time-honored piano, handled by one piano house, and in that same city some other store will sell the Mehlin, and still another store the Packard, and another store will sell possibly almost exclusively the Ludwig, another dealer handling the Bond, the Wellington, and all of the others handled by the Adams and Allcorn company in different stores.

Think what it means to find all of these makes in one store, the greatest line of pianos any dealer could possibly get together, and under one roof where you can judge the true tone of each individual piano, where you can find in one room, and under the same conditions in no other store in the entire state can you find this collection of instruments.

The house of Adams and Allcorn is financially able to make exceptionally easy payments. This means everything to the piano purchaser. Their ability to buy at the lowest possible price from the manufacturer also means everything to the piano purchaser. Their years in the piano business and their slogan, "Quick Sales, Small Profit, a Large Volume of Business," has made for them and their organization by far the leading music house of Waco.

CONSTITUTION ADOPTED BY WACO CIVIC CENTER

COMMUNITY BEAUTIFICATION ORGANIZATION HOLDS ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING.

With the meeting of the North Waco School center last Friday evening, constitution and by-laws have been adopted and other details worked out looking to the growth of this community enterprise.

Dr. Robert B. Bell was chosen as presiding officer for the evening and handled the gavel to the entire satisfaction of the audience. He made a few introductory remarks and said in his opinion the organization was making splendid progress.

The first order of business was the consideration of a constitution and by-laws, which were submitted by a committee. After a thorough discussion and some minor changes the following was unanimously adopted:

"This organization shall be known as the North Waco School Civic Center. The object of the organization is social, civic and intellectual, and shall be composed of citizens of North Waco. The organization shall be under the supervision and control of an executive bureau composed of fifteen members, elected annually by the association, each member acting as executive, head or chairman of the auxiliary departments. The chairmen shall make reports weekly to the executive board and monthly to the organiaztion of all business transacted. Business meetings shall be held once each month and regular meetings twice each month. An ex-officio chairman of all committees and a secretary shall be elected annually; a presiding officer shall be chosen for every meeting. All business of the association shall be conducted in accordance with parliamentary rules."

Dr. Lloyd S. Downs was nominated and unanimously elected ex-officio chairman of all committees for the ensuing year. The election brought forth vociferous applause and calls brought the doctor to the rostrum.

"In accepting the leadership of Waco's latest and livest organization," Mr. Downs said, "I do so feeling there is a great work to be done, but to accomplish what is desired I must have the help of every member of this organization. If we succeed in encouraging the singing of one more song, the speaking of one more kind word, making one more smile, our work will not be in vain." Continuing, the doctor said: "I am a crank on gardens, chickens, pigeons, fruit and pretty homes and yards. Let's encourage all these things among our members and neighbors. You have no idea how it will help and hold down the grocery bill. There is no prettier shade tree than the hackberry, but did you ever think that, aside from the shade, it yields nothing? I think we ought to urge the planting of pecan trees instead. There is a way to plant these trees so they will begin to yield in three to five years. There is much we can do, so let's all get busy and do it."

J. M. Pattillo was chosen secretary.

It was decided to meet the second and fourth Friday nights in each month.

A piano solo was rendered by Miss Edith Fields, followed by an interesting talk by William A. Goodwin. Next was a musical selection by Prof. William F. Grant, violin, and Miss Verdi McLennan, piano.

Short talks followed by Prof. L. P. Bailey, I. M. Wood, Edward T. Sharp, C. H. Phillips, L. D. Leonard, Rev. Arthur Loper and Mesdames McAtee, Mullens, Crow, Goodwin and Poage.

One hundred voices joined in singing "America" and adjournment followed. The next meeting will be held Friday evening, April 14.

COMMITTEE EXTENDS ITS GREETINGS.

"To Our Neighbors, Friends and Fellow Citizens of North Waco: Greeting—Through the kind assistance and liberality of the press and the enterprising and public-spirited men and women, the North Waco School Civic Center has become a reality. At Friday night's meeting more than 100 took part and enjoyed the program. While we are thoroughly organized and ready for the field, we need more helpers. Every man, woman and child in North Waco is equally interested and will be equally benefited and should freely give their hearty support and co-operation. We assure you, friends, if you will come to our meetings we will not only entertain you, but will enlist you in the work. If you know what is being done for your community, your homes and your children, we are confident you would not only be interested, but gladly give us your assistance. Again thanking the press for their co-operation and all who are so unselfishly working for the public good, we are most

"Sincerely, your friends, neighbors,

Vacant Lots of City Will Be Garden Spots for Poor

Five vacant lots of the city, covering approximately three acres of ground, have been secured by the Waco Welfare league and will be plowed up and turned over to the poor of the city to plant vegetable gardens. This is one of the movements of this recently organized league, which is expected to reap great results.

Seeing that there were a number of vacant lots of the city that grew nothing but weeds during the spring and summer months, officials of the league realized that they could be put to good advantage, and Mrs. N. B. Kent, who has been one of the promoters of the city beautiful plan, took an active part in securing the vacant lots. Little trouble was found in securing the lots, a sthe owners had rather their property was being cultivated and aiding the poor of the city than lying covered with weeds.

It is the plan of the league to have the lots plowed up and put in condition for planting at its own expense and furnish the seeds that will be planted. The worthy poor of the city will then be given certain sections of the lots. They will plant their own gardens and have charge of them. However, the gardening will be scientific in order that the best results may be obtained and will be in the hands of County Agent J. A. Pipkin, expert agriculturist.

With five acres secured for the gardening plan, it is believed that a large number of families can be cared for. The land is scattered over the city and the families that are given charge of a section will get the lot nearest their home. As most of the lots are located near the schools of the city, a certain section of them will be used for demonstrating purposes to promote interest in agriculture and scientific farming among the students.

The vegetable garden plan to help the poor of the city will be an experiment the first year and in case it brings the expected results, it will be promoted on a much larger scale next year.

Working Boys' Club Adopts Resolutions of Appreciation

Signed by more than 100 newsboys, messenger boys, delivery boys and other members of that group, usually called "youngsters of the streets," the following copy of resolutions was sent to The News with an earnest request that it be printed:

"Whereas, Frank E. Burkhalter, who has had charge of the Working Boys' club for a long period of time and has been untiring in his devotion to the interests of the boys as a whole and each one of them individually, and has at all times used his best efforts for their good and has given unstintedly of his time and means for the promotion of the welfare of the working boys; and,

"Whereas, by reason of change in his business it has become necessary for him to leave the city of Waco, and thereby sever his relationship with the boys,

"Therefore, we, the working boys who are members of said club, hereby express to Mr. Burkhalter our sincere thanks and appreciation for what he has done for us, and we assure him that his life and example have been of great good to us, and that each of us esteems him as a personal friend, and that by his going away we have sustained a distinct loss.

"Resolved, further, That we wish for him in his new field the greatest success and that he may be able to assist the working boys in his new field as greatly as he has with us; and we assure him that wherever he may go he will receive a cordial welcome from us, should he return at any time, and that our best wishes will always attend him."

Medical Society Has Several Out-of-town Working Boys Today

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

Save your hair! Beautify it! You will say this was the best 25 cents you ever spent.

Loose Teeth Sore Gums

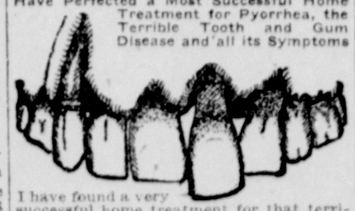
I am a Dentist of 25 years Experience. I Have Perfected a Most Successful Home Treatment for Pyorrhea, the Terrible Tooth and Gum Disease and all its Symptoms



I have found a very successful home treatment for that terrible disease called Pyorrhea or Riggs Disease of the gums. You may have been told that there is no cure for it, that there is no cure for loose teeth, bleeding, spongy, shrinking gums and dropping out of teeth; but many who have used my home treatment say there is, AND PROVE IT.

Don't have good teeth pulled. You may save every one of them—make them firm, healthy, sound teeth again.

Hundreds of patients say Dr. Willard's home treatment stops the teeth from being loose or wobbly and that it has done so in cases where the patient could almost pull his teeth out with his fingers, where the gums were soft and spongy, bleeding and shrinking away from the teeth. You may make these conditions positively and absolutely disappear and end your Pyorrhea. There is no pain, no fussing, no waste of time.

The letters I will send you from people in all parts of the country will tell you that they now enjoy good teeth, good chewing and a good stomach once more. If you have any of the symptoms mentioned, then Pyorrhea, sometimes called Riggs' disease, is on the way—you are bound to lose your teeth if you don't find a cure for it now. Simply send your name and address on coupon below and I will tell you about this dreadful disease and how my simple home treatment may save your teeth, without pain and at small expense.

Formal opening of the Alta Vista school was held last night at which time a number of addresses were made by members of the board of trustees, teachers and patrons of the school and several candidates. Dan Kelly delivered the principal address of the night. Following the talks a social hour was spent and refreshments were served.

The Alta Vista school, which is a modern brick building, was recently completed and is the pride of that locality. R. L. Abbott, county superintendent, who was present at the opening last night, said that the school spirit at Alta Vista was running high and people there were glad that they were represented by such a structure for school purposes.

Mrs. Mary Davidson Dies.

Mrs. Mary K. Davidson, who has been a resident of Waco for the last five years, died yesterday morning at the family residence, 2201 North Eighteenth street. The body will be shipped by Undertaker Compton to Mrs. Davidson's old home at Altoona, Pa., for burial.

For the past eleven weeks Mrs. Davidson had been in ill health. Besides her husband, T. E. Davidson, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. S. J. Hale of Allwood, who has been in Waco for several weeks, and two brothers, one of New Orleans and the other of Altoona.

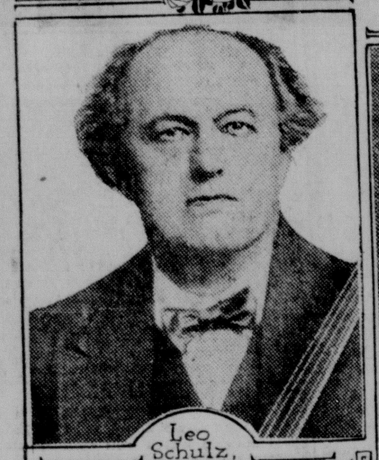
Spends More Than $250,000 Yearly to Promote Symphonic Music



Leo Schulz, Soloist and Cellist, New York Philharmonic

The New York Philharmonic Orchestra

Maximilian Pilzer Concert Meister New York Philharmonic

The Philharmonic Society of New York, Endowed by a Million-Dollar Bequest, Has Become One of the Greatest Factors in Improving Public Taste in America Today.

Felix F. Leifels, Manager, the Philharmonic Society of New York

Fritz Stahlberg, Assistant Conductor New York Philharmonic

FOR many decades wealthy men the world over have been giving bequests to colleges and universities for the perpetuation of interest in certain studies or in different lines of investigation. The bid for fame by the Pittsburgh Ironmaster by establishing libraries throughout the world is indifferently well known, but the fact that there is an orchestra endowed by grants of one million dollars for the promotion of symphonic music in America will come as a surprise to many.

The Philharmonic Society of New York, so richly endowed through the bequest of $1,000,000 given it, is the oldest of its kind in America, while it ranks third in the world's Philharmonic bodies, the London Philhormonic and the Vienna Philharmonic having been organized previous to it.

In the course of its season, which spreads over a space of twenty-three weeks, the New York Philharmonic plays to a greater number of persons than any other orchestra in the world to whose concerts an admission fee is charged. At its concerts in New York City it plays to capacity houses and on its tours the Philharmonic concerts are conceded to be the social and musical events of the season in the various cities in which it plays.

The annual expenses for the New York Philharmonic Orchestra are well above $250,000. The orchestra is a body of 87 musicians and the salaries of these artists range from $1,000 to $6,000, while the $25,000 salary of the leader of the orchestra puts him in the class of the modern captains of industry.

The million-dollar endowment would not go far in defraying the expenses of this mammoth organization for any number of years if that were all the New York Philharmonic were dependent on for its survival. In addition to this endowment, the interest from which pours into the treasury of the society regularly, there is a membership of over 1,000 persons who are interested in giving the people of America the best in symphonic music, and with their annual fees, their direct assistance, and with their patronage and influence, they do much to spread the work of the Philharmonic and make it nation-wide.

A further source of revenue to the society is the money received from admissions to the concerts. While this sum is a goodly one, and the American people have proved themselves generous supporters of an artistic movement, it does not defray the expenses of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra. In fact, such admissions bear the same relation toward the Orchestra that the tuition and incidental fees of a college or university bear to the actual expenses of a course at such an institution, which is enabled to exist by its endowments.

The master mind and directing genius of the orchestra is the conductor, and for such an organization as the New York Philharmonic Orchestra is required a man of great personality, distinguished in the musical world; an executive of no mean ability, a guide and an inspiration to the personnel of the orchestra and a reader and interpreter of music far above the standards set by other musical organizations.

In securing such men the New York Philharmonic Society has been particularly fortunate. Its leaders have always been men of vision—pioneers not fearful of adopting the new in music that their judgment told them was the true and beautiful, and as a result the orchestra has scored to its credit the first American presentation of numberless compositions that have since won deserved recognition. In giving interpretation to the works of American composers they have been a source of inspiration to the musical workers of the United States, and they have brought fame to many by their concerts, from manuscript copies, of works that have become famous.

The first conductor of international fame to shed his lustre on the New York Philharmonic Orchestra was Carl Bergmann, the first to introduce the music of Richard Wagner to American audiences.

A leader of the Philharmonic who has gone down to fame for individual efforts in uplifting the musical taste of this country was Theodore Thomas. After him came Anton Seidl, who for four years served Wagner as his private secretary. Among others who have wielded the baton over the famous organization are Edouard Colonne, Wassily Safanoff, Richard Strauss, Henry Wood, Felix Weingartner, Gustav Mahler, and following this line of famous conductors comes Josef Stransky, the guiding mind of the celebrated institution at the present time.

Stransky Noted for His Wit.

Josef Stransky was born a Bohemian. To-day he is hailed as an international figure in the musical world, and America is proud to claim him as the leader of the New York Philharmonic, as he is recognized as one of the five greatest directors now living.

Among his associates he is noted for his witty sayings and his clever and unusual comments on whatever topic may be under discussion. He is a deep thinker, and to gain greater powers of interpretation in music keeps well abreast of all other social and artistic movements in the world.

The brilliant young director—for only a short time ago he celebrated his fortieth birthday—was destined by his parents for the profession of medicine. He actually entered the University of Prague in Bohemia for that course of study. But the spirit of music within him was so strong that he showed more inclination to musical affairs and devoted more time to them than he did to the study of medicine. His interest was so great that it caused him to organize the first university orchestra at Prague, of which he was the leader and the inspiration until he left the university to continue his musical studies at Leipzig, when it was disbanded.

Conductor in Royal Opera House.

After completing his studies in Leipzig Stransky returned to Prague, where he led the orchestra of the Royal Theatre for five years. He then went to Hamburg where for seven years he added to his musical fame as the favorite and chief conductor of the Royal Opera House.

When the Bleuthner Orchestra in Berlin threatened to be disorganized from lack of patronage he left Hamburg to take up the labors of rehabilitating this organization and proved his powers as a firm builder by re-establishing it on a high artistic plane and in two years made it a financial success as well.

When the death of Gustave Mahler rendered the post of conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra vacant Stransky was invited to assume charge and after considering the possibilities of the work he could do in developing the American public taste in symphonic music he accepted. The wonderful success he has achieved in his New World activities and the artistic standing of the Philharmonic Orchestra after three years of service under his direction prove the wisdom of the Philharmonic directors in choosing him as the successor of his distinguished predecessors.

Grand Festival Tour.

This year the new Philharmonic will augment its regular season by a Grand Festival Tour, which will have on its itinerary cities from Maine to New Orleans and from New York to Nebraska. This tour is the first of its kind ever made by the organizaation and scores of cities that only know this leading musical body of America by name will have the opportunity of hearing it play for the first time.

The New York Philharmonic Society was formed in 1842 and has given a regular series of concerts every season since that date without a break or a postponement. While the records on file date only from the organization three-quarters of a century ago, the New York Evening Post of Tuesday, April 12, 1803, printed in its advertising columns notices and programmes of two concerts to be given by the New York Philharmonic Society, which thus carries the formation of the society back over a century.

"The advancement of instrumental music and the production of a number of concerts each year of a much higher order than have ever been given in this or any other city was the object sought by the thirty-seven musicians who gathered in the Apollo rooms in 1842 and banded themselves together as the New York Philharmonic Society, we now know," said Felix F. Leifels, manager of the Philharmonic Orchestra. "Looking back over the history of the Philharmonic since that date it can be easily seen that the objects of the organizers have been consistently carried out, and the light has been kept well tended by succeeding generations of players and conductors."

Leifels a Man of Broad Vision.

Mr. Leifels, whose broad vision and managerial powers are making the Festival Tour a possibility, led the group of basses of the Philharmonic before he became its manager. He comes of a family of musicians, and is the owner of a Stradivarius bass, valued at $2,000, which was brought to this country in 1832 by his grandfather, who had been Stadtpfeiffer, or bandmaster, of the city of Paterborn, in Westphalia. He has made an extensive study of musical instruments, and his opinion as to the authenticity of work reputed to be that of the famous makers of the earlier centuries is eagerly sought by professionals and connoisseurs.

"To interpret music properly there must not only be the spiritual power and mechanical skill in the brain and the hands of the musician," continued Mr. Leifels, swinging into a favorite topic with him, "but there also must be a worthy instrument to give forth the tonal qualities mind and hands evoke.

"The train that carries the New York Philharmonic Orchestra on tour is a veritable treasure train. The instruments, which are the property of the members of the orchestra, mount up to thousands of dollars from a commercial standpoint, and from a sentimental valuation are in many instances beyond price, as they are the work of the old master makers, and if they are destroyed they make the world poorer by one worth while, unreplaceable thing.

"The tympani are the only instruments in the Philharmonic not owned by individual players. A set of these were imported from Vienna shortly before the war broke out at a cost of about $700. This is the highest price ever paid for a set of these copper kettle drums, but they are of exceptional tone and are so delicate that the slightest change of weather affects them. They are equipped with the newest device for accurate and rapid tuning.

Highest Priced Harp in U. S.

"The cost of the concert harp of the Philharmonic is well over $2,000. It is one of the most expensive harps in America. The values of the average instruments in the Philharmonic range from $75 to $200. At the former price are the trumpets and the trombones, while the concert double horn is valued at $125. The A-b tuba and the fine French flutes, which, by the way, are of silver instead of wood, as the metal makes for greater clarity of tone, cost in the neighborhood of $175.

"Of course, it is among the stringed instruments that the aristocrats of the orchestra are to be found. Stradivarius, Guanerius, Amati, Maggini and Guadagnini are all represented, and while a commercial price may be set upon the instruments, they are held far above any money value by the lucky possessors of them."

Such an organization as the New York Philharmonic, to keep its high standard, must have the most eminent musicians of the world among its members. A season with the orchestra stamps a musician as having exceptional ability and gives him a standing among his fellows that could be obtained in no other fashion.

Orchestra Contains Noted Soloists.

Among the members of the Philharmonic are musicians that have made an enviable name for themselves on the concert stage as soloists, and even during the season they are the soloists at the Philharmonic concerts or at other concerts given in New York City.

On the list of notable players in the Philharmonic fold is Maximilian Pilzer, the youthful violinist, who as concertmeister is, next to Stransky, the most important member of the orchestra. He is the leader of the various choirs in general and the body of strings in particular, and is one of the youngest musicians of note in America. He was born in New York City twenty-five years ago, and studied there for ten years. He then went to Berlin and became a pupil of Joseph Joachim. He travelled abroad, playing in Berlin, Dresden and other cities, where he was accepted as a boy prodigy. While still a boy in knickerbockers he obtained his first orchestral experience, playing first violin with the Queen's Hall Orchestra in London.

Pilzer returned to America in 1905, and was soloist and concertmeister with the Volpe Symphony Orchestra, the Russian Symphony and the People's Symphony. Last year he was appointed concertmeister of the Philharmonic, filling the place left vacant by Leopold Kramer, detained abroad by the war.

Other Famous Members.

Leo Schulz, one of the best-known 'cellists in the world to-day, is another very important member of the Philharmonic. He has held the position of first 'cellist with the orchestra for many years, and during that time has added greatly to his fame as a player of ability as well as a soloist of note, as he has been soloist at many of the Philharmonic concerts.

Schulz was educated at the Royal Academy in Berlin, and later studied under Joachim and Professor Hausmann. At the age of fifteen he was invited to play before the royal family, and from 1880 to 1886 he toured Germany, Austria and Russia. He was the first 'cellist in the Gwandhaus Orchestra in Leipsig, and later was solo 'cellist of the Philharmonic in Berlin. He came to this country with Mr. Nikisch when the latter became conductor of the Boston Symphony, and after this became soloist of the New York Symphony. Then he became a leading member of the New York Philharmonic.

Xavier Reiter, the leader of the wind choir, is the most famous player on the French horn in the world. J. J. Kovarik, who leads the viola, is a player of note.

Conductor Stransky has interesting views about the music of America and as the leader of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, an organization which is accomplishing much in promoting symphonic music in America, he speaks with authority. When asked his opinion about the musical situation in the new world he said:

"Music in America suffers, as so many other things do, from the desire to attain swiftly a superficial interest in many kinds of amusement. Not that I count music an amusement, but in America it is so counted, and the criticisms in the newspapers and reviews of musical doings are treated in that section of the daily press devoted to amusements.

"Americans have become so accustomed to using elevators in their daily life and neglecting stairways that they seek to attain to spiritual and artistic heights by the use of elevators, instead of using stairways and ascending one step at a time. Each stair on the way to musical development is a seperate phase of the subject and is essential for full education.

No Musical Elevators.

"Music cannot develop in any country until it is taken seriously and fully desired. The way to increase the production of music and to learn to love it is to know it when you are young, young individually and young as a nation. When a person is grown there is not the time to devote to the study of music; other interests and the pressure of life prevents. The American nation is in its youth and it should not let this period slip by without filling the souls of its children with music.

"The spirit of one nation is different from the spirit of every other nation, and there is no reason why the American composers should not produce new kinds of music fresh from the heart of a new kind of civilization.

"Greatly as this is to be desired, however, it will not come about until children are taught music in the schools and taught music in the homes, just as they are in the continental families. Music is loved by children if it is presented to them with enthusiasm and simplicity. They clamor for it if the opportunity is given to them. In the schools children should be taught to express themselves in musical notes, just as they are taught to express their thoughts by means of the written word.

"We read about the children improving the sanitary conditions in their homes from the lessons on this subject taught in school. In the same fashion, if the schools began the movement of teaching children to express their emotions in music it would be forced into their homes, because the children would take it there. The children would demand musical environment once the schools opened up their hearts to it.

"It is so disappointing to me when I meet young people here of an evening or at an afternoon tea. I am prepared to have them ask me what music I most enjoy conducting or to talk about architecture or painting. Instead of this I am asked if I skate? Do I prefer ice to roller skating? Do I think dancing will continue popular next season, and do I like to dance the hesitation better than the one step?

Music Develops Children.

"A child should be taught to read music as he is taught to read books, for his own individual delight, for his development and for his increased spirituality. What you can do for others with your music is not important, unless you are a great musician; it is what music can do for you that should be taken into consideration. Even the great musician, as the great artist or the great poet, really creates for himself. He creates because he cannot help it, because he must express his own vision of beauty.

"It seems to me to be the duty of American mothers to do all in their power to stimulate their children's interest in music; never to terrify them with the idea that they must play for people; never to suggest that their music has anything to do with the outside world, beyond the fact that it enables them better to understand and love what the great masters have produced; and just as they would take delight in reading a great novel or a great poem, so they translate into tone the emotions felt by the great composers of the world.

"From what I have seen of America during my stay here no people is more eager for beauty or acquires it more readily. The nation need only be headed toward the right channel. The minds of the people are alert, their brains are of the best and there is no reason in the world why they should not have the finest musical development in the world, just as they have the finest physical education in the world."

An Artistic Innovation.

One of the artistic innovations the New York Philharmonic has to its credit was the recital by the celebrated actor, Edwin Booth, of the soliloquy from Byron's poem, "Manfred," when Schumann's music of "Manfred" was given for the first time in America at the Philharmonic concert in 1869.

The following season at the Philharmonic concerts in New York City Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream" was read by Mrs. Scott Siddons, when Mendelssohn's music on the same theme was on the programme.

Many of the celebrated vocalists and instrumentalists of the world have appeared at the Philharmonic concerts, and the aim and endeavor of the managers of this organization have been to secure the best players for the orchestra, the most characteristic symphonic programmes and the greatest musicians in the respective lines that could be secured as soloists.

FOR many decades wealthy men the world over have been giving bequests to colleges and universities for the perpetuation of interest in certain studies or in different lines of investigation. The bid for fame by the Pittsburgh Ironmaster by establishing libraries throughout the world is indifferently well known, but the fact that there is an orchestra endowed by grants of one million dollars for the promotion of symphonic music in America will come as a surprise to many.

The Philharmonic Society of New York, so richly endowed through the bequest of $1,000,000 given it, is the oldest of its kind in America, while it ranks third in the world's Philharmonic bodies, the London Philhormonic and the Vienna Philharmonic having been organized previous to it.

In the course of its season, which spreads over a space of twenty-three weeks, the New York Philharmonic plays to a greater number of persons than any other orchestra in the world to whose concerts an admission fee is charged. At its concerts in New York City it plays to capacity houses and on its tours the Philharmonic concerts are conceded to be the social and musical events of the season in the various cities in which it plays.

The annual expenses for the New York Philharmonic Orchestra are well above $250,000. The orchestra is a body of 87 musicians and the salaries of these artists range from $1,000 to $6,000, while the $25,000 salary of the leader of the orchestra puts him in the class of the modern captains of industry.

The million-dollar endowment would not go far in defraying the expenses of this mammoth organization for any number of years if that were all the New York Philharmonic were dependent on for its survival. In addition to this endowment, the interest from which pours into the treasury of the society regularly, there is a membership of over 1,000 persons who are interested in giving the people of America the best in symphonic music, and with their annual fees, their direct assistance, and with their patronage and influence, they do much to spread the work of the Philharmonic and make it nation-wide.

FRIDAY SCORE OF 3 TO 1 IS REPEATED SATURDAY BY LOCAL COLLEGIANS.

For a Time Clouds Threaten to End Contest With Things Tied Up. Three Hits for Roach.

Baylor repeated. On a field so muddy that fast playing was almost impossible the Bears yesterday defeated Jack Ashton's Methodists from Georgetown by a score of 3 to 1, the same as on Friday. It was not until the eighth inning that the game was decided and the lowering clouds for a time threatened to force the ending of the contest with the score tied up. But the rains did not come to Southwestern's aid and the farther young Duncan, pitching for Baylor, went, the better he got.

Duncan used to be a first baseman. Coming to Baylor, he decided to try his hand at pitching. He is a southpaw, has good speed and unusual control, to which must be added his knack of picking runners of the bases. Also he can hit. In three times at bat yesterday he got two hits, both of them beauties.

Stanton, in the first inning got a liner over short and stole second. L. Roach hit safely over second, scoring Stanton.

The game went on then until the third, when the Methodists put one over.

Neither team scored again until the eighth, when Stanton hit one to the second baseman that the latter could not handle and Roach followed with a two bagger, scoring Stanton. Roach was caught off second and Miller hit through short. Wilson went out and Kellogg hit a fly to center. Thompson struck out and Sublett hit a hot one to third, scoring Miller.

Duncan held the Methodists to eight hits, while McKenzie allowed the Bears ten, L. Roach leading with three out of three times up, one a two-bagger. The fielders did not support Duncan as well as the visitors did McKenzie, but "Dune" never let that worry him at all. He pitched consistent ball all the way and got out of some delicate places by catching men off the bases.

The game was necessarily slow on account of the heavy rain that fell Friday night, but by burning the infield over and draining it all the afternoon it was made dry enough to play on.

The work of Stanton at short was good and Miller got eight putouts at second and in his end of the field. Thompson caught a good game and the work of Kellogg at first was nothing short of spectacular, for time after time he saved the situation by reaching way to one side and intercepting one that bade fair to be wild, thereby getting the runner that would have gone to second.

James Barnes Wins Pine Hurst Match

By the Associated Press.

Pinehurst, N. C., April 1.—James Barnes, Atlantic Beach professional, won the sixteenth annual United North and South open golf championship today, his score for the 36 holes being 144. Tom Kerrigan, Siwanoy, and Clarence Hackney, Atlantic City, tied for second place with 145 each, Hackney winning the prize for the best round when he played his second round in 70, which equals the record for the course. Alec Ross, last year's champion, took 146 strokes for the two rounds.

Philip Carter of New York, turned in the best amateur card, his 153 being two strokes better than Frank Dyer, Pennsylvania champion, and three ahead of Jesse Guilford of Massachusetts.

New Cross Country Aeroplane Record

By the Associated Press.

Newport News, Va., April 1.—Glenn H. Curtiss announced tonight that Steve McGordon of New York established a new cross country passenger carrying flight record today when he flew from Newport News to Washington and return, a distance of 300 miles, in four and a half hours without stoping the engine. McGordon was accompanied by Lieutenant Vivian Hewitt of the British royal naval service, here inspecting machines for the British government.

Until today the cross-country passenger carrying record was held by Lieutenant Dodd, U. S. A., who on Feb. 14 last flew from San Diego, Cal., to Burbank, Cal., a distance of 244.18 miles, without a passenger.

Thunderer Favorite for Kentucky Derby

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, April 1.—Harry P. Whitney's chestnut colt Thunderer, which won America's richest racing stake last season, is favorite for the Kentucky derby to be run at Louisville on May 13. This information has been received by racing men here, who recall that it is the first time in twenty-eight years a winner of the eastern stake event has been favorite for the Kentucky derby. The field this year promises to be a brilliant one. There are forty-nine entries. The value of the race this year is $15,000.

CUB RECRUITS MAY REPLACE VETS; TINKER WANTS MORE SPEED

The Cubs at their spring training camp, Tampa, Florida.

Special to the Morning News.

Tampa, Fla., April 1.—That there is a chance for youngsters to break into the regular lineup of the 1916 Cubs is quite evident after watching the Tinker squad in training at the Tampa camp. If the team of veterans lacks anything, it is speed; and as speed is needed these days, it looks as if one or two of the fast young players on the squad may displace one or two of the veterans.

Manager Tinker was convinced of the necessity of getting more speed on the team after he had been beaten seven games in a row by Pat Moran's champion Phillies. It was the first time Tinker ever had seen young Shortstop Bancroft of the Phillies in action, and he saw one of the greatest men at that position he ever had looked at. The activity of Bancroft alone caused Tinker to make a switch in his own lineup, for he realized he would have to liven up his bunch if he expected to compete on an even basis with the champions.

MULLIGAN MAY BE REGULAR.

Consequently he took the veterans Mike Doolan off the infield job and put in young Eddie Mulligan, a boy who appears to have as much speed as the youthful Philadelphia star. It should not be surprising if Mulligan is the regular of the Cubs this year, for although he is inexperienced, having had only a brief spell in the Three Eyes league, he shows up as well now on the inside things of the game as many of the stars who have played in the big league for two or three seasons.

Of course Doolan has not been able to round into form as quickly as he did in other years, and whether Mulligan will be able to hold the job after the veteran star gets into shape is quite another thing. Mike has had a sore arm ever since the second day of practice, while Mulligan got his arm in throwing form in about two days. So far Mulligan has shown about equal hitting strength with the veteran, and he is one of the fastest base runners on the squad.

CUBS MAY GET SLOW START.

On the whole, thought, it looks as if the 1916 Cubs will be a team slow to get into its stride. The fans of Chicago need not feel discouraged if the Cubs fail to get away in front in the pennant race. If they are able to keep within a few games of the topliners until June, the Cubs are likely to get going then and be in front long before the season is over.

Tinker feels sure that he has batting strength, as much power in that department as any team in the league. He is sure of his defense as far as catching, infielding and outfielding are concerned. He thinks he may have the greatest pitching staff in the league, too, but in order to have it several of his veteran slabmen will have to regain old time form. So far the pitching has been bad, far below that turned out by the Phillies' staff.

ZIM'S SPIRIT PLEASES TINKER.

One thing that has pleased Tinker ever since training began is the spirit and enthusiasm of Heine Zimmerman, his star batter and great third baseman. Heine has the ability to be as great a player as any one in the National league, and never before has he taken baseball as seriously as he seems to take it this spring. So far he hasn't had a word of discord with the manager, something quite unusual. At the same time he is hustling more in the practice games down here than he did in many of the championship games under other managers.

The problem of picking the eight or nine pitchers to be carried through the season is still unsovled. It is likely that it will be unsolved even when the season opens. So far the men in best shape for work are Mike Prendergast, Gene Packard, Jim Lavender and George McConnell.

VAUGHN SHOWS IMPROVEMENT.

Indications are that Jim Vaughn will be a much better pitcher than he was last season. He has shown an entirely different spirit than he did a year ago, and, besides that, is twelve or fifteen pounds lighter than he was at the close of the 1915 season. Under those conditions it looks as if the big southpaw is sure of making good, as no one has more stuff than Vaughn when he is in shape.

Of the other left-handers, Packard is sure to be kept. Bailey and Pierce seem to be uncertain, as neither is in shape yet to go at top speed. Bailey was a great pitcher for Tinker last year, and Pierce was about the leader of the west side staff.

Back to Minors for Jim Thorpe

By the Associated Press.

Beaumont, April 1.—All National league clubs ahve waived on Jim Thorpe, the famous Indian athlete, according to a statement made here tonight by Larry Doyle, captain of the New York Giants, and the Indian will be sent to Milwaukee in the American association. Thorpe has been going good this spring in the exhibition games, but the acquisition of Kauff and Rousch made it practically out of the question for the Giants to carry the famous Indian.

By the Associated Press.

Houston, April 1.—Manager McGraw of the Giants in speaking of Thorpe's transfer tonight, said:

"The twenty-one man limit and the showing of Burns, Kauff, Rousch and Kelly, with the knowledge of what Robertson can do when he reports, makes it impractical to carry Thorpe," said Manager McGraw.

"The Indian has improved a great deal since he first joined New York and is a better outfielder than ever."

No April Fool Joke; Jeff Tesreau Finds Is Father of Twins

By the Associated Press.

Beaumont, April 1.—When Jess Tesreau, New York Giant pitcher, received a wire today announcing he was the father of twins, he believed he was the victim of an April Fool joke, until he verified the report by wiring New York.

The scheduled exhibition game between the Giants and the Beaumont club was called off on account of rain.

Married Navigators Play Single Men of Waco Team Katy Park This Afternoon

Unless it rains and rains heavy before noon today, or unless it commences raining again right soon after noon, the man or woman who loves good baseball can saunter out to Katy park about 3:30 this afternoon with the assurance that one of the best games of the season will be presented for his or her approval.

No, it won't be any "big league" game. But it will be the bachelors and benedicts of the Navigator team pitted against each other with both sides determined to win. Ellis Hardy himself says that it ought to be "among the best games of the season." And if anybody knows, he does.

The price of admission will only be a quarter, but there will be no discount as to the character of baseball. Married and single men are about equally divided in the Waco camp and the boys will be "playing for blood," just to settle the question as to which is the best ball player, a married or a single man.

Beaumont Fans Are Pleased With Outlook

Special to the Morning News.

Beaumont, April 1.—The past week has been one of hard and persistent work for the Beaumont team, but has had two notable games to break the monotony of morning and afternoon toil. Yesterday Hughie Jennings and his Tigers came to town and today the New York Giants were the bill. These games with leading first teams of two major leagues have given the bugs a real insight into the ability of their beloved Finnigans.

In splitting it divvy-divvy with Paul and his Pirates the Beaumonters made a big hit with the fans. Mike Finn himself had not hoped for a victory, in view of the advantage the Pirates had from longer training. The second game was lost and won in the ninth, and throughout both the local and visiting athletes played in midseason form. It was more like August championship ball than an exhibition game. Wednesday the Finnigans played town ball with the Port Arthur team and won 13 to 3. It was a weird sort of a game.

Paul May, the young pitcher who confessed to Jim Delehanty that he was not the May of the Macon club of the South Atlantic league, and who later was released, was injured during the latter part of the Port Arthur game while acting as umpire. A thrown ball broke one jawbone and dislocated another. The Port Arthur infielder who threw the ball claimed the injury was accidental.

The chopping block has not been extensively worked, as few of the recruits were signed. May and Earl Hill, another pitcher, are the only ones to be decorated with the tin cross. The other youngsters have been permitted to stick around and chase balls. Beaumont is now in pretty good shape, with Delehanty as a surefire pinch hitter, Ty Cook at first, McMahon at second, Schwind at short, Dodd at third, Nixon, Johnston, Clark and Chouinard in the outfield; Bobo and Lewis or Elliston as maskmen, and Jost, Fagan, Troutman, Ryearson and possibly a recruit as pitchers. Ducky Swan is still a holdout. Veazey, the pitcher, and Dilger, catcher, haven't reported, and the deals for Sweeney, the Yank catcher, and Goodbred, the Dodger twirler, have fallen through.

The Finnigans are without a southpaw unless Stevenson, who has been promised to Beaumont by Charley Ebbetts in place of Goodbred, proves to be the needed left-hander.

President Stedman has a good chance of landing Smithson, the Detroit left-hander. Other deals are pending and it is certain that the club will begin the season well established in every department.

The three best bets in the pitching line right now are Jost, Fagan and Troutman. Jost is a bit overweight and is working strenuously to get into shape. Fagan is in good form and so is Troutman, if his performance in the game we took from Galveston is a criterion of his shape. He worked three innings, fanned four men and allowed none to reach first. Rynearson has been somewhat wild, but apparently has the goods. Delehanty expects he will soon round into shape.

Mike Finn has still to make his bow to the Beaumont bugs. He is rapidly getting over the effects of his recent operation and although he has been absent from the field of activities the strategic hand of this baseball craftsman is seen in much that is being done here. Mike writes that he is pleased with the name that has been given the team, the name that has been given the team, the "Finnegans." Whenever a team of his has been so called, he says, it has been a winner—and Mike is superstitious.

LITTLE ROCK 4, GIANT CUBS 1.

By the Associated Press.

Little Rock, Ark., April 1.—Wacker's wildness and successive errors by Schepner turned a pitcher's battle to Little Rock 4 to 1 in the seventh inning of today's game with the New York Nationals' second team. Babington's home run in the sixth was New York's only score. Couchman and Hardgrove pitched tight ball for Little Rock.

Sid Smith Counts on First Division

Special to the Morning News.

Shreveport, La., April 1.—Sid Smith can't see anything for the Gassers but the first division this season if his pitchers produce. The aggregation which has been selected to represent this city in the 1916 classic is a remarkably strong and well-balanced minor league aggregation and competent experts who have seen the club in action against Cincinnati agree that Manager Smith has moulded a powerful machine from the remnants of the 1915 outfit.

He puts the Gassers' chances of landing a berth among the select four squarely up to the pitchers, and whether or not they will come through with enough punch to fill out Smith's hopes remains to be seen. Smith has not lost faith in Lindy Hiett and Horace Leverett, even though they were not successful pitchers last season, and he fully expects that the pair will win their share of the games in the approaching race. Leverette has always been known as a hard luck pitcher and anyone who has observed the big fellow will admit that he has everything that goes to make up a first rate heaver but whenever he goes to the box the Shreveport club suddenly forgets that such things as hits and runs exist and an average of one or two runs a game is what Leverett has to pitch behind.

Tod Sloan, secured from Dallas, was accused last season of being an emery ball pitcher, but Smith has been careful to observe that Sloan is not using any sand paper these days, if he ever did. Sloan's spitter was good enough to baffle the Red sluggers in the only game he worked against them and he not only shut them out but held them to four scratch singles.

Ed Duffy is a known quantity and whenever he goes into the box the Gassers have better than a fifty-fifty chance of winning.

Pat Andrews, a native of the wilds of Rodessa, will blaze a trail through the league if he maintains his present pace. Andrews, though barely 20 years old, is already in line for promotion to the majors, Charley Herzog having given him a careful and critical "once over," and pronouncing him the goods. Andrews had a brief trial under Lee Garvin last season but was turned back to the plow. Smith heard of him and his many conquests in the brush and a contract followed. Patrick hails from the same section of the state that produced Bob Harmon and Rebel Oakes and Smith is of the opinion that Andrews is just another of those flowers that bloom every once in a while.

"Slim" Ware, whose resemblance to a needle is positively astounding, is the only other member of the pitching staff and there is a chance that he may stick. Ware looks the part of a real rube, but he can pitch in spite of his odd makeup and has convinced the Gasser boss that his right arm will bear further scrutiny.

The failure of Ray Rollings, last year's second baseman who was injured in midseason, to play up to old-time form makes the infield situation a trifle uncertain, and it is beginning to look as if Chick Knaupp will be back at second and Joe Kneaves at short. Gus Schrader at first and Ray Bernsen at third complete what now appears to be the regular infield.

With Smith to do the bulk of the catching, Phil Wells and Jack Diamond are staging a lively tiff for the job as Smith's understudy. The two are deadlocked and to pick the best man of the duo is almost an impossibility.

More Pipe Dreams Over in Fort Worth

Special to the Morning News.

Fort Worth, April 1.—Fort Worth fans will get their last taste of big league baseball this season unless they journey north to see it, when the Panthers play the Chicago White Sox "irregulars" Sunday.

In the games played here with major leaguers the Panthers have displayed class that is causing the local loyal to begin figuring on how that old pennant will look floating from the flag pole of Mister Weaver's stadium. Fort Worth has not entered a championship season with better prospects.

It is especially in the pitching department that the Fort Worth club looks strong. With A. Rankin Johnson, former Boston American and later jumper to the Feds to lead the bunch and Fentress, Redford, Tretter, a good pitcher from Quincy, Mapel, left-hander, the most likely looking five, and Harbin and Harrah, also good men, Atz has little to worry about in the matter of flingers. Johnson made his debut here Wednesday against the New York Giants, opposing the great Tesreau, and the equally talented Senor Palmero from Cuba. Johnson looked the big leaguer he is. He held the Giants, and they were the regulars, to seven scattered hits and one run. The run came as the result of the wind blowing one of Catcher Red Betts' pegs to second wild.

All the big league sport writers declared while here with the major league teams that Johnson will simply set this league afire. The big fellow has made himself solid here and the fact that he has declared his intention of giving the best he has, and to try to get back into the major leagues by delivering has put him right with the fans. Had he come here disgruntled and expressing a grouch at Boston for cutting him adrift in the minors he might not have been any more popular than was Al Lee.

Outfielder Nutt, from the Salt Lake club, has been secured and will be in the fight for the garden berth next week. McLaurin and McIver have left and right field, respectively, cinched, but Sherer and McCoy, the new men, with Nutt, will try for center. The infield will be the same as last year, except that Manda, who looks like a world-beater, will play third. Hunter will play first, Atz second, Stow short. Eddie Holloway, who played in the Central Association last year, Dee from New England and Wratten will battle for the utility job. Betts and the new man, Woodall, a clever youngster, will do the receiving. Woodall looks like a dandy receiver, a good pegger and a hitter.

Whatever may have been said of Betts in the past, he is in fine condition this year. He is keeping in training conscientiously and looks better than he ever did before.

San Antonio Wants Portside Twirler

Special to the Morning News.

San Antonio, April 1.—The Branchos are fast shaping up for their campaign in the Texas league this season and from the result of pre-season games the Nags have shown major league clubs conclusively that they will be a factor that must be reckoned with before the final flag falls. However, President Harrison J. Benson of the local combination is on a still hunt for one good twirler, a left-hander, while even another right-hander who will win .667 per cent of his games would not be out of order—not by several jugsful.

Harding, who twirled such a great game against the slugkers of the Detroit American league combination here last Wednesday, using a "spitter" for the first time in his career in a regular game, will be retained. In fact, the elongated twirler who won eight straight games for the Bronchos last season, looks like a safe bet as a winning pitcher. Hatton Ogle, late of the Waco Navs, is another who looks ready for a successful season. In fact, the local fans think Ellis Hardy pulled a bone when he let him off his roster. During the off-season Ogle is a school teacher, but gradually worked his flinging wing into shape beginning in January. When he reported last week "Cap" Leidy thought he would hardly be able to take his place on the firing line, but subsequent events showed that this theory was all wrong. He is due for a good season.

Harry Stewart, who was a winning twirler last season with the Nags and who helped to boost the team from seventh to second place, still has a good heaving arm, while no one can take Harry's head away from him. His steadiness in the pinches, too, has been one of the features of his success. Harry wintered on the coast and came here primed for battle. He is making good, too.

However, even the most optimistic of local fandom admit that Benson must secure a good portside heaver—and at once. Wires have been working overtime for a week but nothing has come of it to date, although the local magnate has tentative promises that may help a bit.

In the meantime the fans are gradually making ready for the opening of the Texas league race and, according to opinions expressed by those in the know, the fans promise to support the team better than in many previous years.

Last year the team broke about even on the gate receipts, which, considering that Benson took over a seventh-place team and a rank one at that, his showing was, to, say the least, commendable.

Busy Week Put in by Houston Buffs

Special to the Morning News.

Houston, April 1.—The Buffs have put in a busy week or more of baseball, busier probably than that spent by any other Texas league club and are in the best kind of training for the season to come. The Saturday game with the White Sox on March 25 ushered in nine days of continuous exhibition playing at home and abroad, which will be wound up Sunday when the team plays the Galveston club in Galveston for teh second time this year.

The Buffs dropped the Saturday and Sunday games to the White Sox regulars, the best-looking major organization that has appeared here this season, and then lost to McGraw's regulars at Corsicana Monday. They defeated the Detroit Yannigans at Corsicana Tuesday but were beaten by the same club at Mexia the next day. The Detroit Youngsters were met again in Houston Thursday, the rubber game with the Giant regulars played Friday and a game with the Detroit regulars being scheduled for today.

No changes have been made in the Houston team in this period except in the acquisition of Hickory Dickson, who made a creditable showing at Corsicana Tuesday. Doak Roberts is said to be dickering with a Texas league pitcher.

It begins to look as if the team is certain to be picked from the present line-up, with the difficulty of choice existing between the six pitchers and the five outfielders. The infield and the battery men are fixed.

Houston winds up its big league exhibition season Sunday with the big card of the year, the fifth and concluding game of the spring series between the regular alignments of the New York and Detroit clubs. So far, the series has been divided. New York won the game at Marlin, Detroit at Waxahachie, and the two games at Dallas were divided.

After all, Houston is the only town entertain the expected exhibition of rivalry between Cobb and Kauff. The illustrious Tyrus reached Houston Thursday afternoon and joined Jennings' club here. As usual, he reported in fair condition, it is said, and is expected to play in both the Saturday and Sunday games.

Excursion rates have been made into Houston for the Sunday game on all roads and the seating capacity of the park has been temporarily increased to nearly 6000.

Only Ten Days Until Texas League Season Opens

BEARS TAKE BOTH FROM SOUTHWESTERN

FRIDAY SCORE OF 3 TO 1 IS REPEATED SATURDAY BY LOCAL COLLEGIANS.

For a Time Clouds Threaten to End Contest With Things Tied Up. Three Hits for Roach.

Baylor repeated. On a field so muddy that fast playing was almost impossible the Bears yesterday defeated Jack Ashton's Methodists from Georgetown by a score of 3 to 1, the same as on Friday. It was not until the eighth inning that the game was decided and the lowering clouds for a time threatened to force the ending of the contest with the score tied up. But the rains did not come to Southwestern's aid and the farther young Duncan, pitching for Baylor, went, the better he got.

Duncan used to be a first baseman. Coming to Baylor, he decided to try his hand at pitching. He is a southpaw, has good speed and unusual control, to which must be added his knack of picking runners of the bases. Also he can hit. In three times at bat yesterday he got two hits, both of them beauties.

Stanton, in the first inning got a liner over short and stole second. L. Roach hit safely over second, scoring Stanton.

The game went on then until the third, when the Methodists put one over.

Neither team scored again until the eighth, when Stanton hit one to the second baseman that the latter could not handle and Roach followed with a two bagger, scoring Stanton. Roach was caught off second and Miller hit through short. Wilson went out and Kellogg hit a fly to center. Thompson struck out and Sublett hit a hot one to third, scoring Miller.

Duncan held the Methodists to eight hits, while McKenzie allowed the Bears ten, L. Roach leading with three out of three times up, one a two-bagger. The fielders did not support Duncan as well as the visitors did McKenzie, but "Dunc" never let that worry him at all. He pitched consistent ball all the way and got out of some delicate places by catching men off the bases.

The game was necessarily slow on account of the heavy rain that fell Friday night, but by burning the infield over and draining it all the afternoon it was made dry enough to play on.

The work of Stanton at short was good and Miller got eight putouts at second and in his end of the field. Thompson caught a good game and the work of Kellogg at first was nothing short of spectacular, for time after time he saved the situation by reaching way to one side and intercepting one that bade fair to be wild, thereby getting the runner that would have gone to second.

James Barnes Wins Pine Hurst Match

By the Associated Press.

Pinehurst, N. C., April 1.—James Barnes, Atlantic Beach professional, won the sixteenth annual United North and South open golf championship today, his score for the 36 holes being 144. Tom Kerrigan, Siwanoy, and Clarence Hackney, Atlantic City, tied for second place with 145 each, Hackney winning the prize for the best round when he played his second round in 70, which equals the record for the course. Alec Ross, last year's champion, took 146 strokes for the two rounds.

Philip Carter of New York, turned in the best amateur card, his 153 being two strokes better than Frank Dyer, Pennsylvania champion, and three ahead of Jesse Guilford of Massachusetts.

New Cross Country Aeroplane Record

By the Associated Press.

Newport News, Va., April 1.—Glenn H. Curtiss announced tonight that Steve McGordon of New York established a new cross country passenger carrying flight record today when he flew from Newport News to Washington and return, a distance of 300 miles, in four and a half hours without stopping the engine. McGordon was accompanied by Lieutenant Vivian Hewitt of the British royal naval service, here inspecting machines for the British government.

Until today the cross-country passenger carrying record was held by Lieutenant Dodd, U. S. A., who on Feb. 14 last flew from San Diego, Cal., to Burbank, Cal., a distance of 244.18 miles, without a passenger.

Thunderer Favorite for Kentucky Derby

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, April 1.—Harry P. Whitney's chestnut colt Thunderer, which won America's richest racing stake last season, is favorite for the Kentucky derby to be run at Louisville on May 13. This information has been received by racing men here, who recall that it is the first time in twenty-eight years a winner of the eastern stake event has been favorite for the Kentucky derby. The field this year promises to be a brilliant one. There are forty-nine entries. The value of the race this year is $15,000.

The Cubs at their spring training camp, Tampa, Florida.

Special to the Morning News.

Tampa, Fla., April 1.—That there is a chance for youngsters to break into the regular lineup of the 1916 Cubs is quite evident after watching the Tinker squad in training at the Tampa camp. If the team of veterans lacks anything, it is speed; and as speed is needed these days, it looks as if one or two of the fast young players on the squad may displace one or two of the veterans.

Manager Tinker was convinced of the necessity of getting more speed on the team after he had been beaten seven games in a row by Pat Moran's champion Phillies. It was the first time Tinker ever had seen young Shortstop Bancroft of the Phillies in action, and he saw one of the greatest men at that position he ever had looked at. The activity of Bancroft alone caused Tinker to make a switch in his own lineup, for he realized he would have to liven up his bunch if he expected to compete on an even basis with the champions.

MULLIGAN MAY BE REGULAR.

Consequently he took the veterans Mike Doolan off the infield job and put in young Eddie Mulligan, a boy who appears to have as much speed as the youthful Philadelphia star. It should not be surprising if Mulligan is the regular of the Cubs this year, for although he is inexperienced, having had only a brief spell in the Three Eyes league, he shows up as well now on the inside things of the game as many of the stars who have played in the big league for two or three seasons.

Of course Doolan has not been able to round into form as quickly as he did in other years, and whether Mulligan will be able to hold the job after the veteran star gets into shape is quite another thing. Mike has had a sore arm ever since the second day of practice, while Mulligan got his arm in throwing form in about two days. So far Mulligan has shown about equal hitting strength with the veteran, and he is one of the fastest base runners on the squad.

CUBS MAY GET SLOW START.

On the whole, thought, it looks as if the 1916 Cubs will be a team slow to get into its stride. The fans of Chicago need not feel discouraged if the Cubs fail to get away in front in the pennant race. If they are able to keep within a few games of the topliners until June, the Cubs are likely to get going then and be in front long before the season is over.

Tinker feels sure that he has batting strength, as much power in that department as any team in the league. He is sure of his defense as far as catching, infielding and outfielding are concerned. He thinks he may have the greatest pitching staff in the league, too, but in order to have it several of his veteran slabmen will have to regain old time form. So far the pitching has been bad, far below that turned out by the Phillies' staff.

ZIM'S SPIRIT PLEASES TINKER.

One thing that has pleased Tinker ever since training began is the spirit and enthusiasm of Heine Zimmerman, his star batter and great third baseman. Heine has the ability to be as great a player as any one in the National league, and never before has he taken baseball as seriously as he seems to take it this spring. So far he hasn't had a word of discord with the manager, something quite unusual. At the same time he is hustling more in the practice games down here than he did in many of the championship games under other managers.

The problem of picking the eight or nine pitchers to be carried through the season is still unsovled. It is likely that it will be unsolved even when the season opens. So far the men in best shape for work are Mike Prendergast, Gene Packard, Jim Lavender and George McConnell.

VAUGHN SHOWS IMPROVEMENT.

Indications are that Jim Vaughn will be a much better pitcher than he was last season. He has shown an entirely different spirit than he did a year ago, and, besides that, is twelve or fifteen pounds lighter than he was at the close of the 1915 season. Under those conditions it looks as if the big southpaw is sure of making good, as no one has more stuff than Vaughn when he is in shape.

Of the other left-handers, Packard is sure to be kept. Bailey and Pierce seem to be uncertain, as neither is in shape yet to go at top speed. Bailey was a great pitcher for Tinker last year, and Pierce was about the leader of the west side staff.

Back to Minors for Jim Thorpe

By the Associated Press.

Beaumont, April 1.—All National league clubs ahve waived on Jim Thorpe, the famous Indian athlete, according to a statement made here tonight by Larry Doyle, captain of the New York Giants, and the Indian will be sent to Milwaukee in the American association. Thorpe has been going good this spring in the exhibition games, but the acquisition of Kauff and Rousch made it practically out of the question for the Giants to carry the famous Indian.

By the Associated Press.

Houston, April 1.—Manager McGraw of the Giants in speaking of Thorpe's transfer tonight, said:

"The twenty-one man limit and the showing of Burns, Kauff, Rousch and Kelly, with the knowledge of what Robertson can do when he reports, makes it impractical to carry Thorpe," said Manager McGraw.

"The Indian has improved a great deal since he first joined New York and is a better outfielder than ever."

No April Fool Joke; Jeff Tesreau Finds Is Father of Twins

By the Associated Press.

Beaumont, April 1.—When Jess Tesreau, New York Giant pitcher, received a wire today announcing he was the father of twins, he believed he was the victim of an April Fool joke, until he verified the report by wiring New York.

The scheduled exhibition game between the Giants and the Beaumont club was called off on account of rain.

Married Navigators Play Single Men of Waco Team Katy Park This Afternoon

Unless it rains and rains heavy before noon today, or unless it commences raining again right soon after noon, the man or woman who loves good baseball can saunter out to Katy park about 1:30 this afternoon with the assurance that one of the best games of the season will be presented for his or her approval.

No, it won't be any "big league" game. But it will be the bachelors and benedicts of the Navigator team pitted against each other with both sides determined to win. Ellis Hardy himself says that it ought to be "among the best games of the season." And if anybody knows, he does.

The price of admission will only be a quarter, but there will be no discount as to the character of baseball. Married and single men are about equally divided in the Waco camp and the boys will be "playing for blood," just to settle the question as to which is the best ball player, a married or a single man.

Beaumont Fans Are Pleased With Outlook

Special to the Morning News.

Beaumont, April 1.—The past week has been one of hard and persistent work for the Beaumont team, but has had two notable games to break the monotony of morning and afternoon toil. Yesterday Hughie Jennings and his Tigers came to town and today the New York Giants were the bill. These games with leading first teams of two major leagues have given the bugs a real insight into the ability of their beloved Finnigans.

In splitting it divvy-divvy with Paul and his Pirates the Beaumonters made a big hit with the fans. Mike Finn himself had not hoped for a victory, in view of the advantage the Pirates had from longer training. The second game was lost and won in the ninth, and throughout both the local and visiting athletes played in midseason form. It was more like August championship ball than an exhibition game. Wednesday the Finnigans played town ball with the Port Arthur team and won 13 to 3. It was a weird sort of a game.

Paul May, the young pitcher who confessed to Jim Delehanty that he was not the May of the Macon club of the South Atlantic league, and who later was released, was injured during the latter part of the Port Arthur game while acting as umpire. A thrown ball broke one jawbone and dislocated another. The Port Arthur infielder who threw the ball claimed the injury was accidental.

The chopping block has not been extensively worked, as few of the recruits were signed. May and Earl Hill, another pitcher, are the only ones to be decorated with the tin cross. The other youngsters have been permitted to stick around and chase balls. Beaumont is now in pretty good shape, with Delehanty as a surefire pinch hitter, Ty Cook at first, McMahon at second, Schwind at short, Dodd at third, Nixon, Johnston, Clark and Chouinard in the outfield; Bobo and Lewis or Elliston as maskmen, and Jost, Fagan, Troutman, Ryearson and possibly a recruit as pitchers. Ducky Swan is still a holdout. Veazey, the pitcher, and Diliger, catcher, haven't reported, and the deals for Sweeney, the Yank catcher, and Goodbred, the Dodger twirler, have fallen through.

The Finnigans are without a southpaw unless Stevenson, who has been promised to Beaumont by Charley Ebbetts in place of Goodbred, proves to be the needed left-hander.

President Stedman has a good chance of landing Smithson, the Detroit left-hander. Other deals are pending and it is certain that the club will begin the season well established in every department.

The three best bets in the pitching line right now are Jost, Fagan and Troutman. Jost is a bit overweight and is working strenuously to get into shape. Fagan is in good form and so is Troutman, if his performance in the game we took from Galveston is a criterion of his shape. He worked three innings, fanned four men and allowed none to reach first. Rynearson has been somewhat wild, but apparently has the goods. Delehanty expects he will soon round into shape.

Mike Finn has still to make his bow to the Beaumont bugs. He is rapidly getting over the effects of his recent operation and although he has been absent from the field of activities the strategic hand of this baseball craftsman is seen in much that is being done here. Mike writes that he is pleased with the name that has been given the team, the "Finnegans." Whenever a team of his has been so called, he says, it has been a winner—and Mike is superstitious.

LITTLE ROCK 4, GIANT CUBS 1.

By the Associated Press.

Little Rock, Ark., April 1.—Wacker's wildness and successive errors by Schepner turned a pitcher's battle to Little Rock 4 to 1 in the seventh inning of today's game with the New York Nationals' second team. Babington's home run in the sixth was New York's only score. Couchman and Hardgrove pitched tight ball for Little Rock.

Sid Smith Counts on First Division

Special to the Morning News.

Shreveport, La., April 1.—Sid Smith can't see anything for the Gassers but the first division this season if his pitchers produce. The aggregation which has been selected to represent this city in the 1916 classic is a remarkably strong and well-balanced minor league aggregation and competent experts who have seen the club in action against Cincinnati agree that Manager Smith has moulded a powerful machine from the remnants of the 1915 outfit.

He puts the Gassers' chances of landing a berth among the select four squarely up to the pitchers, and whether or not they will come through with enough punch to fill out Smith's hopes remains to be seen. Smith has not lost faith in Lindy Hiett and Horace Leverett, even though they were not successful pitchers last season, and he fully expects that the pair will win their share of the games in the approaching race. Leverette has always been known as a hard luck pitcher and anyone who has observed the big fellow will admit that he has everything that goes to make up a first rate heaver but whenever he goes to the box the Shreveport club suddenly forgets that such things as hits and runs exist and an average of one or two runs a game is what Leverett has to pitch behind.

Tod Sloan, secured from Dallas, was accused last season of being an emery ball pitcher, but Smith has been careful to observe that Sloan is not using any sand paper these days, if he ever did. Sloan's spitter was good enough to baffle the Red sluggers in the only game he worked against them and he not only shut them out but held them to four scratch singles.

Ed Duffy is a known quantity and whenever he goes into the box the Gassers have better than a fifty-fifty chance of winning.

Pat Andrews, a native of the wilds of Rodessa, will blaze a trail through the league if he maintains his present pace. Andrews, though barely 20 years old, is already in line for promotion to the majors, Charley Herzog having given him a careful and critical "once over," and pronouncing him the goods. Andrews had a brief trial under Lee Garvin last season but was turned back to the plow. Smith heard of him and his many conquests in the brush and a contract followed. Patrick hails from the same section of the state that produced Bob Harmon and Rebel Oakes and Smith is of the opinion that Andrews is just another of those flowers that bloom every once in a while.

"Slim" Ware, whose resemblance to a needle is positively astounding, is the only other member of the pitching staff and there is a chance that he may stick. Ware looks the part of a real rube, but he can pitch in spite of his odd makeup and has convinced the Gasser boss that his right arm will bear further scrutiny.

The failure of Ray Rollings, last year's second baseman who was injured in midseason, to play up to old-time form makes the infield situation a trifle uncertain, and it is beginning to look as if Chick Knaupp will be back at second and Joe Kneaves at short. Gus Schrader at first and Ray Bernsen at third complete what now appears to be the regular infield.

With Smith to do the bulk of the catching, Phil Wells and Jack Diamond are staging a lively tiff for the job as Smith's understudy. The two are deadlocked and to pick the best man of the duo is almost an impossibility.

More Pipe Dreams Over in Fort Worth

Special to the Morning News.

Fort Worth, April 1.—Fort Worth fans will get their last taste of big league baseball this season unless they journey north to see it, when the Panthers play the Chicago White Sox "irregulars" Sunday.

In the games played here with major leaguers the Panthers have displayed class that is causing the local loyal to begin figuring on how that old pennant will look floating from the flag pole of Mister Weaver's stadium. Fort Worth has not entered a championship season with better prospects.

It is especially in the pitching department that the Fort Worth club looks strong. With A. Rankin Johnson, former Boston American and later jumper to the Feds to lead the bunch and Fentress, Redford, Tretter, a good pitcher from Quincy, Mapel, left-hander, the most likely looking five, and Harbin and Harrah, also good men, Atz has little to worry about in the matter of flingers. Johnson made his debut here Wednesday against the New York Giants, opposing the great Tesreau, and the equally talented Senor Palmero from Cuba. Johnson looked the big leaguer he is. He held the Giants, and they were the regulars, to seven scattered hits and one run. The run came as the result of the wind blowing one of Catcher Red Betts' pegs to second wild.

All the big league sport writers declared while here with the major league teams that Johnson will simply set this league afire. The big fellow has made himself solid here and the fact that he has declared his intention of giving the best he has, and to try to get back into the major leagues by delivering has put him right with the fans. Had he come here disgruntled and expressing a grouch at Boston for cutting him adrift in the minors he might not have been any more popular than was Al Lee.

Outfielder Nutt, from the Salt Lake club, has been secured and will be in the fight for the garden berth next week. McLaurin and McIver have left and right field, respectively, cinched, but Sherer and McCoy, the new men, with Nutt, will try for center. The infield will be the same as last year, except that Manda, who looks like a world-beater, will play third. Hunter will play first, Atz second, Stow short. Eddie Holloway, who played in the Central Association last year, Dee from New England and Wratten will battle for the utility job. Betts and the new man, Woodall, a clever youngster, will do the receiving. Woodall looks like a dandy receiver, a good pegger and a hitter.

Whatever may have been said of Betts in the past, he is in fine condition this year. He is keeping in training conscientiously and looks better than he ever did before.

San Antonio Wants Portside Twirler

Special to the Morning News.

San Antonio, April 1.—The Branchos are fast shaping up for their campaign in the Texas league this season and from the result of pre-season games the Nags have shown major league clubs conclusively that they will be a factor that must be reckoned with before the final flag falls. However, President Harrison J. Benson of the local combination is on a still hunt for one good twirler, a left-hander, while even another right-hander who will win .667 per cent of his games would not be out of order—not by several jugsful.

Harding, who twirled such a great game against the sluggers of the Detroit American league combination here last Wednesday, using a "spitter" for the first time in his career in a regular game, will be retained. In fact, the elongated twirler who won eight straight games for the Bronchos last season, looks like a safe bet as a winning pitcher. Hatton Ogle, late of the Waco Navs, is another who looks ready for a successful season. In fact, the local fans think Ellis Hardy pulled a bone when he let him off his roster. During the off-season Ogle is a school teacher, but gradually worked his flinging wing into shape beginning in January. When he reported last week "Cap" Leidy thought he would hardly be able to take his place on the firing line, but subsequent events showed that this theory was all wrong. He is due for a good season.

Harry Stewart, who was a winning twirler last season with the Nags and who helped to boost the team from seventh to second place, still has a good heaving arm, while no one can take Harry's head away from him. His steadiness in the pinches, too, has been one of the features of his success. Harry wintered on the coast and came here primed for battle. He is making good, too.

However, even the most optimistic of local fandom admit that Benson must secure a good portside heaver—and at once. Wires have been working overtime for a week but nothing has come of it to date, although the local magnate has tentative promises that may help a bit.

In the meantime the fans are gradually making ready for the opening of the Texas league race and, according to opinions expressed by those in the know, the fans promise to support the team better than in many previous years.

Last year the team broke about even on the gate receipts, which, considering that Benson took over a seventh-place team and a rank one at that, his showing was, to, say the least, commendable.

Busy Week Put in by Houston Buffs

Special to the Morning News.

Houston, April 1.—The Buffs have put in a busy week or more of baseball, busier probably than that spent by any other Texas league club and are in the best kind of training for the season to come. The Saturday game with the White Sox on March 25 ushered in nine days of continuous exhibition playing at home and abroad, which will be wound up Sunday when the team plays the Galveston club in Galveston for teh second time this year.

The Buffs dropped the Saturday and Sunday games to the White Sox regulars, the best-looking major organization that has appeared here this season, and then lost to McGraw's regulars at Corsicana Monday. They defeated the Detroit Yannigans at Corsicana Tuesday but were beaten by the same club at Mexia the next day. The Detroit Youngsters were met again in Houston Thursday, the rubber game with the Giant regulars played Friday and a game with the Detroit regulars being scheduled for today.

No changes have been made in the Houston team in this period except in the acquisition of Hickory Dickson, who made a creditable showing at Corsicana Tuesday. Doak Roberts is said to be dickering with a Texas league pitcher.

It begins to look as if the team is certain to be picked from the present line-up, with the difficulty of choice existing between the six pitchers and the five outfielders. The infield and the battery men are fixed.

Houston winds up its big league exhibition season Sunday with the big card of the year, the fifth and concluding game of the spring series between the regular alignments of the New York and Detroit clubs. So far, the series has been divided. New York won the game at Marlin, Detroit at Waxahachie, and the two games at Dallas were divided.

After all, Houston is the only town entertain the expected exhibition of rivalry between Cobb and Kauff. The illustrious Tyrus reached Houston Thursday afternoon and joined Jennings' club here. As usual, he reported in fair condition, it is said, and is expected to play in both the Saturday and Sunday games.

Excursion rates have been made into Houston for the Sunday game on all roads and the seating capacity of the park has been temporarily increased to nearly 6000.

MARKET REPORT

COTTON

New York.

By the Associated Press.

New York, April 1.—Reports of good rains in the southwest and easy cables caused a sharp break in the cotton market here today and trading was more active than for the past two or three weeks. After selling at 11.96 on the call, July contracts rallied to 12.01, but broke to 11.92 in the later trading and closed at 11.93, with the general list closing steady at a net loss of 11 to 14 points.

Private cables attributed the decline in Liverpool to hedge selling and the Texas rain news and one of the English advices also said that the south was offering spots more freely, with the southwest relatively cheap. The opening decline of 5 to 9 points in the market here was hardly a full response to the English showing. There seemed to be some trade buying and covering of shorts for over Sunday on which prices rallied 4 or 5 points during the early trading.

Selling became more active as the rain reports circulated and prices gradually eased off in consequence. Offerings were well enough taken on a scale down to give the market quite a steady undertone but closing prices were practically the lowest of the day. Except for the talk of some southern selling here, there was nothing to indicate any easier tone in the southern spot markets.

Reviews of the domestic goods trade showed continued activity, and the trade buying here on the decline was supposed to be partly for the account of domestic spinners.

New Orleans.

By the Associated Press.

New Orleans, April 1.—Pronounced steadiness at the decline, underselling pressure based on rains in the southern districts of Texas, was the outstanding feature of the cotton market today. The weather map showed good rains in the west and private reports told of more, but while the market was depressed, it met an extremely light character of buying, which held the decline down to 9 to 12 points at the lowest levels of the session, which was at the close.

Contributing to the undertone of steadiness was the disposition of recent short sellers to take their profits.

WHEAT

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, April 1.—Bullish crop conditions reported both from the winter wheat and the spring wheat belts were chiefly responsible for a decided advance that took place today in prices here. The market closed strong 1⅞@2c to 2⅜@2½c net higher, with May at $1.16 and July at $1.14½. Other speculative articles, too, showed gains—corn ⅝@¾ to 1c, oats ⅛@¼ to ⅝c and provisions 17 to 37 cents.

Oklahoma led the way for the wheat bulls. The month-official crop report from that state was clearly adverse to the bears, as a decline of 6 points in condition was known to have taken place in March, putting the percentage down to 67 compared with 85 a year ago. Adverse unofficial reports also were received from Ohio, Indiana, Kansas, Nebraska and other winter wheat states, including Illinois.

Oats hardened in sympathy with other cereals.

Higher prices on hogs and corn gave strength to provisions.

TRAITS OF HAPPY MAN.

Honest, Faithful, Devoted to Family and Home.

We have noticed the happiest man many a time. He works for his living and he gets a good one. One thing we notice is he is a man of fine habits; doesn't squander a cent on liquor, tobacco or betting. He saves his money and is getting ready to buy some property. He loves his home, plays with the children, reads good books and keeps company with his wife. Because of his good habits he saves a little which will give him a chance to make an investment.

And then there is another thing—he is a reliable man. He does good work. He will not smooth over bad work. He is honest in whatever he does. Every dollar he gets represents just that much of honest labor. It is this, largely, that makes him prosperous and happy. Water keeps its own level, and so does conduct and character and prosperity. If a man is mean and low, so will the consequences be. He cannot be one thing and his experience another. A low-lived man may grow rich and happy, but it will not be for long. Anybody can tell what's the matter with a man if he is with him a day; he will soon see if the other is a spleen, a stomach, an uplift or a hope.—Ohio State Journal.

Thirty persons were killed and scores were injured in the Lake Shore train wreck at Amherst, Ohio, early Wednesday morning. These pictures, showing the effects of the disaster, were taken Wednesday forenoon, before any of the debris had been cleared away.

The wreck was one of those rarest of railroad calamities—not one collision, but two, involving three trains, on two tracks. When the half dozen investigations now under way are concluded, the blame will be fixed on some luckless railroad employee. A block signal, set suddenly and without warning, against a train speeding along eastward with another train following in the next "block" lies at the bottom of the doubt that exists as to the eal cause of the wreck.

Miner's Son Fighting for His Bride Against Relatives With Their Many Millions

Special to the Morning News.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., April 1.—George M. Killgallon, son of a poor but respected coal miner in this city, has started suit in the United States federal courts at Buffalo against James B. Rathbone and Mrs. Harriet Arnot Rathbone, his wife, to recover $500,000 damages for alienation of the affections of his wife, who before her marriage to Killgallon was Miss Mary Catherine Rathbone, heiress and wealthy in her own right.

Killgallon claims that not only his mother-in-law, who is one of the richest women in Elmira, N. Y., kept his bride from him, but he alleges that the Rathbones failing to get his consent to set the marriage aside and being unable to find any legal ground to annul, have undertaken to have special legislation introduced in New York state to rob him of his wife.

Killgallon married Miss Rathbone on October 14, 1915, after eloping from Elmira. Justice of the Peace Orcutt got out of a sick bed and tied the nuptial knot. Killgallon was then 21 years of age and his bride one year younger.

Realizing that he was not financially prepared to give the girl the luxuries she was entitled to, Killgallon asked to have the marriage kept a secret for six months, until he could get a better job and prepare a home for his bride. Killgallon was then engaged as an automobile salesman.

The marriage leaked out a few days afterward and Killgallon was called to the home of Mrs. Rathbone. He admitted the marriage and so did the girl. The marriage certificate was produced. Killgallon was told that the marriage was impossible and would never be recognized. He alleges that Mrs. Rathbone offered him one million dollars to give up his bride, but he refused. According to Killgallon's charges he was then ejected from the house and that night the girl was taken off on a long journey, going to Canada and California and as far as Honolulu. That was the last Killgallon saw of his wife. He has failed to get any message to her. He has repeatedly tried, but he claims she is under guard of her mother at all times and that the parent refuses to permit communication by letter, telephone or telegraph.

Subsequently efforts were made to set the marriage aside. Attorneys for the Rathbones failed to find ground for annulment in Pennsylvania and the laws of New York would permit no annulment except on a statutory ground. Killgallon's life has been investigated but there is nothing against him and no statutory issue can be raised.

The son of the poor miner now charges that State Senator Charles D. Newton, of Geneseo, N. Y., has been influenced by the Rathbones to have a special bill passed in the New York assembly to set the marriage aside. This bill, known as senate bill 707, has already passed third reading in the senate and it provides "that annulment may be obtained when the parties were married in another state and were at the time under the legal age of consent or the age under which the consent of the parents or guardians was required by the laws of the state where the marriage was contracted."

Senator Newton is private counsel for Mrs. Rathbone and has appeared as attorney of record for her in the New York state courts.

The Rathbones are the wealthiest residents of Elmira. James B. Rathbone and wife live apart. Both are immensely rich. He is vice president of the Chemung Canal Trust company and is interested in many other business concerns. His wife is president of the Briggs Brewing company and the owner of much real estate. The family wealth is estimated at $20,000,000.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Killgallon.

Paper Money.

One of the conspicuous results of the present war is the enormous inflation of paper money. In no smaller period of the world's history did the nations of Europe float such immense loans as they have since August, 1914. Along with this increase of paper currency there has been a noticeable advance in the price of silver. In September, 1915, it was reported as being a drug on the market at 47c an ounce, while two months later it was quoted at 54½. Bullion dealers now claim that the white metal will continue to rise even after the war is over.—Beaumont Enterprise.

EVIDENCE HEARD IN RATE CASE WILL GO TO WASHINGTON

Practically all of yesterday was consumed in hearing the complaint filed by G. H. Zimmerman of Wm. Cameron & Co., Inc., with principal offices in Waco, against the Abilene and Southern Railway company, et al., filed with the interstate commerce commission, the contention being that rates on lumber and lumber articles to Waco and Austin, from Seattle, Tacoma, Portland and other points are unjust, unreasonable and discriminatory, as compared with the rates on such articles from the same points of origin and sent to Fort Worth, Dallas and other principal cities in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana. It was claimed, also, that Waco, Austin and other points in Texas are being discriminated against by certain rates in effect to Kansas City, Wichita, Kan., and Shreveport, La. The purpose of the hearing was to get at the facts, and the effort of the complaining parties was to have the rates equalized with the points which are alleged to be getting the advantage.

A stenographic report of the testimony adduced in the hearing was made, and briefs will have to be filed by the plaintiff on or before May 1 and the briefs of defendants will have to be filed on or before the 15th of May, and then the plaintiff's reply brief on May 21, after which the commission will decide the matter.

Examiner Edgar Watkins of the interstate commerce commission, headquarters in Washington, D. C., conducted the hearing. A mass of testimony was secured, which must be correlated and digested before the decision is reached.

It is the intention of Examiner Watkins to remain in Waco until this afternoon, when he will go to Texarkana on official business.

Among those who appeared before Examiner Edgar Watkins yesterday in connection with some phase of the rate hearing were the following: G. H. Zimmerman, assistant secretary and traffic manager of Wm. Cameron & Co. and the Waco Sash and Door Co.; D. W. Head, assistant general freight agent of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe railroad, Galveston; F. A. Coleman, assistant general freight agent of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, Chicago; J. W. Allen, general freight agent of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, St. Louis; E. R. Bolton, vice president of Wm. Cameron & Co. and of the Waco Sash and Door Co., Waco; Ed Byars, traffic manager of the Fort Worth traffic bureau; Frank Stevens, sales manager of the Waco Sash and Door company, Waco.

After hearing the evidence in the case Examiner Watkins reports same to the interstate commerce commission at Washington, D. C., and a decision in the matter will then come out from Washington.

COTTON

New York.

By the Associated Press.

New York, April 1.—Reports of good rains in the southwest and easy cables caused a sharp break in the cotton market here today and trading was more active than for the past two or three weeks. After selling at 11.96 on the call, July contracts rallied to 12.01, but broke to 11.92 in the later trading and closed at 11.93, with the general list closing steady at a net loss of 11 to 14 points.

The opening decline of 5 to 9 points in the market here was hardly a full response to the English showing. There seemed to be some trade buying and covering of shorts for over Sunday on which prices rallied 4 or 5 points during the early trading.

WHEAT

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, April 1.—Bullish crop conditions reported both from the winter wheat and the spring wheat belts were chiefly responsible for a decided advance that took place today in prices here. The market closed strong 1⅞@2c to 2⅜@2½c net higher, with May at $1.16 and July at $1.14½. Other speculative articles, too, showed gains—corn ⅝@⅞ to 1c, oats ¼@¼ to ⅝c and provisions 17 to 37 cents.

Oklahoma led the way for the wheat bulls. The month-official crop report from that state was clearly adverse to the bears, as a decline of 6 points in condition was known to have taken place in March, putting the percentage down to 67 compared with 85 a year ago. Adverse unofficial reports also were received from Ohio, Indiana, Kansas, Nebraska and other winter wheat states, including Illinois.

Oats hardened in sympathy with other cereals.

Higher prices on hogs and corn gave strength to provisions.

TRAITS OF HAPPY MAN.

Honest, Faithful, Devoted to Family and Home.

We have noticed the happiest man many a time. He works for his living and he gets a good one. One thing we notice is he is a man of fine habits; doesn't squander a cent on liquor, tobacco or betting. He saves his money and is getting ready to buy some property. He loves his home, plays with the children, reads good books and keeps company with his wife. Because of his good habits he saves a little which will give him a chance to make an investment.

And then there is another thing—he is a reliable man. He does good work. He will not smooth over bad work. He is honest in whatever he does. Every dollar he gets represents just that much of honest labor. It is this, largely, that makes him prosperous and happy. Water keeps its own level, and so does conduct and character and prosperity. If a man is mean and low, so will the consequences be. He cannot be one thing and his experience another. A low-lived man may grow rich and happy, but it will not be for long. Anybody can tell what's the matter with a man if he is with him a day; he will soon see if the other is a spleen, a stomach, an uplift or a hope.—Ohio State Journal.

Thirty persons were killed and scores were injured in the Lake Shore train wreck at Amherst, Ohio, early Wednesday morning. These pictures, showing the effects of the disaster, were taken Wednesday forenoon, before any of the debris had been cleared away.

The wreck was one of those rarest of railroad calamities—not one collision, but two, involving three trains, on two tracks. When the half dozen investigations now under way are concluded, the blame will be fixed on some luckless railroad employee. A block signal, set suddenly and without warning, against a train speeding along eastward with another train following in the next "block" lies at the bottom of the doubt that exists as to the eal cause of the wreck.

Miner's Son Fighting for His Bride Against Relatives With Their Many Millions

Special to the Morning News.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., April 1.—George M. Killgallon, son of a poor but respected coal miner in this city, has started suit in the United States federal courts at Buffalo against James B. Rathbone and Mrs. Harriet Arnot Rathbone, his wife, to recover $500,000 damages for alienation of the affections of his wife, who before her marriage to Killgallon was Miss Mary Catherine Rathbone, heiress and wealthy in her own right.

Killgallon claims that not only his mother-in-law, who is one of the richest women in Elmira, N. Y., kept his bride from him, but he alleges that the Rathbones failing to get his consent to set the marriage aside and being unable to find any legal ground to annul, have undertaken to have special legislation introduced in New York state to rob him of his wife.

Killgallon married Miss Rathbone on October 14, 1915, after eloping from Elmira. Justice of the Peace Orcutt got out of a sick bed and tied the nuptial knot. Killgallon was then 21 years of age and his bride one year younger.

Realizing that he was not financially prepared to give the girl the luxuries she was entitled to, Killgallon asked to have the marriage kept a secret for six months, until he could get a better job and prepare a home for his bride. Killgallon was then engaged as an automobile salesman.

The marriage leaked out a few days afterward and Killgallon was called to the home of Mrs. Rathbone. He admitted the marriage and so did the girl. The marriage certificate was produced. Killgallon was told that the marriage was impossible and would never be recognized. He alleges that Mrs. Rathbone offered him one million dollars to give up his bride, but he refused. According to Killgallon's charges he was then ejected from the house and that night the girl was taken off on a long journey, going to Canada and California and as far as Honolulu. That was the last Killgallon saw of his wife. He has failed to get any message to her. He has repeatedly tried, but he claims she is under guard of her mother at all times and that the parent refuses to permit communication by letter, telephone or telegraph.

Subsequently efforts were made to set the marriage aside. Attorneys for the Rathbones failed to find ground for annulment in Pennsylvania and the lows of New York would permit no annulment except on a statutory ground. Killgallon's life has been investigated but there is nothing against him and no statutory issue can be raised.

The son of the poor miner now charges that State Senator Charles D. Newton, of Geneseo, N. Y., has been influenced by the Rathbones to have a special bill passed in the New York assembly to set the marriage aside. This bill, known as senate bill 707, has already passed third reading in the senate and it provides "that annulment may be obtained when the parties were married in another state and were at the time under the legal age of consent or the age under which the consent of the parents or guardians was required by the laws of the state where the marriage was contracted."

Senator Newton is private counsel for Mrs. Rathbone and has appeared as attorney of record for her in the New York state courts.

The Rathbones are the wealthiest residents of Elmira. James B. Rathbone and wife live apart. Both are immensely rich. He is vice president of the Chemung Canal Trust company and is interested in many other business concerns. His wife is president of the Briggs Brewing company and the owner of much real estate. The family wealth is estimated at $20,000,000.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Killgallon.

Paper Money.

One of the conspicuous results of the present war is the enormous inflation of paper money. In no smaller period of the world's history did the nations of Europe float such immense loans as they have since August, 1914.

Along with this increase of paper currency there has been a noticeable advance in the price of silver. In September, 1915, it was reported as being a drug on the market at 47c an ounce, while two months later it was quoted at 54½. Bullion dealers now claim that the white metal will continue to rise even after the war is over.—Beaumont Enterprise.

EVIDENCE HEARD IN RATE CASE WILL GO TO WASHINGTON

Practically all of yesterday was consumed in hearing the complaint filed by G. H. Zimmerman of Wm. Cameron & Co., Inc., with principal offices in Waco, against the Abilene and Southern Railway company, et al., filed with the interstate commerce commission, the contention being that rates on lumber and lumber articles to Waco and Austin, from Seattle, Tacoma, Portland and other points are unjust, unreasonable and discriminatory, as compared with the rates on such articles from the same points of origin and sent to Fort Worth, Dallas and other principal cities in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana. It was claimed, also, that Waco, Austin and other points in Texas are being discriminated against by certain rates in effect to Kansas City, Wichita, Kan., and Shreveport, La. The purpose of the hearing was to get at the facts, and the effort of the complaining parties was to have the rates equalized with the points which are alleged to be getting the advantage.

A stenographic report of the testimony adduced in the hearing was made, and briefs will have to be filed by the plaintiff on or before May 1 and the briefs of defendants will have to be filed on or before the 15th of May, and then the plaintiff's reply brief on May 21, after which the commission will decide the matter.

Examiner Edgar Watkins of the interstate commerce commission, headquarters in Washington, D. C., conducted the hearing. A mass of testimony was secured, which must be correlated and digested before the decision is reached.

It is the intention of Examiner Watkins to remain in Waco until this afternoon, when he will go to Texarkana on official business.

Among those who appeared before Examiner Edgar Watkins yesterday in connection with some phase of the rate hearing were the following: G. H. Zimmerman, assistant secretary and traffic manager of Wm. Cameron & Co. and the Waco Sash and Door Co.; D. W. Head, assistant general freight agent of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe railroad, Galveston; F. A. Coleman, assistant general freight agent of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, Chicago; J. W. Allen, general freight agent of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, St. Louis; E. R. Bolton, vice president of Wm. Cameron & Co. and of the Waco Sash and Door Co., Waco; Ed Byars, traffic manager of the Fort Worth traffic bureau; Frank Stevens, sales manager of the Waco Sash and Door company, Waco.

After hearing the evidence in the case Examiner Watkins reports same to the interstate commerce commission at Washington, D. C., and a decision in the matter will then come out from Washington.

Kentucky Gaining.

While the vote on Kentucky's statewide prohibition bill fell short of the three-fifths required to submit the constitutional amendment, the majority given is highly significant as an indication of public sentiment. The vote stood 54 to 40 in the lower house.

The late George Fitch told us that Kentucky was noted for "its sunshine and its moonshine, its blue grass and its red noses," and the popular idea may be that the road to prohibition for that state is long and rocky. But Kentucky is nearly white on the prohibition map. Of its 119 counties, 108 are already dry and 75 per cent of its population are living in no-license territory. As dry territory increases, moonshine and red noses decrease.

Measles kill over 11,000 American children annually.

Kentucky Gaining.

While the vote on Kentucky's statewide prohibition bill fell short of the three-fifths required to submit the constitutional amendment, the majority given is highly significant as an indication of public sentiment. The vote stood 54 to 40 in the lower house.

The late George Fitch told us that Kentucky was noted for "its sunshine and its moonshine, its blue grass and its red noses," and the popular idea may be that the road to prohibition for that state is long and rocky. But Kentucky is nearly white on the prohibition map. Of its 119 counties, 108 are already dry and 75 per cent of its population are living in no-license territory. As dry territory increases, moonshine and red noses decrease.

Miss Daniels Heads High Racquet Club

The Racquet club of the Waco high school met last Friday to elect officers for the spring term. The former president, Miss Josephine Daniels, was re-elected over her protest "that some one else might have a chance." After the other officers were elected and chairmen of various committees appointed, plans were discussed for more and better courts. The president suggested to the society the advisability of having a court at the Cotton Palace park on which the annual tournament may be held during the Cotton Palace fair. It is hoped that much interest will be taken in the coming tournament.

FORMAL ELECTION OF CITY TUESDAY

NO OPPOSITION OF PARTY'S NOMINEES EXPECTED AND LITTLE INTEREST IN BALLOT.

The regular annual election for the city of Waco will be held next Tuesday, April 4, though the democratic primary held the middle of February is presumed to have virtually settled who will be in control of the offices which are to be voted on Tuesday.

The supplies which are to be sent out by City Secretary John Davis, will go out tomorrow, Monday, and everything will be in readiness for the voters Tuesday. The polls will open at 8 o'clock and will close at 7 in the evening.

The results of the election will be officially canvassed Thursday at the regular weekly meeting of the city commission and the outcome declared; also the time when the newly elected officials take their seats will be fixed. According to the city charter, the newly elected officers will take their seats not earlier than five days after the canvass of the vote and in not more than thirty days.

The men who received the nominations in th city democratic primary held in February were as follows: For mayor, John Dollins; for commissioners, J. F. Stampp, J. D. Harlow; for city recorder, George W. Cole; for water commissioners, Frank Coates and Robert Logon. Other officials composing the city government hold over another year.

Following are the voting places and the presiding judges in the election Tuesday:

Second ward, West End Fire Station: H. L. Quinius.

Fourth ward, Terminal Hotel: J. A. Leftwich.

So varied are the instruments of the orchestra, and especially in such a large one as the New York Philharmonic orchestra, which plays in Waco on May 3, matinee and night, at the Cotton Palace coliseum, that the description of an auditor, of 1850, who had heard the Philharmonic orchestra for the first time in Castle Garden in New York, is enlightening, now as it was then, and besides gives a historical point of view of the oldest orchestra in the United States.

"I had time to look about me only a minute or two when there came on the stage what is called the orchestra. It consisted of about sixty men with instruments and the conductor. I do not know how many different instruments there are in the world, but I never saw such a variety together. There were many of them the queerest shaped things, and made of themselves the oddest sort of noises.

"There was a great corpulent grand fiddle (evidently a contra bass), another not quite so heavy and masculine (violincello), which gave out matronly tones, but deprecating and soothing, and the whole family of younger fiddies (violins) whose business it seemed to be to keep up such a frolic of sounds as to prevent the more aged fiddles from going to sleep, and to tease them and make them worry themselves, as old people will sometimes do.

"There were flutes—white, black and mulatto—some of which seemed to have got their growth and some not. There was one very little one (piccolo) that cut up as many antics as a rope dancer, and amused me very much; it was in excellent high spirits.

"One man had a big hollow serpent (reed bassoon) and made his share of the music by blowing in the serpent's tail. The key bugles of the French horn were also in the orchestra. I know of nothing which stirs the blood more than the sound of the bugle. It ranges from the clear, soft notes of a mother's lullaby to the clear, ecstatic ring, which kindles the fire of battle among armed men, and makes them smile at death.

"Not to prolong the description of the orchestra, I will simply say that it had the means of producing an immense variety of sounds, grotesque and natural, infernal and divine, so that, among them all, scarcely any heart could fail to be stirred—scarcely any amateur of noises fail to be gratified."

Outbreak of Fires Over the Country Causes Comment

Many Wacoans have been discussing the outbreak of fires practically all over the country, and speculating on the causes therefor. Cities and towns have been fire-swept; whole prairies have been ruined in the western part of the state, denuding thousands of acres of the grass badly needed by hungry cattle; dwellings and outbuildings have fallen before the flames, while business blocks melted away like tinder.

And now comes the news from persons who recently have been in those sections that in the counties of Mills, Burnet, Lampasas, Llano, San Saba and all over that tier of Texas counties the cedar brakes have been burning in the last two or three weeks, entailing a heavy loss to the owners of cedar tracts.

The cause of many of the fires, in the opinion of those who have been heard to express themselves, is to be found first in the unusually dry weather which prevailed for so long, backed by the very high winds.

Mr. Alexander's Age Mistaken by Some People

Although James P. Alexander is 23 years of age, he is mistaken by some people to be still in his twenties. He is a young man, but his record as a lawyer and as special judge of the various courts of this county show him to be a man of mature judgment. Mr. Alexander has been practicing law for eight years and has taken advantage of every opportunity to push himself forward and develop himself as an attorney and as a judge. He believes that the young man who tries and proves himself efficient should be given an opportunity. He is making the race for county judge of this county on his qualification and believes that every officer should be selected on his merit.—Political Adv.

Miss Daniels Heads High Racquet Club

The Racquet club of the Waco high school met last Friday to elect officers for the spring term. The former president, Miss Josephine Daniels, was re-elected over her protest "that some one else might have a chance." After the other officers were elected and chairmen of various committees appointed, plans were discussed for more and better courts. The president suggested to the society the advisability of having a court at the Cotton Palace park on which the annual tournament may be held during the Cotton Palace fair. It is hoped that much interest will be taken in the coming tournament.

Chapeaux La Belle

The Climax of Our Campaign to Give "More Distinctiveness and Value for the Money."

A traveling representative of a large Millinery house was in our Millinery Salon a day or so ago. He picked up one of our "Chapeaux La Belle" from a display-table and inspected it closely. Then he said: "I have just come from ——— (mentioning one of the larger cities of Texas)—and they had identically the same Hat as this on sale at $12.50. I see you have it marked only $7.50. You could just as easily get more for it." Our Millinery manager then explained to him that the price of "Chapeaux La Belle" is not regulated by "what we can get for it," but on the principle of making these Hats famous for their wonderful values. Come see them for yourself.

MISS SCARBOROUGH WRITES OF BROTHER'S NEW PLAY

In personal letters notes have come from Miss Dorothy Scarborough to tell of the pronounced success of George Scarborough's latest play, "The Heart of Weetona." Frequent mention was made in advance of the first night as to Belasco's prediction of immediate success. Miss Scarborough says it has met with more than success, and promises to be the foremost play of the hour. For the first performance Miss Scarborough occupied a box, with invited guests, from among the interesting friends she has made during her present year at Columbia university.

BLUE BONNET LUNCHEON WITH MRS. J. W. EVENS

No tlong a resident of this city, indeed not so long of Texas, Mrs. J. W. Evens has caught the joy of having the blue bonnet about her home. Thus, she used this, the first of the blossoms for the new season, on her luncheon table for Friday. Around this were several special guests, to meet the mother, Mrs. John L. Thomas of Washington City, and the daughter, Mrs. A. M. Wallace of Tuskegee, Alabama. Not only while the courses passed was the pleasure enjoyed, but it was prolonged through the afternoon. Those with Mrs. Evens and her honor guests were the Mesdames Artemas Roberts, William Morrow, Norman Smith, Marie Holway.

VISITORS ARE RECEIVED BY MRS. FLORA CAMERON

Presence from all parts of the state of managers for the William Cameron lumber yards was, primarily, one of business and closer acquaintance among the men. However, it was the personal pleasure of Mrs. Flora Cameron to extend greeting to these within her own home. For the last hour of Friday afternoon, Mrs. Cameron, assisted by Mrs. William Waldo Cameron, the Mesdames Frank Baird of Buffalo and Edward Bolton, was at home to the visitors. Also, as assistant hostesses were wives of the local associates in the Cameron offices. No details of form or brilliancy were introduced, just the hearty welcome and the cordial entertainment, in keeping with Lenten retirement, was given.

PAUL QUINN CHORAL CLUB IN PROGRAM TODAY

The Paul Quinn Choral club, assisted by choirs from the colored churches, will give choral service this afternoon. This will take place in the Methodist church, one of the handsomest erected by the colored people, in all Texas. The center section is reserved for whites, and as many as one hundred have already accepted invitation to be present. Paul Quinn Choral club is known through colored circles of the state. For the Folk Lore congress, the jubilee singers gave numbers, and several times these same voices have been heard at the Cotton Palace. In Dallas five hundred white friends enjoyed one of these jubilee programs. Within a very short time, the Choral club gives concert tour through the East, in the interest of an Industrial building for Paul Quinn college. Thus, they are giving home people first opportunity to hear their meritorious program. The hour is 4 o'clock. The Methodist church is Second and Webster.

HIGH SCHOOL HOSTS FOR SENIOR CLASSMATES

As the last week-end diversion, two of the "Hi" seniors were hosts in delightful way. These were Gabriel Harmon and Charles Whitman, in the home of Mrs. W. C. Harmon, West Columbus. In addition to the more general good time, the Messrs. Whitman and Harmon had prepared a forma! program, musical numbers being introduced by violin, piano and readings. The numbers were so ambitious as Schubert and Beethoven, those contributing to this pleasure being Clyde Blaylock, Josef Berlowitz, Murray Doyle, Travis Smith and George McCullough with the Misses Katherine Fitzhugh, Helen Moore, Maurine Lucas and Edith Lake. Guests of the Messrs. Harmon and Whitman, other than program, were the Misses Mary Emma Miller, Ben Evelyn McKie, Susan Bain, Flora Moore, Anita Whately, Grace Arbuckle, Johnnie Lee Camp, Frances Mitchell, Mildred Moore, Lois Oliver, Myrtle Lee and Jewel McKay with Paul Adams, Max Werkenthiem, Frank Peyton, Bachman Greer, Leo Garrett, McCord McIntyre, Carr Smith, John Perry, James Abbott, Leon Stanley and Ward Dutton with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Prade.

STATE FEDERATION INVITED TO THIS CITY

Twenty years gone by, lacking just one year, the Woman's club of this city called delegates from other Texas women's clubs, to form a Federation in this state. The response was considered liberal, but when it is recalled that the formal luncheon to delegates was given in the home of Mrs. R. B. Killough, one can estimate about the size of the State Federation. Now, the Texas Federation of Women's clubs is divided into six districts and represents sixteen thousand women. When the Federation was ten years old, the second invitation was given from Waco, this for the Federation to return for its tenth birthday. It came. Then, the Philo club could not accommodate the delegates, Waco club women having to be denied in order that visitors might gain admittance. Now, the twentieth birthday is rolling round. It has come to be considered the privilege of the Texas women to hold every birthday session in Waco. So, on Thursday afternoon, the City Federation, without a dissenting voice, voted to extend the invitation. It is a foregone conclusion that will be accepted. It will, however, be in 1917 that the second Federation decade is completed. It is for November of this year that Waco's invitation will be given.

GILLESPIE-CORNWALL WEDDING NOTICE COMES

The home papers from the bride, who was Miss Esther Cornwall of Mystic, Connecticut, and is now Mrs. Gardner Gillespie of this city, have just arrived. Mystic is the Cornwall summer home, the marriage ceremony having been performed at the winter home, Short Hill, New Jersey. Two pastors conducted the service, one having done similar duty for the parents. All details of attendants and musical feature were formally observed. In placing the wedding ring, the groom encircled his bride's finger with a ring linked by bits from wedding rings for three generations of "Esther I's," hence name as well as symbol descends. In color tone the bride's robe was conventional, her attendants introducing the novel yet pleasing pink worn over sunset taffeta, with the sunset natural buds. Guests were limited to relatives and close friends. Details of transition were quite in keeping with wedding form. The bride's veil remains, not only to become a family heirloom of sentiment, but one of historic interest. The story is this: Some seasons ago, Mrs. Cornwall was a tourist in Europe. It was her mission to provide veil for a bride-to-be. So, the order was given a family of Belgian lace makers near Brussels. In this later stress of conditions in Belgium, it was the pleasure of Mrs. Cornwall to repeat the order for her daughter. Thus, not only was Mrs. Gillespie presented the real Brussels lace, but she was the means of rendering practical charity at a moment when such was most needed. In the correspondence attending the order, the Belgian women sent some interesting notes concerning their home, filled as it is with recuperating men from the front. In the years to come when this dreadful war is gone into history, this piece will have an association seldom connected with a "mere piece of lace."

Mrs. Gillespie will be more formally welcomed into her new family and circle of friends when the Eastertide arrives.

The largest dinner assembly for more than a year was that which made the brilliant scene out at the Huaco club for the weekly dinner and dance of Friday evening. Following the dissolution of dinner groups, several additional couples arrived for the dance. In all, about one hundred made this aggregation of society.

In their reservation of table, Mr. and Mrs. John Sleeper paid compliment to the visit from Mrs. Martha Brooks Gunderson, of Detroit. It has been a number of years since Mrs. Gunderson claimed Waco as her home. In selecting their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Sleeper recalled those who had been closer in friendship, the Misses Minnie Killough, Isabel Edmond, Kyle Pace with the Mesdames Marcellus Brooks and Maud Cole. American Beauty buds more than the two dozen, gave color dash to table center, the same being the art touch to the place cards.

One of the large and very merry parties was the result of the recent bowling contest, the winning and the losing teams, with their wives, making the company, Charles Link, as toastmaster, kept the merriment unceasing. The color tone here was yellow. Guests at this table were the Messrs. and Mesdames Link, J. H. Lockwood, Clinton Padgitt, Harvey Richey, George Rotan, F. L. Booth, J. Y. Webb, Luke Moore, Jr., L. C. Alexander, John Fisher, Miss Beuna Clinton, Dr. R. H. Stewart with Henry Lindsey, Rix of Austin and Roy Lane.

The largest group came with Miss Edwina Sturgis, hostess in honor of the April bride, Miss Ruth Blair and her fiance, John Moore. Twenty-four were the guests with the Mesdames E. A. Sturgis and A. V. Cross the chaperons. The floraling of this beautiful table patronized the device Cupid for the girls and bride's for the men as place card figures. But, for the center wag a high vase of carnations fairly showering the space beneath. This was encircled by a trellis basket where the sweet pea climbed. This pretty effect was wrought in tones of pink blossom with white and green. As the ice appeared, beside the brick lay an art rose, in pink. Opened, this disclosed ice grains with which the dinner party came to a merry pelting of Miss Blair and Mr. Moore. Later, as belt rose or bouttonniere bud, these became dinner favors.

CLUB WOMEN NAMED FOR DISTRICT MEETING

Within just a few days, the women of this club district will be making ready for their outing at Brenham. In addition to the business which takes them to join other women of the Fourth district, the hospitable Brenham women are planning quite the pleasant time. This is the largest of the six districts. Waco has the honor of being headquarters, since the presiding officer is Miss Decca Lamar West and the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. T. W. Robertson. Miss Maud Brown has been invited to dance on the fine arts program. Mrs. J. M. Hale and Mrs. Fred Robinson and Mrs. W. E. Spell as members of standing committees will doubtless attend. Delegates so far elected are, City Federation, Mrs. N. H. Church, delegat, and Mrs. Bolivar Nettles, alternate; from the Current Event, Mrs. H. M. Lanham, and Mrs. James Mackey; from the Literary, Mrs. J. W. Downs and Mrs. W. M. Foster; from the Woman's, Mrs. W. O. Wilkes and Mrs. A. E. Wells; from the Review, Mrs. Jennie Meyer and Mrs. D. J. McWilliams; from the Shakspere, Mrs. John D. Mayfield and Miss Louise Lawson; from the Press, Mrs. J. B. Logan and Mrs. Gaylord Bebout; from the Euterpean, Mrs. Joseph Wren, who will also appear on the fine arts program. Also, the several presidents of the clubs are privileged entertainment, these being Miss Roberta Wright with the Mesdames T. A. Caufield, F. J. Lennox, J. W. Hale, F. L. Christman, Grace Wigley

Why Spring Brings Out Freckles and Eruptions

The sudden appearance of freckles, slight eruptions or fine lines at this season is attributed by scientists to the "actinic ray," which is unusually active during the spring months. Where the skin is so affected by this influence, if one will procure an ounce of common mercolized wax at any drug store, apply a little of it before retiring, like cold cream, she can easily overcome the trouble. When the wax is washed off next morning, flaky skin particles come with it. The entire outer cuticle is removed in the way in a week or two, with all its defects. No bleach could so effectually remove freckles or blemishes. The new surface is smooth, clear, fresh looking. No pain or inconvenience accompanies this simple treatment.

In case of wrinkles which sink beneath the outer skin, a solution of saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½ pint witch hazel, makes a face bath which is wonderfully effective.

MISS SCARBOROUGH WRITES OF BROTHER'S NEW PLAY

In personal letters notes have come from Miss Dorothy Scarborough to tell of the pronounced success of George Scarborough's latest play, "The Heart of Weetona." Frequent mention was made in advance of the first night as to Belasco's prediction of immediate success. Miss Scarborough says it has met with more than success, and promises to be the foremost play of the hour. For the first performance Miss Scarborough occupied a box, with invited guests, from among the interesting friends she has made during her present year at Columbia university.

No tlong a resident of this city, indeed not so long of Texas, Mrs. J. W. Evens has caught the joy of having the blue bonnet about her home. Thus, she used this, the first of the blossoms for the new season, on her luncheon table for Friday. Around this were several special guests, to meet the mother, Mrs. John L. Thomas of Washington City, and the daughter, Mrs. A. M. Wallace of Tuskegee, Alabama. Not only while the courses passed was the pleasure enjoyed, but it was prolonged through the afternoon. Those with Mrs. Evens and her honor guests were the Mesdames Artemas Roberts, William Morrow, Norman Smith, Marie Holway.

VISITORS ARE RECEIVED BY MRS. FLORA CAMERON

Presence from all parts of the state of managers for the William Cameron lumber yards was, primarily, one of business and closer acquaintance among the men. However, it was the personal pleasure of Mrs. Flora Cameron to extend greeting to these within her own home. For the last hour of Friday afternoon, Mrs. Cameron, assisted by Mrs. William Waldo Cameron, the Mesdames Frank Baird of Buffalo and Edward Bolton, was at home to the visitors. Also, as assistant hostesses were wives of the local associates in the Cameron offices. No details of form or brilliancy were introduced, just the hearty welcome and the cordial entertainment, in keeping with Lenten retirement, was given.

PAUL QUINN CHORAL CLUB IN PROGRAM TODAY

The Paul Quinn Choral club, assisted by choirs from the colored churches, will give choral service this afternoon. This will take place in the Methodist church, one of the handsomest erected by the colored people, in all Texas. The center section is reserved for whites, and as many as one hundred have already accepted invitation to be present. Paul Quinn Choral club is known through colored circles of the state. For the Folk Lore congress, the jubilee singers gave numbers, and several times these same voices have been heard at the Cotton Palace. In Dallas five hundred white friends enjoyed one of these jubilee programs. Within a very short time, the Choral club gives concert tour through the East, in the interest of an Industrial building for Paul Quinn college. Thus, they are giving home people first opportunity to hear their meritorious program. The hour is 4 o'clock. The Methodist church is Second and Webster.

HIGH SCHOOL HOSTS FOR SENIOR CLASSMATES

As the last week-end diversion, two of the "Hi" seniors were hosts in delightful way. These were Gabriel Harmon and Charles Whitman, in the home of Mrs. W. C. Harmon, West Columbus. In addition to the more general good time, the Messrs. Whitman and Harmon had prepared a formal program, musical numbers being introduced by violin, piano and readings. The numbers were so ambitious as Schubert and Beethoven, those contributing to this pleasure being Clyde Blaylock, Josef Berlowitz, Murray Doyle, Travis Smith and George McCullough with the Misses Katherine Fitzhugh, Helen Moore, Maurine Lucas and Edith Lake. Guests of the Messrs. Harmon and Whitman, other than program, were the Misses Mary Emma Miller, Ben Evelyn McKie, Susan Bain, Flora Moore, Anita Whately, Grace Arbuckle, Johnnie Lee Camp, Frances Mitchell, Mildred Moore, Lois Oliver, Myrtle Lee and Jewel McKay with Paul Adams, Max Werkenthiem, Frank Peyton, Bachman Greer, Leo Garrett, McCord McIntyre, Carr Smith, John Perry, James Abbott, Leon Stanley and Ward Dutton with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Prade.

STATE FEDERATION INVITED TO THIS CITY

Twenty years gone by, lacking just one year, the Woman's club of this city called delegates from other Texas women's clubs, to form a Federation in this state. The response was considered liberal, but when it is recalled that the formal luncheon to delegates was given in the home of Mrs. R. B. Killough, one can estimate about the size of the State Federation. Now, the Texas Federation of Women's clubs is divided into six districts and represents sixteen thousand women. When the Federation was ten years old, the second invitation was given from Waco, this for the Federation to return for its tenth birthday. It came. Then, the Philo club could not accommodate the delegates, Waco club women having to be denied in order that visitors might gain admittance. Now, the twentieth birthday is rolling round. It has come to be considered the privilege of the Texas women to hold every birthday session in Waco. So, on Thursday afternoon, the City Federation, without a dissenting voice, voted to extend the invitation. It is a foregone conclusion that will be accepted. It will, however, be in 1917 that the second Federation decade is completed. It is for November of this year that Waco's invitation will be given.

GILLESPIE-CORNWALL WEDDING NOTICE COMES

The home papers from the bride, who was Miss Esther Cornwall of Mystic, Connecticut, and is now Mrs. Gardner Gillespie of this city, have just arrived. Mystic is the Cornwall summer home, the marriage ceremony having been performed at the winter home, Short Hill, New Jersey. Two pastors conducted the service, one having done similar duty for the parents. All details of attendants and musical feature were formally observed. In placing the wedding ring, the groom encircled his bride's finger with a ring linked by bits from wedding rings for three generations of "Esther I's," hence name as well as symbol descends. In color tone the bride's robe was conventional, her attendants introducing the novel yet pleasing pink worn over sunset taffeta, with the sunset natural buds. Guests were limited to relatives and close friends. Details of transition were quite in keeping with wedding form. The bride's veil remains, not only to become a family heirloom of sentiment, but one of historic interest. The story is this: Some seasons ago, Mrs. Cornwall was a tourist in Europe. It was her mission to provide veil for a bride-to-be. So, the order was given a family of Belgian lace makers near Brussels. In this later stress of conditions in Belgium, it was the pleasure of Mrs. Cornwall to repeat the order for her daughter. Thus, not only was Mrs. Gillespie presented the real Brussels lace, but she was the means of rendering practical charity at a moment when such was most needed. In the correspondence attending the order, the Belgian women sent some interesting notes concerning their home, filled as it is with recuperating men from the front. In the years to come when this dreadful war is gone into history, this piece will have an association seldom connected with a "mere piece of lace."

Mrs. Gillespie will be more formally welcomed into her new family and circle of friends when the Eastertide arrives.

Why Spring Brings Out Freckles and Eruptions

The sudden appearance of freckles, slight eruptions or fine lines at this season is attributed by scientists to the "actinic ray," which is unusually active during the spring months. Where the skin is so affected by this influence, if one will procure an ounce of common mercolized wax at any drug store, apply a little of it before retiring, like cold cream, she can easily overcome the trouble. When the wax is washed off next morning, flaky skin particles come with it. The entire outer cuticle is removed in the way in a week or two, with all its defects. No bleach could so effectually remove freckles or blemishes. The new surface is smooth, clear, fresh looking. No pain or inconvenience accompanies this simple treatment.

In case of wrinkles which sink beneath the outer skin, a solution of saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½ pint witch hazel, makes a face bath which is wonderfully effective.

The largest dinner assembly for more than a year was that which made the brilliant scene out at the Huaco club for the weekly dinner and dance of Friday evening. Following the dissolution of dinner groups, several additional couples arrived for the dance. In all, about one hundred made this aggregation of society.

In their reservation of table, Mr. and Mrs. John Sleeper paid compliment to the visit from Mrs. Martha Brooks Gunderson, of Detroit. It has been a number of years since Mrs. Gunderson claimed Waco as her home. In selecting their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Sleeper recalled those who had been closer in friendship, the Misses Minnie Killough, Isabel Edmond, Kyle Pace with the Mesdames Marcellus Brooks and Maud Cole. American Beauty buds more than the two dozen, gave color dash to table center, the same being the art touch to the place cards.

One of the large and very merry parties was the result of the recent bowling contest, the winning and the losing teams, with their wives, making the company, Charles Link, as toastmaster, kept the merriment unceasing. The color tone here was yellow. Guests at this table were the Messrs. and Mesdames Link, J. H. Lockwood, Clinton Padgitt, Harvey Richey, George Rotan, F. L. Booth, J. Y. Webb, Luke Moore, Jr., L. C. Alexander, John Fisher, Miss Beuna Clinton, Dr. R. H. Stewart with Henry Lindsey, Rix of Austin and Roy Lane.

The largest group came with Miss Edwina Sturgis, hostess in honor of the April bride, Miss Ruth Blair and her fiance, John Moore. Twenty-four were the guests with the Mesdames E. A. Sturgis and A. V. Cross the chaperons. The floraling of this beautiful table patronized the device Cupid for the girls and bride's for the men as place card figures. But, for the center was a high vase of carnations fairly showering the space beneath. This was encircled by a trellis basket where the sweet pea climbed. This pretty effect was wrought in tones of pink blossom with white and green. As the ice appeared, beside the brick lay an art rose, in pink. Opened, this disclosed ice grains with which the dinner party came to a merry pelting of Miss Blair and Mr. Moore. Later, as belt rose or boutonniere bud, these became dinner favors.

CLUB WOMEN NAMED FOR DISTRICT MEETING

Within just a few days, the women of this club district will be making ready for their outing at Brenham. In addition to the business which takes them to join other women of the Fourth district, the hospitable Brenham women are planning quite the pleasant time. This is the largest of the six districts. Waco has the honor of being headquarters, since the presiding officer is Miss Decca Lamar West and the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. T. W. Robertson. Miss Maud Brown has been invited to dance on the fine arts program. Mrs. J. M. Hale and Mrs. Fred Robinson and Mrs. W. E. Spell as members of standing committees will doubtless attend. Delegates so far elected are, City Federation, Mrs. N. H. Church, delegat, and Mrs. Bolivar Nettles, alternate; from the Current Event, Mrs. H. M. Lanham, and Mrs. James Mackey; from the Literary, Mrs. J. W. Downs and Mrs. W. M. Foster; from the Woman's, Mrs. W. O. Wilkes and Mrs. A. E. Wells; from the Review, Mrs. Jennie Meyer and Mrs. D. J. McWilliams; from the Shakspere, Mrs. John D. Mayfield and Miss Louise Lawson; from the Press, Mrs. J. B. Logan and Mrs. Gaylord Bebout; from the Euterpean, Mrs. Joseph Wren, who will also appear on the fine arts program. Also the several presidents of the clubs are privileged entertainment, these being Miss Roberta Wright with the Mesdames T. A. Caufield, F. J. Lennox, J. W. Hale, F. L. Christman, Grace Wigley

Nemo NEWS

Devoted to the HEALTH, COMFORT and BEAUTY ... of WOMEN ...

A good friend has set us to thinking. She said:

Which means that our ads have given her the idea that the Wonderlift is a sick woman's corset.

Probably that's our fault—we may have said too much about the marvelous health features when, in reality, the Wonderlift is quite as remarkable as a style corset.

The very features that make Nemo Wonderlift Corsets so healthful also mould the figure into perfect fashion-lines.

No. 555

For instance:

1. The Wonderlift Bandlet promotes health by giving perfect physical support. It also prevents the corset from riding up and twisting, thus preserving smooth, fashionable lines.

2. It reshapes and reduces a too-full figure, and builds up and rounds out a too-slim figure. In other words, it corrects natural figure-defects; insures comfort.

3. The Nemo "bridge" assures freedom from pressure over gastric region, promotes free breathing and good digestion, i.e.: HEALTH. It also induces an erect, graceful, fashionable pose, without which real STYLE is impossible.

EMPHATICALLY the Nemo Wonderlift IS a STYLE Corset of the highest class, and it is MADE SO by its wonderful HYGIENIC FEATURES

There's one Wonderlift model for very slim figures with sharp hip bones and concave abdomen—No. 557, at $5.00.

Another for the biggest women, with rolls of flesh all over—No. 998, at $10.00. This is the only corset of its kind ever made.

Then there are other models, not so extreme:

554—for short stout women.....$5.00
555—for taller full figures.....$5.00
556—for slender to medium.....$5.00

We confidently repeat this prediction:

Better Than Spanking

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W., Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

RATIONS FOR HORSES.

The proper daily allowance of forage for a horse is twelve pounds of grain and fourteen pounds of hay. If a horse weighs over 1,300 pounds however, he should be fed fourteen pounds of grain and seventeen pounds of hay a day. For a mule nine pounds of grain and fourteen pounds of hay should be allowed.

These allowances are prescribed for United States army animals, but it is not deemed necessary to feed all animals the full allowance of grain. Each animal should be watched while eating and should be fed accordingly, except that the full allowance of hay should always be fed; if it is of good quality and the animal is in good condition, it will always be eaten. Grain should never be fed to animals when they are tired, hot or excited.

If an animal continually fails to eat all of his allowance of grain, it should be cut down unless he shows signs of losing flesh; in that case he should be carefully watched and his mouth examined for lampas, and, if he is found to be suffering from that cause, his grain should be soaked in warm water until soft. When changing grain, as from oats to barley or corn, cut down the grain allowance, returning gradually to full feed in about five days. During this period more hay should be fed.

All animals need salt. The army allowance provides for two ounces a week an animal, which is sufficient to allow a handful to each animal every ten days. It is better, however, to feed salt a certain day each week. Grain should always be fed before feeding hay. A mule will eat musty grain and hay, but a horse will not, and care should be exercised not to feed musty forage to either.

When mules, while pulling a load, fail to flap their ears, it is an indication that they are very tired. Mules which constantly flap their ears when working are in good condition. Proper grooming of the animals every day will do much to keep them in health and increase their pulling capacity.

A REMARKABLE STATEMENT

Mrs. Sheldon Spent $1900 for Treatment Without Benefit. Finally Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Englewood, Ill. — "While going through the Change of Life I suffered with headaches, nervousness, flashes of heat, and I suffered so much I did not know what I was doing at times. I spent $1900 on doctors and not one did me any good. One day a lady called at my house and said she had been as sick as I was at one time, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made her well, so I took it and now I am just as well as I ever was. I cannot understand why women don't see how much pain and suffering they would escape by taking your medicine. I cannot praise it enough for it saved my life and kept me from the Insane Hospital."—Mrs. E. SHELDON, 5657 S. Halsted St., Englewood, Ill.

Physicians undoubtedly did their best, battled with this case steadily and could do no more, but often the most scientific treatment is surpassed by the medicinal properties of the good old fashioned roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

ENTHUSIASM HIGH AT Y. W. C. A. SUPPER

The sight was well worth attendance, that of the three hundred employed women enjoying supper at the Young Men's Christian association on Friday evening. This was the opening phase of a campaign, it is to be hoped, which will lead to a Young Women's Christian association for this city. Tables the length of the room, that same length being marked by vased spring flowers and gleaming crystal candles, was the first picture. Mrs. O. E. Arbuckle with Miss Corbett, state organizer, on one hand, and Miss Ethel Jackson from the Rebecca Sparks home on the other, as center to the three hundred guests, this was the second picture. But these cannot give the undercurrent of enthusiasm which was manifest. It was truly all sorts and conditions of women, and the actual demonstration of that democracy which is the foundational idea of the International Young Women's Christian association. Miss Corbett is directing the local committee, step by step. The daily press will announce these. In the meantime, Mrs. Arbuckle appealed for the slogan from the State Orphanage out on Herring avenue, "This building was prayed up, and talked up and sung up by Abe Mulkey."

Society Notes

On Tuesday, the Press club meets with Mrs. Willard Jackson and not Mrs. J. F. Smartt, as was first announced.

Cards have come from Miss Susie Markham Jones, who is sojourner in Little Rock for an indefinite time. She is pleased with her new surroundings and at present is enjoying the visit from here of her sister, Mrs. Robert Grier Patton.

Miss Pauline Breustedt, who is at preparatory school for Bryn Mawr, is spending her Easter vacation in New York City chaperoned among shops, art galleries and theatres.

Director Goodman of the Cotton Palace sounds a long-felt want from the women when he suggests a more specific information bureau during Cotton Palace season. To the women, the most important thing in this connection would be a bulletin board at entrance to grounds to give the day's program, with hours and building. Many of the day's excursionists leave home before reading the paper, and hurry direct to grounds. The women have found this detrimental to their demonstrations, and other special features.

We noticed the other day a picture of the "Annie Lowery Home for Smaller Animals." This was in Philadelphia. We wonder if Waco would ever have a bequest to the suffering and homeless animals.

It is the item of pleasurable curiosity now to hear what the schedule of gayety is for the Flower Festival in San Antonio. The Waco representatives, the Misses Frances Hays and Ethel Foster, are soon to receive their bulletin for Coronation week.

One by one, even though the time be somewhat in advance, we hear summer plans discussed. Among the last is, that Mrs. O. E. Arbuckle and Miss Agnes Arbuckle, who journeyed to California last season, will spend the next heated term among the interesting sights of New England.

Expected at any moment is Mrs. Lurline Moseley Harvey, who has spent the past two months with Mr. Harvey in Central America. Mrs. Harvey will guest in the suburban home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Moseley.

Miss Mildred Corbett during her sojourn here is with Mrs. W. S. Duke, on North Twelfth street. She will visit Austin for a few days of the coming week, but devote the remainder of the time to the Young Women's Christian association for Waco.

Already we hear of society's plans to celebrate the coming of the Easter tide. Bridge and teas have been definitely mentioned. For those who do not keep up with the Lenten calendar we say again Easter comes April 23.

Compliments, even thus early, are being extended the Shakspere club for their park niche on Riverside Drive. By the way, the club is fortunate in the anticipation of a speaker direct from Stratford-on-Avon, for this park dedication.

With Mrs. E. M. Dotson for the City Federation and Mrs. Llewellyn Aubrey for the City Federation of Missionary societies, the women of Waco are to be congratulated over the prospect of these two capable administrations.

By the way, Dr. Hodges was not so far amiss when he remarked that he did not really know which body of women he was addressing on Thursday. There is confusion in so many "Federations;" is there not some way to make things clearer in the minds of the men?

It is an interesting message brought by Miss Laurine Gay to the many Waco women who journeyed to California last season to hear that, with additions of some of the interesting exhibits from San Francisco, the little exposition down at San Diego is prettier and more interesting now than heretofore.

The meeting of Forest Goodman with Captain Harry Jordan in San Antonio the other day brings pleasing reminiscence of the strikingly beautiful mother, Mrs. Jordan, who, in early days of Waco social history, was a leader. The Jordan home was removed for the handsome J. T. Davis residence, Fourteenth and Washington. In the days of Mrs. John G. Winter, Mrs. George Clark, Mrs. George Cleveland and others long since passed from Waco, Mrs. Jordan was one of the much sought women and frequent hostess within her own home. The family moved to the Pacific Slope.

Good for the automobile dealers! Women of Waco, you can now enjoy your rides, since the dealers say they are to manufacture their own gasoline, in demonstration that it can be used for less price than the now soaring quotations.

Is it not sociable these neighborly little visits society matrons and girls are paying to Marlin? Scarce a day goes by but that a Waco auto party is registered in our neighbor town.

Two floral offerings of late week deserve more than passing mention; the one went with compliments of Mrs. Flora Cameron, and daughters, to the president's desk, when the managers of the Cameron yards assembled for their annual convention; the other was found before the plate of Miss Mildred Corbett at the Y. M. C. A. supper, the gift of Mrs. Annie Wolfe Brigance, who, today, retains her membership card in the Young Women's Christian association given to her when a tiny girl in far-away British India.

The dinner courtesy shown Miss Ruth Blair as a bride-to-be by Miss Edwina Sturgis recalls the pleasant note that at the marriage of Miss Sturgis' parents, Miss Blair's father, the late Captain T. A. Blair, presided as toastmaster. This was in Calvert.

Society Personals

Mrs. Janie Gillespie Cunningham, of the United States army, is due on a visit to her mother, Mrs. W. S. Gillespie, Rose Park Place.

Mrs. E. V. Staley of Colcord avenue has gone on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Hulbert, in Oklahoma City.

Today notes the homegoing to Dallas of Mrs. A. D. Brinkerhoff, who has been guest of her mother, Mrs. J. T. Harrington, on South Eighth street.

The Mesdames C. W. Wilson and Nelson Smith, who have spent the week at Marlin, will return home today.

Miss Anna Macpherson of Denver, who is visiting now in Dallas, will be again with Mrs. A. G. Hubby, North Seventh street, early within the coming week.

Mrs. J. J. Terrill of Temple has been week-end visitor to Miss Lena Wood, North Twelfth street.

The Misses Susie Sleeper and Bettie Sedberry are spending this week-end in San Antonio. They will be at home to resume their Monday classes.

Mrs. U. E. Biggs of West is guest for a day or two of Mrs. A. C. Patton, Austin avenue.

Mrs. J. W. McClendon, who is up from Austin, guest of her sister, Mrs. O. H. Cross, Fourteenth and Austin, returns home with Monday.

Mrs. Mary Manton of North Twelfth street is expected before the close of the incoming week. She has been guest of her son in San Antonio.

Mrs. James B. Baker and Mrs. Hugh McLendon, of Columbus street, are guests of Mrs. G. H. Mensing in Galveston.

Mrs. W. C. Van Hook of Corsicana is guest of Mrs. R. B. Van Hook, Rose Park Place.

Soaking for several hours in buttermilk, followed by a rinsing in clean water, will soften and cleanse sponges.

AN APPEAL TO WIVES

You know the terrible affliction that comes to many homes from the result of a drinking husband or son. You know of the money wasted on "drink" that is needed in the home to purchase food and clothing. ORRINE has saved thousands of drinking men. It is a home treatment. No sanitarium expense. Can be given secretly. We are in earnest when we ask you to give ORRINE a trial. You have nothing to risk and everything to gain, for your money will be returned if after a trial you fail to get results from ORRINE.

ORRINE is prepared in two forms: No. 1, secret treatment; ORRINE No. 2, the voluntary treatment. Costs only $1 a box. Ask us for booklet. Powers-Kelly Drug Co., Austin at Fifth street.

Vermont Almost Prohibition.

On March 7 Vermont voted down statewide prohibition. A glance at the wet and dry map will show that a large area of the state is already under prohibition. Of its fourteen counties, eight are dry; of 246 towns, 225 are dry. Eighty per cent of its population live in prohibition territory, secured through local option. The anti-liquor people of Vermont will some time learn, as nineteen other states have learned, the advantages of the larger prohibition unit.

TODAY'S BEAUTY TALK

You can make a delightful shampoo with very little effort and for a very trifling cost if you get from your druggist a package of canthrox and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. Your shampoo is now ready. Just pour a little at a time on the scalp and rub briskly. This creates an abundance of thick, white lather that thoroughly dissolves and removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt. After rinsing, the hair dries quickly, with a fluffiness that makes it seem heavier than it is, and takes on a rich luster and a softness that make arranging it a pleasure.

Nemo NEWS

Devoted to the HEALTH, COMFORT and BEAUTY ••• of WOMEN •••

A good friend has set us to thinking. She said:

Which means that our ads have given her the idea that the Wonderlift is a sick woman's corset.

Probably that's our fault—we may have said too much about the marvelous health features when, in reality, the Wonderlift is quite as remarkable as a style corset.

Here's the fact:

The very features that make Nemo Wonderlift Corsets so healthful also mould the figure into perfect fashion-lines.

No. 555

For instance:

1. The Wonderlift Bandlet promotes health by giving perfect physical support. It also prevents the corset from riding up and twisting, thus preserving smooth, fashionable lines.

2. It reshapes and reduces a too-full figure, and builds up and rounds out a too-slim figure. In other words, it corrects natural figure-defects; insures comfort.

3. The Nemo "bridge" assures freedom from pressure over gastric region, promotes free breathing and good digestion, i.e.: HEALTH. It also induces an erect, graceful, fashionable pose, without which real STYLE is impossible.

EMPHATICALLY the Nemo Wonderlift IS a STYLE Corset of the highest class, and it is MADE SO by its wonderful HYGIENIC FEATURES

There's one Wonderlift model for very slim figures with sharp hip bones and concave abdomen—No. 557, at $5.00.

Another for the biggest women, with rolls of flesh all over—No. 998, at $10.00. This is the only corset of its kind ever made.

Then there are other models, not so extreme:

554—for short stout women.....$5.00
555—for taller full figures.....$5.00
556—for slender to medium.....$5.00

We confidently repeat this prediction:

Better Than Spanking

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W., Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

RATIONS FOR HORSES.

The proper daily allowance of forage for a horse is twelve pounds of grain and fourteen pounds of hay. If a horse weighs over 1,300 pounds however, he should be fed fourteen pounds of grain and seventeen pounds of hay a day. For a mule nine pounds of grain and fourteen pounds of hay should be allowed.

These allowances are prescribed for United States army animals, but it is not deemed necessary to feed all animals the full allowance of grain. Each animal should be watched while eating and should be fed accordingly, except that the full allowance of hay should always be fed; if it is of good quality and the animal is in good condition, it will always be eaten. Grain should never be fed to animals when they are tired, hot or excited.

If an animal continually fails to eat all of his allowance of grain, it should be cut down unless he shows signs of losing flesh; in that case he should be carefully watched and his mouth examined for lampas, and, if he is found to be suffering from that cause, his grain should be soaked in warm water until soft. When changing grain, as from oats to barley or corn, cut down the grain allowance, returning gradually to full feed in about five days. During this period more hay should be fed.

All animals need salt. The army allowance provides for two ounces a week an animal, which is sufficient to allow a handful to each animal every ten days. It is better, however, to feed salt a certain day each week. Grain should always be fed before feeding hay. A mule will eat musty grain and hay, but a horse will not, and care should be exercised not to feed musty forage to either.

When mules, while pulling a load, fail to flap their ears, it is an indication that they are very tired. Mules which constantly flap their ears when working are in good condition. Proper grooming of the animals every day will do much to keep them in health and increase their pulling capacity.

Mrs. Sheldon Spent $1900 for Treatment Without Benefit. Finally Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Englewood, Ill. — "While going through the Change of Life I suffered with headaches, nervousness, flashes of heat, and I suffered so much I did not know what I was doing at times. I spent $1900 on doctors and not one did me any good. One day a lady called at my house and said she had been as sick as I was at one time, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made her well, so I took it and now I am just as well as I ever was. I cannot understand why women don't see how much pain and suffering they would escape by taking your medicine. I cannot praise it enough for it saved my life and kept me from the Insane Hospital."—Mrs. E. SHELDON, 5657 S. Halsted St., Englewood, Ill.

Physicians undoubtedly did their best, battled with this case steadily and could do no more, but often the most scientific treatment is surpassed by the medicinal properties of the good old fashioned roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complication exists it pays to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special free advice.

Society Notes

On Tuesday, the Press club meets with Mrs. Willard Jackson and not Mrs. J. F. Smartt, as was first announced.

Cards have come from Miss Susie Markham Jones, who is sojourner in Little Rock for an indefinite time. She is pleased with her new surroundings and at present is enjoying the visit from here of her sister, Mrs. Robert Grier Patton.

Miss Pauline Breustedt, who is at preparatory school for Bryn Mawr, is spending her Easter vacation in New York City chaperoned among shops, art galleries and theatres.

Director Goodman of the Cotton Palace sounds a long-felt want from the women when he suggests a more specific information bureau during Cotton Palace season. To the women, the most important thing in this connection would be a bulletin board at entrance to grounds to give the day's program, with hours and building. Many of the day's excursionists leave home before reading the paper, and hurry direct to grounds. The women have found this detrimental to their demonstrations, and other special features.

We noticed the other day a picture of the "Annie Lowery Home for Smaller Animals." This was in Philadelphia. We wonder if Waco would ever have a bequest to the suffering and homeless animals.

It is the item of pleasurable curiosity now to hear what the schedule of gayety is for the Flower Festival in San Antonio. The Waco representatives, the Misses Frances Hays and Ethel Foster, are soon to receive their bulletin for Coronation week.

One by one, even though the time be somewhat in advance, we hear summer plans discussed. Among the last is, that Mrs. O. E. Arbuckle and Miss Agnes Arbuckle, who journeyed to California last season, will spend the next heated term among the interesting sights of New England.

Expected at any moment is Mrs. Lurline Moseley Harvey, who has spent the past two months with Mr. Harvey in Central America. Mrs. Harvey will guest in the suburban home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Moseley.

Miss Mildred Corbett during her sojourn here is with Mrs. W. S. Duke, on North Twelfth street. She will visit Austin for a few days of the coming week, but devote the remainder of the time to the Young Women's Christian association for Waco.

Already we hear of society's plans to celebrate the coming of the Easter tide. Bridge and teas have been definitely mentioned. For those who do not keep up with the Lenten calendar we say again Easter comes April 23.

Compliments, even thus early, are being extended the Shakspere club for their park niche on Riverside Drive. By the way, the club is fortunate in the anticipation of a speaker direct from Stratford-on-Avon, for this park dedication.

With Mrs. E. M. Dotson for the City Federation and Mrs. Llewellyn Aubrey for the City Federation of Missionary societies, the women of Waco are to be congratulated over the prospect of these two capable administrations.

By the way, Dr. Hodges was not so far amiss when he remarked that he did not really know which body of women he was addressing on Thursday. There is confusion in so many "Federations;" is there not some way to make things clearer in the minds of the men?

It is an interesting message brought by Miss Laurine Gay to the many Waco women who journeyed to California last season to hear that, with additions of some of the interesting exhibits from San Francisco, the little exposition down at San Diego is prettier and more interesting now than heretofore.

The meeting of Forest Goodman with Captain Harry Jordan in San Antonio the other day brings pleasing reminiscence of the strikingly beautiful mother, Mrs. Jordan, who, in early days of Waco social history, was a leader. The Jordan home was removed for the handsome J. T. Davis residence, Fourteenth and Washington. In the days of Mrs. John G. Winter, Mrs. George Clark, Mrs. George Cleveland and others long since passed from Waco, Mrs. Jordan was one of the much sought women and frequent hostess within her own home. The family moved to the Pacific Slope.

Good for the automobile dealers! Women of Waco, you can now enjoy your rides, since the dealers say they are to manufacture their own gasoline, in demonstration that it can be used for less price than the now soaring quotations.

Is it not sociable these neighborly little visits society matrons and girls are paying to Marlin? Scarce a day goes by but that a Waco auto party is registered in our neighbor town.

Two floral offerings of late week deserve more than passing mention; the one went with compliments of Mrs. Flora Cameron, and daughters, to the president's desk, when the managers of the Cameron yards assembled for their annual convention; the other was found before the plate of Miss Mildred Corbett at the Y. M. C. A. supper, the gift of Mrs. Annie Wolfe Brigance, who, today, retains her membership card in the Young Women's Christian association given to her when a tiny girl in far-away British India.

The dinner courtesy shown Miss Ruth Blair as a bride-to-be by Miss Edwina Sturgis recalls the pleasant note that at the marriage of Miss Sturgis' parents, Miss Blair's father, the late Captain T. A. Blair, presided as toastmaster. This was in Calvert.

Society Personals

Mrs. Janie Gillespie Cunningham, of the United States army, is due on a visit to her mother, Mrs. W. S. Gillespie, Rose Park Place.

Mrs. E. V. Staley of Colcord avenue has gone on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Hulbert, in Oklahoma City.

Today notes the homegoing to Dallas of Mrs. A. D. Brinkerhoff, who has been guest of her mother, Mrs. J. T. Harrington, on South Eighth street.

The Mesdames C. W. Wilson and Nelson Smith, who have spent the week at Marlin, will return home today.

Miss Anna Macpherson of Denver, who is visiting now in Dallas, will be again with Mrs. A. G. Hubby, North Seventh street, early within the coming week.

Mrs. J. J. Terrill of Temple has been week-end visitor to Miss Lena Wood, North Twelfth street.

The Misses Susie Sleeper and Bettie Sedberry are spending this week-end in San Antonio. They will be at home to resume their Monday classes.

Mrs. U. E. Biggs of West is guest for a day or two of Mrs. A. C. Patton, Austin avenue.

Mrs. J. W. McClendon, who is up from Austin, guest of her sister, Mrs. O. H. Cross, Fourteenth and Austin, returns home with Monday.

Mrs. Mary Manton of North Twelfth street is expected before the close of the incoming week. She has been guest of her son in San Antonio.

Mrs. James B. Baker and Mrs. Hugh McLendon, of Columbus street, are guests of Mrs. G. H. Mensing in Galveston.

Mrs. W. C. Van Hook of Corsicana is guest of Mrs. R. B. Van Hook, Rose Park Place.

Soaking for several hours in buttermilk, followed by a rinsing in clean water, will soften and cleanse sponges.

AN APPEAL TO WIVES

You know the terrible affliction that comes to many homes from the result of a drinking husband or son. You know of the money wasted on "drink" that is needed in the home to purchase food and clothing. ORRINE has saved thousands of drinking men. It is a home treatment. No sanitarium expense. Can be given secretly. We are in earnest when we ask you to give ORRINE a trial. You have nothing to risk and everything to gain, for your money will be returned if after a trial you fail to get results from ORRINE.

ORRINE is prepared in two forms: No. 1, secret treatment; ORRINE No. 2, the voluntary treatment. Costs only $1 a box. Ask us for booklet. Powers-Kelly Drug Co., Austin at Fifth street.

Vermont Almost Prohibition.

On March 7 Vermont voted down statewide prohibition. A glance at the wet and dry map will show that a large area of the state is already under prohibition. Of its fourteen counties, eight are dry; of 246 towns, 225 are dry. Eighty per cent of its population live in prohibition territory, secured through local option. The anti-liquor people of Vermont will some time learn, as nineteen other states have learned, the advantages of the larger prohibition unit.

TODAY'S BEAUTY TALK

You can make a delightful shampoo with very little effort and for a very trifling cost if you get from your druggist a package of canthrox and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. Your shampoo is now ready. Just pour a little at a time on the scalp and rub briskly. This creates an abundance of thick, white lather that thoroughly dissolves and removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt. After rinsing, the hair dries quickly, with a fluffiness that makes it seem heavier than it is, and takes on a rich luster and a softness that make arranging it a pleasure.

MRS. SCOTT PRESIDENT OF TEXAS PRESS WOMEN

In closing their last annual convention at Austin, the gavel for the Texas Women's Press association was handed to Mrs. Fred Scott of Austin. Mrs. Scott is one of the old, the tried, the true, in the press association. She is familiar with the work in all its details and she is personally acquainted with all the members of the association. HOME ECONOMICS WEEK HAS PROGRAM IN DALLAS

Following the two weeks on Home Economics in Austin and Fort Worth, Dallas is now making ready for a similar opportunity for the women of the city and surrounding territory. First mentioned among the speakers is Frank Alvah Parsons, who was on the first Home Economics program at the State University. Mr. Parsons speaks along the line of things artistic, dress and furniture, in the home. Miss Mary Gearing of the Domestic Science department of the State University, who has really been the inspiration for all this interest in Texas, will give series of addresses along more practical lines of home making, the expense account. Dr. A. Caswell Ellis of the State University will be among the speakers. Illustrations in charts, photographs with statistics, will be an adjunct to the lectures. The dates are April 11-15, inclusive.

ANTHONY AMENDMENT HAS BEEN ABANDONED

The past week has found women all over the country who were working for the passage of the Susan B. Anthony amendment admit that it is worth while to work no longer. The present congress will not discuss the amendment. This means, congress has denied the suffragist their petition that the question of votes for women be made a national measure and not one for consideration of the states separately. Along with the Anthony amendment others were killed in the committee room. This, the suffragists hold, was cause of their failure. Had the bills received attention, one by one, they claim, theirs would have reached the floor of the two congressional bodies. Like the vessel steering to port, the women will tack about for another shift of sail. They will continue to work for the cause which they espouse.

STATE FINE ARTS SESSION MEETS ON TUESDAY

On Tuesday, in the Ney studio, the annual session of the State Fine Arts association convenes. This is an all-day meeting of men and women from over the state who are promoting art interest for Texas and Texans. Some business, an art exhibit, and a program along things artistic, with dinner under the trees of Hyde park, where the Ney studio is situated, this has been the program. Mrs. Joseph Dibrell of Seguin, who purchased the Ney studio and gave it as a state museum, is elated over the apparent increase of interest since the Fine Arts day last year. She transferred her purchase to the State University, and she reports a much broader use for the studio within the last twelve months. No location could better serve its purpose, since the thousands of students at "the State" means art influence carried to the remotest hamlet of Texas.

WOMEN SUFFRAGE WORKERS HAVE THEIR PETITION

The presence of Miss Elizabeth Freeman, state organizer for women's suffrage clubs in Texas, has not come from New York in vain. Almost daily since Miss Freeman came into the state in midwinter, she has reported another equal franchise club organized. From the Red to the Rio Grande; from the gulf to the foothills, women have responded. Following organization which means work towards increase of local interest, the women have prepared a mammoth petition which prays the Texas legislature to submit a vote from the men of Texas, whether or not they are willing for our state constitution to be so changed as to relieve the "sex" clause to qualify votes; in other words, that women as well as men be given the ballot. Thousands upon thousands of names are on that petition. These are by no means confined to women. There are about ten clubs in Texas whose membership is men and whose work is to secure voting privilege for women. These, too, are on that petition. The progress will be watched with keen interest both by supporters and opposers of the vote for women.

LIFE WORK OF THE CHILD; WHAT AND WHEN IS THIS?

Before the Parent-Teachers' club of the Austin High school, Mrs. George C. Butte has recently read an excellent paper. Her subject was, "What Shall Parents Look for in Aiding Children to Choose Their Life Work, and When?" Mr. Butte is now member of the State University faculty. In preparation for his work, he spent a number of years in the famed Universities of Germany. Mrs. Butte was with him. The German home life is modeled the world over. Observation here, the fact that she is a mother herself, and residence now among Texas students, has given Mrs. Butte wide and practical observation, individually and comparatively. Her address has been published. It is quite interesting and contains interviews with leading men of various vocation. In summary Mrs. Butte says, first of all, seek guidance of the Source of All Wisdom, but, in the practical training, make of your child a Christian character, a persistent worker and a trained thinker; do this and the time will come when he or she can decide what the life work shall be without any advice from the parent.

CHILD WELFARE CONGRESS HOLDS DISTRICT MEETING

Simultaneous with the club women, the various individual clubs within the State Child Welfare congress, are now ready to hold spring district meetings. These will be confined to topics which affect child life, and are so planned as to bring together workers for child welfare in every section of Texas.

Hillsboro, Gainesville, Palestine, Austin and Beaumont are the entertaining towns. These districts will be requested to endorse the bill which the state Parent-Teachers' association will support. This bill is to make physical examination of school children compulsory. This is something mothers may well advocate. Many a child has been pronounced stupid and so treated because of annoying adenoids; many a child has been affected from association with one afflicted with communicable disease; many a child has lost eyesight because examination was not had in time to correct defect. Nothing can add more to efficiency in social life than this subject of compulsory examination. The cities who conduct their schools under special charter have this. The Parent-Teachers' congress is taking this step in behalf of the rural school child and those small town school boards have no charter.

HOME BEAUTIFUL IDEA REACHES RURAL LIFE

Now that Waco is all enthusiasm over the clean and the beautiful home as well as the vacation garden for the school boy and girl, why not extend this idea to our home in the country? The good roads of McLennan county are doing much to bring home and country life together. The city pleasure seekers are now spinning across country for afternoon drive as well as paying visits to nearby towns. What more hospitable than for every home to be a bower of shade and blossom? If the city woman by care and attention proclaims love for her abiding place, why not the same with the woman who is mistress of the rural home? We believe that this civic enthusiasm is not to stop with the boundary line of Waco; we believe that every woman who lives beside one of our country roads will catch this enthusiasm and we will see an avenue of beauty as we drive out during all the summer months. In Waco, the Rotary club, the Welfare league, private clubs, civic committees from the federation, and a wonderful organization among the negroes, all these, to say nothing of individual clubs, who have special spots to commemmorate or to beautify, all these are working actively. It is now their appeal that the rural home join in the work. Let us have not only Waco, the county seat, the joy forever, but every home in the country, an individual in the general beauty spot.

DISTRICT MEETINGS BEGIN WITH APRIL

Club circles are now making ready for their various district meetings. Programs have not been published. Some feel that these are really not of public interest since the idea of the district meeting is stressing simplicity. By "simplicity" is meant the suppression of elaborated addresses and papers in order that the delegates may come into closer touch by discussions from the floor, following the reading of each district chairman's report. The foundational idea in having the district meetings is this of personal intercourse, a day when the clubs can meet, tell what they are doing and seek information as to how their work can be made more effective. Naturally, the small town delegate derives this from the city delegate. It is this getting back to the original idea which is simplifying the programs.

Another idea with the club women has been the pledge to support only one legislative measure at a time. In this way, speakers along the line of that one measure supported are invited to appear before the district delegates. The club women are now concentrated upon the bill which promotes free libraries for each county in Texas. The Fourth district will have the author of that bill appear in convention to explain the nature of this bill, and what it proposed to result from it. Delegates can thus return to their clubs to give intelligent report and, it is hoped, enthusiasm, each to secure a library for her own county.

This is the plan for the Fourth district meeting, over which Miss Decca Lamar West of Waco will preside at Brenham.

PREPAREDNESS MOVEMENT COMES INTO OUR STATE

Women who read the metropolitan dailies have heard for some weeks of the great wave of interest over national preparedness which has engulfed our American women. All sorts of ideas for this wide subject are indorsed. Some are converting grounds of summer homes and unsold lots into truck gardens, in order that the estimate may be made as the preparedness of America to furnish her own foodstuffs in case she might be forced to arms. Others are furthering classes through which women are studying rules for "first aid to the injured," hospital service as it is. Still others are going into statistics to find just what our condition is as regards power to defend national rights. All this follows the idea that, we are not going into war, but we are making ready should war ever come to us. One prominent speaker uses the illustration of insurance; because, we make ourselves safe against fire, it does not follow that we are bound to have a fire; when we insure against accident in travel, it is not absolutely sure that we are to meet with accident. This is the foundational idea of all this talk about "preparedness." American women are arousing to patriotic work as they have never before done. In the War between the States the heroism of the women was personal. The war was on, and their sacrifice was impelled. Not a woman had ever heard of being "prepared."

Letters Have Arrived.

The past week has brought letters to every woman's club in Texas. The letterheads read, "The Woman's Section of the Movement for National Preparedness." Headquarters is in New York City and the signature to the letter is that of Mrs. Lindon Bates, chairman. Mrs. Bates states that this organization is the outgrowth of the society for relief to the Belgians, formed a year ago. This movement is said by Mrs. Bates to be "most splendid response to philanthropy and international fraternity the world has ever known" (and, think, what a glorious part Texas had in this). The "Preparedness" organization is only five weeks old. Fourteen states have chairman already. Endorsement is asked for an active campaign for defense of America together with guarantee of continued peace. Members are urged to send signatures to congress, a petition for a safe America.

Mrs. Fall Chairman.

Texas is represented by no less an influential and conservative woman than Mrs. Henry B. Fall, retiring president of the State Federation of Women's clubs. The Texas women will be kept informed by Mrs. Fall. This is decidedly the something new for the women of Texas. In the East, as said, local Preparedness clubs are organizing rapidly. The movement, like as with the men, has broken the barrier of party affiliation. Democrat versus Republican is all forgotten in this one amalgamation for adequate defense of our country.

Secret That Never Fails To Grow Hair

By Miss Valeska Suratt

DANDRUFF is one of the main causes of falling hair. Another cause is "starvation of the hair-root. Ordinary hair tonics merely stimulate for the time being and can not stop dandruff or make hair gray. Supply the necessary nutriment so that the tissies of the scalp and hair roots may return to their original condition of vigor and health,—this is the key. For this purpose nothing is so effective as my formula which is a mixture of one ounce of betaquinol, half a pint of alcohol and half a pint of water (or with a full pint of bay rum instead of water and alcohol, if preferred.) This costs less than any prepared hair-tonic and its results in forcing hair to grow, stopping dandruff and the falling of hair are very remarkable. Every woman should use it. It will not fail.

* * *

DESIROUS—My shampoo dissolves every particle of dandruff and fatty accumulation, which soap does not do because of the alkali it contains. This is the only head wash that acts on this principle. It makes the scalp extraordinarily clean, and the hair silky and easy to do up. Dissolve a teaspoonful of eggol in half a cup of hot water. Enough eggol can be secured for a very modest price at any drug store to furnish a dozen or more of these unusual shampoos.

* * *

MRS. G. O.—You can remove superfluous hairs more easily, quickly and thoroughly by sulfo solution than any other way. This simply dissolves away the hair instead of burning it off as do ordinary depilatories. It never leaves a mark, and never irritates the most delicate skin. Any druggist can supply you with the sulfo solution.

* * *

TRYING—It is a certainty that you can get rid of blackheads completely in a few minutes by simply rubbing them with a little neroxin, sprinkled on a sponge made wet with hot water. Any drug store can supply you with the neroxin. This removes every blackhead, large and small.

OLDISH—What every woman wants and can now obtain is the quick removal of wrinkles. My following formula is one which does this in a very amazing way in a few weeks' time. You make this up yourself at home in a very few moments by dissolving two tablespoonfuls of glycerine and two ounces of eptol in half a pint of hot water. The satiny cream which results removes wrinkles almost magically. Large and small wrinkles, crow's feet, lines of age and sagging of flesh, all disappear quickly and completely transform one's appearance.

* * *

ZESTER T. N.—I want you to use this cream on your face, arms, hands, neck and shoulders, and in a short time you will find a remarkable improvement in your complexion. Red spots, freckles and blemishes vanish, producing a most exquisite purity and tint to the skin. I consider it one of my best formulas. It is the beautifier without a peer, and is very economical. Mix one tablespoonful of glycerine in a pint of hot water and add one ounce of zintone, which can be secured at any drug store.

* * *

MRS. R. B. S.—Sorry indeed you couldn't get at the drug store the neroxin for removing blackheads quickly. In such case, my secretary will get it and send it to you if you will address "Secretary to Valeska Suratt, Thompson Bldg., Chicago," and enclosing the price, which is fifty cents.

* * *

SUBNORMAL—It is usually a difficult matter to develop the bust, and this cannot always be assured. A mixture of two ounces of ruetone and half a cup of sugar in a pint of cold water, and take in two teaspoonfuls after each meal before retiring, has produced splendid results, however. The ruetone can be secured at any drug store.

* * *

MRS. T. O. K.—Hydrolized talc, which can be obtained at any pharmacy, will at once relieve that unnatural and excessive perspiration of the armpits which is so embarrassing and so damaging to gowns. It also destroys all perspiration odors instantly and all other body odors.

Nothing can add more to efficiency in social life than this subject of compulsory examination. The cities who conduct their schools under special charter have this. The Parent-Teachers' congress is taking this step in behalf of the rural school child and those small town school boards have no charter.

HOME BEAUTIFUL IDEA REACHES RURAL LIFE

Now that Waco is all enthusiasm over the clean and the beautiful home as well as the vacation garden for the school boy and girl, why not extend this idea to our home in the country? The good roads of McLennan county are doing much to bring home and country life together. The city pleasure seekers are now spinning across country for afternoon drive as well as paying visits to nearby towns. What more hospitable than for every home to be a bower of shade and blossom? If the city woman by care and attention proclaims love for her abiding place, why not the same with the woman who is mistress of the rural home? We believe that this civic enthusiasm is not to stop with the boundary line of Waco; we believe that every woman who lives beside one of our country roads will catch this enthusiasm and we will see an avenue of beauty as we drive out during all the summer months. In Waco, the Rotary club, the Welfare league, private clubs, civic committees from the federation, and a wonderful organization among the negroes, all these, to say nothing of individual clubs, who have special spots to commemmorate or to beautify, all these are working actively. It is now their appeal that the rural home join in the work. Let us have not only Waco, the county seat, the joy forever, but every home in the country, an individual in the general beauty spot.

DISTRICT MEETINGS BEGIN WITH APRIL

Club circles are now making ready for their various district meetings. Programs have not been published. Some feel that these are really not of public interest since the idea of the district meeting is stressing simplicity. By "simplicity" is meant the suppression of elaborated addresses and papers in order that the delegates may come into closer touch by discussions from the floor, following the reading of each district chairman's report. The foundational idea in having the district meetings is this of personal intercourse, a day when the clubs can meet, tell what they are doing and seek information as to how their work can be made more effective. Naturally, the small town delegate derives this from the city delegate. It is this getting back to the original idea which is simplifying the programs.

Another idea with the club women has been the pledge to support only one legislative measure at a time. In this way, speakers along the line of that one measure supported are invited to appear before the district delegates. The club women are now concentrated upon the bill which promotes free libraries for each county in Texas. The Fourth district will have the author of that bill appear in convention to explain the nature of this bill, and what it proposed to result from it. Delegates can thus return to their clubs to give intelligent report and, it is hoped, enthusiasm, each to secure a library for her own county.

This is the plan for the Fourth district meeting, over which Miss Decca Lamar West of Waco will preside at Brenham.

PREPAREDNESS MOVEMENT COMES INTO OUR STATE

Women who read the metropolitan dailies have heard for some weeks of the great wave of interest over national preparedness which has engulfed our American women. All sorts of ideas for this wide subject are indorsed. Some are converting grounds of summer homes and unsold lots into truck gardens, in order that the estimate may be made as the preparedness of America to furnish her own foodstuffs in case she might be forced to arms. Others are furthering classes through which women are studying rules for "first aid to the injured," hospital service as it is. Still others are going into statistics to find just what our condition is as regards power to defend national rights. All this follows the idea that, we are not going into war, but we are making ready should war ever come to us. One prominent speaker uses the illustration of insurance; because, we make ourselves safe against fire, it does not follow that we are bound to have a fire; when we insure against accident in travel, it is not absolutely sure that we are to meet with accident. This is the foundational idea of all this talk about "preparedness." American women are arousing to patriotic work as they have never before done. In the War between the States the heroism of the women was personal. The war was on, and their sacrifice was impelled. Not a woman had ever heard of being "prepared."

Letters Have Arrived.

The past week has brought letters to every woman's club in Texas. The letterheads read, "The Woman's Section of the Movement for National Preparedness." Headquarters is in New York City and the signature to the letter is that of Mrs. Lindon Bates, chairman. Mrs. Bates states that this organization is the outgrowth of the society for relief to the Belgians, formed a year ago. This movement is said by Mrs. Bates to be "most splendid response to philanthropy and international fraternity the world has ever known" (and, think, what a glorious part Texas had in this). The "Preparedness" organization is only five weeks old. Fourteen states have chairman already. Endorsement is asked for an active campaign for defense of America together with guarantee of continued peace. Members are urged to send signatures to congress, a petition for a safe America.

Mrs. Fall Chairman.

Texas is represented by no less an influential and conservative woman than Mrs. Henry B. Fall, retiring president of the State Federation of Women's clubs. The Texas women will be kept informed by Mrs. Fall. This is decidedly the something new for the women of Texas. In the East, as said, local Preparedness clubs are organizing rapidly. The movement, like as with the men, has broken the barrier of party affiliation. Democrat versus Republican is all forgotten in this one amalgamation for adequate defense of our country.

Secret That Never Fails To Grow Hair

By Miss Valeska Suratt

DANDRUFF is one of the main causes of falling hair. Another cause is "starvation of the hair-root. Ordinary hair tonics merely stimulate for the time being and can not stop dandruff or make hair gray. Supply the necessary nutriment so that the tissies of the scalp and hair roots may return to their original condition of vigor and health,—this is the key. For this purpose nothing is so effective as my formula which is a mixture of one ounce of betaquinol, half a pint of alcohol and half a pint of water (or with a full pint of bay rum instead of water and alcohol, if preferred.) This costs less than any prepared hair-tonic and its results in forcing hair to grow, stopping dandruff and the falling of hair are very remarkable. Every woman should use it. It will not fail.

* * *

DESIROUS—My shampoo dissolves every particle of dandruff and fatty accumulation, which soap does not do because of the alkali it contains. This is the only head wash that acts on this principle. It makes the scalp extraordinarily clean, and the hair silky and easy to do up. Dissolve a teaspoonful of eggol in half a cup of hot water. Enough eggol can be secured for a very modest price at any drug store to furnish a dozen or more of these unusual shampoos.

* * *

MRS. G. O.—You can remove superfluous hairs more easily, quickly and thoroughly by sulfo solution than any other way. This simply dissolves away the hair instead of burning it off as do ordinary depilatories. It never leaves a mark, and never irritates the most delicate skin. Any druggist can supply you with the sulfo solution.

* * *

TRYING—It is a certainty that you can get rid of blackheads completely in a few minutes by simply rubbing them with a little neroxin, sprinkled on a sponge made wet with hot water. Any drug store can supply you with the neroxin. This removes every blackhead, large and small.

OLDISH—What every woman wants and can now obtain is the quick removal of wrinkles. My following formula is one which does this in a very amazing way in a few weeks' time. You make this up yourself at home in a very few moments by dissolving two tablespoonfuls of glycerine and two ounces of eptol in half a pint of hot water. The satiny cream which results removes wrinkles almost magically. Large and small wrinkles, crow's feet, lines of age and sagging of flesh, all disappear quickly and completely transform one's appearance.

* * *

ZESTER T. N.—I want you to use this cream on your face, arms, hands, neck and shoulders, and in a short time you will find a remarkable improvement in your complexion. Red spots, freckles and blemishes vanish, producing a most exquisite purity and tint to the skin. I consider it one of my best formulas. It is the beautifier without a peer, and is very economical. Mix one tablespoonful of glycerine in a pint of hot water and add one ounce of zintone, which can be secured at any drug store.

* * *

MRS. R. B. S.—Sorry indeed you couldn't get at the drug store the neroxin for removing blackheads quickly. In such case, my secretary will get it and send it to you if you will address "Secretary to Valeska Suratt, Thompson Bldg., Chicago," and enclosing the price, which is fifty cents.

* * *

SUBNORMAL—It is usually a difficult matter to develop the bust, and this cannot always be assured. A mixture of two ounces of ruetone and half a cup of sugar in a pint of cold water, and take in two teaspoonfuls after each meal before retiring, has produced splendid results, however. The ruetone can be secured at any drug store.

* * *

MRS. T. O. K.—Hydrolized talc, which can be obtained at any pharmacy, will at once relieve that unnatural and excessive perspiration of the armpits which is so embarrassing and so damaging to gowns. It also destroys all perspiration odors instantly and all other body odors.

LARGE AMOUNT CRUDE RUBBER BEING USED

DEMAND STEADILY INCREASES

Crude rubber is a commodity about which one hears much these days. The demand for it is increasing steadily and rapidly. New uses are being found for it constantly. Never before has the number of manufactured articles been so numerous and varied as today. In the United States alone the consumption of crude rubber in 1915 was in the neighborhood of 90,000 tons, while the production of all grades of manufactured rubber merchandise is estimated at 140,000 tons.

Col. S. P. Colt, president of the United States Rubber company, in discussing the wonderful development of both the crude and manufactured rubber materials, recently said:

"Probably very few people outside of the trade, even today, know to whom and what we are indebted for the great number and variety of rubber articles that we are enjoying.

"I refer to Charles Goodyear and to his discovery of the vulcanization of rubber about 1844. Prior to that time rubber goods could not be manufactured successfully. For instance, if you had bought a hot water bottle (and I doubt if they were made then) the rubber would have run soon after you had filled it. If you had bought a rubber coat and worn it in a sleet storm it would have cracked from the cold. Charles Goodyear discovered a process for treating rubber with sulphur at a temperature of 230 degrees, which brought about a chemical change in the commodity, so that it was no longer affected by an ordinary degree of either cold or heat.

PROCESS PATENTED BY GOODYEAR IN 1844.

"This process was patented by Mr. Goodyear in 1844. There are still four companies in existence, all important subsidiaries of the United States Rubber company, which were the first to secure licenses from Mr. Goodyear to use the process. This occurred about seventy years ago, long before any other companies now using the Goodyear name came into existence. So you will see that we are by far the oldest as well as the largest manufacturers of rubber in the world, under the Goodyear patent. You know, also, by the way, that the courts having decided that no one has the exclusive right to the use of the word "Goodyear," as a descriptive term, has today no longer any commercial significance.

"The four companies of ours to which I refer are L. Candee & Co., of New Haven, Conn.; The Meyer Rubber company of New Brunswick, N. J.; The Goodyear's India Rubber Glove Manufacturing company and the Goodyear's Metallic Shoe company, both of Naugatuck, Conn., where Charles Goodyear lived and developed his process. All of these companies are 'going strong.'"

In connection with the statements of Colonel Colt it is both interesting and instructive to know that in one of the Broadway windows on the ground floor of the United States Rubber company building at 1790 Broadway, New York, there is on exhibit a notable collection of momentoes of Charles Goodyear, without whose vulcanizing process in the judgment of Colonel Colt, there would not have been made a one-hundredth part of the rubber goods that are on the market today.

In the background in the center of the window, is a life size oil painting of Mr. Goodyear on hard rubber, by the celebrated artist, G. P. A. Healy, of Boston, under date of about 1850. It was the property of his granddaughter, Clara Goodyear, until acquired by the United States Rubber company a few years ago.

TABLE MADE OF RUBBER ON DISPLAY.

Directly under the painting is a table five feet in length by three in width, also made of hard rubber, which was formerly owned and used personally by Mr. Goodyear. It was exhibited at the Crystal Palace in London in 1851.

At the right of the painting may be seen another fine specimen of a cane, also of hard rubber, made in 1855 and carried during his latter years by Charles Goodyear.

Naturally this window is attracting a large number of people, particularly at night when the electric light over the painting of Mr. Goodyear brings it out to the best advantage. It is a truly notable collection of mementoes, all of which, with the exception of one cane, are the property of the United States Rubber company. Scattered about the window also are framed copies of correspondence which clearly establish the fact set forth by Colonel Colt to the effect that four of the present subsidiaries of the United States Rubber company were the first to get licenses to use the Goodyear process.

Special Equipment Is Responsible for Dodge Car Finish

The remarkable finish of the all-steel bodies of Dodge Brothers motor cars is always the subject of admiration where motor enthusiasts gather for comparisons and this has led to many conjectures as to how the finish is applied.

The department in which the bodies are enameled in the plant of Dodge Brothers at Detroit and a portion of the process is secret.

The steel bodies are carefully prepared for the reception of the enamel, which is applied in a manner developed in the plant, and are then conveyed through a battery of ovens approximately 1,000 feet long by a double chain system.

When they emerge the enamel has been baked on and has the high lustre that has attracted so much attention.

The entire installation cost more than $150,000 and many parts of it are exclusively Dodge Brothers'. The heat is automatically controlled by electricity and the temperature is maintained evenly within five degrees. The heat loss is but 4 per cent, so carefully has insulation been worked out.

The ovens have a capacity of 1,500 completely enameled bodies every twenty-four hours.

Congressman John N. Tillman from Arkansas has introduced a bill in congress providing pensions for Confederate soldiers and their wives. In a recent speech to the house Mr. Tillman said: "Let no Harry Hotspur of the South say in this chamber that he would scorn to accept any help from this government for the Confederate soldier. Why not leave the matter of acceptance to the soldier himself? And let no member from the great North say that disloyalty should not be rewarded. Such declarations will tend to destroy the blessed peace that now hovers over the two sections and pour the milk of concord into hell. It is not a pension that I am asking! it is a payment. It is not a charity, but justice. It is not a gift, but a reparation. It is not an advance; it is a return. It is not largess; it is conscience money."

Navy Department Buys Six Mitchells

"There has just been delivered to the United States navy yard at Charleston, S. C., a brand-new type of Red Cross ambulance," says Charles C. Weathered of the Waco Mitchell Auto company. "This ambulance is mounted on the 'Six of 16' Mitchell six-cylinder chassis and was supplied by the contractors, Miller Bros. Automobile and Supply House, who are distributors for Mitchell cars in the Washington, D. C., territory.

"The body was constructed according to the specifications furnished by the United States bureau of supplies and accounts of the navy department and was built in conformity with the long, graceful hood and cowl dash, distinctive of the Mitchell cars. The red wheels and the maintaining of the standard Mitchell blue finish made a job that blended in, to the complete satisfaction of the bureau, with the balance of the navy equipment.

"This Mitchell ambulance was inspected and accepted by the officials of the United States bureau of medicine and surgery in Washington prior to its shipment to Charleston and the officials expressed themselves as being well satisfied with this job, which in their minds was the most complete ambulance job ever supplied for navy or army use.

"The navy department officials say that there are going to be any number of these ambulances ordered for both navy and army departments' use during the coming year and more and more the automobile is supplanting in the Red Cross army work the use of the horse-drawn vehicle, just the same as it is in the other departments of the army and navy, which each day are increasing their efficiency."

Filipinos Have Profited.

The Filipinos have greatly profited by our rule, and great numbers desire us to remain. There is no demand for scuttle except from professional politicians and agitators, who have ends of their own to serve. They are hoping to come into control when we draw out and direct affairs themselves. And there is nothing to show that a government organized and directed by them would be stable or in any particular an improvement on the government we have organized and been directing for the people of the islands.—Washington Star.

AMONG THE BOYS

News and Facts and General Round-up from Among the Boys Who Get the Orders—Patronize It Next Sunday.

O. Oberlander joined the Chevrolet riders this week. F. C. Russell made the sale.

Don't only read the Auto Section, but send it to a friend, he may want to buy a car.

Wonders will never cease, it seems. Each week brings on a new record in automobile sales.

The Minute Man made a new record Wednesday. Some doctor, this Quick Service Minute car.

Randolph Williams caused the dotted line to be smeared a couple of times the past week.

If you haven't a job, why don't you sell automobiles? Business is fine and it's going to get better.

Ted O'Neal is back from the country, fresh and fine as a two-year-old. Welcome to our city, Ted.

Waco has just started as a distributing point for automobiles. Watch us the next twelve months.

C. E. Bird of the Dodge sales force is looking forward to the day when another train load will arrive.

If Waco continues its present record for selling automobiles, Dallas is going to have to be run some race.

The Hays Automibel company has a new sign on the front window. Good signs mean a good bit for a business.

Every preacher in the land should own an automobile and I believe that his congregation should buy it for him.

Don't sow your wild oats while you are young. Don't sow them at all. But if you need one, buy an automobile.

A bad padlock invites a pickpocket. Waco has been very fortunate in the matter of thefts of automobiles. Let's keep it so.

B. C. Nettles has completed a five days' Boy Scout campaign and is back at the old job with the Cadillac and Studebaker.

E. D. Nuckles of Whitney was among the Chevrolet buyers last week from the Herrick-McLarty Automobile company.

Show me the man, woman or child but who expects in time to come to own an automobile. No wonder business is good!

If you have an automobile and don't know where to go, watch the auto section of the Waco Morning News. There are some good suggestions.

There is no wrong without a remedy. If you have the wrong car, advertise it in The News' automobile section, trade it off and buy again, but buy right.

The Herrick Hardware company received a car of Buicks Saturday and expect another car Wednesday. They report that over half of the two cars are already sold.

Words show the wit of a man, but actions show his meaning. Keep your eyes open; read the auto section of The News; the advertisers here are responsible dealers.

If you can't buy a new car, why don't you buy a second-hand one? You can fnd what you want if you watch the automobile section of the Morning News.

Zeal without knowledge is fire without light. If you want to buy an automobile, peruse these columns carefully; there is automobile knowledge here—plenty of it.

The automobile editor of the Waco Morning News is yet to be converted to the fact that horses were made to drive. Automobiles would have never been had it not been so.

"Four carloads of Chevrolets are en route" and "We have orders for over two-thirds of them" comes from the sales department of the Herrick & McLarty Automobile company.

W. E. Brown, manager of the Herrick Hardware automobile department, made a record trip from Dallas Tuesday of this week. There are nine more cars to be sold as a result.

R. E. Gentry, one of Waco's prominent railroad men, purchased himself a Glide automobile this week. Mr. Gentry expects to take a turn about with his Glide and the railroad.

Dr. R. L. Smith of 1420 Austin avenue is among the Glide buyers this week. The doctor says he likes the name as well as the car and is better pleased with it as the days go by.

A good way to cut your coat according to your cloth in the matter of buying an automobile is to keep in close touch with dealers through the columns of the News Auto Section.

Don't you know some of the horses of McLennan county, who have done duty for the past some odd years, are rejoicing much over the fact that the automobile business is getting good?

J. M. Sedberry of the Sedberry Auto Repair Shop, is keeping late hours again this week. Shame on you, J. M., burning the midnight oil. Dallas repair shops are running with half force.

M. C. Daley of the Chalmers sales force made a very tempting promise the past week, and I believe he will make good. Not only with his promise but as a salesman for automobiles.

Nothing has so much worth as a mind well instructed. A good place to get both information and instruction in the matter of automobiles is in the Auto Section of the Waco Morning News.

Happy Jack Oats of the Overland force is wearing the happy smile these days. The why thereof is not as yet discovered, but we surmise the dotted line has been writ on by some Overlandites.

D. C. Ryburn, manager of the McLendon Hardware automobile department, reports conditions fine throughout the Marlin section. D. C. made a flying trip to that part of God's country the past week.

Yes, the Muhl Auto Painting establishment made good on their statement that they would be with us this week. Fred says business is mighty good to advertise, but he also says he knows the story of the hen.

There is no man so bad but what he has a secret respect for the good. Keep to the truth in your advertising. A business built right is a business for life, and the automobile business is no exception.

S. Nabors, Chalmers mechanic for the McLendon Hardware company, reports plenty to do, but things running smooth. Mr. Nabors believes in putting them out right and seeing after them when they are put out.

J. W. Chapman of the B. C. Nettles Auto company made a successful demonstration the past week. "Some people call it selling a car," Chap says, "but in reality it's just plain out demonstration successfully performed."

M. C. Daly of the sales force of the McLendon Hardware company automobile department made a business trip to Dallas this week. Mr. Daly reports things good in the town up north. He brought back another brand-new car.

"Please take out three of the second-hand autos in our ad for Sunday," came from Mr. Brown, manager of the Herrick Automobile company; but it was too late—the ad was gone. Notwithstanding, there are three advertised you can't buy.

Many there are that go out for wool and come back shorn. Keep reading the auto section of The News, lest you go wrong in buying an auto. The advertisers here are men who know their business and cannot afford not to protect it with the right kind of goods.

M. C. Daly of the Chalmers agency of the McLendon Hardware company drove down a Chalmers Palanquin last Friday. Daly reports a good time along the road and that he is thoroughly sold to the fact that the Chalmers people put out the one car in the world.

"There isn't anyone, nowhere, no time, got anything on the Chevrolet car," comes from Keaton of the Herrick Hardware automobile department. Keaton is a man of good appearance and stands well in his community, and who is going to contradict him? He weighs 182 in his sock feet.

"A remarkable acceleration test was made the last week with a 490 Chevrolet," says Bob Russell of the Herrick & McLarty Automobile company. "From a standstill the car picked up to a speed of forty-two miles an hour in a time of twenty seconds, and I claim that is going some."

Selling automobiles without advertising is rather bringing up the old story of the man who wrangled about the eggs and let all the hens fly away. Get that car of yours, or that shop of yours, before the automobile world in the right way—through the columns of the Waco Morning News auto section.

What if Dallas has gone ahead of Waco in number of machines. They count buggies up there, you know, since the new ordinance went into effect that all vehicles have to bear candles at night. Waco's register is not so large but it stands for so many sure enough automobiles and the most of them are paid for.

How do you like the automobile section, anyway? You do? Well, you know there is the printer, the linotype man and last, but not least, the pressman, who help to make it good. Come down some day, the editor of the automibile section would like to show you through the best newspaper plant in this part of the woods.

John L. Spurlin Jr. of Hamilton, A. J. Jennings of Kosse, C. O. Hawkins of Irene, John Matrza of Crawford, Fauke and Hommell of Eddy, D. L. Roberts of Whitney, Temple and Auto Supply company, Temple, were among those who drove a Baby Grand Chevrolet the past week, purchased from the Herrick-McLarty Automobile company.

"We're on the ragged edge of the train load," Wallace Bradley gives out. Mr. Bradley is one of the sales force of the Dodge car, of which the Central Motor company is agent in Waco, and by the ragged edge, the automobile editor surmises that the remaining five ou tof the train load of Dodge cars that arrived a short time ago are about gone.

Mr. Hunt of Hunt & Co., automobile painters, joined the automobile section this week. Mr. Hunt makes a specialty of high-grade automobile painting, works a big crew of men and reports business enough to keep everybody busy as can be. He is an old-timer in the automobile business and has a large business throughout this section of the country.

L. A. Bletsch of Otto purchased a Glide automobile from the Glide Motor company this week. Mr. Bletsch expressed himself as not only especially but greatly pleased with the developments in Waco among automobile industry. He also reports splendid conditions throughout his section of the country and says that many of his neighbors are contemplating buying cars.

W. W. Barrett, from the service department of the Chalmers factory at Detroit, Mich., is spending the week in Waco, looking after the interests of his people and incidentally getting acquainted with the boys throughout this section of the country. Mr. Barrett likes all of the fellows from above the line, was greatly surprised at finding a city the size of Waco and within its borders, the automobile business that it has. Arctic Explorer Buys Overland Car

"The model 83B Overland automobile received another very gratifying mark of endorsement several days ago when Capt. Louis L. Lane, the man who found Vilhijalmar Stefansson, the Arctic explorer last summer, purchased an Overland car of that type, after a thorough investigation of its merits," says Percy Willis of the local Overland agency.

"Stefansson had been given up for lost when Lane, heading a searching party in a government vessel, discovered him quartered on Banks' Land, and was first to bring back news of the explorer's discoveries.

"Captain Lane, by reason of his perilous calling, is an expert of mechanics, as well as a daring navigator, and that he should choose an Overland after a rigorous examination of its engines, equipment and construction, is good proof of its ability."

PROPER WEIGHT OF AUTO DISCUSSED BY ENGINEER

I think it was Abraham Lincoln who, when asked how long a man's legs ought to be, said they should be long enough to reach from his body to the ground.

How much an automobile ought to weigh is a subject much discussed by the laymen as well as by some automobile engineers. But among those engineers who are recognized as leaders, it does not seem to be a subject for discussion at all. The latter seems to have acted unanimously upon the idea, and the idea appears to have nothing more behind it than just common sense that an automobile should weigh enough to enable it successfully to perform the duties required of it, to perform those duties every hour of the day and every day of the year, and to keep on performing them year after year without giving away under the strain.

ENGINEERS SUFFER IN REGARD TO WEIGHT.

It seems reasonable to assume that all automobile engineers would naturally reach the same conclusion. But there appears to be no basis for the assumption, for the reason that the various designers have evidently been working from different standpoints and with different objects in view.

Just a little analysis will show that there is a pretty well defined line between the cars which are sometimes designated as "heavy" and those which are not. It will further show that the line which marks this distinction is the same line which marks the distinction between those cars recognized as representing "high grade" and those not commonly accepted as belonging to that class.

MANY CARS WEIGHT IS DETERMINED BY PRICE.

On the one hand we have the maker who is building to meet a price. He determines the price of the cars for which he believes he can find the best market—$800, $1,000, $1,200, or whatever that price may be—and the engineers are directed to go ahead and design accordingly.

If, for example, it is to be a thousand dollar car, the production cost must not exceed an amount which, after adding the expense of doing business, etc., will make it possible to sell the car at that price.

MATERIAL ALL SELECTED IN ACCORDANCE WITH PRICE.

The engine, the carburetor, the electrical system, the cooling system, the transmission, the axle, the brakes, the steering mechanism, the body, the fenders, the wheels and the thousand and one parts and items which go to make up the whole, must be designed in accordance with the set price standard.

The materials used in the manufacture of these parts, together with materials for upholstering, trimming, finish, etc., must likewise be selected in accordance with the limitations of the pre-determined price.

MATERIAL COST IS NOT INSIGNIFICANT FACTOR.

The cost of material is far from being an insignificant factor for the engineer to consider in designing a motor car.

By cutting off a few pounds from this piece, a few pounds from that piece and a few ounces or a few pounds from a large number of other pieces, resulting in the aggregate to perhaps several hundred pounds of expensive steel, the maker is able to effect a very material saving in the cost of production. Such saving amounts to a tremendous item on a large output and often proves to be a will-o'-the-wisp which lures the maker into paths other than those which lead to the fame that endures.

LACK OF WEIGHT OFTEN DUE TO LACK OF KNOWLEDGE.

The actual saving, however, in the cost of material, for the saving's sake alone, is not the only factor which enters into the car whose chief talking point is in its lightness. Frequently the absence of sufficient weight is due to the lack of knowledge on the part of the designer as to just what materials should be used and what their proportions should be, if they are to perform the duties which will be demanded of them.

After the various kinds of materials are determined upon, the amount of each to be used in the various parts of the car depends upon the knowledge or lack of knowledge of the engineers, as to what is required to meet the demands which will be made upon the car in the matter of performance and service.

SHOULD BE BUILT IN HARMONY WITH DUTIES.

As an illustration, let us cite an extreme. If a car is to be enclosed in a glass case, and will never be more than looked at, all of its parts could be stamped out of sheet metal. It might have all of the appearance of an automobile but it would hardly be safe even to sit in.

To carry the illustration further, if the car is to be driven always with a light load and always over smooth level streets, it could be made especially light. But the same car could not be driven with a full complement of passengers over rough roads, up hill and down, without soon going to pieces. It might be one part or it might be another that would show the first evidence of weakness.

EXPERIENCE IS THE BEST AND ONLY TEACHER.

Experience has demonstrated conclusively that it is only the car of sufficient material, hence of sufficient weight in every one of its many parts, that has proven itself capable of enduring the strains to which it has been subjected, for any great length of time.

It is not difficult for anyone to prove this to his own satisfaction. Let him investigate a little and see if he can find any light weight car that has run for even two or three years and performed any considerable amount of service that has not had to have a large number of its parts renewed.

BUYER SHOULD CONSIDER MANY POINTS.

There is a vast number of things for the motor car buyer to take into consideration but they all hark back to the one thing—service—all the degree of satisfaction in which the service is rendered.

It is not simply the legitimate use that "tells" in a motor car. There is not one car in ten thousand which is not called upon at some time and generally very frequently, to perform some unusual task or to undergo some extraordinary strain.

But it is not the only strain now and then that do the mischief.

VIBRATION NOTICEABLE CHARACTERISTIC OF LIGHT CARS.

In the light car vibration is one of its most noticeable characteristics. This vigration causes the metal in many parts to crystallize, and breakage is sure to be the result sooner or later—usually sooner.

On the other hand, in the car that is built strongly and substantially vibration and consequent crystallization are reduced to a minimum.

Comfort and luxurious riding qualities are characteristics noticeably absent in the light car when driven over the average American road. These characteristics are conspicuously present in the car of sufficient weight, always provided, however, that other influencing factors are present, such as wheels and tires of sufficient size, scientific spring suspension and proper upholstering.

COMPARING LIGHT AND HEAVY CARS.

The two may be compared as you would compare the bobbing about of the light row-boat in rough waters to the majestic steamship which glides along, heedless of minor disturbances, or an old style passenger coach on a "jerkwater" railroad, to the luxurious Pullman which speeds along at a mile a minute and you scarcely feel that you are moving.

The only objections to the so-called "heavy" car are raised either by the man who doesn't know, or by the salesman who is trying to sell a car whose chief merit is its lightness, or rather its lack of sufficient weight.

GASOLINE CONSUMPTION OBJECTION TO WEIGHT.

First take the gasoline consumption. Granted that the heavier the car the more power, hence the more gasoline it requires to propel it, provided however, that all other conditions are equal. And there's the rub. Other conditions are not always the same.

The light car is a light car. To make a light car its individual parts must be made proportionately light. Strength demands material and material means weight. Hence absence of weight must mean absence of material and absence of material must mean absence of strength. You can't get away from it. Absence of sufficient strength means absence of rigidity. Absence of rigidity means that much of the power developed by the engine is consumed in the units resulting from the twisting and binding strains in the units which transmit the power from the engine to the rear wheels. It takes power—hence gasoline—to overcome these twisting and binding strains: therefore the power generated but consumed in this manner is long wasted.

ENGINE POWER ALL GOES FOR DRIVING CAR.

On the other hand, in the car which is built with sufficient strength, the power transmitting units are held firmly in line and the power of the engine is almost entirely utilized in doing what is generated for driving the car.

To this may be attributed the reason for your so frequently seeing a "heavy" car consuming less gasoline for a given mileage than a lighter car of supposedly the same horsepower.

On the subject of tires. Tires are made in different sizes. All other conditions being equal, large tires will wear longer than small tires. But you do not see the large tires on small cars. Cars are usually equipped with tires of a size to correspond with the size and weight of the car. Light cars are usually equipped with light tires and heavier cars with larger tires to correspond. The lighter car, bounding all over the road is harder on its lighter tires than the heavier car which holds the road, is on its heavier tires.

FACTORS BESIDES WEIGHT HELPS WEAR OUT TIRES.

There are many factors besides the weight of the car, which have a bearing on the life of tires. Improper inflation, reckless driving over bad roads and pavements, over car tracks and other obstructions, turning corners at high speed, allowing the car to stand on a greasy floor, neglecting to repair cuts. All of these tend to shorten the life of a car.

Not the least of the factors which tend to shorten the life of a tire are starting the car with a jerk and stopping it with a slide.

Here again the high grade car evidences its advantage. Starting the car with a jerk is usually the result of a poor clutch, the one that grabs violently instead of taking hold smoothly and gradually. Stopping the car with a "slide" is usually the result of brakes which grab violently, locking the wheels, instead of by smooth, easy and gradual application.

GRABBING OF CLUTCH AND BRAKE BAD ON TIRES.

The "grabbing" qualities of both the clutch and the brakes throw a severe strain on tires, and frequent performances of this kind result in separating the rubber from the fabric in the tires. Naturally, the lighter the tires the more easily they are damaged.

But looking at the subject from the most unfavorable angle, suppose that the heavier car is a trifle harder on tires—which is not always the case. The extra expense—if there be any—is abundantly offset by the decreased maintenance cost, generally, of the high grade car, and compensated for many times over by the increased comfort and easy riding qualities enjoyed by reason of the larger wheels and tires.

The maker of the "heavy" car could make it lighter if he wanted to. But experience has taught him many things and he wisely is not disposed to sacrifice either his reputation or your neck.

Only a short time back the great hue and cry of many makers was "light weight" cars. It was "light weight" this and "light weight" that.

LIGHT WEIGHT'S LIFE IS OFTEN SHORT.

But a scanning of their advertising now, however, shows that most of them have seen this error. They have discarded the "light weight" idea and are directing their arguments along opposite lines.

The weight is the one item under consideration, the buyer must choose between two things after asking himself the question, "Do I want a light car with its short life and continual expense in renewing parts which are not heavy enough and strong enough to stand the strain, or do I want a car which has enough material in it to render service year after year at a minimum outlay for maintenance, and in which I can enjoy all of the pleasure, contentment and luxury which is afforded only in the high grade motor car?"

"Ford cars have long since accomplished practically everything that lies within the native province of automobiles, and have also shown a large degree of facility in handling affairs outside of their class," said H. "Pumping water, running electric motors, exterminating gophers and providing current for the operation of a telephone exchange have become history, and now a car from the salesroom of Dutee W. Flint, Ford representative in Rhode Island and Connecticut, steps in and helps the Greenwich (Conn.) "Graphic and News" get out its edition. And this unusual service was given with the same satisfying results that over 1,100,000 other Ford cars are giving every day."

The story is told by the newspaper itself, as follows:

"Tuesday, the day on which the edition of the Graphic and News is published, there was no electric power available owing to storm damage, and as a result, the entire mechanical part of the plant was crippled. The staff was in a quandary and every effort was made to secure an engine of sufficient power to turn the wheels and make possible the printing of the paper. But to no avail.

"Manager Shea of the Dutee Flint automobile agency was then called in and provided a Ford touring car. In less than an hour the little machine was connected with the shafting in the mechanical department by means of a belt running from a rear wheel of the car in through a window to a pulley on the shaft which controls the press and other machinery. After it had been started and warmed up, the powerful little motor drove the whole plant without a hitch.

"The performance of the splendid little Ford engine is considered remarkable by every one, automobile owners and mechanics included. It is difficult to provide an impossible task for the Ford car."

These records of achievement give strength to the Ford owner's belief in the wonderful Ford motor.

A campaign in which all motor car manufacturers are invited to join has been begun by the Maxwell Motor Co. of Detroit, to educate motorists to the fact that it is within their power to prolong for years the original glossy finish which their cars bear at the time of purchase. In furthering this campaign the Maxwell company is enlisting the help of its own army of distributors and salesmen. It has added to the standard equipment of each of its cars a can of polish of a brand tested and approved by competitive trial in its own plants.

"A motor car is finished with greater care than most pianos," declares President Walter E. Flanders of the Maxwell company. "Yet it is freely exposed to the weather of all seasons. Often it is allowed to stand for weeks without washing.

"No combination of paint and varnish, no matter how well laid on or how carefully hand-rubbed, can survive rough treatment indefinitely without losing its elasticity and luster. A good polish is essential, especially in seasons of extreme temperatures."

Arctic Explorer Buys Overland Car

"The model 83B Overland automobile received another very gratifying mark of endorsement several days ago when Capt. Louis L. Lane, the man who found Vilhijalmar Stefansson, the Arctic explorer last summer, purchased an Overland car of that type, after a thorough investigation of its merits," says Percy Willis of the local Overland agency.

"Stefansson had been given up for lost when Lane, heading a searching party in a government vessel, discovered him quartered on Banks' Land, and was first to bring back news of the explorer's discoveries.

"Captain Lane, by reason of his perilous calling, is an expert of mechanics, as well as a daring navigator, and that he should choose an Overland after a rigorous examination of its engines, equipment and construction, is good proof of its ability."

PROPER WEIGHT OF AUTO DISCUSSED BY ENGINEER

I think it was Abraham Lincoln who, when asked how long a man's legs ought to be, said they should be long enough to reach from his body to the ground.

How much an automobile ought to weigh is a subject much discussed by the laymen as well as by some automobile engineers. But among those engineers who are recognized as leaders, it does not seem to be a subject for discussion at all. The latter seems to have acted unanimously upon the idea, and the idea appears to have nothing more behind it than just common sense that an automobile should weigh enough to enable it successfully to perform the duties required of it, to perform those duties every hour of the day and every day of the year, and to keep on performing them year after year without giving away under the strain.

ENGINEERS SUFFER IN REGARD TO WEIGHT.

It seems reasonable to assume that all automobile engineers would naturally reach the same conclusion. But there appears to be no basis for the assumption, for the reason that the various designers have evidently been working from different standpoints and with different objects in view.

Just a little analysis will show that there is a pretty well defined line between the cars which are sometimes designated as "heavy" and those which are not. It will further show that the line which marks this distinction is the same line which marks the distinction between those cars recognized as representing "high grade" and those not commonly accepted as belonging to that class.

MANY CARS WEIGHT IS DETERMINED BY PRICE.

On the one hand we have the maker who is building to meet a price. He determines the price of the cars for which he believes he can find the best market—$800, $1,000, $1,200, or whatever that price may be—and the engineers are directed to go ahead and design accordingly.

If, for example, it is to be a thousand dollar car, the production cost must not exceed an amount which, after adding the expense of doing business, etc., will make it possible to sell the car at that price.

The engine, the carburetor, the electrical system, the cooling system, the transmission, the axle, the brakes, the steering mechanism, the body, the fenders, the wheels and the thousand and one parts and items which go to make up the whole, must be designed in accordance with the set price standard.

The materials used in the manufacture of these parts, together with materials for upholstering, trimming, finish, etc., must likewise be selected in accordance with the limitations of the pre-determined price.

The cost of material is far from being an insignificant factor for the engineer to consider in designing a motor car.

By cutting off a few pounds from this piece, a few pounds from that piece and a few ounces or a few pounds from a large number of other pieces, resulting in the aggregate to perhaps several hundred pounds of expensive steel, the maker is able to effect a very material saving in the cost of production. Such saving amounts to a tremendous item on a large output and often proves to be a will-o'-the-wisp which lures the maker into paths other than those which lead to the fame that endures.

LACK OF WEIGHT OFTEN DUE TO LACK OF KNOWLEDGE.

The actual saving, however, in the cost of material, for the saving's sake alone, is not the only factor which enters into the car whose chief talking point is in its lightness. Frequently the absence of sufficient weight is due to the lack of knowledge on the part of the designer as to just what materials should be used and what their proportions should be, if they are to perform the duties which will be demanded of them.

After the various kinds of materials are determined upon, the amount of each to be used in the various parts of the car depends upon the knowledge or lack of knowledge of the engineers, as to what is required to meet the demands which will be made upon the car in the matter of performance and service.

SHOULD BE BUILT IN HARMONY WITH DUTIES.

As an illustration, let us cite an extreme. If a car is to be enclosed in a glass case, and will never be more than looked at, all of its parts could be stamped out of sheet metal. It might have all of the appearance of an automobile but it would hardly be safe even to sit in.

To carry the illustration further, if the car is to be driven always with a light load and always over smooth level streets, it could be made especially light. But the same car could not be driven with a full complement of passengers over rough roads, up hill and down, without soon going to pieces. It might be one part or it might be another that would show the first evidence of weakness.

EXPERIENCE IS THE BEST AND ONLY TEACHER.

Experience has demonstrated conclusively that it is only the car of sufficient material, hence of sufficient weight in every one of its many parts, that has proven itself capable of enduring the strains to which it has been subjected, for any great length of time.

It is not difficult for anyone to prove this to his own satisfaction. Let him investigate a little and see if he can find any light weight car that has run for even two or three years and performed any considerable amount of service that has not had to have a large number of its parts renewed.

There is a vast number of things for the motor car buyer to take into consideration but they all hark back to the one thing—service—all the degree of satisfaction in which the service is rendered.

It is not simply the legitimate use that "tells" in a motor car. There is not one car in ten thousand which is not called upon at some time and generally very frequently, to perform some unusual task or to undergo some extraordinary strain.

But it is not the only strain now and then that do the mischief.

VIBRATION NOTICEABLE CHARACTERISTIC OF LIGHT CARS.

In the light car vibration is one of its most noticeable characteristics. This vigration causes the metal in many parts to crystallize, and breakage is sure to be the result sooner or later—usually sooner.

On the other hand, in the car that is built strongly and substantially vibration and consequent crystallization are reduced to a minimum.

Comfort and luxurious riding qualities are characteristics noticeably absent in the light car when driven over the average American road. These characteristics are conspicuously present in the car of sufficient weight, always provided, however, that other influencing factors are present, such as wheels and tires of sufficient size, scientific spring suspension and proper upholstering.

The two may be compared as you would compare the bobbing about of the light row-boat in rough waters to the majestic steamship which glides along, heedless of minor disturbances, or an old style passenger coach on a "jerkwater" railroad, to the luxurious Pullman which speeds along at a mile a minute and you scarcely feel that you are moving.

The only objections to the so-called "heavy" car are raised either by the man who doesn't know, or by the salesman who is trying to sell a car whose chief merit is its lightness, or rather its lack of sufficient weight.

Hence absence of weight must mean absence of material and absence of material must mean absence of strength. You can't get away from it. Absence of sufficient strength means absence of rigidity. Absence of rigidity means that much of the power developed by the engine is consumed in the units resulting from the twisting and binding strains in the units which transmit the power from the engine to the rear wheels. It takes power—hence gasoline—to overcome these twisting and binding strains: therefore the power generated but consumed in this manner is long wasted.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR MANY CHALMERS SALES DURING 1916

D. C. Ryburn, manager of the automobile department of the McLendon Hardware company, spent the last two days in Rosebud, Lott and other Falls county cities, looking after interests for the Chalmers car. Mr. Ryburn says that conditions in Western Falls county are very promising, and that Chalmers prospective buyers were numerous.

While on this trip Mr. Ryburn placed an agency for the Chalmers car with C. I. Rouse of Lott. Mr. Rouse is very enthusiastic over the outlook for a good automobile business this year, and expresses himself as being greatly pleased over having secured the Chalmers agency, Mr. Ryburn says.

WILLYS INTERESTED IN GOOD ROAD BILLS

Among those particularly interested in the outcome of many of the good roads bills now in the hands of various committees at Washington is John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland company of Toledo. Mr. Willys always has been a staunch supporter of the good roads movement in this country and has contributed most generously towards its advancement.

In commenting upon the subject he was enthusiastic over the progress made throughout the United States in the last few years and gave it as his opinion that 1916 would break all records in the amount of good roads work accomplished.

"Judging by the numerous appropriations for good roads which are being considered by congress and the different state legislatures, it would seem that 1916 will go down in history as a record year in the advancement of improved highways," said Mr. Willys.

"The whole country is stirred as never before relative to their great question of highway improvement. If there is anything in the world that a good citizen who loves his state and has civic or state pride delights in, it is to have the city and state reputation maintained.

"A commonwealth's reputation for enterprise, progress and all that goes to make it worth living for, is determined to a great extent by the character of its roads. And if these arteries, through which flow the business and pleasure of life of a state, are neglected, travel is diverted sooner or later to other channels and the chief sufferers are the townspeople and farmers who live along the neglected highway.

"Whenever a farmer loads his delivery car or wagon for market, he has in mind the road over which he has to travel. He knows that its worst hill or mud hole limits the size of the load he can move. And because this is so, the maximum efficiency of a stretch of highway does not exceed the maximum load that a man can haul over the poorest spot in it.

"Most of the opposition to road improvement work, that at one time was almost universal among farmers, has disappeared, now that the automobile is in common use in the country. The objection formerly raised by the farmer was that the city tourist benefited mostly by the good roads work which he, the farmer, was taxed for. But the city man also contributes toward the fund. His automobile tax goes toward the cost of state roads and he pays for a good share of the maintenance expense."

Goodyear Company Begins Season With Many Improvements

"We have entered the season of 1916 with more extensive improvements in automobile tires than in any season for several years," says L. C. Rockhill of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company.

"The entire line of Goodyear tires, from the smallest to the largest, has been improved by reinforcement of fabric and rubber in the side-walls, rendering them even less liable than formerly to side-wall injury.

"Our 30x3 and 30x3½ sizes are now made larger and stronger, the former being 20 per cent and the latter 10 per cent larger than heretofore. These improvements were made with the idea of offering the greatest possible value to the users of those sizes, that they might enjoy the same degree of freedom from tire trouble as users of larger sizes.

"In our 4, 4½, 5, 5½ and 6-inch sizes for larger cars a decided advance has been made. To provide greater gripping power and additional anti-skid security, the All-Weather treads are now made thicker and heavier. This makes them more durable and adds greatly to their life.

"To meet the demand for greater resiliency and shock-absorbing qualities in tire equipment in the commercial car field, we are now offering large pneumatics ranging in size from 36x6 to 42x9. This new tire has many advantages over dual pneumatics. The maintenance of equal air pressure in duals has long been a problem—which is solved most satisfactorily in the large pneumatic.

"A very decided advance has been effected in the construction of inner tubes. Goodyear tubes have always been made of pure rubber by the layer upon layer process. The extra thickness which we have added increases the air retaining quality of the tube, and adds materially to its life."

This is the model of which 600 merchants bought $22,000,000 worth in 40 minutes on the day of its unveiling in Detroit.

Chalmers Service does not begin when a car pauses in front of the service station that bears the Chalmers Monogram. The principles of Chalmers Service dominated the designing and building of the 3400 r. p. m. from the moment the dream of it began glimmering in the brains of its engineers.

Despite the return of prosperity to the South, I don't ask you to buy a car that delivers might at staggering C. O. D. rates.

By making every gallon of gas kick in with 18 miles of the smoothest going, it makes might wed mileage.

This result was striven for by its builders, who knew that the more explosions per minute, and the greater the number of revolutions of the motor, the lesser amount of heat is lost through the cooling jacket.

Heat is power. The small engine of this car leaves a small area from which heat can be thrown away by radiation, there is a very short cooling process between explosions of gas, and you have a power plant that wrings every ounce of energy from its fuel.

One performance—and 3400 will no longer be a mere number to you. It will become the magic password into an unknown, undreamed-of realm of travel.

With raw materials growing less plentiful, it is good foresight to register your order now if you can.

FACTS ABOUT CARS

There are few courses of treatment worse than allowing a storage battery to stand idle in a discharged condition. A car that has a lighting system should have its motor run occasionally—say for 15 to 20 minutes three or four times a week—to keep the battery properly charged. This will keep the cells lively and vigorous, while a long period of absolute idleness will leave them sluggish.

A motor will throttle better at low speeds if the spark plugs are kept in proper condition. The points of the plugs burn away gradually, and if not inspected and adjusted frequently misfiring will result.

As a general rule grease cups are not given the intelligent care they should receive. For instance, those under the engine hood and in a fairly warm place require occasional filling, as the heat keeps the grease fairly soft and it is drawn into the bearings by the rotation of the shafts.

The fumes from a storage battery on charge are inflammable and it is by no means safe to bring a naked flame near a cell that is "gassing" freely. Battery repair shops and charging stations usually are careful in this respect, knowing by practical experience that the gas can be ignited.

Most self-starting systems have a fuse box installed at an accessible point. The purchaser of a new car should acquaint himself with this as quickly as possible. Very often considerable trouble in the electrical system can be eliminated by the installation of a new fuse. This is a simple matter, but if not known may cause a lot of trouble and unnecessary expense.

In tuning up a six-cylinder motor one should be careful to note that there is good compression in each cylinder. In a haust will reveal a weak cylinder. From four-cylinder motor the sound of the exthe exhaust of a six-cylinder motor, however, the condition of a particular cylinder is hard to detect on account of the strokes lapping. Very often a weak cylinder is not detected and the carburetor adjustment is changed to eliminate the supposed thump in the motor. In reality the cause lies in a weak cylinder.

Starting a motor will be facilitated if the carburetor mixture is enriched at starting. This is usually accomplished by a dash arrangement. Don't blame the self-starter if you fail to do this or if you try to start motor on magneto instead of on battery. This applied especially when the self-starter does not throw the motor over very fast.

The automatic spark advance not only does the work accurately, but it does not forget. It is said that the average humand mind cannot watch with alertness more than four things at one time. If a driver gives proper attention to guiding his car, varying the throttle, applying the brakes and watching the road ahead he will not have much ability left to manipulate the spark lever or talk to passengers.

Complete and perfect combustion requires almost definite proportions of gasoline vapor and air. If the mixture is too rich there will be much soot (carbon) deposited in the cylinders to mix with the oil and make crusts, causing pre-ignition and loss of power. The spark plug points will foul, valves will not seat perfectly, firing will be irregular, the radiator overheat, and the pocketbook get thin from paying for gasoline that is wasted.

In removing the cylinder-head plate from the Ford engine great care is needed not to dent or otherwise injure the large gasket that serves to make compression perfect. Both surfaces of the gasket should be carefully cleaned and painted with a solution of gum shellac in alcohol just before replacing. After all the bolts are firmly seated the engine should be run until moderately hot and the bolts be given another tightening evenly all around.

In using oxygen to remove carbon from the cylinders, there are certain points to be remembered in this connection and a recapitulation may not be without interest. When using oxygen the piston should be placed at the extreme top of the cylinder, as the intense heat tends to roughen the cylinder walls. The flame should not be allowed to strike the threads of the spark plug hole and the water system should be full during the operation.—Nashville Tennessean.

Several Automobile Sales Reported for by Local Companies

The sales of automobiles in Waco continue to discredit the general belief in hard times, and during the past week there were sold machines to the following parties, of the makes indicated:

classed two to one in population, in which there is only one-half the business done and not one-tenth of the automobile business. I have grown to be very fond of Waco and have met some of the best people here I have ever known." Welcome to our city, Mr. Barrett. Waco is a mighty good place to light.

"I've spent enough money the past year to be rich, if there was anything to advertising," remarked one business concern the past week. When the items were marked down, just thirty dollars for newspaper advertising had been spent. We don't wonder at such a state of dissatisfaction. Any man who expects to make money by spending money for advertising must spend that money for printer's ink. Where there is a daily paper he must use it. Where there is a daily paper running an up-to-date automobile section and such a man is in the automobile business, the greatest results will come from advertising in such section. Any concern in Waco who will use space in the Waco Morning News fill that space with intelligent news matter about the products he has for sale and back up such a statement with the goods, is bound to make money out of it. There is such a thing as spending an adult appropriation within a very short time through the wrong channel, from which so small percentage of profits will be derived, that seemingly there is nothing in what is thue termed advertising. But advertising is not spending money for every trick game that comes along. Get into the columns of the Morning News Auto Section if you sell automobiles or things that go with an automobile, stay there, take the same pains in the preparation of your copy as you would the arrangement of your store, back up every word of it with a full delivery of the goods and you will win. Such a policy can't fail, and it has been proven too many times to spend much space in debate in support of the fact.

D. C. Ryburn, manager of the automobile department of the McLendon Hardware company, spent the last two days in Rosebud, Lott and other Falls county cities, looking after interests for the Chalmers car. Mr. Ryburn says that conditions in Western Falls county are very promising, and that Chalmers prospective buyers were numerous.

While on this trip Mr. Ryburn placed an agency for the Chalmers car with C. I. Rouse of Lott. Mr. Rouse is very enthusiastic over the outlook for a good automobile business this year, and expresses himself as being greatly pleased over having secured the Chalmers agency, Mr. Ryburn says.

WILLYS INTERESTED IN GOOD ROAD BILLS

Among those particularly interested in the outcome of many of the good roads bills now in the hands of various committees at Washington is John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland company of Toledo. Mr. Willys always has been a staunch supporter of the good roads movement in this country and has contributed most generously towards its advancement.

In commenting upon the subject he was enthusiastic over the progress made throughout the United States in the last few years and gave it as his opinion that 1916 would break all records in the amount of good roads work accomplished.

"Judging by the numerous appropriations for good roads which are being considered by congress and the different state legislatures, it would seem that 1916 will go down in history as a record year in the advancement of improved highways," said Mr. Willys.

"The whole country is stirred as never before relative to their great question of highway improvement. If there is anything in the world that a good citizen who loves his state and has civic or state pride delights in, it is to have the city and state reputation maintained.

"A commonwealth's reputation for enterprise, progress and all that goes to make it worth living for, is determined to a great extent by the character of its roads. And if these arteries, through which flow the business and pleasure of life of a state, are neglected, travel is diverted sooner or later to other channels and the chief sufferers are the townspeople and farmers who live along the neglected highway.

"Whenever a farmer loads his delivery car or wagon for market, he has in mind the road over which he has to travel. He knows that its worst hill or mud hole limits the size of the load he can move. And because this is so, the maximum efficiency of a stretch of highway does not exceed the maximum load that a man can haul over the poorest spot in it.

"Most of the opposition to road improvement work, that at one time was almost universal among farmers, has disappeared, now that the automobile is in common use in the country. The objection formerly raised by the farmer was that the city tourist benefited mostly by the good roads work which he, the farmer, was taxed for. But the city man also contributes toward the fund. His automobile tax goes toward the cost of state roads and he pays for a good share of the maintenance expense."

Goodyear Company Begins Season With Many Improvements

"We have entered the season of 1916 with more extensive improvements in automobile tires than in any season for several years," says L. C. Rockhill of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company.

"The entire line of Goodyear tires, from the smallest to the largest, has been improved by reinforcement of fabric and rubber in the side-walls, rendering them even less liable than formerly to side-wall injury.

"Our 30x3 and 30x3½ sizes are now made larger and stronger, the former being 20 per cent and the latter 10 per cent larger than heretofore. These improvements were made with the idea of offering the greatest possible value to the users of those sizes, that they might enjoy the same degree of freedom from tire trouble as users of larger sizes.

"In our 4, 4½, 5, 5½ and 6-inch sizes for larger cars a decided advance has been made. To provide greater gripping power and additional anti-skid security, the All-Weather treads are now made thicker and heavier. This makes them more durable and adds greatly to their life.

"To meet the demand for greater resiliency and shock-absorbing qualities in tire equipment in the commercial car field, we are now offering large pneumatics ranging in size from 36x6 to 42x9. This new tire has many advantages over dual pneumatics. The maintenance of equal air pressure in duals has long been a problem—which is solved most satisfactorily in the large pneumatic.

"A very decided advance has been effected in the construction of inner tubes. Goodyear tubes have always been made of pure rubber by the layer upon layer process. The extra thickness which we have added increases the air retaining quality of the tube, and adds materially to its life."

Performance blent brilliantly with price puts the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers at $1050 in a position that cannot be challenged.

This is the model of which 600 merchants bought $22,000,000 worth in 40 minutes on the day of its unveiling in Detroit.

It wedged itself into the cluttered market in a manner that I have never seen approached.

The energy of this 3400 r. p. m. engine delivers 60 miles an hour—all the speed you dare use—without exacting a burnt-offering of wasteful fuel consumption.

Chalmers Service does not begin when a car pauses in front of the service station that bears the Chalmers Monogram. The principles of Chalmers Service dominated the designing and building of the 3400 r. p. m. from the moment the dream of it began glimmering in the brains of its engineers.

Despite the return of prosperity to the South, I don't ask you to buy a car that delivers might at staggering C. O. D. rates.

By making every gallon of gas kick in with 18 miles of the smoothest going, it makes might wed mileage.

And the by-product of this extraordinary union is a magnificent acceleration that is wholly foreign to the car that is built for speed alone.

The surpassing smoothness of this throbless engine that whirls at a velocity of 3400 revolutions per minute is not an engineering accident.

This result was striven for by its builders, who knew that the more explosions per minute, and the greater the number of revolutions of the motor, the lesser amount of heat is lost through the cooling jacket.

Heat is power. The small engine of this car leaves a small area from which heat can be thrown away by radiation, there is a very short cooling process between explosions of gas, and you have a power plant that wrings every ounce of energy from its fuel.

That is why this is the car that performs.

One performance—and 3400 will no longer be a mere number to you. It will become the magic password into an unknown, undreamed-of realm of travel.

With raw materials growing less plentiful, it is good foresight to register your order now if you can.

FACTS ABOUT CARS

There are few courses of treatment worse than allowing a storage battery to stand idle in a discharged condition. A car that has a lighting system should have its motor run occasionally—say for 15 to 20 minutes three or four times a week—to keep the battery properly charged. This will keep the cells lively and vigorous, while a long period of absolute idleness will leave them sluggish.

A motor will throttle better at low speeds if the spark plugs are kept in proper condition. The points of the plugs burn away gradually, and if not inspected and adjusted frequently misfiring will result.

As a general rule grease cups are not given the intelligent care they should receive. For instance, those under the engine hood and in a fairly warm place require occasional filling, as the heat keeps the grease fairly soft and it is drawn into the bearings by the rotation of the shafts.

Facts

GET the facts on the operating cost before you buy any automobile. Find out the truth before—not after. And don't be satisfied with hear-say or a salesman's claims. The price of gasoline is high; so is oil and there is sure to be an increase in the cost of all tires.

So, what you want is the car that will give you most miles per gallon of gasoline, per gallon of oil and per set of tires.

Maxwell World's Non-Stop Record Facts

Miles without a motor stop	22,023
Average miles per day (44 days)	500.6
Miles per gallon of gasoline	21.88
Miles per gallon of oil	400
Average miles per tire	9,871

Remember that this was a Non-Stop Endurance Record—in order to prove that the Maxwell car was exceedingly sturdy, reliable and trouble proof.

No attempt was made or could be made to save gasoline, oil or tires. So these figures merely indicate what would be possible under ordinary driving conditions.

SEVEN BABY GRAND CHEVROLET MODELS ARE SENT TO WACO

W. E. Brown, manager of the automobile department of the Herrick Hardware company autoombile department, made a flying trip to Dallas last Thursday and as a result there are nine more cars in Waco. With Mr. Brown there were Mr. Bentley of the Chevrolet factory, Randolph Ball, Grady Richardson, Mr. Cross and others, and among the cars they brought to Waco were seven Baby Grand Chevrolets, one large Paige and one light Paige.

"The string of cars created a lot of interest on the trip," said Mr. Brown, "and I believe we could have sold out coming home if we had been disposed. The people at West gave us quite a reception, citizens of that town taking a special interest in the cars."

Mr. Brown reports the roads from Dallas here in splendid condition and says the trip was made on schedule time.

D. C. Ryburn, manager of the automobile department of the McLendon Hardware company, made a flying trip to Marlin, Texas, and vicinity the last week, looking over the trade territory and incidentally making some investigations with reference to placing an agent in that section.

"I found a great interest in the Chalmers, both in Marlin and other places I stopped along the line," said Mr. Ryburn. "In fact," he continued, "I had some mighty good men to make me propositions to handle the car of which I am very proud. It shows that we have a product that the people want. I had several chances to sell a Chalmers car direct, but inasmuch as that territory is not taken, I asked them to wait until my agency was established there. Despite the fact that it has been rather dry for the past weeks throughout Falls county, I found an unusual business activity and people more interested than ever in automobiles. I predict a business for our line second to none in the history of the sale of Chalmers throughout this section just as soon as we get things lined up and business going as we will soon."

Added Floor Space Will Allow Company to Take Care of Many More Customers.

L. Rosen of the Rosen & Cory Automobile Accessory company, arrived yesterday from a several days' trip in his trade territory and reports that business in his line is in good shape. "There's what I brought home from just three of the twenty-seven counties we cover," Mr. Rosen remarked as he flourished a fat wad of nice orders. Mr. Rosen called on trade in Bell, Coryell and Williams counties.

The Rosen & Cory Co. carry a complete line of automobile accessories, tires, etc., and have built up a splendid jobbing business in Waco. "Our business has grown the last few months by leaps and bounds," remarked Mr. Cory, "and I see signs of better business than we have ever had before. Waco and the surrounding country have just started to get in the automobile business and we are getting our share of the business. We make it a special point to carry a line of automobile accessories that not only give satisfaction, but upon which we can build a permanent business."

The Rosen & Cory Co. have recently enlarged their floor space and with the added room, more goods will be handled and greater efforts put forth to take care of a greater number of customers in a way that will not only mean progress for the firm, but give Waco that larger representation from a jobbing standpoint that she needs and is entitled to.

PROMINENT SHOWING OF GOODYEAR TIRES MADE

Goodyear Cord tires have just figured prominently at the opening of the new Panama-California International Exposition for the 1916 season, at San Diego. Just preceding the opening of the exposition, a parade was held, with United States troops and marines, government, state and exposition officials participating. The first car in the parade, a new Packard twin six, equipped with 37x5 Goodyear cord tires, front and rear, was occupied by Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior, Washington, D. C.; Hiram W. Johnson, governor of California; Edwin M. Capp, mayor of San Diego; Mark Ellis, commander of the United States cruiser Buffalo, and G. A. Davidson, president of the Panama-California International Exposition. In the second car rode the wives of the distinguished guests, while the third bore other exposition officials. These two cars were also equipped with Goodyear cords.

It is a significant fact that two of every three cars for 1916, equipped with cord tires, will start their careers on Goodyear card tires. By prividing increased riding comfort, they have won their way into favor with exacting motorists. In initial cost per tire they may exceed other types somewhat, as the construction is more expensive, but the extra mileage which Goodyear cords attain reduces the cost per mile and offsets the higher initial cost. Their increasing popularity is largely due to the success in increasing the mileage. No tire has ever been better adapted to minimize trouble, give unusual mileage and conserve power. Many motorists are buying cords as renewals. Invariably this leads to full cord equipment.

"CONSIDER THE TIRE" IS NEW AUTO DICTUM

Each year car users give more thought to the little things that add to tire mileage and reduce tire cost per mile. Consequently a great deal of careful attention has been given the new inflation pressure table recently made public by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company. For years tire manufacturers have asked motorists to "consider their tires." At first these pleas fell on deaf ears, the art of riding had not been developed as it has latterly.

Now, however, it is fashionable and profitable for car owners to care for their tires—to repair small cuts before they do big injuries, and inflate their tires without letting them wait for the warning and defective bumps that come when pressure becomes too low.

A few years ago Goodyear published a table of inflation pressures. It was up to the minute then. But car weights and many other things change, so that the Goodyear experimental men were some time ago instructed to go into the subject thoroughly and work out a new table.

The result of their investigations has been tested and checked in every way. In fact, several other tire manufacturers have already adopted it—and have written Goodyear acknowledging that fact. The table is given herewith. It is worth the careful study of every motorist. If it is followed additional tire service is certain. And it may be well to note the last line—its message is significant.

OVERLOADING TIRES GREATLY CUTS DOWN THE TOTAL MILEAGE

Louis Rosen of the firm of Rosen & Cory, local Savage Tire distributors, says overloading costs motorists more than any other one thing which they do and should not do in connection with pneumatic tires. Poor service from tires showing no defect can, in more than half the cases, be traced directly to overloading. Most tire companies give a table showing carrying capacities on their price lists. If motorists would be guided by this table and would also keep their tires properly inflated, millions of dollars would be saved annually.

Many motorists who are sure they are not overloading their tires will be disagreeably surprised if they run their car on a scale, find its weight, add the weight of the passengers they usually carry and then compare this weight with the list supplied by the company who furnished their tires. It is a nice thing to take out a big party of friends. We admire the man who has the "always room for one more" habit. However, this man should consider the extra weight he carries occasionally or constantly before blaming his tires for poor service.

The driver of a "jitney" recently asked about his tires (they were not Savages), said that they were the poorest tires made and that they gave no service at all. At the time the question was put, there were nine people that would easily average 150 pounds each, in his flivver. Of course, he blamed the tires—most motorists do. Not that motorists are unreasonable but simply because they do not realize the great destruction that can be done by carrying such an overload even a short distance.

We like the man who takes all his friends every time he goes for a joy ride, but he should not ask the Savage factory or any other tire factory to stand the expense when his tires go wrong. No tires built will give good service under the load which more than one quarter of the tires now in use are forced to carry.

Willys-Overland Company Makes New Postal Record

"Writers of all kinds, especially newspaper reporters, frequently make use of the expression, 'swamped by mail;' cartoonists, too, dearly love to picture persons buried chin-deep in mail of all descriptions. But in reality such happenings are a rarity," says Percy Willis of the Percy Willis auto company.

"Yet an actual occurrence of that phenomenon has been taking place in Toledo for the last few weeks, postal authorities of that city declaring that they are literally buried under the tremendous amount of mail being sent broadcast by the Willys-Overland company.

"On Friday, February 25, a new postal record was established, when 96,426 pieces of mail were sent out of the Overland plant. Of these but 40,000 were folders, circulars and catalogues. The remainder was composed of letters to all parts of the globe, on Overland business."

Splendid Business Reported by Glide Automobile Agency

T. D. Humphries, manager of the Glide Automobile agency of this city, reports a splendid business the past week, and is very enthusiastic over the prospect for the sale of his car.

"The builders of the Glide are one of the oldest organizations in the automobile industry. Glide cars have a sane, logical development from year to year, with service and dependability as standards from which they have never been tempted to depart. The results and prestige of the Glide car are founded upon many things—style that interprets the latest dictum of the automobile fashion, without sacrifice of dignity or individuality; comfort, roominess, silence and ease of operation," says Mr. Humphries.

Facts

GET the facts on the operating cost before you buy any automobile. Find out the truth before—not after. And don't be satisfied with hear-say or a salesman's claims. The price of gasoline is high; so is oil and there is sure to be an increase in the cost of all tires.

So, what you want is the car that will give you most miles per gallon of gasoline, per gallon of oil and per set of tires.

Maxwell World's Non-Stop Record Facts

Miles without a motor stop	22,023
Miles per gallon of gasoline	21.88
Miles per gallon of oil	400
Average miles per tire	9,871

Remember that this was a Non-Stop Endurance Record—in order to prove that the Maxwell car was exceedingly sturdy, reliable and trouble proof.

No attempt was made or could be made to save gasoline, oil or tires. So these figures merely indicate what would be possible under ordinary driving conditions.

Right now we have a Maxwell we can deliver to you. Let's not put it off. We know the Maxwell factory can't get half enough freight cars to carry their doubled output. Later on we may not be able to supply you. But we can NOW. Better phone us for a demonstration today.

SEVEN BABY GRAND CHEVROLET MODELS ARE SENT TO WACO

W. E. Brown, manager of the automobile department of the Herrick Hardware company autoombile department, made a flying trip to Dallas last Thursday and as a result there are nine more cars in Waco. With Mr. Brown there were Mr. Bentley of the Chevrolet factory, Randolph Ball, Grady Richardson, Mr. Cross and others, and among the cars they brought to Waco were seven Baby Grand Chevrolets, one large Paige and one light Paige.

"The string of cars created a lot of interest on the trip," said Mr. Brown, "and I believe we could have sold out coming home if we had been disposed. The people at West gave us quite a reception, citizens of that town taking a special interest in the cars."

Mr. Brown reports the roads from Dallas here in splendid condition and says the trip was made on schedule time.

D. C. Ryburn, manager of the automobile department of the McLendon Hardware company, made a flying trip to Marlin, Texas, and vicinity the last week, looking over the trade territory and incidentally making some investigations with reference to placing an agent in that section.

"I found a great interest in the Chalmers, both in Marlin and other places I stopped along the line," said Mr. Ryburn. "In fact," he continued, "I had some mighty good men to make me propositions to handle the car of which I am very proud. It shows that we have a product that the people want. I had several chances to sell a Chalmers car direct, but inasmuch as that territory is not taken, I asked them to wait until my agency was established there. Despite the fact that it has been rather dry for the past weeks throughout Falls county, I found an unusual business activity and people more interested than ever in automobiles. I predict a business for our line second to none in the history of the sale of Chalmers throughout this section just as soon as we get things lined up and business going as we will soon."

Added Floor Space Will Allow Company to Take Care of Many More Customers.

L. Rosen of the Rosen & Cory Automobile Accessory company, arrived yesterday from a several days' trip in his trade territory and reports that business in his line is in good shape. "There's what I brought home from just three of the twenty-seven counties we cover," Mr. Rosen remarked as he flourished a fat wad of nice orders. Mr. Rosen called on trade in Bell, Coryell and Williams counties.

The Rosen & Cory Co. carry a complete line of automobile accessories, tires, etc., and have built up a splendid jobbing business in Waco. "Our business has grown the last few months by leaps and bounds," remarked Mr. Cory, "and I see signs of better business than we have ever had before. Waco and the surrounding country have just started to get in the automobile business and we are getting our share of the business. We make it a special point to carry a line of automobile accessories that not only give satisfaction, but upon which we can build a permanent business."

The Rosen & Cory Co. have recently enlarged their floor space and with the added room, more goods will be handled and greater efforts put forth to take care of a greater number of customers in a way that will not only mean progress for the firm, but give Waco that larger representation from a jobbing standpoint that she needs and is entitled to.

"CONSIDER THE TIRE" IS NEW AUTO DICTUM

Each year car users give more thought to the little things that add to tire mileage and reduce tire cost per mile. Consequently a great deal of careful attention has been given the new inflation pressure table recently made public by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company. For years tire manufacturers have asked motorists to "consider their tires." At first these pleas fell on deaf ears, the art of riding had not been developed as it has latterly.

Now, however, it is fashionable and profitable for car owners to care for their tires—to repair small cuts before they do big injuries, and inflate their tires without letting them wait for the warning and defective bumps that come when pressure becomes too low.

A few years ago Goodyear published a table of inflation pressures. It was up to the minute them. But car weights and many other things change, so that the Goodyear experimental men were some time ago instructed to go into the subject thoroughly and work out a new table.

The result of their investigations has been tested and checked in every way. In fact, several other tire manufacturers have already adopted it—and have written Goodyear acknowledging that fact. The table is given herewith. It is worth the careful study of every motorist. If it is followed additional tire service is certain. And it may be well to note the last line—its message is significant.

Goodyear Cord tires have just figured prominently at the opening of the new Panama-California International Exposition for the 1916 season, at San Diego. Just preceding the opening of the exposition, a parade was held, with United States troops and marines, government, state and exposition officials participating. The first car in the parade, a new Packard twin six, equipped with 37x5 Goodyear cord tires, front and rear, was occupied by Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior, Washington, D. C.; Hiram W. Johnson, governor of California; Edwin M. Capp, mayor of San Diego; Mark Ellis, commander of the United States cruiser Buffalo, and G. A. Davidson, president of the Panama-California International Exposition. In the second car rode the wives of the distinguished guests, while the third bore other exposition officials. These two cars were also equipped with Goodyear cords.

It is a significant fact that two of every three cars for 1916, equipped with cord tires, will start their careers on Goodyear card tires. By prividing increased riding comfort, they have won their way into favor with exacting motorists. In initial cost per tire they may exceed other types somewhat, as the construction is more expensive, but the extra mileage which Goodyear cords attain reduces the cost per mile and offsets the higher initial cost. Their increasing popularity is largely due to the success in increasing the mileage. No tire has ever been better adapted to minimize trouble, give unusual mileage and conserve power. Many motorists are buying cords as renewals. Invariably this leads to full cord equipment.

Louis Rosen of the firm of Rosen & Cory, local Savage Tire distributors, says overloading costs motorists more than any other one thing which they do and should not do in connection with pneumatic tires. Poor service from tires showing no defect can, in more than half the cases, be traced directly to overloading. Most tire companies give a table showing carrying capacities on their price lists. If motorists would be guided by this table and would also keep their tires properly inflated, millions of dollars would be saved annually.

Many motorists who are sure they are not overloading their tires will be disagreeably surprised if they run their car on a scale, find its weight, add the weight of the passengers they usually carry and then compare this weight with the list supplied by the company who furnished their tires. It is a nice thing to take out a big party of friends. We admire the man who has the "always room for one more" habit. However, this man should consider the extra weight he carries occasionally or constantly before blaming his tires for poor service.

The driver of a "jitney" recently asked about his tires (they were not Savages), said that they were the poorest tires made and that they gave no service at all. At the time the question was put, there were nine people that would easily average 150 pounds each, in his flivver. Of course, he blamed the tires—most motorists do. Not that motorists are unreasonable but simply because they do not realize the great destruction that can be done by carrying such an overload even a short distance.

We like the man who takes all his friends every time he goes for a joy ride, but he should not ask the Savage factory or any other tire factory to stand the expense when his tires go wrong. No tires built will give good service under the load which more than one quarter of the tires now in use are forced to carry.

DEATH VALLEY DODGE AGAIN WINS FAME

Driven by Teddy Tetzlaff, it Makes All But Impossible Night Trip Over Mountains.

"Death Valley Dodge," the famous Dodge Brothers' motor car that was the vehicle of a trip last year through Death Valley that attracted national attention because of the nature of the journey, has won new fame on the coast.

Driven by Teddy Tetzlaff, the famous racing driver, the car made the night trip over the mountains of California from Nordhoff, in the Ojai valley, to San Luis Obispo, in slightly more than twelve hours.

The run was started at 10 o'clock at night after all the wiseacres had predicted that it would be impossible to get through owing to the conditions of the roads, which are regarded as as exceedingly dangerous even in the day time.

Tetzlaff in discussing the trip, said: "It's alright when you have confidence in your car. There were some bad places on the road where we wound around the edge of a precipice and there were various spots where you wanted to be sure that both brakes and transmission were dependable. But I had tried out the Dodge Brothers' motor car and I had every confidence that it would not be the fault of the car if we failed."

MOTORCYCLE USED TO CHASE VILLA

Hot in pursuit of the bandit Villa and his renegades an aero squadron of the United States army is now speeding its way through the deserts and mountain passes to the southwest. Speed and endurance will be the qualities demanded of both motorcycles and tires on this important mission, for there exists no harder going in all the world than is to be found in the territory now being traversed by the United States forces.

This idea of an aero squadron is a new one. A force of picked aeroplane pilots mounted on motorcycles set out for a certain chosen base where, upon their arrival, aeroplanes are assembled and observation flights begun.

In this instance a force of motorcycles is the steed equipment of the First aero squadron ordered from Fort Sam Houston by General Funston to assist the United States troops in the round-up of Villa and his band. Every motorcycle is completely equipped with Firestone non-skid tires as well as tubes.

Chosen for their records of speed and endurance, these tires will bear a great share of the work that will be necessary in the trailing and capture of Villa. The hard and hazardous riding required will undoubtedly form as grueling a grind as has ever been demanded of any tire. — Houston Chronicle.

HOW MANY HORSES A TRACTOR DISPLACES

In commenting on the advisability of using a tractor large enough to pull a three-bottom ploy on a farm of 160 acres, Prof. I. W. Dickerson, of the farm mechanics' department of the University of Illinois, favors a machine costing less than $1000 where three horses are displaced, thus giving a good return on the investment.

"It is really a matter of balancing the cost of keeping and operating the three horses displaced," he said. "At the same time the work for which it is adapted can be done better and in less time. It should be kept in mind, however, that the secret of success or failure in tractor operation lies largely in the farmer himself and his ability and willingness to master the details of operation. In general I have not advocated very strongly the use of a tractor on a quarter section of land, as I think its economy on such small tracts would be doubtful. When the three or four-year rotation is followed, the amount of plowing, harrowing and pulverizing in any season, will not be very great and, unless the farmer has some belt work with a corn sheller, etc., a tractor may not pay. There is no doubt, however, that two such farms could find enough work to justify such machine."—Motor Age.

Hard Pressed.

Michigan is one of the seven commonwealths which votes on statewide prohibition next November. The organized liquor interests are masquerading in that state as the "Michigan and Interstate Press Service," with headquarters at Detroit. In their appeal to the trade for a $1,500,000 campaign fund, they declare it is necessary to spend $15 or $20 to every $1 spent by the drys. They want money to buy space in newspapers (papers willing to accept their fallacious "facts" are growing scarcer every day), money to buy politicians, officials, voters, and "everything lying around loose that will help win." Obviously, it is harder work to bring the voter into the wet column than into the dry.

Judicial Reform Receives Impetus at Lawyers' Club

Raising his voice in behalf of judicial reform in the state and mentioning the need of such reform the country over; urging that such reform be brought about as speedily as possible, consistent with safe and conservative procedure; stressing the fact that with safe and growing disrespect for law because of the law's delays and even defiance of court decrees and emphasizing the part that lawyers should play in this reform movement, Judge Erwin J. Clark of the Seventy-fourth district court was the chief speaker yesterday noon at the Lawyers' Lunch club. E. G. Senter, formerly of Dallas, but now editor of the Waco Morning News, added his endorsement to what had been said regarding the need of judicial reform, and pledged himself to raise his voice whenever he could in this behalf, believing that it is going to be difficult to get relief through the legislature until sentiment shall change in the law making body of the state, particularly the upper branch.

Present at the luncheon yesterday were nearly two score lawyers at the gathering held at the Raleigh Hotel. The enjoyment of the menu was evident and the interest shown in the addresses was keen, provoking to thoughtfulness on the part of all who heard what was said.

SEES HANDWRITING OF PUBLIC OPINION.

Judge Clark said that lawyers should read the handwriting on the wall—that there were complaints from the people of inexplicable delays of law, cumbersome machinery of courts, expense of litigation, delays and expense of appeals, uncertainty of decisions, growing disrespect and contempt of law, and even defiance of decrees of courts.

The speaker's conclusions were based on observations from the bench of actual conditions, and three remedies were proposed, as follows:

Abolition of juries in civil cases; trial of cases by three judges; abolition of terms of courts. The reasons given for the proposed changes were that the higher courts frequently reverse and render cases because the verdict reached is untenable by any reasonable minded man. Juries are composed of men not qualified to pass on questions of facts submitted, the juries being drawn from drummers, farmers and other non-experts in the trial for instance of a case involving the construction of a building.

BELIEVES IN ABOLISHING JURY.

Illustrations were given of several cases tried three or four times in the course of ten to fifteen years at enormous expense to the parties and the county. The payment of a $5 jury fee by the party secures jury service for which the county pays a thousand dollars. The abolition of the jury would decrease costs three-fourths and the time one-half; it would increase the work of courts by adding many controversies which the people are now afraid to submit to the courts because of the delays and trouble of litigation. Cases are reversed because some improper questions are asked in the presence of the jury, or some trifling mistake committed that may have caused prejudice in the minds of the jury; a verdict was not the end of the case, but frequently only the beginning.

Judge Clark referred to an address delivered several years ago by Hon. O. L. Stribling of Waco before the Texas Bar association advocating the same reforms. The jury system, he thought, was idealistic but impractical and cannot be made satisfactory. Jurors are unconsciously influenced by relationships, feelings and prejudices in returning verdicts. Sound and conservative jurors nearly all have excuses for not serving, and thus jurors who would be best suited for service are exempt from service altogether. He would leave juries only in criminal cases, and cases where the state or government is a party. He would relieve the county courts of civil jurisdiction in controversies over $200 and place them with district courts, and abolish trials de novo in appeals from justice courts. Thirty or forty jury cases are now tried per year, but with a tribunal of three judges there should be two cases tried per day.

The speaker said that he was expressing his honest convictions with no private purpose whatever to serve, and his address was marked by the closest attention.

THINKS LEGAL REFORMS SLOW IN SENATE.

Mr. Senter was asked for an expression and in response told of his experience in the Texas legislature while trying to get judicial reforms through that body. He characterized the plan of securing relief from this source as discouraging, though stating that the reforms received much more sympathetic attention in the house than in the senate; in fact the house favored reforms, but the efforts in that direction were foiled by the senate. He thought that the matter ought to be put before he people, and said that whatever opportunity offered he wanted to have his part in this work of crystalizing sentiment among the whole people, which might result in forcing, eventually, the badly needed reforms.

WOMEN A DRUG ON MARKET.

(Chicago Herald.)

That women will become "a drug on the market" and will be forced into lines of activity formerly occupied by men at the conclusion of the European war is the statement of Prof. Emily G. Balch of Wellesley college.

Under the caption, "The Effect of War Upon Women," in the annual issue of the publication of the American Sociological Society, she says:

"Women are made relatively plenty, and therefore cheap as women. It may be that in more primitive time such a situation would be a cause of polygamy. In our day it will mean a vast overplus of women. They will be a 'drug on the market,' while men will return from war not only with their importance enhanced by the glory of the battle field, but with a scarcity value. So far as this effect is realized, women, who in many ways 'do not count now' will 'count' still less hereafter.

"A second effect is that women, being more necessary, become more important instead of less. Everywhere they are being admitted into, or drawn or forced into, new lines of activity and into work from which they were formerly debarred by custom."

No Liquor Dealer Need Apply.

The Manufacturers and Dealers' association, an organization of the liquor interests with headquarters in Chicago, is offering to furnish newspapers with anti-prohibition material. In his letter to editors, Mr. Daniels, business manager of the association, says:

"This is not a liquor organization. We do not accept as a member anyone who deals in alcoholic liquors. We are taxpaying business men who help make the wheels of commerce go around."

It may be in order to ask why the discrimination against the liquor dealer? From the standpoint of this anti-prohibition "commercial" association he is a sine qua non in making the wheels go round. Does the liquor trade, wholesale and retail, view with approval this ostracism by manufacturers and dealers?

FIXTURES COMPLETE FOR LOCAL COMPANY

SPENCER-CARROLL WILL OFFER FULL SHOWING OF AUTOMOBILE ACCESSORIES.

Show fixtures are completed, about $50,000 of their stock has arrived and in a very few days the Spencer-Carroll company will have one of the most complete showings of high-grade automobile accessories to be found in the Southwest.

The Spencer-Carroll company have a large corps of traveling salesmen covering the Southwest, have just issued one of the most complete catalogs that has come South of the Mason and Dixon line and their efforts at giving Waco representation from an automobile accessory standpoint is a step in development that will mean much to the town. Waco is the logical point for a distributing point for not only automobile accessories, but many other things are to be distributed from here that will go to make the greater Waco that is in sight.

DEATH VALLEY DODGE AGAIN WINS FAME

Driven by Teddy Tetzlaff, it Makes All But Impossible Night Trip Over Mountains.

"Death Valley Dodge," the famous Dodge Brothers' motor car that was the vehicle of a trip last year through Death Valley that attracted national attention because of the nature of the journey, has won new fame on the coast.

Driven by Teddy Tetzlaff, the famous racing driver, the car made the night trip over the mountains of California from Nordhoff, in the Ojai valley, to San Luis Obispo, in slightly more than twelve hours.

The run was started at 10 o'clock at night after all the wiseacres had predicted that it would be impossible to get through owing to the conditions of the roads, which are regarded as as exceedingly dangerous even in the day time.

Tetzlaff in discussing the trip, said: "It's alright when you have confidence in your car. There were some bad places on the road where we wound around the edge of a precipice and there were various spots where you wanted to be sure that both brakes and transmission were dependable. But I had tried out the Dodge Brothers' motor car and I had every confidence that it would not be the fault of the car if we failed."

MOTORCYCLE USED TO CHASE VILLA

Hot in pursuit of the bandit Villa and his renegades an aero squadron of the United States army is now speeding its way through the deserts and mountain passes to the southwest. Speed and endurance will be the qualities demanded of both motorcycles and tires on this important mission, for there exists no harder going in all the world than is to be found in the territory now being traversed by the United States forces.

This idea of an aero squadron is a new one. A force of picked aeroplane pilots mounted on motorcycles set out for a certain chosen base where, upon their arrival, aeroplanes are assembled and observation flights begun.

In this instance a force of motorcycles is the steed equipment of the First aero squadron ordered from Fort Sam Houston by General Funston to assist the United States troops in the round-up of Villa and his band. Every motorcycle is completely equipped with Firestone non-skid tires as well as tubes.

Chosen for their records of speed and endurance, these tires will bear a great share of the work that will be necessary in the trailing and capture of Villa. The hard and hazardous riding required will undoubtedly form as grueling a grind as has ever been demanded of any tire. — Houston Chronicle.

HOW MANY HORSES A TRACTOR DISPLACES

In commenting on the advisability of using a tractor large enough to pull a three-bottom ploy on a farm of 160 acres, Prof. I. W. Dickerson, of the farm mechanics' department of the University of Illinois, favors a machine costing less than $1000 where three horses are displaced, thus giving a good return on the investment.

"It is really a matter of balancing the cost of keeping and operating the three horses displaced," he said. "At the same time the work for which it is adapted can be done better and in less time. It should be kept in mind, however, that the secret of success or failure in tractor operation lies largely in the farmer himself and his ability and willingness to master the details of operation. In general I have not advocated very strongly the use of a tractor on a quarter section of land, as I think its economy on such small tracts would be doubtful. When the three or four-year rotation is followed, the amount of plowing, harrowing and pulverizing in any season, will not be very great and, unless the farmer has some belt work with a corn sheller, etc., a tractor may not pay. There is no doubt, however, that two such farms could find enough work to justify such machine."—Motor Age.

Hard Pressed.

Michigan is one of the seven commonwealths which votes on statewide prohibition next November. The organized liquor interests are masquerading in that state as the "Michigan and Interstate Press Service," with headquarters at Detroit. In their appeal to the trade for a $1,500,000 campaign fund, they declare it is necessary to spend $15 or $20 to every $1 spent by the drys. They want money to buy space in newspapers (papers willing to accept their fallacious "facts" are growing scarcer every day), money to buy politicians, officials, voters, and "everything lying around loose that will help win." Obviously, it is harder work to bring the voter into the wet column than into the dry.

Judicial Reform Receives Impetus at Lawyers' Club

Raising his voice in behalf of judicial reform in the state and mentioning the need of such reform the country over; urging that such reform be brought about as speedily as possible, consistent with safe and conservative procedure; stressing the fact that with safe and growing disrespect for law because of the law's delays and even defiance of court decrees and emphasizing the part that lawyers should play in this reform movement, Judge Erwin J. Clark of the Seventy-fourth district court was the chief speaker yesterday noon at the Lawyers' Lunch club. E. G. Senter, formerly of Dallas, but now editor of the Waco Morning News, added his endorsement to what had been said regarding the need of judicial reform, and pledged himself to raise his voice whenever he could in this behalf, believing that it is going to be difficult to get relief through the legislature until sentiment shall change in the law making body of the state, particularly the upper branch.

Present at the luncheon yesterday were nearly two score lawyers at the gathering held at the Raleigh Hotel. The enjoyment of the menu was evident and the interest shown in the addresses was keen, provoking to thoughtfulness on the part of all who heard what was said.

SEES HANDWRITING OF PUBLIC OPINION.

Judge Clark said that lawyers should read the handwriting on the wall—that there were complaints from the people of inexplicable delays of law, cumbersome machinery of courts, expense of litigation, delays and expense of appeals, uncertainty of decisions, growing disrespect and contempt of law, and even defiance of decrees of courts.

The speaker's conclusions were based on observations from the bench of actual conditions, and three remedies were proposed, as follows:

Abolition of juries in civil cases; trial of cases by three judges; abolition of terms of courts. The reasons given for the proposed changes were that the higher courts frequently reverse and render cases because the verdict reached is untenable by any reasonable minded man. Juries are composed of men not qualified to pass on questions of facts submitted, the juries being drawn from drummers, farmers and other non-experts in the trial for instance of a case involving the construction of a building.

BELIEVES IN ABOLISHING JURY.

Illustrations were given of several cases tried three or four times in the course of ten to fifteen years at enormous expense to the parties and the county. The payment of a $5 jury fee by the party secures jury service for which the county pays a thousand dollars. The abolition of the jury would decrease costs three-fourths and the time one-half; it would increase the work of courts by adding many controversies which the people are now afraid to submit to the courts because of the delays and trouble of litigation. Cases are reversed because some improper questions are asked in the presence of the jury, or some trifling mistake committed that may have caused prejudice in the minds of the jury; a verdict was not the end of the case, but frequently only the beginning.

Judge Clark referred to an address delivered several years ago by Hon. O. L. Stribling of Waco before the Texas Bar association advocating the same reforms. The jury system, he thought, was idealistic but impractical and cannot be made satisfactory. Jurors are unconsciously influenced by relationships, feelings and prejudices in returning verdicts. Sound and conservative jurors nearly all have excuses for not serving, and thus jurors who would be best suited for service are exempt from service altogether. He would leave juries only in criminal cases, and cases where the state or government is a party. He would relieve the county courts of civil jurisdiction in controversies over $200 and place them with district courts, and abolish trials de novo in appeals from justice courts. Thirty or forty jury cases are now tried per year, but with a tribunal of three judges there should be two cases tried per day.

The speaker said that he was expressing his honest convictions with no private purpose whatever to serve, and his address was marked by the closest attention.

THINKS LEGAL REFORMS SLOW IN SENATE.

Mr. Senter was asked for an expression and in response told of his experience in the Texas legislature while trying to get judicial reforms through that body. He characterized the plan of securing relief from this source as discouraging, though stating that the reforms received much more sympathetic attention in the house than in the senate; in fact the house favored reforms, but the efforts in that direction were foiled by the senate. He thought that the matter ought to be put before he people, and said that whatever opportunity offered he wanted to have his part in this work of crystalizing sentiment among the whole people, which might result in forcing, eventually, the badly needed reforms.

WOMEN A DRUG ON MARKET.

(Chicago Herald.)

That women will become "a drug on the market" and will be forced into lines of activity formerly occupied by men at the conclusion of the European war is the statement of Prof. Emily G. Balch of Wellesley college.

Under the caption, "The Effect of War Upon Women," in the annual issue of the publication of the American Sociological Society, she says:

"Women are made relatively plenty, and therefore cheap as women. It may be that in more primitive time such a situation would be a cause of polygamy. In our day it will mean a vast overplus of women. They will be a 'drug on the market,' while men will return from war not only with their importance enhanced by the glory of the battle field, but with a scarcity value. So far as this effect is realized, women, who in many ways 'do not count now' will 'count' still less hereafter.

"A second effect is that women, being more necessary, become more important instead of less. Everywhere they are being admitted into, or drawn or forced into, new lines of activity and into work from which they were formerly debarred by custom."

No Liquor Dealer Need Apply.

The Manufacturers and Dealers' association, an organization of the liquor interests with headquarters in Chicago, is offering to furnish newspapers with anti-prohibition material. In his letter to editors, Mr. Daniels, business manager of the association, says:

"This is not a liquor organization. We do not accept as a member anyone who deals in alcoholic liquors. We are taxpaying business men who help make the wheels of commerce go around."

It may be in order to ask why the discrimination against the liquor dealer? From the standpoint of this anti-prohibition "commercial" association he is a sine qua non in making the wheels go round. Does the liquor trade, wholesale and retail, view with approval this ostracism by manufacturers and dealers?

"Hoodoo Ann" coming soon.

"Martha's Vindication."

"Martha's Vindication" is another of those dramas of small town life which in its very humaneness is thoroughly Griffith. This picture is showing at the Hippodrome today and tomorrow, and will present besides seven delightful Triangle kiddies, four of the most popular of the leading Griffith players, Norma Talmadge, Seena Owen, Tully Marshall and Ralph Lewis. Charles West and Josephine Crowell also have splendid parts and William Hinkley and others do convincing work in the support of the principals. Norma Talmadge who has the title role, is one of the young stars of the Fine Arts studios who has become a favorite screen player in a very short time. Seena Owen is the blond Norwegian beauty who won signal success with Douglas Fairbanks in "The Lamb." In addition to the seven kiddies who have appeared in other Triangle plays, there are numerous babies shown at the so-called "baby farm," conducted by Sell Hawkins and his wife, Jenny.

As the story runs Dorothea's sweetheart is killed in an accident before he can fulfill his promise to marry her. The girl confides in her chum, Martha, that she will become a mother, and Martha takes her to the country until the child is born. Then Martha carries the child to an old nurse who has promised to care for it. Both girls think they have avoided a scandal. There is a lapse of time, and Dorothea marries a deacon in the Presbyterian church and Martha is engaged to a worthy youth. Then at Martha's instigation the "baby farm" of Sell Hawkins is raided by the police. Then it is that Sell comes forward with the announcement that sometime before Martha herself carried "a brat" to the home of the old nurse. The girl cannot explain without betraying her friend, and there are distressing complications that are cleared up in a tensely interesting manner.

"Gipsy Joe."

While Joe Jackson, the famous comedian and erstwhile famous bicyclist, is the star of the new Keystone, "Gipsy Joe," he is compelled to divide his honors with a very charming little leading lady who is no less of a comedian than he, even though she has many less years of experience to her credit. This is little Betty Marsh, the child who played with Joe in his other Keystone success, "A Modern Enoch Arden." "Gipsy Joe" will show at the Hippodrome today on the same program with the feature, "Martha's Vindication."

Joe is commanded by his chief, the leader of the Gipsy band, to kidnap a little girl whom they know to be an heiress, but when Joe goes to the home of a squire where the child is kept, he finds that the squire has already started to the gipsy camp to take the child, being as anxious as any one to be rid of her. In the camp much excitement is stirred up by the princess and her lovers, one of whom is Gipsy Joe. A wonderful duel takes place, the like of which has seldom beeen seen anywhere before or since. But little Betty is the one who finally precipitates the real startling climax. "Gipsy Joe" is a thriller and a laugh getter.

"The Raiders."

A picture full of romantic interest and one sure to be enjoyed is "The Raiders," starring H. B. Warner, the famous stage player, and showing at the Hippodrome Tuesday and Wednesday. This is the first direct production of the new quarter million dollar studio of the Triangle forces at Culver City and all the interior scenes were made there. Among these are a number made in a setting that is an exact replica of the New York stock exchange. There are many thrills in the picture, especially in the scene in which Scott and the capitalist's daughter race across country in an automobile, the girl at the wheel, to rescue and warn her father of the plot to ruin him. The scenes of the stock exchange are also realistic and exciting, and the interest is held at a tension all the time. There is also plenty of comedy relief in the production, much of this being afforded by young George Elwell in the role of the office boy. H. B. Warner is splendidly cast as the junior clerk, whose high-sounding title indicates nothing but head office boy and who is "bossed" by everybody on the place except the office boy. This is Mr. Warner's first picture, and there is little doubt that the public will be calling for more in which he is featured. Dorothy Dalton, who played with such talent in "The Disciple," and "D'Artagnan" is seen as the daughter of the railroad magnate, Haldeman. Henry Belmar gives a splendid characterization of Haldeman. Robert McKim is the traitor, Burnes and J. Barney Sherry is Dr. Hartman.

The story tells of a young clerk in a New York brokerage firm whose daring combined with a deft handling of a tremendous business deal, forms the basis of a pretty romance. The interest is tense and the end clever and novel and entirely satisfactory.

"Peggy."

"Peggy" the masterpiece of Thomas H. Ince, with little Billie Burke as the star has at last reached Waco again and will show at the Hippodrome Thursday only.

When Billie Burke announced her intention of accepting Mr. Ince's offer and entering the pictures, she created a sensation in the whole amusement world and even yet people have not stopped talking about it. And more than that people never will stop talking about it after they have seen "Peggy," for the film is just seven delightful reels of the wonderful, magnetic Burke personality and might as well have been called "Billie."

Like a merry little whirlwind, Peggy from America upsets the traditions of the pretty Scottish mountain hamlet where she goes to live after her father's death. An orphan and an heiress, is Peggy, and a member of a lively New York exclusive set. There comes to her a letter from an uncle in Scotland who has been appointed her guardian and she is commanded to go to Scotland to make her home with him. Like a streak of lightning and a cloud of dust Peggy reaches the little village of Woodkirk on a sunny Sabbath morning and her white racing car causes consternation among the quiet people going home from church. Andrew Cameron, the uncle, is a dour old Scot, and he does not in the least approve of Peggy's car, but the climax comes a little later when he and the young minister find Peggy in her overalls under the car working with it. He forbids her to ever again appear in masculine garb or to drive the car. Nevertheless, Peggy is not used to having any sort of a "boss" and slipping out a suit of her cousin's clothes, she slip out one night and goes for a mad race over the hills and roads. But alas for fickle Scotch weather! A terrible rain storm catches Peggy and when her car balks she is compelled to enter a saloon in the little village for shelter. There Peggy has the time of her life. These are just a few of the escapades of the little hoyden. The whole story is delightful and Billie Burke is a "darling."

Raoul Walsh is the director of this newest success and his younger brother and Miss Doris Pawn are the co-stars. Miss Pawn has the distinction of having always been a star, for she has never appeared in any production except in the lead. Young Walsh is considered one of the best of the younger Fox players and it is said there is nothing in work too rough for him and nothing too gentle in love-making for him to try. He is a Jamestown university man, and his work in this one photoplay would prove him an athlete. Very recently he supported Theda Bara in "The Serepent." Miss Pawn has very recently become a member of the Fox forces and this is her first picture under the direction of this company, but her successes with other companies have been many. In the support of these two young players are James Marcus, Vester Perry, Jack Woods and Martin Kenny.

Synopsis—The Russian League of Freedom was a vast organization headed by a powerful young noble who determined to free the peasants from the terrible conditions the present system forces upon them. It was the first step toward a republic and the government used every effort to suppress it.

Prince Paul Alexis, the unknown power behind the league, is in love with the daughter of his chancellor, Karin Dolokhof, and the three are working heart and soul for the league. The agents of the organization are everywhere in all walks of life and the chief of the secret police is beginning to feel a vague unrest throughout the domains of the czar which appears to come from the section of the country in which Prince Alexis resides.

The prince and Karin have just plighted their troth and the old chancellor is delighted with the prospective marriage when the prince receives word from the czar that he must marry the princess Tanya for political reasons. At first the prince wants to leave Russia with his betrothed and the chancellor, but Karin makes him realize his duty to the league must come before his love for her. The princess Tanya is in love with Count Egor Strannik, of the secret police, but throws him over and marries the prince.

Under cover the princess' reception the heads of the league gather at the home of the princess for a conference. The chief of police learns of this through an intercepted secret message and sends Strannik to get evidence at the reception. The count resumes his affair with the princess and the prince catches her in Strannik's arms and beats him with a knout.

This is the first direct production of the new quarter million dollar studio of the Triangle forces at Culver City and all the interior scenes were made there. Among these are a number made in a setting that is an exact replica of the New York stock exchange. There are many thrills in the picture, especially in the scene in which Scott and the capitalist's daughter race across country in an automobile, the girl at the wheel, to rescue and warn her father of the plot to ruin him. The scenes of the stock exchange are also realistic and exciting, and the interest is held at a tension all the time. There is also plenty of comedy relief in the production, much of this being afforded by young George Elwell in the role of the office boy. H. B. Warner is splendidly cast as the junior clerk, whose high-sounding title indicates nothing but head office boy and who is "bossed" by everybody on the place except the office boy. This is Mr. Warner's first picture, and there is little doubt that the public will be calling for more in which he is featured. Dorothy Dalton, who played with such talent in "The Disciple," and "D'Artagnan" is seen as the daughter of the railroad magnate, Haldeman. Henry Belmar gives a splendid characterization of Haldeman. Robert McKim is the traitor, Burnes and J. Barney Sherry is Dr. Hartman.

The story tells of a young clerk in a New York brokerage firm whose daring combined with a deft handling of a tremendous business deal, forms the basis of a pretty romance. The interest is tense and the end clever and novel and entirely satisfactory.

"Peggy."

"Peggy" the masterpiece of Thomas H. Ince, with little Billie Burke as the star has at last reached Waco again and will show at the Hippodrome Thursday only.

When Billie Burke announced her intention of accepting Mr. Ince's offer and entering the pictures, she created a sensation in the whole amusement world and even yet people have not stopped talking about it. And more than that people never will stop talking about it after they have seen "Peggy," for the film is just seven delightful reels of the wonderful, magnetic Burke personality and might as well have been called "Billie."

Like a merry little whirlwind, Peggy from America upsets the traditions of the pretty Scottish mountain hamlet where she goes to live after her father's death. An orphan and an heiress, is Peggy, and a member of a lively New York exclusive set. There comes to her a letter from an uncle in Scotland who has been appointed her guardian and she is commanded to go to Scotland to make her home with him. Like a streak of lightning and a cloud of dust Peggy reaches the little village of Woodkirk on a sunny Sabbath morning and her white racing car causes consternation among the quiet people going home from church. Andrew Cameron, the uncle, is a dour old Scot, and he does not in the least approve of Peggy's car, but the climax comes a little later when he and the young minister find Peggy in her overalls under the car working with it. He forbids her to ever again appear in masculine garb or to drive the car. Nevertheless, Peggy is not used to having any sort of a "boss" and slipping out a suit of her cousin's clothes, she slip out one night and goes for a mad race over the hills and roads. But alas for fickle Scotch weather! A terrible rain storm catches Peggy and when her car balks she is compelled to enter a saloon in the little village for shelter. There Peggy has the time of her life. These are just a few of the escapades of the little hoyden. The whole story is delightful and Billie Burke is a "darling."

Raoul Walsh is the director of this newest success and his younger brother and Miss Doris Pawn are the co-stars. Miss Pawn has the distinction of having always been a star, for she has never appeared in any production except in the lead. Young Walsh is considered one of the best of the younger Fox players and it is said there is nothing in work too rough for him and nothing too gentle in love-making for him to try. He is a Jamestown university man, and his work in this one photoplay would prove him an athlete. Very recently he supported Theda Bara in "The Serepent." Miss Pawn has very recently become a member of the Fox forces and this is her first picture under the direction of this company, but her successes with other companies have been many. In the support of these two young players are James Marcus, Vester Perry, Jack Woods and Martin Kenny.

Synopsis—The Russian League of Freedom was a vast organization headed by a powerful young noble who determined to free the peasants from the terrible conditions the present system forces upon them. It was the first step toward a republic and the government used every effort to suppress it.

Prince Paul Alexis, the unknown power behind the league, is in love with the daughter of his chancellor, Karin Dolokhof, and the three are working heart and soul for the league. The agents of the organization are everywhere in all walks of life and the chief of the secret police is beginning to feel a vague unrest throughout the domains of the czar which appears to come from the section of the country in which Prince Alexis resides.

The prince and Karin have just plighted their troth and the old chancellor is delighted with the prospective marriage when the prince receives word from the czar that he must marry the princess Tanya for political reasons. At first the prince wants to leave Russia with his betrothed and the chancellor, but Karin makes him realize his duty to the league must come before his love for her. The princess Tanya is in love with Count Egor Strannik, of the secret police, but throws him over and marries the prince.

Under cover the princess' reception the heads of the league gather at the home of the princess for a conference. The chief of police learns of this through an intercepted secret message and sends Strannik to get evidence at the reception. The count resumes his affair with the princess and the prince catches her in Strannik's arms and beats him with a knout.

"The Innocence of Ruth."

"The Innocence of Ruth," a five-reel Edison photodrama released through Kleine-Edison Feature Service, will be shown at the Rex theatre next Wednesday and Thursday.

There is a strong, well laid plot, a smoothly told and extremely interesting story and a finished picture in this Kleine-Edison production that cannot help please. The story deals chiefly with life in Greater New York and brings out incidents in Wall street, a millionaire's home, and other "side lights" on life in the metropolis. A very brief synopsis of "The Innocence of Ruth" follows:

Jimmy Carter, a young millionaire, gets a message from his friend, Reginald Travers. Travers, who is dying, has been ruined by Mortimer Reynolds, and he leaves his daughter in care of Carter who takes Ruth home and gives her to the care of his housekeeper. Reynolds, anxious to add Ruth to his list of unfortunates, instructs his mistress, Edna Morris, to gain her confidence.

At the Charity Ball Ruth meets Edna Morris, and the latter works her way into the graces of Ruth. Carter sees this and takes his protege home. Meeting Ruth the following day, Edna denounces Carter for his action of the previous evening.

"Why should he object to me, pray? Everybody knows that your father didn't leave you a penny, and that you are living on the—shall I say—generosity—of Mr. Carter."

Stunned by the revelation that she is looked upon as Carter's mistress, the impetuous girl rushes to the house and, in a burst of fury, screams her hatred of Carter. In the still of the night she makes her way to Edna's apartment. It is here that Reynolds finds her and induces her to partake of wine which slowly begins to work its effect. Carter finds her in the apartment, stupefied and dishevelled. Heartsore, he looks upon her contemptuously and leaves, feeling that she has gone the way of Edna. Edna's mother comes to the house from the country and takes both penitents home with her, hoping that they may forget. Meanwhile Reynolds, sought by the police for forgery, is caught.

Miserable because Carter has mistaken her, Ruth can find no peace. But Edna, who dragged her to degredation, succeeds in lifting her to the light of hope, and Ruth is again folded in the arms of Carter, knowing that there only, will she find happiness and peace of soul.

Gordon Allen is too much engrossed in his profession to pay to his wife the attention so necessary to a happy life so romantic and temperamental as hers. One day she flies into a passion on finding her husband's papers and manuscripts wildly about the room. The quarrel is interrupted by the arrival of Evelyn Langdon, Dorothy's chum. Allen leaves the room.

Dorothy and Evelyn leave for a visit at Brookhaven farm, where Mary Brooks resides with her parents. Dorothy displays the jealousy of her nature by confiding to her chum that she will pose as a single woman during her forced stay at Brookhaven in order to amuse herself by playing a flirtation with Jed.

Mary takes an instant and instinctive dislike to Dorothy and strongly resents her marked advances toward Jed. Jed is slow to become enmeshed, but Dorothy tricks him into a carefully planned tete-a-tete, and they pose for Dorothy's camera. Dorothy's loveliness is too much of a temptation for Jed, and as she steps close to him he seizes her in his arms and fiercely kisses her. She is angry and rushes wildly away from him.

Gordon Allen wires Dorothy that he will spend a few days with her at Brookhaven. Upon arrival at Brookhaven Gordon finds Dorothy asleep in a hammock, and as he takes her in his arms, Jed, returning with the snapshots, rushes upon him and throws him to one side. A scene ensues in which it is made to understand that Dorothy is already married and that she has only been playing with him. Jed is heartbroken, and as he turns brokenly away Mary clings close to him mutely signifying that his great grief is also hers.

Naturally, Gordon and Dorothy Allen leave Brookhaven at once, taking Evelyn with them. Jed goes to his room, writes a farewell letter and commits suicide. The Brooks family is grief-stricken and Mary swears to be avenged upon the woman she holds responsible for her brother's death.

Capt. L. P. Pinkston of the United States marine corps has compiled a table showing that of all applicants for enlistment in this country last year only 9.31 per cent met the physical requirements for military service—an average of one man in each eleven examined. Alcoholic liquors, with the vices engendered by their use—by even their moderate use—are, say authorities in and out of the army, chief cause of this incapacity on the part of America's young manhood. It is evident that if the nation is to survive we must guard its people from the foe now permitted to prey upon our citizenship—a foe which in the name of government itself is undermining our chief defenses. The hour has struck for nationwide prohibition of the liquor traffic. There is no neutrality here. Every man and woman of America is either for or against the war now on for the defense of home and national life.

Capt. L. P. Pinkston of the United States marine corps has compiled a table showing that of all applicants for enlistment in this country last year only 9.31 per cent met the physical requirements for military service—an average of one man in each eleven examined. Alcoholic liquors, with the vices engendered by their use—by even their moderate use—are, say authorities in and out of the army, chief cause of this incapacity on the part of America's young manhood. It is evident that if the nation is to survive we must guard its people from the foe now permitted to prey upon our citizenship—a foe which in the name of government itself is undermining our chief defenses. The hour has struck for nationwide prohibition of the liquor traffic. There is no neutrality here. Every man and woman of America is either for or against the war now on for the defense of home and national life.

LECTURE ON FAUST TUESDAY

Head of Fine Arts Department Will Give Recital Tomorrow Night Assisted by Singer.

A preliminary track meet has been announced at Baylor for April 8. All track aspirants, whether "B" men or not are eligible for this contest. It will be the regular class meet and all contestants will register for their classes respectively. The class winning the most points will be declared the winner.

As there is no track coach at Baylor, Captain J. D. Isaacks and Manager R. M. Porter desire to use this method of selecting the team to make the trips representing Baylor in the Texas intercollegiate contest and the southwest conference meet. The men winning the first places will be the ones to go, or if a man wins second with a record that would compare favorably with the records at other schools he will also be added to the list. The meet will serve as a class meet and a qualification meet also.

SOCCER SEASON HAS BEEN SUCCESSFUL.

The Soccer season has just closed and the first year of this sport in Baylor has proven a good one. Baylor stands at the head of all Texas colleges in the percentage column and thereby holds the championship. Baylor defeated Texas two games, and though she lost one to S. M. U. at the first of the season, S. M. U. forfeited the last one and Baylor having defeated the fast athletics, an English team in Dallas, who had already defeated S. M. U., stands above the college teams. The Nomads are first, the Athletics second and Baylor third, with S. M. U. fourth.

Coaches Provence and Bernardo took a few football men and one or two who had been here on the team two years ago, and built a team from them that has shown up well in every contest. With this as a nucleus it looks as if Baylor will have one of the strongest teams in the state next year.

With a lead on the Methodists and the bunch going good for another yesterday, the baseball fans were disappointed to awake and find it raining. The rain continued to fall until the ground was too soft to dry out and the second game of the series with Southwestern had to be called off.

EXCHANGE PROFESSOR WILL LECTURE ON FAUST.

Dr. J. Morgan Calloway, head of the English department at Texas university, will be at Baylor on April 4 to deliver a lecture on the Faust Legend, in which he has made extensive study. He is the exchange professor from Texas this year. Dr. Armstrong of Baylor has already filled an appointment there in the winter term. The lecture will be given in Carroll Chapel, after which a banquet and entertainment will be held in the cafeteria, at which place Sanger Brothers will have all the records of the Faust Opera played on the Victrola.

The event will be one of the most important, as far as literature is concerned that will be here this year, and the people of the city are all cordially invited.

Miss Thompson, of the expression department at Baylor, has chosen the cast for "As You Like It," which will be given at Baylor on the 24th of April. The members of the cast have already begun their work on their parts. Miss Thompson who has been directing all the class plays, will have charge and under her supervision the play will be a big success.

The cast will be:

Orlando .....Elmer Deering
Rosalind .....Nellie Lee Hill
Celia .....Louise Irwin
Oliver .....R. S. Jones
Duke .....F. A. Godsoe
Banished Duke .....Perkins Pierpont Brewster
Sylvius .....Mayes Behrman

Mr. John de Heck
presents
Sarah Ozelle Gooch, Contralto
in graduate recital
Thursday afternoon, April Sixth five o'clock
Carroll Chapel of Baylor University
Waco, Texas.

FINE ARTS RECITAL NEXT MONDAY.

Rudolph Hoffmann will give another piano recital at Baylor on Monday, April 10, at 8:30 p. m., in Carroll Chapel. He will be assisted by Mr. de Heck, who will sing. The recitals given by the music faculty, thus far have been most pleasing and it is well known in Waco how these two gentlemen perform. Mr. Hoffmann is the head of the department of music at Baylor and has been very popular there for many years.

The students from the departments of expression and violin will give a joint recital in Carroll Chapel Saturday, April 8, at 4 p. m. Miss Thompson has been having her pupils prepare for this recital some time, and Mr. Natatil has been working with his students on their parts for this affair. In chapel Friday morning the students received the following announcement with great pleasure. Mr. and Mrs. H. Claypool, assisted by the class of '19, will be at home to the students and faculty of Baylor university Saturday evening, April 1, from 8 to 10. It was a pleasant affair and as usual Mrs. Claypool made every one have a good time.

BOYNTON PLEASED AT PROSPECT FOR POLITICAL MERGER

Furthering and perfecting the movement looking towards harmony and amalgamation of the republican and progressive elements in the political activities in Texas, there was held in Houston Friday a meeting of the committee appointed in Dallas on March 15, the chairman of this committee being Hon. Charles A. Boynton of Waco.

That the committee was satisfied with the conditions which they found to exist at the time of the meeting in Houston was stated yesterday by Chairman Boynton, who had returned from the meeting and was in his office at the Peerless building here. He believes that the movement will bring together the two elements which have been wandering in different paths for a short time, and that concerted action will be taken in May when the various political parties hold their meetings.

The statement given out by the committee after its Houston meeting shows the status of matters to be well along towards a culmination—in fact, to have been consummated by the parties to the agreement. The committee which met at Houston and which was composed of the men named at the harmony meeting in Dallas, March 15, was composed as follows: Chairman, Charles A. Boynton of Waco, Dr. E. P. Wilmot of Austin, Judge J. O. Terrell of San Antonio, Hon. R. B. Creager of Brownsville, W. H. Atwell of Dallas, Eugene Nolte of Seguin and J. W. Bass of Waco.

The conference in Houston was a leangthy one, said Chairman Boynton, and the ground was gone over fully, the committee meeting with Hon. H. F. McGregor of the republican national committee from Texas. As a result of the conference a statement was given out in connection with a statement from National Committeeman McGregor.
